Win Trophy

The Victoria softball team journeyed t othe Warden's Picnic held on Wednesday at the Sandbanks and brought home with them the handsome trophy donated by J. B. Dunkley. The boys trimmed the Cliffe Service team of Picton in the first game 8-1 and then took on an All Star aggregation and emerged by the tune of 4 last innings win by 9-8. Smith for Victorias starred at the plate. Loft followed close behind with four hits and was loaded to sew up the ball game. The last game with the Picton nine proved somewhat of a slugfest as years.

Victorias Flail Horsehide Defeating Brighton 12-7 and Tieing Picton for Top Rung

Intermediate Race Best Ever Seen in The Circuit

Pounding the deliveries of two pitchers profusely the Belleville Victorias climbed back into a tie with the Picton intermediates for the leadership of the Bay of Quinte intermediate league when they came down in front of the Brighton entry in the loop by the score of 12 to 7 in a hard hitting game played at Brighton yesterday.

With Ralph Ibey labouring on the hilltop, the Victorias went to the fore in the initial frame, never to relinquish their lead throughout. With a substantial lead of four runs in the first two frames they literally breezed his way through to victory using a wide sweeping curve and a perfect change of pace to fan in the pinches.

Lionel Blaker led the local hitting bewildered the Brighton batters when he collected two doubles and two singles during six official trips to the plate. Loft followed close behind with four hits and was loaded to sew up the ball game. The last game with the Picton nine proved somewhat of a slugfest as years.

Score 13 in Five Frames

Manager Panning's charges barged two runs in the initial frame and kept adding consecutive innings until they had put together 13 runs by the end of the fifth frame. They failed to count after that, however. The home club did not register until the third, when they counted three times, one more was added in the fifth and two in the seventh. The scoring ended in the ninth, when the homesiders made their final stand but scored one run.

The win elevates the Victorias into a tie with the previously leading Picton club, each team having five wins and two losses. With the Napanee Cubs a scant one half a game behind the league leaders the Bay of Quinte loop presents its closest race in many least one safe blow. "Dimpy" McKinnon was the big hitter of the homesters when he collected three hits out of five official times before the pitcher Rundle got two out of four while Wright was the long distance hitter with a triple.

Brighton	0	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	1	4	7

Batteries—Victorias, Ibey and Blaker; Brighton, Rundle and Wright.

"Summer-time is thirsty-time"

"THE good old summer-time" they call it. And it is a good to play all day long with sailboats and sand toys. It's good to be out in the warm sun! It's good to get thirsty!

And the thirstier the youngsters get, the more they'll enjoy a long, cool refreshing drink of Canada Dry.

Somehow, children take to The Champagne of Ginger Ales as they take to few other beverages. Perhaps it's the sparkle in it. Perhaps, again, it's the gay bubbles. Or, its piquant flavour. But the fact remains that a glass of Canada Dry is a treat at any time.

And, above all, you can be sure that The Champagne of Ginger Ales is purp and good for them.

So it pays to buy Canada Dry by the case when there are kiddies to please.

Fashion Flashes

(By Alice Alden)
(Copyright, 1933, General Features Syndicate, Inc.)

A big question is often made by a charming little swim suit of gray and yellow jersey with straps that cross in back. The shoulder straps are of rope in yellow and gray and are tied at the back by little nautical anchors.

A warm friend, is a charming little cape of black lightweight wool with bands of silver fox and tying with a fur and silk bow at the left shoulder—good for day or evening.

Get out and wear out smart, easy shoes. A grand shoes for summer outing is of white pigskin. It is a two-strap with a T strap front, very smart. The vamp and mid-sections have perforation trimmings.

A good solution to the problem of the girdle in hot weather is the panic girdle. A splendid model is made with mesh elastic back and sides. The leg bands are adjustable.

It isn't too far ahead to think of early Autumn dresses. A delightful model that will be seen in December is of black velvet, trimmed with a detachable collar and detachable pointed cuffs of white galyak with black galyak buttons.

The silver standard is being maintained by silver linen, which is mentioned as a highlight for Autumn wear. A charming evening frock simply made has a self-back raded floral design.

Quick Relief for Women

Women need not endure periodic pains and headaches. They can spare themselves this suffering by taking ZUTOO TABLETS. Mrs. Allen Wright, of Fulford, who was relieved in 30 minutes of severe pain and headache, wrote saying: "Every woman in the land should know about ZUTOO TABLETS and what they will do. Just try the tablets and know for yourself how quickly they stop the pain."

Eyes Smile Through Clean Make-up

There may be a reason why artificial roses have disappeared from the cheeks of the pretty dollies. What with laying on the ruby lips and all the fussing that seems to done with eye shadows and lash smears, there simply isn't time to slap on the naive blush. Never before in the history of cosmetics, have eyes got as much attention as they get now.

Eye make-up somehow suits the feminine composition of 1933. They are in character with the ridiculous but snappy little hats that are worn, the long skirts, quaint jackets, gloves unlike any others we've ever seen before, organdy bows, all the sweetly frivolous fluff stuff that has been dealt out by Mama Fashion. Aye, even with tray shoulders and organ pipe sleeves. Such a turn-about as styles have taken since the short skirt and the boyish bob proved to be nuts and raisins to the boys who crave the flimsy pictures!

Fancy not, gentle reader, that putting on the eye beauty is a simple matter. It isn't.

And taking it off is a chore, too. You do it with a cleansing oil, dry, cleaning the lashes and the eyebrows, as well as the eye shutters.

Gracious lady if you have the heavenly date for the gay party where you would outshine the beauteous sisters and walk away with all the beauty banners, this is what you will do to make your eyes distinctive and seductive.

Lave them with ice cold water, cover with cold compresses, rest for five minutes. Dry with a bit of cotton, apply a eye-cream—your regular cold cream or massage emollient will act as an understudy—working with the finger tips from the eyelid close to the nose, coming back underneath to starting point.

The idea is to nourish the delicate out line creases. Remove the cream with a pad of cotton that has been dipped in witch hazel or your favorite astringent. So far, so good.

If eyebrows have synthetic touches, get busy with the crayon. Don't go on a color spree with it. Short lines, like the natural on the lashing if they aren't dark enough. Use the same shade for observer.

Then comes the tricky work, putting on the shadows. Go deftly there. The creamy ones are easier to manage than the cones but have a seductive fade away at the far corners of the small lanterns. Lessen the coloring gobstance as it creeps towards the eyebrows.

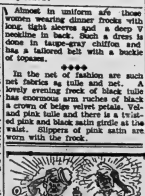
For shadows you have a grand array of colors from which to choose —bronze, grey, purple, green, blue and various blends. Only the mirror knows which is the right and the right shade. It's a problem all right.

Warning a Child of Traffic Dangers is Not Sufficient

(By Constance Cameron)

A mother writes asking, "How can I keep my four-year-old girl out of the street?"

I know of only one absolutely safe reply to that question and that is, "Make it utterly impossible for her to get into it."



Words will be of no avail. Don't for a second think that warnings of traffic dangers will deter her from darting after a ball or a playmate that has rolled into a thoroughfare.

The picture, no matter how effectual; sickwords and threats of punishment, no matter how forceful, will not come to the children's mind when his toy bounces from his hands and out into the path of traffic. He will think only of the game, of the lost toy and no other thought will be present. And if the toy is in the street, your child will be in the street.

The concentration which children or from four to eight years show during play is something we adults would give a good deal to possess. But as an awareness of outside dangers, or activities comes to the brain, it seems to loss its significance. It is all attention to the thing at hand. Older children and people can think, and have to think, of many things at once. This is something which cannot be expected of the young child. If he is playing he is thinking of his play. He, for a moment is of his clothing, his hot, wet face, his command to come home at four, nor, more important, the speedy dashing of automobiles down the street beside him.

So, where the toddler is concerned there is but one safe solution, and that is a play-pen, a good back yard well stocked with playthings, the porch with its gate, or even a fenced front playground. Keep the toddler away from the street and the traffic by any means open to you. Almost in uniform are those women wearing ginger frocks with long tight sleeves and a deep V neckline in back. Such a dress is made in tango-gray chiffon and has a tailored belt with a buckle of topazes.

In the net of fashion are such items as tulle and net. A lovely evening frock of black tulle has enormous sure ruches of black a crown of beige velvet petals. Veiled pink tulle and there is a twisted pink and black satin girdle at the waist. Slippers of pink satin are worn with the frock.

After all one cannot do without fichu frocks forever nice linen dress and cotton may be. One commuter dresses all on her afternoon costume which is of striped chiffon, black and bright royal blue on white. The shoulders of the long jacket are wide, the sleeves short and puffed. There is a big sheer blue bow at the neckline.

A nice sight is a new ensemble for afternoon or informal evening wear. The frock is of the long sleeved gimmer type in delicate beige lace and it is worn with a three-quarter cream linen coat lined with green green taffeta. The taffeta is used for the belt on the frock.

Look out for the lovely hats that are being worn by bridegmaids at smart weddings. They are ideal for dressy occasions. One very charming model is of beige organdie with a crown of beige velvet petals. Velvet and beige bows hold up the wide brim at back.

We advance news of the advance fashions, to let you know that black satin is to be an important material, for early Autumn for both day and evening. A typical early Autumn model done in lustrous black satin has a soft cowl neckline bodice marked by hand fagetting. Tiny rhinestone buckles and rhinestone buttons lend sparkle to the dress.

Woman in the Law Fights Battle and Saves Husband and Home Life in Film at Capitol

The woman lawyer is a time-honored character, but one which has not been used as freely as might be expecting in days when woman has come into her own by winning a place in the professions. Of course over three hundred years ago a man named Shylock was made a character in a play by a noted playwright, who placed against him a woman named Portia, to interpret the law, though she was disguised as a man. Today women lawyers need no disguise and there was no disguise in the "Ann Carver's Profession" wherein Fay Wray plays the title role. Here is the tale of a wedded pair, both in the professions, the husband an architect whose wife's success at the bar reflects upon him and arouses reaction not conducive to happiness. The old story of the woman in business or profession is worked out skilfully as the playwrights portray the inevitable appeal of the profession to the mind of the woman detracting from the home interest.

Real plot features this play as the husband seeks the company of another woman and in a drunken brawl the woman is killed and the architect is blamed.

The natural sequence happens, as in all good plays, the wife defends the husband. Here is a heart interest bridge which holds the scene as the wife lawyer fights the most important case of her career the one which saves her home.

The interest is tremendous in this trying scene, but the playwrights work out the tangles of the married life. Irene Raymond, Claire Dodd, Claude Gillingwater, Andy Rajah, and other noted film stars form the admirable supporting cast.

(By Helen Follett)

Rhythmic dancing will correct many a figure defect. It rattles off the fat cells, too. Nothing is better for tightening up abdominal flabbiness that has come from sedentary lack of exercise. Makes for graceful movements, and the poise of grace puts pep in the constitution.

Tap dancing is a splendid recreation. A teacher of tap dancing claims that more than 50 per cent of his pupils aren't particularly interested in fancy stepping, they're taking it to reduce and keep slim. They are shy and self-conscious, these girls. They come, by necessity, unless they get a lot of fun out of class work.

Dancing in any form is of benefit if one is mindful of posture.

Hot compresses are useful in treatment of freckles because they soak off dead skin cells. Soap suds used to make the skin spongy and receptible to these yellow polka dots, should never be used just before going out of doors, for sunburn is coming in.

If complexion must be freshened get active with a cleansing cream or thin oil. Use a mild bleaching lotion, removing each one with a soft cloth or cleansing tissue. Slap on a washcloth that has been dipped in very hot water, lave with cold water, dry gently, use the foundation cream, then play with the make-up box.

A mild bleaching lotion is made by combining four ounces of rubbing alcohol, two ounces of rosewater, fifteen drops of simple tincture of benzoin. Apply with cotton night and morning.

Before arching the eyebrows—nice of us to use the word arching, what the girls are doing is murder—apply cloths that have been wrung out of hot water; the tears won't flow quite so fast.

In the eyebrows hairs grow out salant, to tweeze carefully, in the right direction, so the little fusses won't break off at the point where it emerges from the flesh.

The fashionable eyebrow at present time of reporting is not a mere hair line, but a graduated pattern, thinning away at the fair end. Those lifted effects, sponsored by screen stars, suit only the extra type of beauty.

If we would achieve industrial democracy, the principle of representative government must be introduced into the great key industries of the nation.—Samuel Seabury.

History has shown us the pail but nothing of the future.—Geo. Bernard Shaw.

MARY PICKFORD NOW PLAYING AT BELLE THEATRE IN 'SECRETS'

Mary Pickford, also known to millions of movie fans as "America's Sweetheart" returns to Belleville today in her latest picture, "Secrets" and with Leslie Howard plays the leading roles. Two more opposite, there can hardly be a doubt that patrons of the Belle Theatre today or Friday will be extremely pleased (we might say) that they did not miss the opportunity to see this attraction.

"Secrets" is a simple love story, a down-to-earth romance of plain people, without so-called sophistication, wherein "daring situations."

There's an elopement of a rich American father who wants his daughter to wed a titled Englishman instead of a poor clerk; a young couple battling—the hardships of western ranch life; battles with cattle rustlers; the rearing of a family; eventual prosperity, and the devotion of a loyal wife who refuses to let scandal wreck their happiness.

"Secrets" was very carefully directed by Frank Borzage, who also directed "Seventh Heaven" and "Bad Girl." In support of Mary Pickford and Leslie Howard the cast includes C. Aubrey Smith, Blanche Frederics, Mona Maris and Neil Hamilton.

With the above attraction a specially array of pioneer and very entertaining offerings are presented and consist of the always enjoyable Belle Theatre News, a comedy Mack Sennett comedy, "Uncle Jake" and screen favorites of yesteryears, stars and happenings of thirty years ago.

Extra Tonight Only

Tonight each adult patron of the theatre will receive a coupon when entering and by writing their name on the hair and depositing it in the ballot box placed in the foyer they are given an opportunity of winning one of ten valuable value furniture pieces to be presented tonight from the stage.

The gigantic fun and melody show "College Humor," featuring Bing Crosby, Richard Arlen, Jack Oakie, Burns and Allen, Mary Carlisle and the On-Stage Co-ed starts Saturday at the Belle.

BRITISH FILMS OF MERIT ARE BOOKED FOR BELLEVILLE

In keeping with an unbroken policy of showing British photo plays because of his firm belief that "If It's British It's Best," Chris Holmes, manager of the Capitol Theatre announces three outstanding British pictures for the balance of July. Each of these pictures are definitely classed as super-productions and have been found worthy or praise from the most discerning critics through the press.

The first of the three is "That's My Uncle," and is one at the Capitol Theatre next Wednesday for a 2-day engagement.

"That's My Uncle" stars Stanley Lupino, the comedian who made a tremendous hit in "Sleepless Nights" the Raster attraction at the Capitol Theatre.

The story tells of two uncles, two nephews, a wife and a vamp. These characters are rapid along on a crest of uncontrollable circumstances. In the sequence of screamingly funny situations we see Lupino disguised as a female and the result is one of helpless mirth.

The Good Companions

Due at the Capitol Theatre on Saturday, July 22 for three days. Need anything further be said?

Love on Wheels

Here's fun! Jack Hulbert, king of comedy, window dresser in a hat shop knows how to break a trend in store by creating Blue from Bushey to Bristol Circus, and Lenora Corbett, Jack's new girl.

Here we have a novel theme, beautiful background, and new songs, especially the one about wearing pyjamas or the old fashioned nightie!

Good clean fun as only the British fancy how and a treat in store for every genuine film lover.

"That's My Uncle," "Good Companions" and "Love on Wheels" should find direct entries in your date book and the appointments should not be broken.

Stocks Climbed Aboard "Wet" Express And Ordered Full Steam Ahead—Brewers Aid Distillers Lead in Volume of Shares Traded—Action in Mining Shares Continued Spotty—Silver Shares Have the Play.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, July 13 (CP)—Chief interest centred in the silver shares with the gold stocks lagging and the base metals moving cautiously forward on the Standard Mining Exchange today. Eldorado again provided the day's sensation with a jump to 64 for a net gain of 71 points.

Other silver stocks to participate in the move were Ripissing up 25, Castle, up 5, and Mining Corporation up 65 to 2.50.

International Nickel was the chief factor in the base metal group and the stock closed at 21.70 up 6 cents. Noranda also firmed to 32.50 up 50.

In the senior gold group Dome dropped 50 to $34.50, Lake Shore 25 to 241, McIntyre 50 to 233 and Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves weakened about 10 cents each.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, July 13 (AP)— Led by the Alcohol group, stocks rallied staged one of the most buoyant performances of the 1933 bull market. All categories followed the so-called "wet" issues into new high territory for the first two years with gains of one to five or more points. The close was firm, although extreme advances were pared in the last half hour by profit-taking. ranafers approximated 2,500,000 shares.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

Toronto, July 13 (CP)—Trade today was an all-time record breaker for volume on the Toronto Stock Exchange due largely to the public clamor for beverage stocks which accounted for 70 per cent. of the day's transactions. The whole list of distillery and beer shares moved up to new high ground with the exception of Walker pfd. which held about steady.

Brazilian provided a side attraction in the diamond stocks by climbing to a point above 18 and trading in volume unequalled before this year. Other interlisted stocks were only moderatively active and closed generally unlie in the day when prices firmed, C.P.R. going to 21, Nickel to 21.75, and Ford of Canada to 13.75.

Walker's common and Brewers and Distillers altered for volume, the former going to 58 and closing at 56¼, up about 6 points and the Vancouver issue to 3.60, up 30 c. Distillers Seagram held steady through most of the day at 34, up four points and Industrial Alcohol at 34 was up 8 points.

WALL STREET

New York, July 13 (AP)—Stocks climbed aboard the "wet" express today, speed up by beatings of alcoholic encouragement, and ordered full steam ahead.

With members of the distilling family spurting five to 16 points at one time all other categories joined the celebration with gains of one to around five. The rush of buyers swamped the machinery of the stock exchange and the ticker tape was maintained throughout the greater part or the session.

Canadian stocks and bonds were a trifle irregular. Dominion Government and corporation obligations generally followed the fractional ranges. Canadian Pacific shares were in demand for a gain of about a point, but issues or McIntyre Porcupine Dome Mines and International Nickel were either unchanged or slightly lower. The Canadian dollar held to its closing price of yesterday at 95¼ cents.

COUNTY NEWS

P. BOWLBY IS PRESIDENT OF TWEED A. AND N.V.

Organization Concludes a Most Successful Year

TWEED—The annual meeting of Tweed Branch of the Army and Navy Veterans was held in the Guild Rooms on Friday evening with a good attendance. Mr. T. N. Beatty was chosen as chairman of the meeting and called for reports which showed the organization to be in a flourishing condition. The treasurer's report showed that a considerable sum of money had been raised by the Branch during the past year and that a great deal had been done in the way of relieving the needs of the veterans and their families during the past winter.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the retiring President, C. R. Brown and the other officers for readiness and dispatch. It climbs a post about seven feet high, perches on the top ad takes a biscuit from the mouth of the manager of the station, A. L. Connor. It swings around a wire cable stretched tightly between two posts at a height of about two feet from the ground. It is always rewarded with a bit of biscuit at the conclusion of each stunt.

the work which they had done during the year. The election of officers for the ensuing year was proceeded with and resulted as follows: President—P. Bowlby; Vice Pres., A. McTaggart; Treas., F. Mitchell; Sec., J. Stokes; Exec., Dr. M. G. Dales, T. H. Beatty, H. W. Crosbie; Levi Cournoyer; R. D. Reynolds; C. R. Brown (Past President).

A number from Tweed attended Thursday's lawn social on Friday night and report a good programme and a splendid time generally.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Carley and family were in town on Sunday.

Mr. L. P. Purdy of Trenton spent the week end with his son, Mr. H. Purdy.

Mr. Winston Gordon, of the Gordon Steel Works, Hamilton Branch, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Gordon.

Mr. P. J. Calvert visited his parents in Kingston, on Sunday.

Peter's Service Station at the junction of Highway No. 7 and 37 is the centre of attracting lines days, or rather a three-months' old bear cub is the object of interest. Scores of cars stop daily, especially on Sundays, to witness the tricks of the cub. Its repertoire is not extensive as yet but it has two or three tricks which it performs with Lodgeroom and Tweed engaged in a game of softball at Memorial Park on Monday evening, the latter being returned winners by a score of 16-13. Two home runs with the bases full, one by Palmateer of Lodgeroom and the other by Lafferman of Tweed were the batting features. Laffman relieved Lucas in the seventh inning. Thompson, Lodgeroom hurler is a southpaw and had trouble in locating the plate.

Line-ups:

Lodgeroom—Rollins c; McGee 1b; Youmans 2b; Thompson p; Mouck ss; Palmateer cf; P. Blakely lf; R. Blakely 3b; Rivers rf.

Tweed—Terry c; Laffman cf, p; Peterson lb; H. Way 2b; R. Lucas p, cf; K. Timmon ss; Sinclair rf; M. Lucas lf; Freeman 3b.

GIVES REPORT OF DIOCESAN MEETING

ROSLIN—The Women's Auxiliary held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Wm. Gillespie on Thursday evening, July 6th.

There was a fair attendance of about twenty ladies. Miss Emma Porter of Thomasburg was attended the Diocesan Annual Meeting held in Belleville in May was present and gave a report of that meeting.

Miss Porter was tendered a very sincere vote of thanks for her kindness in coming to Roslin Branch and giving this report. Those present felt they had indeed been privileged in hearing such a splendid report from the annual meeting.

On Thursday evening the Tweed girls played the return game with the Roslin girls on the local diamond. The visitors proved too much for the locals, winning by a very large majority.

After the game a dance was held in the hall, sponsored by the Roslin girl's ball team. The Plainfield orchestra furnished music for the occasion and a large number were in attendance.

A number from here attended the garden party held on the United Church grounds, Thomasburg on Friday evening at which supper was served first, and a programme was furnished later.

A large number from here attended the soft ball game played on the newly levelled diamond at Latta on Monday evening between Latta and Tweed girls' teams. The score was 18-16 in favor of Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Hornbogh and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. Copeland.

Miss Anna Riddel of Belleville visited relatives here for a few days recently.

Mrs. John Coulter is visiting relatives in Tamworth.

Miss Addison of Brighton of Windsor is spending the summer vacation with her parents Mr. and Mrs. C. Magwash.

A number from here attended the Orange Service held in St. John's Anglican Church, Moneymore on Sunday afternoon.

Miss Ena Kerr left on Monday for a two weeks motor trip. Miss Leslia Morden of Belleville accompanied her.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hamilton of Peterboro are visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Hamilton.

Miss Marion Harrison who has been attending Tweed High School has returned to her home here.

Mr. Reginald Easton spent the dinner hour on Sunday with Mr. Harry Bates.

CHICKEN SUPPER A FINE SUCCESS

LONSDALE—All are very thankful for the lovely frequent showers of rain.

The Y.P.S. held their monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Milbourne's. A good number of members was present also ten visitors. There was a good programme and a dainty lunch and lemonade were served.

The Marysville Church picnic held in Mr. Charles Meagher's Grove was largely attended. It was a wonderful day and a good time was enjoyed. The ball game played between Read and Stece was strongly in favor of Read. After the ball game and races a delicious chicken dinner was served.

In the evening a dance was given in the Parish Hall at Marysville. Both picnic and dance were a great success.

Those the holidays have commenced we notice a good many pickerers are spending Sunday and Wednesday afternoons along the River Road.

The recent wind storms have affected telephone wires so much that the local telephone lineman, Mr. Arthur Wattingham has not been quite busy.

A few young people spent an enjoyable time at a fishing party on Monday evening and were successful in bringing in some very nice fish.

Mrs. M. A. English has not been feeling so well.

Visitors have been as follows:

Misses Mary McRae and Mary McQuay, are spending a few holidays together visiting friends.

Mr. John McCullough, Belleville, and Mr. Kenneth Haight spent Wednesday at Mr. Albert McCullough's.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dean were Sunday visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Charles Milbourne's.

Mrs. Ross Melrose is spending a few days with Mrs. Frank McCullough.

Mrs. Mitchell McCullough and her mother Mrs. Martin and son John spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Leavens, Corbyville.

Mr. and Mrs. Haight spent Sunday visit their son Mr. Joe Haight, Thurlow.

Miss Kathleen McCullough visited Miss Thelma Milbourne one afternoon this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Whiteman, and Albert visited Mr. and Mrs. J. McRae on Sunday.

Mr and Mrs. Harold Muleous, Toronto, visited Mr. and Mrs. W. Haight on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis McCullough and children Margaret and Jim, Mrs. Jas McCullough, spent Sunday with Mrs. Mitchell McCullough and John

Miss Reta Rashotte spent Sunday at Milltown.

ENJOY HOLIDAY AT OAK LAKE

ZION—Miss Lillian Hamilton of Washington is spending a few weeks with her uncle Mr. James Hamilton.

A few of the farmers on this line have finished haying and have started the wheat crop.

Mr. Wm. Bird of Belleville spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ketcheson and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Ketcheson.

A few from this neighborhood spent Sunday afternoon at Oak Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lloyd were callers in Stirling on Sunday.

The shower which passed over this district on Monday was very much appreciated by the farmers.

Plans for the Paris Exposition of 1937 include a tower almost nail a mile high, up which autos will be driven on a spiral track to a garage and hotel over 1,540 feet above ground.

BRINGING UP FATHER

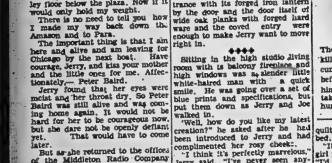
JULY 13 — MR. AND MRS. THEY NEVER MISSED THEM

TARZAN, LORD OF THE JUNGLE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Well, to make a long story short, it lay last reached the mountains themselves and could scarcely make five miles a day clambering over the huge boulders and up the steep valleys. And it was in one of these remote and forgotten valleys that I was captured one night by a tribe of Indians. I firmly believe we are descendants of the lost Incas.

They did not treat me unkindly. In fact, do not believe they had ever seen a white man, and they seemed to believe I was some sort of god.



These people lived among the ancient ruins of what must once have been a great and powerful Incan city. The buildings were of huge stone blocks, now weathered by the wind and covered with moss and vines.

They lived me in the most central building of them all, which was obviously a place of worship, as the altars, grotesque idols and symbols of the sun and moon all testified. I was closely guarded but well fed and had the run of the ruined building with its open courts and plaza.

Gradually I learned the language and gradually I realized that my death when it came, would be as a sacrifice to the sun. I was even shown the darkly stained altar where I would have the enviable opportunity of giving my life as a propitiatory offering to the great sun god.

Naturally, I did not relish the idea and constantly planned my escape. Scaling the walls around the building was unthinkable. Leaving by the closely guarded gate was instant suicide. There was only one possible exit left and that was down the sheer cliff that dropped away from the plaza.

Human sacrifice to the sun occurs once every three years among this tribe by whom I had been taken captive. There had been a recent sacrifice and so I had about three years to contemplate my cruelled fate.

He Led Them up the Open Corridor Stairway to the Little Balcony.

I did the rope trick a dozen times. I had discovered and watched its growth with pardonable fear and anticipation. It grew by inches as the weeks and months passed, but finally when I tested its length one moonlight night it reached the valley floor below the plaza. Now if it would only hold my weight.

There is no need to tell you how I made my way back down the Amazon and to Para.

The important thing is that I am here and alive and am leaving for Chicago by the best boat. I have courage, Jerry, and kiss your mother and little Jane for me. Also Tillie lonesaly.— Peter Baird.

Jerry found that her eyes were misty as she folded the letter carefully and put it back in the envelope. That would have to come later.

But as she returned to the office of the Middleton Radio Company that afternoon there was a song singing in her heart. A song that had not been there for many days.

CHAPTER 15

When Jerry reached the office still weary from the discovery that Peter Baird was alive and well and on his way to Chicago, she found Joe Middleton waiting impatiently for her arrival.

His face had been carefully doctored until it had lost much of the slip looked almost normal and he was wearing a fresh gingham shirt and a soft felt hat.

"Come, come, Jerry. We can't be vacationing continuously," Joe said with mock seriousness. "I must see an important customer this afternoon about very important business. He is dropping over to the hotel for Chicago's loop and wants to throw a party. Hurry and get ready ...we must go and see him at once."

"Shall I bring along a package?" said some innocent Jerry asked.

"Yes, do," Joe said, "and bring your powder puff as well. We want to make the right sort of impression on the old boy." And to Jerry, he has a great deal of influence with the financiers who are building this hotel and he is going to suggest they put my radio in each room with the possibility work out a rough contract with your help."

They went down to the lake shore and spent eastward 60 Michigan avenue, and then north.

"Where to" Jerry asked as the low green roadster with its twin-eight motor carried them northward past the big houses of Lake Shore drive and through Lincoln Park, now flaming with autumn.

"The address," said Joe said, "he is inspecting a house he recently acquired. You see he is one of those that neighborhood and we can safe him a trip down town by mailing this little drive."

Jerry's mind was so full of other things that she scarcely noticed where Baird she scarcely noticed where the eccentric employer was taking her and only knew that after a while they passed through Evanston and swallowing north through suburbs with which she was less familiar.

And now they were following Sheridan road out through the big estates fenced around with high stone walls, and these walls Jerry carefully tended bedges.

Jerry wished Peter Baird would come home from North America so rich he could buy one of these marvelous places where they all seemed to live. How lovely it would be to have all the room you wanted and furniture that was beautiful and signed and a servant, or two and wide green lawns and trees and flowers.

How unbelievably grand to get away from the dark, stuffy odorous rooms which compose the average part of all Chicago apartments.

I, seemed to Jerry that all her life she had been looking out on the dark alleys, unventilater courts or dirty Chicago streets. How she detested chipped bathtubs and cookroaches, windows that would never stay clean for more than a day, and the constant rain of soot that filtered in everywhere until it clogged the very spirit with its ugly blackness.

Jerry could have composed a hymn of hate to Chicago apartments as she drove along lovely Sheridan road drifted with autumn leaves and looked through openings in the trees at the stately colonial, Colonnaded, Georgian and French provincial homes.

There were large, rambling houses of stone with low eaves and sparkling white bound with green shutters. There were houses of every period and every material and all of them seemed so clean and peaceful and remote from the bustle and dirt of the city.

How Jerry wanted one of those homes! But she fil. she would never have one.

And then suddenly Joe had turned in at one of these places and was following a long, curving drive back through a perfectly kept lawn under the big oak and scarlet hard maples.

How wide and luxurious the grounds were! Jerry realized that ran all the way to Lake Michigan itself which in the afternoon light was the color of sapphire.

And then peeking between two huge maples, just over a little rise, she saw a house which made her heart stand still. It had bluish gables and roof of tiles as ultlicolored as the autumn leaves low eaves and walls of light rough limestone. The windows were deep set in the thick stone and the wide chimneys for two fireplaces were visible.

As the end of one gable were windows that ran clear up to the peak and Jerry knew in that room was a studio living room. The little entrance with its forged iron lantern by the door and the door itself of wide oak planks with forged hard ware and the carved entry were enough to make Jerry want to move right in.

Sitting in the high studio living room with is balcony fireplace and high windows was a middle aged man with a quick smile. He was going over a set of blue prints and specifications but put them down as Jerry and Joe walked in.

"Well, how do you like my latest creation?" he asked as Joe had been introduced to Jerry and had complimented her rosy cheeks.

"It's simply marvelous," Jerry said. "I've never seen anything like this in all my life."

"But you must see the entire place," Mr. Brussels, the architect, said.

He led them up the open curving stairway in the little balcony, and Jerry found a large room with with its ebony baby grand piano and furniture of a deep rich brown with deep creamy rug worked with a hunting design in dull blue and splashes of orchid tint with walnut beaming.

Then he took them along the hall which ran from the balcony to the dinner room and the kitchen and opening three master bedrooms and two baths.

"You'll like the bedrooms," Mr. Brussels predicted, and they smiled as Jerry found them delightful.

The one to the south was done in blue and green and had a glassed-in balcony flooded with sun and overlooking the bay of the family, Mr. Brussels said.

The room was more like a ship's cabin with a marvelous compass of a dozen different colored woods set in the floor. The windows were all portholes and the bed was built in with a bunk. The curtains on the walls were all of ships and sea animals and the general effect was that the light was a ship's lantern.

"Oh," Jerry inwardly cried, "what a lucky little boy will have this ship's cabin and that balcony just made for running or sleeping in the open air!

Then Mr. Brussels led them into the room which was the twin to this but to the north. It was the little girl's room he said and it was all done in pale apricot with wood work of ivory and curtains of rolled organdy in apple green, and a green

The two Arabs drew apart, discussing whether to slit the ape-man or to hold him captive. At last the cunning Motico's advice prevailed. "Let us take him before Ibn Jad," he said. "What the sheik does with him is his own business. Once Ibn Jad and Tarzan was discussing with their other trophies of many days' hunting back toward the mensil of Sheik Ibn Jad.

In the open men's apartment of his heyt El-shar As the women worked they listens. "We have come squatted the Sheik Ibn Jad of the Fendy El-Ouad. a long way from our gated home, without mishap," Ibn Beside him sat Tollog, his evil brother and a hand- Jad was remarking. "Now we are close to the spot some young Bedulin named Zayd. This youth was a where the magician dwells! I should find the castled favored suitor for the hand of Ateja, the lovely city of Nimmr. Soon we should enter El-Habash!" daughter of the sheik. Toward her, Zayd dole many a glance as, with Hirfa, her fat mother the two women busied themselves in the sheik's harem.

"I shall find means to make the hahaaby loose their tongues," said Ibn Jad grimly. "Nimmr is known to the people. Fejhan, my head slave, though he has never been there, heard of it as a boy." Then the sheik permitted himself a chuckle, partly at the thought of Nimmr's gold and precious stones and partly in anticipation of the tortures he would inflict upon the men of El-Habash if they refused to

Mount Pleasant ..... 631 012 x—13

A keenly contested game of soft ball was staged at Glen Ross on Monday evening which Hoards and Mount Pleasant met to play for the honor of second place. It was a great game with plenty of cheering and the Mount Pleasant boys certainly got the worth of their money. Mount Pleasant boys were accompanied by nearly one hundred and twenty fans and in the third innings they sure did yell, however the Hoard's boys with their crack players were the lucky chaps and they won with a score of 10-7. Hoards will now play home and home games with Springbrook as the latter team are ahead in the league.

Hoards went to bat and Bill Jeffs, Barney Eagleson and O. Rainnie went out and our boys followed suit with Clifford Hobson, John Coggins and Tom Bowler out and the innings was a zero.

In the second frame K. Oddie and Bill Hume went out, Don Watson got to second and D. Saline went out. —A Kellar went out, H. Higgs made third, K. Holmes journeyed to second, G. Dunkley and Bert Jeffs lost out and another balls eye mark-ed the score.

In the third round Charlie Smith Jack Rainnie and Bill Jeffs went out and then things began to happen and Mount Pleasant stepped on the gas. Harold Hagerman made a long shot followed by C. Holmes and Coggins and they each tallied one. Bowler lost out, Kellar, Higgs, Holmes and Dunkley each tallied one and all made a good shot and Bert Jeffs and Hagerman lost out and the score ended 7-0. In the midst of this inning Charlie Smith who was pitching got a bit rattled with so many runs and Eagleson pitched but this didn't daunt the Mount Pleasant lads and they kept right on with the good work. This inning was the most exciting of the play and it gave the fans a dandy chance to yell.

In the fourth frame Eagleson went out, O Rainnie tallied one and K. Oddie had the honor of making the only home run of the evening. Hume went out. Watson got to first and Milne lost out, C. Holmes made third and Coggins, Bowler and Kellar lost out. Score 9-2.

In the fifth round Hoards went to bat determined to win if possible and they piled up six runs beginning with Smith, J. Rainnie and Bill Jeffs each tallying a count. Eagleson and O. Rainnie went out. K. Oddie, B. Hume and D. Watson scored a run. Milne and Smith made first and J. Rainnie lost out, and Hoards led 8-7 as Higgs, K. Holmes and Dunkley each lost out.

As the players prepared for the sixth some of Hoard's enthusiasts asked the ladies of Mount Pleasant to quit cheering as it rattled their men. Bill Jeffs went out, Eagleson made second, O. Rainnie and K. Oddie were caught out. The Mount Pleasant boys surely did some splendid catching even though they were down to defeat. But Jeffs, Hagerman and C. Holmes also lost and the score remained 8-7.

The final began and Bill Hume tallied a run, Watson lost, Milne made another count, Smith got to second and J. Rainnie and Will Jeffs lost out and Coggins made first and Bowler, Kellar and Higgs lost and Hoards were victorious 10-7, but they worked hard to win and were rewarded for their efforts.

Umpire—Mags Fraser, Glen Hoar. Base Umpire—W. R. Bone, Bonarlaw.

Line-ups—Hoards—C. Smith p; Bill Jeffs c; Barney Eagleson ss; O. Rainnie; K. Oddie; Bill Hume; Don Watson; D. Milne and Jack Rainnie.

Mount Pleasant—A Kellar p; J. Coggins c; C. Holmes 1b; Tom Bowler 2; Bert Jeffs 3b; Herb Higgs ss; Charlie Dunkley cf; Harold Hagerman lf and Kenneth Holmes rf.

BRIDAL COUPLE HONORED AT ENJOYABLE SHOWER

MALONE—Mrs. Tom Ellis and sons Gordon and Harold of Marmora spent a couple of days with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wesse last week.

Masters Norman and Ray Gawley spent Thursday at the home of their uncle, Mr. William Gawley.

Mrs. Henry Nickle spent Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Nickle.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman White of Myrtle spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Derry.

Mrs. Tom McCann spent last Tuesday with Mrs. Jack McCann.

Mrs. Thomas Wiley, Bernice and Harry spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Wesse.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Derry spent a few days at the latter's home in Myrtle last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lalone were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nickle on Friday evening last.

Friends and relatives and school children of S. S. No. 6, Malone, gathered at the home of Mrs. Henry Nickle last Wednesday evening to bone Mr. and Mrs. Percy Derry (nee Miss Margaret White) with a miscellaneous shower. The gathering was called to order by Mr. Jack White and the following address was read by Mrs. J. White:

Dear Margaret and Percy:

We, a few of your many friends have gathered here this evening to spend a few social hours together and wish you a very happy and useful wedded life. We realize you will be greatly missed in this community especially in Church and social affairs and to show our love and esteem, for you, we ask you to accept these gifts and may you ever be guided by a loving father's care.

Signed on behalf of friends and neighbors, Jeans Nickle, Helen Kelly, Harry Gawley, Clarence Wesse.

The bride and groom answered in a very appropriate way. The bride was then asked to take her place in the centre of the ring formed by her school pupils and the following address was read by Miss Lola Gawley and a gift from the school children was presented by Miss Enid Nickle.

Dear Miss Derry:

We the pupils of S.S. No. 6 of Malone have gathered here this evening to show in some measure our appreciation of your work in our school and neighborhood and to bid you farewell and wish you all joy and success in your new home. In remembrance of your pupils of Malone and of the love they bear you, we ask you to accept this gift. May it be a joy and gladness to you, bringing happy remembrance of your three years in Malone.

Signed on behalf of the Malone pupils of S. S. No. 6.

Mrs. Derry answered in a very loving way of her pupils.

TEMPTING RECIPES

SURPRISE SALAD

PEEL AN ORANGE

remove all of the white skin, slice thinly (in rounds). Skin a tomato and slice. Arrange as follows: a slice of tomato, then a slice of orange, then tomato again and so on. Cut in half through centre. Arrange in V-shape on lettuce with mayonnaise in centre.

A salad like that makes a delightful addition to any meal. Particularly if the dressing has been made appetizing and interesting with Keen's Mustard.

COUNTY NEWS

REV. A. E. TAVENER APPOINTED TO SYDENHAM

CARRYING PLACE—Word has just reached this community of the appointment of Rev. A. E. Tavener to the Sydenham parish by Bishop Lyons of Kingston, the change to take place at the end of the present month. This announcement will become as a distinct surprise to residents of this community and of other parts of this parish. During the three years of his stay here Mr. Tavener has made many friends and during the shorter period during which Mrs. Tavener has been with us she also has come to hold a high place in our regard. This will be a step in advance for Mr. and Mrs. Tavener and their many friends here and in Consecon, Hillier, Northcote, Ameliasburg and other places will join in wishing them every happy life in their new location.

Today, a little on the cool side, brought showers of varying intensity and kept the usual crowd of picnickers who congregate at the Point down to a minimum. A local resident who spent the day at Frankford reports that there was so little rain there that as no time did one need to go inside to keep dry, while another who visited at Picton tells that sufficient rain fell there to fill in a very short time rain barrels and tubs under the eaves of the houses. However there is a very real and pressing need for more than showers. Strawberry growers say that unless rain comes soon, and plenty of it, there will be few or no berries next year as there has not been sufficient moisture to allow the runners on the plants to grow. This is rather a dismal outlook.

Mr. and Mrs. Will La Tour and several friends motored to Toronto last Thursday, returning the same day.

Mrs. F. Irvin of Smithfield visited her mother, Mrs. J. G. Dusenbury and Mr. Dusenbury last on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Wannamaker and family motored to Presqu'Ile Point on Sunday to spend the day with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Carnrite, lading with them Miss Edith Carnrite who has been enjoying several weeks holidays here.

Congratulations to six local boys and girls who tried and passed the entrance examinations at Trenton this week. The fortunate ones were Misses Norma Kennedy, Lillian Perrow, Marion Hanthorn, Olive Innes and Lucille Weller and Mr. Sydney Grieg. Special credit goes to Olive Innes who, youngest and smallest of her class, secured the highest standing and won first-class honors.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. G. Jones of Toronto, formerly of this locality were pleased to see a picture of Leroy Jones in the Toronto Star issue of July 4th. Leroy, once a resident of, and still an occasional visitor to this community has distinguished himself both in the fields of scholarship and sports since he has lived in the city. He graduates from East York High School this year, the same school in which Mr. Jones teaches.

The new steel-hulled paddle-wheeler Peterla, which began her new excursion route from Hamilton to Montreal a week or two ago, passed east down the canal Sunday morning on her way to Montreal. This is her second trip eastward on this new excursion schedule.

The Carrying Place A. C. have a new project in view, one which seems more worth while than many attempted. It is the formation of a tennis club. Plans for the forming of the club have already been laid, a site for the courts has been secured behind the Anglican church, and now an organization meeting should finally make this scheme a reality. Tennis, a sport very popular in every city and town but for some reason very slightly known in rural districts, provides a splendid recreation and, to the beginner, brings out a dozen sets of muscles the existence of which has been quite unknown to him before. A further account of the formation of this club will be found in a early issue.

A local man ran across a really better bird in other day. Motoring to Belleville, he ran foul of a number of fowl scratching themselves along the pavement. One large hen to entice out a harem's way took to the air, but in her excitement flew directly a the front of the car. There was a harm and a cloud of feathers. Some time later the motorist encountered the hen perched on the collapsible system of his car, and when investigating found that the bird had struck the front of the rense plate so forcibly as to bend it almost double at the same time forcing it back against the core of the radiator until it burst the inner tubes of the core in two places. Moral—Work out an executive hen.

Monday, July 3rd, was a busy day for picnickers. Twelve O'clock Point was the scene of a large Trenton Sunday School picnic while numerous other and private parties enjoyed outings there. Barcovan Beach and Cove Meadow Beach were both popular resorts, there being nine truckloads of picnickers at the latter place alone.

The new United Church Hall was opened auspiciously here last Thursday when a large crowd filled the place to overflowing. It the occasion of the United Church strawberry social, and so many attended that the seating capacity of the Hall and the supply of ice cream were overtaxed. The Hall, decorated a few days ago, and remodelled through the efforts of the members of the Women's Association, was tastefully decorated in yellow and mauve and was lighted by gasoline lamps. Rev. F. P. Swayne of Consecon acted as chairman, and in opening the meeting read the following address of welcome:

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

We welcome you all here tonight to the opening of our Hall. Although we have not yet fully completed it, as you can see, we take this opportunity to thank all of the men who worked on the Hall under the supervision of Mr. Wannamaker and also those who very kindly donated the various things needed for the Hall.

Signed on behalf of the Women's Association of Carrying Place.

Mrs. Harry La Tour, President."

In his remarks Mr. Swayne heartily congratulated the ladies on the result of their endeavours, and complimented them on their ability in managing the menu[illegible] as well. Some of the numbers on the program were a vocal solo by Mrs. S. Church, two readings by Miss Lois Black, a recitation by Miss Gertrude Kemp, and a vocal solo by Mr. J. Eaton. Following the program delicious plates of cake, ice cream and strawberries were served. The supply of ice cream was soon exhausted, but a further supply was procured from Trenton, and everything went merrily on. This is the first of what we hope may be a long line of pleasant events in the new hall.

PRESENT PROGRAM AT LAWN SOCIAL

WOOLER—A most successful social was sponsored by the Ladies' Aid on Wednesday evening at the parsonage lawn. A splendid programme and moonlight and it was a delightful time to be out. Responding to the social a committee sold "hot dogs" over on the ball ground until dark. They proceeded to the church parlors where were saw-dust pies and more hot dogs. The excellent programme was given to Rev. A. Poulter and the first number was a vocal solo by Clifford Rogers, followed by a guitar selection by Hershey Eagle and Clarence Fox and closed by singing the yodel, this was heartily applauded with an encore. A vocal solo by Freddie Down tall trees of shade and every one comfortably seated. The boys and men made up two teams for soft ball game and it was of interest. Rev. A. Poulter arranged the sports and the "tug of war" was real sport and energy, until the rope broke and then it was exciting, but the competition continued with enthusiasm.

Prizes were given to the children in the races. The "sack race" is always funny. The merry-go-round was enjoyed by the children.

A few remained for tea but at 9 p.m. the cars had all cleared away.

Mr. and Mrs. Samson of Shiloh called on Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Down on Monday.

IS JUSTIFIED SAYS CROLL

Claim is Made That Minister of Lands 'Admits' Mistakes

Windsor, Ont., July 12 (CP) — Commenting on a statement last night by Hon. Dr. Charles A. Magsson, Minister of Lands, in regard to placing of settlers in Northern Ontario, Mayor David Croll charged today the Minister had "admitted" mistakes had been made in this work and Mr. Finlayson's roads will have to be extended and facilities improved.

The Mayor quoted from the Minister's statement: "No doubt mistakes have been made and a few more settlers may have to be returned to their former homes and there also are cases where roads will have to be extended and facilities improved."

"This admission by Mr. Finlayson is a complete and utter justification of every word I have said about Windsor settlers and their unhappy plight since my return from visiting them in the unsettled district late in May," the Mayor declared.

Past W.M. G.P. Reid, Grand Auditor of Ontario - East was Marshal in Chief of the parade and director of ceremonies and had as his assistant aides Brothers Chas. Mills and Franklin Reed of the Canniffton Lodge, Brother Percy Reynolds of Foxboro and Brother Murdy White of Tyendinaga. A little chap in the grove previous to the "walk" was tugging at his mother's hand and urging her to hasten and see the "horses in order came by. Well he saw them, for the Lodge officers were mounted on white chargers made famous by the steed which bore the Prince of Orange into the waters of the Boyne.

Following Marshal Reid, brother Bob McCoy of Benjamin Lodge, Bellerville bore as he has heretofore done on many like occasions, the emblem of the British Empire, the Union Jack of Old England and to Lydia Lodge No. 350, L.O.B.A. of this city, fell to the Orange Pipe Band of Belleville was accorded the honor of marching in the van of the "Orange Walk." The Lydia ladies made the most colorful detail of the procession and were awarded first prize by the judges for their turnout and marching Their white dresses were brightened with their orange capelets and sashes and they wore for head dress orange Marsh hats, 30 members made up the quota. Benjamin L.O.L. No. 276 followed with 45 members parading. Then in order came Mohawk L.O.L. No. 99 with 30 members, Shannonville L.O.L. No 242 with 105 marching Orangemen, this lodge received a prize also for turnout, marching and numbers on parade, Ebenezer L.O.L. No. 974 with 18 was next, Wallbridge L.O.L. No. 2386 had 23, Foxboro L.O.L. No. 2 with 30, Meyer Hall L.O.L. No. 283 and the L.O.B.A. of Tyendinaga with 30 men and 15 ladies; Plainfield L.O.L. No. 179 with 35 and Canniffton No. 2220 with 35 marching members. Each lodge was headed by its drums and fifes and in all the processions numbered over 400 participants. From the grove the line of march was to the Town Hall, around the block there and return to the grove.

County Master in Chair

The speaking started some half hour after the arrival of the parade, W. I. Cole, recording secretary of the Canniffton Lodge acted was in charge of the arrangements at the grove called the assemblage to order and following the welcome of Canniffton to the visitors, who had gathered for the celebration called on the County Master H. L. Mack to occupy the chair. Seated on the platform were Brothers J. F. Hill, M.P.P., W. C. Mikel, K.C., the Rev. J. A. McMullen, the Rev. J. Semple of Belleville the Rev. W. J. Clarke of Shannonville, the Rev. Mr. Everson of Plainfield and the Rev. W. R. Merrick of Canniffton.

The chairman's remarks were brief but as he introduced each speaker his interjectory witticisms and stories were most appreciated and his duties were carried through to the satisfaction of all.

Protestantism was the ringing note of all the speeches of the afternoon, toleration for those of other beliefs was manifest, loyalty to the Empire Empire unquestioned and denunciation of Communism and its insidious inroads into the life of this country was forcefully made by all the speakers. Redism had no friend at at Canniffton yesterday and those who foster it as paid emissaries of Russia or as perhaps misunderstanding followers though various social organizations which have sprung up in church and community life of late years, were berated by the various orators.

F. F. Hill, M.P.P.

Mr. James F. Hill, M.P.P. for East Hastings was the first to address the interested listeners. He came to speak to them not as a political leader but as an Orangeman. He was that today and was ever proud to be known as one of them. The Orange Order had been misunderstood in years past and its aims and objects were little known, but a change was very growing toward the organization as its principals were understood. The rights of others had always received its recognition and it was not founded to hurt those who do see as we do members do. The usefulness of the Orange Order was not over, it had still a duty to perform in educating the young people in its principles. Communism, Bolshevism and C.O.F. movements were encouraged by some politicians and there were those who sought the repeal of section 98 of the Criminal Code. It was the obligation of Orangemen as an Orangeman know it to strengthen the ties that binds us to the British Empire. The C.O.F. has no difference with Communism.

In Toronto Tuesday, the speaker had witnessed a demonstration which had started as a Jewish protest against the treatment accorded the Jews of Germany, but which had developed into a Communistic gathering before it had finished. Thousands of foreign born with banners bearing foreign languages were injected into the demonstration and hired underlings of Russia permeated the gathering to sow seeds of discord and rancor. Those people were easily incited by fiery speeches or constant insidious argument abounding in falsehood and it was for protection against such as these that section 98 had been forced and was being enforced.

Both great political parties were pledged to Reduction, but the Protestant and Roman Catholic Churches were pledged to it. We were all sound of mind, liberty loving upright, justice seeking Canadian citizens. Orangeism was opposed to Communism. There was a way clear to Russia for the hirelings in Canada of Moscow propaganda.

There was no more loyal institution in Canada or any other country than the Orange Society, concluded Mr. Hill.

W. C. Mikel, K.C.

W. C. Mikel, K.C., was the next speaker and his speech was recorded as part in yesterday's report. Mr. Mikel made a stirring address denunciatory of Communism also, which met with hearty approval of those who heard him.

Rev. J. Semple

The Rev. J. Semple, lately arrived pastor of the Bridge St. United Church, Belleville, spoke next. He had spoken from a platform of this kind on many occasions. He congratulated the Canniffton Orangemen on everything he had seen there today. The Orage Order was receiving at this time more encouragement and endorsation than for year it had enjoyed. The Orange Order had sent thousands of its members to battle for King and Empire in the Great War.

One thing he wished to impress on them was heaven today was the sacredness of the Lord's Day. The law's greatest gift to man had been the Sabbath Day and it behooved all Orangemen to unite in maintaining that day, that in the generations unborn (their 'thanks would go to them for maintaining that great institution.

He wished also to call their attention to the contribution the Orange Order had made in maintaining the legality of all marriages performed by any minister recognized by civil authorities. The Order wanted no interference that may after from any body or society and it had cost it $15,000 to carry their battle to the Privy Council.

Mr. Semple's address delighted his interested hearers.

At this juncture in the program Chairman Mack called on the Orange Pipe Band of Belleville and two selections were played.

Rev. Mr. Clarke

The Rev. Mr. Clarke of Shannonville, Rev. Mr. Everson of Plainfield, and the Rev. J. S. McMullen of Belleville, followed with brief addresses extolling the principals of Orangism and abundantly replete in patriotic fervor.

The Rev. W. R. Merrick

The Rev. W. R. Merrick of Canniffton was the last speaker of the afternoon and conveyed the thanks of the Canniffton lodge and the citizens of the community to the speakers of the afternoon, to all those who had assisted in making the occasion a success and to the visiting Orange brethren and sisters and the visitors in general for answering the invitation of the village and turning out in such numbers.

The meeting was brought to a close shortly before four o'clock with the singing of the National Anthem.

In the evening the Twelfth of July closed in Canniffton with the day dancing on a platform at the Consolidated School, music furnished by the Plainfield orchestra.

Baseball Sport Feature

Two seven-inning games of baseball were played during the afternoon, the last game terminating shortly after 6 o'clock. At times there was upwards of 1000 interested spectators vociferously watching this part of the day's events and a good ball marked both contests. Canniffton maintained Methuse in the first game 9 to 4 and in the second game after remaining behind for 4 innings Foxboro evened the score in the sixth and two runs in the seventh beat the Shannonville Hawks.

A dispute arose in the 8th. frame of the second game when the base runner called a Foxboro man safe at third on a force play run and then reversed his decision. Score 11 or 12 players and fans got into the mixup and after some hearty slugging with an interested and excited gallery closing in the melee was broken up and the game resumed.

The spectators overran the field in the second game paying little attention to the ropes marking off the playing space and several are today nursing thumped heads and bruised shoulders as the result of being hit by off-fouls, and some were resounding smacks. Miss Ruth Hudgins of Tyendinaga, was the recipient of one of these blows and was dazed for a time but after medical attention was quickly revived.

Both games were good, the second especially aroused much enthusiasm on the part of partisans of each team.

First game:

Foxboro	202 000 0—4
Canniffton	223 020 x—9

Batteries—Meyers, W. Pearce and R. Kimmitt; Canniffton, Loucks and Whiting.

Second game:

ITALIAN AIR ARMADA REACHES MONTREAL

Balbo Leads Squadrons Over United States and Quebec on Sixth Hop

Din Drowns Sounds of Motors as Italians Enter Montreal

BALBO CHEERY

Seaplanes Occupy Mile And Half of River Bank as Moorings

Montreal, July 14— (CP) — The aerial armada General Italo Balbo has led across the North Atlantic enroute to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago half completed this sixth leg of the flight today, all 24 of the twin-engined flying boats having alighted on the St. Lawrence River here going by water a swift flight from Shediac, N.B., which they left at 9:51 a.m. (E.S.T.)

Thousands of Montrealers thronged the waterfront as the aerial beat of seaplane engines rose above the noise of city traffic. In groups of three spread out in huge "S" the planes droned out of the eastern west and wheeled in a wide circle over the downtown section of the city. Packery Wilson, steamer arrens and automobile horns set up a terrific din as the big flying boats their twin metal hulls gleaming in the sunlight, banked and circled lower over the harbor.

Then Hitle Alighs

General Balbo's flag ship, closely followed by the two other planes of his leading unit, suddenly dashed down from the wide circle and glid ed down through the heavy, sultry smoke to alight on the surface of the harbor.

Immediately after landing they turned and taxied quickly towards the seaplane base at a point well to the south shore of the river in groups of three the other planes detached themselves from the circling fleet and followed the headed General to the surface of the river.

A swarm of speedboats raced out from the seaplane base to the 24 Italian airmen to the moorings set out in a line a mile and a half long along the south shore.

Thousands pressed against the barriers at the seaplane base as the Italian flyers crowded into the speedboats as fast as they moored their flying boat and were brought ashore. The local Packard led the Italian colony in a vociferous welcome.

After an open air demonstration in their honor and a banquet tonight the flyers hope to get off tomorrow on the final leg of 870 miles to Chicago.

Ottawa, July 14—(CP)—Right in the air United States territory today, General Balbo, leader of the Italian air armada, received a wireless message congratulating him from Premier Mussolini. The message was received at 11:40 a.m. while the flyer was passing over Lake Michigan, Mr. Bennett reported by the Radio Branch of the Department of Marine here.

CENTRAL BANK PLAN FAVORED

Monetary Sub Committee Adopts Banking Resolution

London, July 14 (C.P. Cable) — The monetary sub-commission on permanent international issues this afternoon the following resolution which had already been approved and known by a sub-committee:

"The conference considers it essential in order to provide an international gold standard with the necessary mechanism for satisfactory working, that independent central banks with the requisite power and freedom to carry out a sound domestic currency and credit policy, should be created in such developed countries as have not at present an adequate central banking institution."

Similarly, the sub-commission adopted this resolution also:

"The conference wishes to reaffirm the declarations of previous conferences with regard to the possibility of close and continuous cooperation between central banks. The bank for international settlements should play an increasingly important part not only by promoting contact but also as an instrument for common action."

CHARGED WITH THEFT

NO TRIP TO OTTAWA IS BEING MADE

Ottawa, July 14 (CP)—General Balbo and his aviators will not be able to accept the Dominion government's invitation to come to Ottawa to be the government's guests at a dinner here. The Department of External Affairs was informed today that the Italian air armada will leave Montreal, early tomorrow for Chicago. One or more aircraft escort will welcome the visitors at Montreal, supplementing the welcome given at Shediac.

DEMAND NEW GO-BETWEENS

Want List Published in Three New York Newspapers

Albany, July 14—(AP)—Daniel P. O'Connell, uncle of the kidnaped boy, John, Jr., received a letter from the kidnapper today ordering the family to submit a new list of intermediaries to be published in three New York newspapers, the Sun, Journal and World-Telegram.

The list of go-betweens, the thing offered by the family, has been sent to the New York papers.

The letter received today was signed by the kidnaped youth. The family established the authenticity of the signature.

The first letter from the abductors, demanding $250,000, received last Saturday, was signed John's signature. Two other letters from the kidnap band did not carry his name.

BENCH ORDERS ARREST MADE

Woman Fails to Appear In Fruit Pest Charge

London, Ont., July 14—(CP)—Bench warrants for the arrest of Miss Margaret Jill, Delaware, was issued by Magistrate Hershaw here today when the woman failed to appear for trial in district's first test case on the Fruit Pest Act. The warrant will be served by Provincial Police.

H. N. Weber, Inspector for the Department of Agriculture told the Magistrate Miss Jill had said she did not intend to appear for trial.

The accused is charged with having unapproved fruit trees within 1,000 feet of a certified block of trees, according to the provisions of the new act, must be sprayed or cut down.

In addition to the original charge Miss Jill will also face one of contempt of court.

ODDITIES IN THE NEWS

New York, July 14 (AP)

Samuel Ley, borough president of Manhattan, went straight up in the air at the close of a day in a minute. He was inspecting an elevator in Rockefeller Center to determine whether the elevator city spend limit of 1,200 feet a minute might be increased.

Broader Trend Trade Disclosed in Summaries of June Activities

New York, July 14—(AP)—Broader trade trends were disclosed this week in the summaries received by Dunn and Bradstreet Inc. from all sections of the United States with the exception of a few isolated districts in the south.

Summaries of June activity, the agency said, "confirmed a more rapid and broader gain over last year's record than the weekly reports had indicated."

LABOR ROUSED BY CHEAP JOB UNDERTAKINGS

Construction Work Should Not Be Done by "Wards"

MANY PROTESTS

Use of Men on Gratuities Stirs Labor Unions

Ottawa, July 14 (CP)—Officials of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada have urged upon the Dominion Government that the unemployed single men in camps of the Department of National Defence should not be engaged in public works which ordinarily would be done under fair wage provisions. The Congress officers are awaiting a reply to their protests, President Tom Moore stated today.

"These single men who receive a gratuity of 20 cents a day in addition to being clad and fed, should not be used as cleaning airports, reforestation and the like," said Mr. Moore, "but they should not be used to do work which under such public works as otherwise would be done under the provisions of the Fair Wage Act."

Protests have come to the Congress offices from many parts of Canada. They include Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto, Windsor, Kingston, Montreal and Quebec. Questioning Labor resents the government using these men to make repairs at Long Branch ranges, erect new buildings at the Royal Military College as Kingston, work in connection with the power development at Lac Des Iles in Manitoba and other such undertakings, Mr. Moore declared.

The Labor Department took the view, Mr. Moore stated, that such work should be carried out in advance with at this time at all if it were not done by the men in the camps. As a matter of fact, he said, they would be done some time and only working at regular wages should do them who were practically wards of the government.

ROBBERS SLAY TAKE PAYROLL

Philadelphia Factory Office Scene of Double Crime

Philadelphia, July 14 (AP)—Three robbers shot to death a policeman and stole a $10,000 payroll he was guarding today in the factory office of the Allied Kid Co., near Fifth and Huntingdon Streets.

The policeman Charles Stockburger, 50, went down under a shower of bullets. He had no time to draw his pistol.

The robbers apparently trailed an automobile carrying Stockburger and two employes of the company from a bank where they obtained the money. The killing and holdup were so swift, however, that no one got a good look at the men.

Stockburger had been a policeman 22 years.

News Flashes

High Point, N.C., July 14—(AP) —More than 10,000 workers today were indicted in pleas for a wholesale strike in furniture and hosiery plants of the High Point industrial area, scheduled to start Monday if demands for 25 per cent wage increase are not granted.

FISH FLIES HALT AUTOS

Red Covers on Lamp-posts at Border Ward Off Pests

Windsor, Ont., July 14 (CP)— Apparently delayed a month by the recent drought swarms of fish flies fluttered in millions over the city streets today.

On the other side of the river from here the fly invasion was so heavy that motorists were forced to stop on the Lakeshore Drive and the peak covering the wind shields and clogged radiators.

In Kingsville red coverings were dropped about the street lamps. The flies will not go near anything red. The clouds of insects which already arrived are merely considered an advance guard and the real invasion is expected any day now.

SEVEN KILLED, THREE INJURED IN EXPLOSION

Lake of Fire Spreads Over Wide Area After Blast

Eldorado, Ark., July 14 (AP) Seven men were dead today and three others injured following an explosion that spread a sheet flame from a treating plant to the H. H. Cross oil refinery at Smackover yesterday.

The dead were O. L. Murphy, refinery superintendent; C. A. Sours, Kansas City, consulting engineer; R. L. Burns, superintendent of the Simms Oil Refinery at Smackover; and Dudley Johnson, Monroe Winn, Jack Van Wagoner and H. T. Morgan, Cross Refinery employees.

Murphy, Sours and Burns, inspecting a new unit at the refinery, were caught in the lake of fire that spread over a wide area after the unexplained explosion in the plant. Surrounding buildings were ignited, the flying couple arrived here at 11.40 after a two-hour flight from Bay Bulls, St. John's.

ARMADA ON SIXTH LEG

Leaves Shediac N. B. For Montreal Without Mishap

Shediac, N.B., July 14 (CP)—The Italian armada under General Italo Balbo swept up from the waters of Shediac Bay this morning on the sixth leg of their flight from Orbetello, Italy, to the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago.

The first plane of the squadron soared from the water at 8.51 a.m. E.S.T., but it was not until 9.43 that the final wing of the 24 seaplanes rose and headed for Montreal, 120 miles away, on the St. Lawrence.

It was reported one of the planes experienced difficulty as the trade secured altitude and there was a long interval of only a few minutes, the group headed for the mouth of Moncton, N.B., 18 miles away until the final trio had left Shediac Bay.

Parting salutations and farewells were given as the pilots of the craft prepared for the takeoff. General Balbo scanned weather reports and maps before climbing into the leading plane lettered "Italo."

The weather forecast here was and a stiff southwest breeze blowing. Under these conditions the armada would be expected to reach on the 500 mile hop to the Canadian metropolis.

At 9.30 came word the main body of the fliers had passed over Moncton, 120 miles to the east.

There was no immediate knowledge of what caused the one group other than some trouble was experienced by one of the planes in the last trial. Whatever it was, the difficulty seemed entirely overcome as the pilot shot his ship into the air and raced in pursuit of his companions.

There was confusion on the shore when spectators believed all planes had left at 8.51 a.m., but reports from the bay the final group was still in the air. Steadiness among those crowding the shore disappeared as the group rose in perfect formation and soared away.

SHAVED READY FOR CURTAIN

Clay Fogleman, 30, Saved From Chair at Last Moment

EXECUTION HALTED

Governor Decides to Hear From Widow of Slain Man

Raleigh, N.C., July 14—(AP)— Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus today had granted C. Fogleman, 30-year old Rockingham County man convicted of murder, a sudden reprieve a few minutes after Fogleman's head had been shaved and the electric chair at State's prison made ready for the execution.

Reversing an announcement made but a short time before that he would not interfere with the execution Ehringhaus said he would postpone it until he could hear from the widow of the slain man and the trial judge and solicitor.

Mrs. W. J. Carter, the widow, saw the Governor Thursday and repeated her trial testimony of seeing Fogleman fire shots attracted her to the station where her husband lay dead, "I will go to my death smiling, for I was the man," she told the Governor.

Fogleman had written a farewell letter to his mother before he learned of the reprieve. In it he told her "it looks like I am going to be killed for someone else's crime".

EMPIRE TRADE TIES TIGHTEN

No Undermining of Work of Economic Parley Attempted

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer).

London, July 14 (CP Cable) — Events are moving towards closer links of Empire trade. Alongside the work of the World Economic Conference the Dominions and the United Kingdom have from the outset been negotiating and planning.

There is no thought of anything in the nature of undermining the work of the conference. The international field but it is felt the presence of so many Empire representatives in London offers an opportunity for discussing the further Empire discussions, which were commenced when the Ottawa agreements were concluded.

The efforts have been particularly directed to understanding the three objectives first, coordination of production and marketing; secondly cooperation in banking with eventual Empire currency stabilization, and lastly a freer movement of capital within the British Commonwealth.

As the first session of the World Economic Conference in the forthnight's interval is left, for the Dominion representatives to be meeting London then. The time is therefore sufficient to do more than lay the general groundwork of further discussions in the future.

But the way is being prepared Despite the coming adjournment the United Kingdom and the Dominions alike are hopeful of effective accomplishment. To that end they are making every effort. Should the conference fail to realize the hopes of the early optimists, however; as far as the Dominions are concerned there will be an additional impetus to move for Empire trade.

Wiley Post's Solo Flight Around Globe is Held up by the Weather

New York, July 14—(AP)—Wiley Post was again forced by the weather today to postpone the start of his solo flight around the world.

The weather map he was clearing the reading at 8 a.m. E.S.T. would permit a noon takeoff. Shortly after nine a.m. horrors, announced from the weather bureau that conditions were still unfavorable. "Maybe tomorrow," he said.

"Drunken Driver Should Go to Jail," Says Price Cops no Fine-Producers

Attorney General Further Governments Campaign For Safety

APPEAL TO DRIVERS

Municipal Police Can Do Much in Preventing Infractions

Toronto, July 14 (CP)—An appeal to Motorists to drive carefully on the highways, a warning to police not to become "fine producers" and the claim of no quarter for the drunken driver, was issued today by Attorney-General W. H. Price in furthering the Ontario Government's campaign for safety on the highways.

"Police must not taper themselves down to fine-makers for a municipality or province," declared Col. Price. "Fines have their place in punishment. I am thinking, however, that more time spent in the open on prevention would be more helpful."

Dealing with the drunken driver said his menace on the highways, Col. Price stated, there should be no quarter for the drunken driver. He should go to jail.

The Attorney-General asked that the police throughout the province accept their responsibility and exercise it to the full.

64,000 CIGARETTES STOLEN FROM STORAGE

Burglars Ransack Warehouse of Guelph Company

Guelph, Ont., July 14—(CP)— Burglars who broke into the warehouse of Hicks-Crossan Company sometime last night escaped with close to 64,000 cigarettes.

Although a final check-up has not yet been made, police stated that hundreds of packages of the most popular brands of cigarettes in lots of 10, 20, and 25 were removed from the building through the back door which had been forced open.

BACON PRICES IN BRITAIN EASE OFF

Chief Slump in Secondary Grade of Meats

Ottawa, July 14 (CP)—Bacon prices eased off on the United Kingdom market this week, the Department of Agriculture reports. The slump was noticeable particularly in Canadian bacon on sale on sold from 68 to 62 shillings. Swedish, from 62 to 60 shillings. Dutch, 56 to 54 shillings, and Baltic 53 to 52 shillings.

Hams eased off from 82 to 82 shillings and Danish 79 to 76 shillings. Canadian hams were slightly lower, ranging from 78 to 82 shillings.

RETURNS AFTER 74 YEARS, SEES CHANGE

Things Not Quite Same As They Were Back in 1860

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 14 (CP) —Things will look different around this side of the Falls to A. C. Anderson returning for his home town of Waterford, Ont., for the first time in 74 years.

Incidentally, two sisters will accompany him. One, Mrs. Cook, who placed his age at 90 on the Border register, lives in the states even not revealed, but they're older than Charlie who has lived all his years to Houghton, Mich., to bring them to the Border.

BAND CONCERT ON COURT HOUSE LAWN

The first of a number of free band concerts by the Belleville City-born Band will take place tonight on the Court House Lawn. The band for the past week have been practicing faithfully for this event; and a musical treat is in store for those who will attend. The bandsmen take particular pride in their organization and have progressed under the direction of Reg Hinchey, their bandmaster. With the support it is given by the residents, the band no doubt will go on to greater heights. A varied programme will be given by the band including popular and classical airs, with a number of famous band marches incorporated in the programme. The object of the concert is a delightful spot to spend a summer's evening and everyone in the city is invited without fail to any kind. The concert will open at eight o'clock.

ROOF OF OPERA HOUSE NOW OFF

The entire roof of the old Grifin Opera House building has been removed by the workmen who started to demolish the building late last week. The inside pillars and other supports were all removed earlier this week and nothing but the bare outside walls now stand to remind the older citizens of the glories of the old "Opry House."

QUIET IN POLICE AND FIRE CIRCLES

Activities were rather quiet in the police and fire departments during the past twenty-four hours. No fires were reported while the police department also reported a quiet day's activity.

ACCIDENTS NOT AS HEAVY AS LAST YEAR

Despite the increased amount of tourists to travel the highways of late the accidents reported on the main highways have been less this year than in shy year past, according to the traffic officers on duty. Not one major accident has happened on Highway No. 2 in the district for the last few months. The increased amount of tourist travel did not raise the accident list as has been the case in past years.

PICTURES OF LANDING DELIVERED QUICKLY

Perilous Journey From Cartwright to New York

New York, July 14 (AP)—Bearing the first pictures of the Italian trans-Atlantic armada's arrival at Cartwright, Labrador, Robert Fogg, noted Arctic pilot, set his plane down at Curtiss Wright airport last night after a perilous 18 hour dash through the north. Waiting despatch riders rushed the negatives to the offices of the Associated Press and Paramount News, where they were swiftly developed and within four hours prints were being distributed throughout the country.

Taxiing during the 1,500 mile flight from Labrador, third to be formed the plane down in isolated harbors. One stretch of 100 miles was flown at an altitude of only 50 feet above the St. Lawrence River.

Fogg was accompanied by Doug Hutt, Paramount News cameraman, who made the pictures.

AUTO PLUNGES DOWN 12 FEET

Driver Unhurt, Says She Feared Collision With Trailer

When the car which she was driving crashed through a guard rail just north of Latta on Highway 37 early yesterday morning, Mrs. Alice Thompson narrowly escaped death when the car rolled down a 12 foot embankment, turned completely over and came to rest on its side.

It is alleged by the police, who investigated, that Mrs. Thompson was forced to the right side of the road when meeting an approaching transport truck and in swaying trailer, caused her to collide with the guard rail.

Mrs. Thompson was proceeding northward at the time and as she is a southbound transport was existing or a tractor, a semi-trailer, and a trailer, the trailer portion of which, appeared to be swaying from side to side. Mrs. Thompson pulled to her right to avoid a collision, the right fender striking a guard rail post and tearing the rail from the cable and diving down the 12-foot embankment.

The automobile was badly damaged but fortunately Mrs. Thompson escaped without injury.

OBITUARY

LATE W. G. GERMAN

Friends and neighbors in numbers gathered Thursday afternoon at the late residence of William G. German, Brighton Road, to pay tender their last tribute of respect to his memory. The Rev. Gerald Graham conducted the services there, and at the place of interment in the Christ Church cemetery, Mohawk Reserve.

The pallbearers were Messrs. W. Redner, F. Parrott, S. Munnings, E. Bennett, P. McDonnell and J. Bunnett.

LATE MRS. A. F. ROBISON

The death of Anna Falconer Robison, wife of Mr. Herbert E. Robison, K.C., of Carman, occurred with shocking suddenness in Winnipeg, shortly after one o'clock July 5, while she was making a short visit at the home of her son, Ivan. A hemorrhage of the brain, which suddenly burst after she had had dinner was the cause of her death. She had been enjoying good health of late months, after being in somewhat poor health for a time, and her passing was wholly unexpected. Her daughter Carman and daughter were stricken with sorrow upon hearing the word of her sudden passing. Mrs. Robison was related to the city but when he arrived in Winnipeg had been dead for some time. The body was returned to Carman by Doyles and arrangements for the funeral made for Friday afternoon, with service at Wesley United Church local Rev. followed by interment in Carman cemetery.

Mrs. Robison was born at Belleville, Ont., the daughter of James and Izabella Campbell Falconer, her parents being Highland Scotch. She was married at Belleville July 11, 1900, to Herbert E. Robison, and came to Carman a month later to establish a home with him. Their residence has been here and in the same place, since that time. Three sons survive, along with their fatherto mourn her passing. They are Ivan C., of Winnipeg; Barry of Pratt, Kansas, and Wilfrid, of Winnipeg. Neither brothers nor sisters survive her.

Mrs. Asher, Miss Helen Blair of Belleville, had been visiting her relatives and left her Mrs. Robison had gone to Winnipeg Tuesday for a short visit. Miss Blair returned to Carman with Mr. Robison yesterday evening.

Deep sympathy for the sorrowing husband and family is felt by the people of the community.

MISS KATE E. WHITEHOUSE

Following a lengthy illness, Miss Kate Elizabeth Whitehouse passed away Thursday afternoon at the residence of her sister, Mrs. J. M. Chisholm at Roslin. The deceased was the daughter of the late William and Ann Whitehouse and was a native of England. She had resided in Tyendinaga township for 32 years, and had lived in Belleville some years previous to that. Miss Whitehouse was a member of the Roslin United Church and esteemed by all who enjoyed her friendship. The sister with whom she made her home is the only immediate relative surviving.

STARLINGS TRY TO EAT UP EXCESS WHEAT

Leave Orchards When Grain Market Prices Advance

Brantford, Ont., July 14 (CP) — Starlings have left the orchards of fruit farmers in this district, but not to any orchards of said farmers to drive them away.

It seemed, one farmer said, the day that wheat went up in price. The day the price rose from 69 to 89 cents a bushel the birds went off their glut of cherries and apples and began eating grain.

The Gospel has one standard of values, the very opposite, and we must choose between them. —Dean Inge.

Down Leagues of Land, Sea Sweeps Armada of Air to Receive Welcome

Italians Land at Shediac Without Mishap From Cartwright

NO PLANS STATED

General Balbo And Men Greeted in Mother-Tongue

(By Charles Bruce, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Shediac, N.B., July 14 (CP) — At nine o'clock, Atlantic Standard time this morning General Italo Balbo was still at his hotel here studying weather reports along the route over which he hopes to lead the Italian armada of 24 seaplanes to Montreal. His aviators were standing by at the waterfront.

Shediac, N.B., July 14—Down the leagues of land and sea from Cartwright a new Armada swept Thursday.

Mounting and ocean which hold the nations apart were ignored again as General Italo Balbo and his 100 men swept into Shediac Bay out of Cartwright, Labrador, on their journey from Italy to Chicago.

Cheers went up from the pier-head as the 24 flying boats appeared in close formation between Point du Chene and Shediac Island. Then it ripple the fact that the Italia base here had announced the expedition would not leave Cartwright until tomorrow, between 2,000 and 10,000 people crowded this little New Brunswick town to watch the great silver boats roar in to a landing. At 2.34 p.m. E.S.T., the planes were sighted, and six minutes later the first triad, with the lead plane marking "Balbo," roared low over the bay and glided to the surface.

At 3 p.m., E.S.T., the last of the crusaders had come down and the 24 machines glistened in the brilliant sunlight as they lay at their moorings across the roadstead in a half mile column between Point du Chene and West Shediac.

Thus the 900-mile trip from Cartwright, from the takeoff of General Balbo's plane at 8.30 a.m. until the final landing of the last triad, Captain Ricchi, Lieutenant-Colonel Longo and Captain Cantinelli, took six hours and 40 minutes. The average time, however, excluding takeoff and landing, was considerably less than that.

Crowd Shouts "Viva."

"Viva" shouted the crowd, as General Balbo, General Aldo Pellegrini and Lieutenant-Colonel Longo came ashore in a launch from the Canadian destroyer, Saguenay. "The flight took five hours and 40 minutes," said General Balbo speaking through Italian Consul-General Loiodice, Montreal. He was evidently discounting the time spent between the first and last takeoff and eyes. Telegrams flowed in from all parts of the continent and Shediac was placarded with "Ben Venuti" and "Ben Venue."

Take-off Uncertain

It was still uncertain last night when the squadron would take off for Montreal and by what route they would fly. It was generally understood they would take off in the morning and travel to Montreal by the Maine route, over Megantic. But no one was taking anything for granted.

"It was a very good trip indeed," the General said as he came ashore. "We had a bit of fog, but not too much. Both take-off and landing were accomplished without a hitch," he said, as he lit a cigarette and adjusted his garters. His pleasant brown eyes twinkled in his bearded face. Grey-haired General Aldo Pellegrini, who with Lieutenant-Colonel Longo came ashore with the leader, leaned against a piling and said nothing.

After the reception last night General Balbo went into conference and ordered his men to rest. A dinner given by the mayor and town council for visiting notables was not attended by the fliers, but was a big affair nevertheless.

First to greet the General was his nephew, Dr. Lino Balbo. "Ah my uncle—Mussolini—has made of me blessed his kinsman on both cheeks. Among the thousands of welcomers visitors for the arrival was Mrs. W. J. Herridge, wife of the Canadian Minister to Washington and sister of Premier R. B. Bennett. Mrs. Herridge motored here from St. Andrew's, N.B.

16 BUSINESS HOUSES DESTROYED BY FIRE

Cumberland B.C., July 14 (P)—Residents of this coal mining town of 3,500 population rested today after a six-hour fight against a fire which started in the King George Hotel and wiped out the greater part of the business section before it was brought under control last night. Damage was estimated at $150,000.

Sixteen business houses, including two more hotels, the government liquor store and the Royal Bank of Canada building and eight residences were destroyed by the flames, and communication with the outside but off as telephone and telegraph poles went down.

JURIST'S WIDOW PASSES, AGED 70

Mrs. W. A. Logie Dies Less Than Two Months After Husband

TORONTO, July 14.— Less than two months after the death of her husband, Hon. Mr. Justice W. A. Logie, C.B., member of the Supreme Court of Ontario, his widow, formerly Miss Mary Hamilton Wylie died Thursday night at the family residence at 279 Walmer Road. She was 70 years of age.

Mrs. Logie had a serious illness last Fall and recovered, but her illness set in again following her husband's death. She was born at Aylmonte, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hamilton Wylie. She was a member of the I.O.D.E. and took a keen interest in the work of that organization.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Edmund M. Morris of Owen Sound, and Mrs. Reward Brian of Montreal; a son, John C. Logie of Toronto; three sisters, Mrs. Orr Bennett, St. Catharines; Miss Jessie Wylie, Toronto, and Miss Elizabeth Wylie, Kingston; and a brother, Alex Wylie.

RIVER LAUNCH IS CAPSIZED

70 Drowned as Launch Due to Overcrowding Turns Over

Yaroslaval, U.S.S.R., July 14 — (AP)—Seventy persons drowned when an excursion river launch capsized taking a group of locomotive shop workers and their families on an excursion on the Volga River on July 9, capsized three miles from here, it was revealed today.

The little craft had a capacity of 125 passengers but twice that number were jammed into it. The others were saved.

The public prosecutor is taking steps to punish those responsible for the overcrowding.

Yaroslavl, a city located on the Volga, is 173 miles northeast of Moscow.

FOUND ZOO IN PLACE OF BOOZE JOINT

Chicago, July 14—(AP)—Detectives Paul Mancka and Thomas Barrowman went to the home of Charles Curtis, a negro, looking for guns, but the weapons weren't half of what they found. They reported they had discovered in Curtis' place:

One bear, chained to a wall.

One box, filled with 30 snakes, all alive.

One skeleton, made of clay.

Curtis said he used his "zoo" in a sidewalk entertainment.

INVESTIGATE THREE NOTES SENT BY MAIL.

State Attorney Declares Misuse of Mails in Sending

Legend Laden Catskill Mountains Scene of Search

By Robert J. Cavagnaro .
(Copyright by the Associated Press)

Albany, N.Y., July 14—A new club of the federal government was swung today against the kidnappers of John K. (Butch) O'Connell, Jr.

The office of the United States Attorney and the northern district of New York State said today that he had ordered an investigation of the three notes sent through the mails by the 24 year old soldier's adherents to his uncle, Bd. and Dan O'Connell, Democratic czars of Albany.

United States Attorney Oliver T. Burden revealed minute of the mails by the youth's brothers and sister brought to his attention and that he had ordered Joseph Engle, the Albany District Postal Inspector, to make a thorough investigation.

One of the first steps in the inquiry, he said, would be to obtain the letters, which are in the possession of the O'Connells. The first was a registered envelope bearing a $250,000 and the others asked the political bosses to name two sets of ransom, $50,000 and $100,000 for the return of the hostage.

"I feel it my duty to investigate the letters," Burden said, adding that up to now he had hesitated to enter the case but the presence of his department might tend to have grander importance, which are being conducted privately by the O'Connells.

The legend-laden Catskill Mountains, where Rip Van Winkle took his long sleep, still held the attention of the New York State police, and interest in that area was heightened by the reported appearance there early today of the missing man's father.

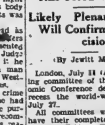
The elder O'Connell was said to have stopped for a short time at one of the hotels in the village of Catskill, used by the slain "Legs" Diamond as the out-of-the-way headquarters for his racketeering activities in New York City.

STATEMENT IS GIVEN COURT

Banker Admits Killing But Denies Revenge Motive

MEXICO CITY, July 14.—(CP)—A Mexican Court today had before it a 10,000 word statement of defence presented by C. F. Whaley, 35-year-old Britisher charged with the murder of David Burton Ernesto, general manager of the Bank of Montreal in Mexico, who hails from Lunenburg, N.S.

Whaley, charged with slaying the Canadian banker on Tuesday night by firing five bullets into his head, as he conferred with assistants was arraigned Saturday.



The accused did not plead as Mexican legal procedure differs from that in Canada. He presented his lengthy statement to Judge Ernesto Medina, who will rule as to whether he must be held for trial.

In his statement Whaley declared he had arrived in Mexico City, a day previous, and that Ernesto had secured an agency to sell Britishmade goods and went to his office out to be cleaned, had purchased several acid and had secured a cheap room at a lodging house, all of which he contended showed, that he had not returned with the sole purpose of killing Ernesto in revenge for loss of his position.

"Jams and Jellies CAN BE MADE PERFECT Only With Certo"

says Mrs. John Sherman, well-known Latta, Ont., Jam and Jelly Champion

"In using Certo I feel safe in saying that jams and jellies cannot be made perfect without it."

"CERTO saves time, fuel and ingredients," adds Mrs. Sherman, "as there is so little boiling required.

"During the past 7 years I have never showed Certo-made jams and jellies at Fall Fairs without winning a prize. Last year I took first prize on my jellies at every place I showed them. They were all made with Certo.

"Altogether, I think so much of Certo that I have been the means of several people starting to use it," says Mrs. Sherman.

Surely these are convincing reasons why you, yourself, should profit from the use of Certo in all jam and jelly making. Simply follow exactly the recipes found in the booklet under the label on every Certo bottle. Today, order Certo from your grocer. Results will delight you—as they did Mrs. Sherman.

Ford

Check over the list of features of the New Ford V-8 and you will see why it is the greatest value in the history of the automobile. That isn't a matter of opinion. It's something you can prove definitely and conclusively by examining the car and taking it out on the road for a demonstration. It has many features usually found only in cars selling at $1500 to $2000.

EIGHT-CYLINDER SMOOTHNESS—The New Ford V-8 is the only low-priced car with a V-type eight-cylinder engine. (75 horsepower. 80 miles an hour). Outside of Ford, the V-type engine is used only in the most expensive cars.

ALUMINUM CYLINDER HEAD—An example of the quality built into the car. A factor in its remarkable speed, power, acceleration, smoothness and economy. No other low-price car has it. Costs no more. Gives you better results.

LARGEST LOW-PRICE CAR—No other low-price car is so roomy and comfortable as the Ford V-8. It has a 112-inch wheelbase and one to eight more inches of interior room.

BEAUTIFUL LINES—The New Ford is the most attractive car on the road today—a regardless of price. It is a style leader for 1933.

SAFETY GLASS—Used for windshields of all Ford cars. Only low-priced car with safety glass throughout in all de luxe closed body types without extra cost.

RIDING COMFORT—The self-adjusting, double-acting shock absorbers on the New Ford are the type usually used only on high-priced cars. They cost us more. No increased cost to you.

THREE-QUARTER FLOATING AXLE—Usually found only in cars selling from $2000 up. Straddle-mounted driving pinion is another quality feature.

TORQUE-TUBE AND RADIUS-ROD DRIVE—Again the Ford gives value far above the price. Only other cars with torque-tube and radius-rod drive sell from $1500 up.

MORE BRAKING AREA—The Ford has nearly 50% more braking surface than the average for cars of similar weight and size. One square inch of braking surface to every 14½ pounds of car weight.

See the New Ford V-8 at the showrooms of the nearest dealer and arrange for a demonstration. Check up on price—on what you get for what you pay. Also ride in the New Ford Four—another great value at a still lower price. Its improved 50-horsepower motor is completely cushioned in rubber, for quiet and smoothness.

Recess of World Wide Parley Called for July 27 by Steering Committee

Does Not Mean That Conference Will Not Meet Again

REPORTS WANTED

Likely Plenary Session Will Confirm The Decision

(By Jewitt Mackenzie)

London, July 14 (CP) —The steering committee of the World Economic Conference decided today to recess the world-wide parley on July 27.

All committees were notified to have their complete reports ready by next Friday. The full bureau meeting will be conducted the following Saturday and the final plenary session will be held the 27th.

It is understood great care will be taken to avoid a note of finality in the recess date. This attitude would permit continuation of the parley at a later date, which was for the duration of the parley and which many nations desire not to terminate.

The plenary session will have to confirm the steering committee's decision to close out the deliberations but leaders consider this a mere formality.

INSPECTS PLANE

St. John's, Nfld., July 11 (CP)— Col. Charles A. Lindbergh left at 8.40 Newfoundland Summer Time, this morning for Bay Bulls to inspect his monoplane. He said he and Mrs. Lindbergh planned to take off about ten o'clock for Cartwright, Labrador. They arrived on Wednesday from Halifax, alighting on Bay Bulls big pond.

RATHER TALK TO A DUMMY THAN TO WIFE

Chicago, July 14—(AP)— Mrs. Sally Levy, blues singer, named Adonnay as correspondent in her divorce suit, against Herbert Levy, a ventriloquist.

She told a court Herbert ignored her, but delighted in spending evenings with the dummy on his knee, making conversation the while.

The court gave her a decree.

Point Marion, Pa., July 14—(AP) Beer drinkers are taking advantage of a local price "war" which has brought the cost of "suds" from 15 cents a bottle down to three for a quarter.

6 ARE SAVED BY AEROPLANE

Fisher Island, N.Y., July 14 — (AP)—The rescue of Colonel M. Robert, Guggenheim and five companions by United States Army officers after they jumped from a blazing cabin cruiser into Block Island Sound was disclosed today.

An army plane, sighting the flaming boat swiftly yesterday afternoon dropped a life-preserver and wireless a nearby army boat, which picked up the three men and three ladies, Colonel Guggenheim, who cannot swim, had to cling to a lifesaving feeder purchased a few hours before the fire.

With Colonel Guggenheim, a son of the late Daniel Guggenheim and a brother of Harry Guggenheim, former ambassador to Cuba, were his wife, their son, Robert, Jr., 34; Miss Helen Allen of Garden City, L. I., and Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Thomas of Babylon, L.I.

The party left Babylon Yacht Club on Tuesday aboard Colonel Guggenheim's boat, the Pioneer IV, for a cruise to Montauk Point, L.I.

Lunch was being cooked in the cabin when a heavy sea pulled the kerosene stove, from its moorings and hulled it against the wall. Flames spread through the cabin immediately.

Italian Armada Unable to Visit Toronto on Trip

Shediac, N.B., July 14—Through an interpreter General Ital Balbo's last night registered genuine delight with the invitation from Mayor Stewart to visit Toronto but explained that in the Italian army as in other armies one does not follow one's own inclination, and so he would be unable to accept.

He explained that elaborate preparations are necessary for the landing at his fleet of 24 machines which represent something more than two million dollars in cost. The thousands who saw Balbo's birds sail in from the northeast could, without previous experience confirm the general's remarks as to the elaborate organization necessary. The wide bay, many times as big as Toronto harbor, seemed small as the monster monoplanes soared around and landed in prize. More than an hour passed from the time the first three machines glided to the water until the last one alighted. A considerable fleet of small vessels was in waiting to carry the personnel ashore and to carry gasoline and oil to the flying machines.

Pilot Pat Reid, Imperial Oil's flier, presented Mayor Stewart's letter to General Balbo and regretted the word that conditions would not permit a visit to the Queen City.

"Thank His Worship for me. I express most cordial appreciation of the thoughtfulness of the citizens of Toronto in inviting us," said the General.

At least, that is how the interpreter conveyed it to Pat Reid.

Unpaid Alimony May Keep Man in Jail for an Indefinite Period

Trenton, N. J., July 14—(AP) — Nine years ago Charles C. Cumbler was ordered to pay $5 weekly alimony to his wife for the support of their two children.

In the nine years his unpaid total mounted to $2,345. So the Chancery Court ordered him arrested and kept in jail "until he meets the terms of the original order."

Cubberley, pleading he has been out of work, went to jail yesterday wondering if he'd ever get out.

THOSE PAPERS

Some scholars in Toronto will not have the pleasure and thrill of reading examination results this summer, for they know they are out, because of their having come into illegal possession of examination papers.

While scholars and their parents may feel that the tests are not quite accurate in bringing out their possession of knowledge and their ability to use what they have learned, yet there is no justification for coming into illegal possession. In the final analysis as the examination system is the most suitable devised, it is difficult to see how a scholar can prove to himself that he is justified in making his way into another form or class until he has shown his capabilities. Of course many will agree that some tests might keep a good student out and that even one does not always have to be a good student to pass an examination, yet until some better way is devised, there is nothing to do but to meet the test honestly. All but a few students do so. Those are fortunate who have not come in the path of the tempter who offered them foreknowledge of what the tests would contain.

The case deserves to be investigated to the bottom; the examination system might be again studied and probed while the blame should be lifted from innocent scholars.

TO THE COUNTRY

That glorious feeling which boys and girls, let out of school, feel, in this season must resemble the mood of those adults who have turned their way back from the crowded cities into the verdant farmlands of the continent. The sense of freedom to work hard and to manage to make a living in a way somewhat similar to that in which nature first planned that man should live—upon the produce of the soil, without much of the addition of city frills, is one of the rewards of those who go back to nature. Yet of course, nature is so myriad-minded that even artificial life can be lived by her, but the preference is always for the life of the free as the farmer knows it.

It has taken a very deep depression to drive many back to the land in the United States. With their experience of the new freedom it is doubtful if many of the newcomers to the farm will seek to return to the city life. It is to be noted, however, that so great a trend to the country has drawbacks which are causing concern to those who know agricultural conditions. Man's first calling on the land is that of practicability, that a farmer must know farm life. Many of the newcomers to the land are in a tragic state because they do not realize the menace they are facing, lacking intimate knowledge as they do.

If city workers are finding a small plot of land desirable, city industries are finding their way out into the smaller centres. New York has 14.4 per cent. vacant apartments, half of them in crowded Manhattan, erstwhile occupants now living on the land mainly.

London Advertiser quotes the New York Nation which points out that the average U. S. city by its skyscrapers which shut off light has defeated itself. Crowded city streets have driven people away who will not come back. The Nation speaks of the suburb as not solving the city problem, saying that the real hope is in the country districts where homes and places of work will be together.

Those who at times are inclined to lament the fact that cities of Belleville's size are not much larger should not forget this. Few men in this city work so far from home that they cannot reach home at the noon hour. Within a short distance one can strike the countryside. A city like Belleville has the advantages of the rural parts in large measure with many of those peculiar advantages which go to large cities.

There is a disease among humans known as elephantiasis which is a term which might be applied to the ideas of certain persons who would make every small village a huge city and wipe out all the delightful small centres which possess an individuality, to gain only size and to lose intimacies, friendships, and many other of the elements which are only seen in life in the small centres or country.

The city-dweller who is escaping from the large city and the small boy who enjoys the life and freedom in a small centre particularly in the vacation time are types of many others who like the smaller cities and the countryside where the greatest part of the people dwells.

NOTHING DOING

(London's "Joy Week," proposed for this June, has been postponed to 1934, owing to the discovery that there is "no time to co-ordinate" all the various and joyous items that the promoters have in mind).

My word, that casts a damper
O'er all the coming June!
That curbs the Season's scamper,
That busts the promised boom!
Though green may grow the rashes,
The mournful hour is ripe
For sackcloth and for ashes,
And gestures of that type.

Where now the boasted glory,
The pleasures of the Town?
Fled like an idle story,
Quite emptied of renown.
Gone, unlabelled, spifflicated,
The fun they held in store,
For Joy Week is postdated
To 1934.

As sober as a Quaker
The lights of London gleam;
Long faces in Long Acre
Denote the new regime;
The Mayfair note is muted;
Englecomet inanes stand,
And joy is now non-suited
Throughout the stranded Strand.

For mirth now holds no fixture
Unless one adds thereto
An organized admixture
Of contented Nero.
O let the truth be stated—
That joy, whate'er its fount,
Which ain't co-ordinated
Has simply ceased to count!

BEST MONEY ON EARTH is Arthur Brisbane's accolade to the Yankee dollar. Says he all you have to do is put the United States of America on the money and you have the greatest that has been. Brisbane is the chief editorial writer for the Hearst newspapers with an income of approximately one hundred thousand dollars per year, and a belief that the United States can live unto itself without truck or trade with any other nation, and live better, that any attention paid by Uncle Sam to other nations should be regarded in the nature of a favor to distant poor relations, cousins, second and third cousins, as it were, who should ever pray for the continued prosperity and pre-eminence of their dear and distant Uncle Sam, latest and greatest among the nations of the world. All of which reminds us of the trite saying that you may slice the sausage as thin as you like but it is still baloney.

LENS OF EYE GROWS OPAQUE IN CATARACTS

Trouble Not Confined to Elderly People as Class

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D., Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright 1933 King Features Syndicate, Inc.).

The term cataract is, of course, associated with progressive blindness. What really occurs is that the lens of the eye, or enveloping capsule, gradually becomes more opaque, with the result that rays of light do not penetrate well and consequently outside objects are not reflected upon the retina, or the back of the eye. In cataract, the retina is not destroyed nor is the optic nerve, by means of which vision, as such, is recognized in the brain proper.

The lens is suspended crosswise inside the eyeball. In an adult the diameter of the lens is one-fourth of an inch from front to back and about one-thing of an inch from side to side. This intricate body is really made up of fibres, which might well be likened to the layers of an onion.

In normal health the lens transmits light freely. When a cataract exists a small portion of the lens becomes less transparent. The cataract should exist at the outer rim of the lens, let us say, vision may not be seriously interfered with. Should it, on the contrary, have existed directly in the centre of the lens and behind the pupil, then vision is sure to be diminished.

Strange as it would seem, when the opacity is in the centre of the lens the individual sees best in a dim light because, in such a light, the pupil is dilated and therefore light rays manage to get around and past the central opacity.

It often happens that a degree of myopia—that is, nearsightedness—is to be found in a developing cataract. This is caused by the fact that the lens substance has become denser and has changed the refractive powers of the lens.

When such a condition exists the patient often finds that his eyesight is improving because he can see without his customary spectacles. The phenomenon is often misleading, for unless treated, however, is not actually improved. A physical handicap is only temporarily produced an increasing magnifying power of the lenses for near objects.

A cataract may develop, as it usually does, without any delightful being any other eye trouble. This is the case with old age. A cataract may result, however, from some other eye disorder, such as glaucoma.

Cataracts are by no means confined to old people. Occasionally a baby is born with such a condition. Under thirty-five years of age cataracts are due to some local agency and white in-color; at a later age the cataract may also be hard and of a yellowish tint.

Inflammation does not accompany cataract formation. The only suspicious sign is that sometimes a person who are in the habit of visiting the oculist at regular intervals, of course, will be told the opacity of the lens exists. The condition can often be corrected with proper glasses, at least for a time.

When the only way of surgical removal of a cataract rises, the patient should, to be sure, consult a medical specialist in this field.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Health Hint

In hot weather the saying of cold drinks is desirable. They make one feel cooler. Nevertheless, no more than one entire cold drink should be indulged in each day, although a salad—property chilled is admissable. We all know parents should be cut considerably, as these produce heat in the body whereas the system already has difficulty trying to cool itself off.

Letters to The Editor

Belleville, Ont., July 13, 1933

Editor Ontario Intelligencer,

Dear Sir—Information regarding those unemployed who are property owners and have the misfortune of paying another year's taxes is very timely and should be published.

With reference to the letter of Fair Play in your Monday's issue concerning Waterworks I do not see as yet that it has elicited a reply from the proper authority. You will commang gratitude of many, I believe, if you will endeavour to secure the rights of ordinary folk further in this respect. This department is also to be referred to to cut to sell water service at a loss. By reducing the number of use to those not possessing meters possibly just as much water will be used and with a greater pressure of consumption.

Aside from the efficient provision made by city officials in the added protection afforded by our new filtration plant and better supply for fire hasard purposes, the writer has come to whether the hitherto hours of lawn service will be available to those who have paid for the same on such a basis or whether unnecessary inconvenience may be encountered. When it is noticed that the fountains in Outdy Park is not necessarily at night and that employees of the Parks Department carry away their implements late during the afternoon for flowers in this park, the wonder is that a current ruling put through by some of our aldermen is not simply an affirmation of officialdom and people are to be punished for not conforming. Our neighboring burg of Kingston resale as it may be but modern in many respects. Nevertheless, during this year allows its swellering citizens to use water inside or outside at any of the day. Our city is supposed to be catering to the good will of everyone. Even some of find accustomed privileges hampered from using water for any purpose if from tap or hose outside or from pail or watering-can filled inside. Surely it would be wise to let it warm up by standing awhile exposed to the sun, air and rain. The man who labors early and late these days can not be blamed if a bit of water is given in the morning or much before eight in the evening, and the garden, prefer not to drench vegetables in the sun late in the morning and consider the earlier in the day the better, for good results. These persons, it is hoped enough to possess a time piece that is in working order or can hear our fire alarm which strikes spying informers or investigators may get the number should be by previous or delatory in the use of city water for irrietating purposes. Even some of our firemen prefer for drinking the nectar of certain springs.

It might be good business to inform the rank and file of our populace as to how they can be served by better supply and at what cost so that unpleasant annoyances may

Defeat Senators 5-3 But Make No Gain in Race

GOOD HUNTER

Frits Ostermueller of Red-wings is Leading Pitcher

(By Herbert W. Barker Associated Press Sports Writer)

Rochester Red Wings may not win the International League flag but Frits Ostermueller has developed into the loop's most effective pitcher.

The Red Wing southpaw limited Baltimore's sluggers to a pair of stinbles yesterday as Rochester won 7-0, and hung up his 15th victory against only five defeats. Only Johnny Pomonok of Montreal among first string pitchers has a better average and Pomorok's record of 8-1 scarcely stands comparison with Ostermueller's.

Rochester failed to gain in the pennant race however as Newark and Toronto both won. Newark got seven hit pitching from Pete Jablonowski and beat the Montreal Royals 7-3. The league leading Bears pounded Art Smith for 10 hits in the first seven innings and collected four more off Pomonok in the last two frames.

Toronto remained three games out of the lead and a half-game ahead of Rochester by whipping Albany 5-3. Ralph Birkofer, Toronto southpaw, limited the Senators to seven hits and fanned as many. The Leafs put the game away with a three-run rally in the sixth.

Buffalo spotted Jersey City four runs in the first inning of a night game and then belabored Joe Cascarella and Mike Meola for 15 hits which, with 11 passes, gave the Bisons an easy 17-6 victory.

MEN'S SENIOR SOFT BALL

When-Charlie Tebworth's College Hill Cubs downed the Grills' Garage nine by the score of 6 to 2 at the College Field last night while the S.E.A.C. were taking the league leading Delaney Bearcats into camp by the score of 9 to 7 the race in the local Men's Senior softball loop tightened up considerably.

Up at the College Field "Red" Miller was in rare form and buried the Cubs to victory allowing the "Mechanics" but three safe blows, while his mates were collecting six hits for six runs. Roy Cowan let the Cub hitters with two safe blows, while Miller hit for an equal number of safeties. Barriage and Halsey were the best of victory for the losers. Snappy fielding by both teams featured.

The line-ups:

Grills' Garage— Halsey; Multhews; E. Clarke; Reid; W. Clarke; Boyle; Lakefield Relief; Bailey.

College Hill—Lapenette; F. Murray; J. Miller; Coeert; R. Miller; J. Murray; Halsey; Robinson and McDonald.

At Cricket Field

Down at the Cricket Field the S.E.A.C. turned the tables on the League leading Delaney Bearcats, when "Cap" Smith was in rare form, pitching superb ball in the pinches, when the "South-enders" trimmed the "Cats" by the score of 9 to 7. Despite the fact that the league leaders out-hit the South End, Smith kept their hits well scattered and romped home to a win.

After waking three batters in succession in the third innings John Bawden, who started on the hilltop for the Cats was derricked in favour of Geo. Jenkinson, who finished the game and was credited with the loss.

The line-ups:

Delaneys—St. Denis; Geulin; C. Tuttle; Hen. Green; H. Bawden; R. Tuttle; Carter; J. Bawden; Hanna; Jenkinson and Goyer.

THE BIG SIX

By The Canadian Press

Ike Boone, of Toronto, was the only member of the big six who did not lose ground. Boone got two hits in three times up and boosted his mark two points to .391, moving into a shead of Julius Solters, who lost a point through going hitless in his pinch-hitting role.

Mrs. Randall and Deseronto Rink Again Capture Trophy at Ladies Bowling Tourney

Defeats Mrs. Graham of Peterboro in The Playoff

FINE WEATHER

Bowlers Extended Welcome And Entertained at Club House

Deseronto rink, with Peterboro as runners-up, again captured the coveted cup in the Ladies' Lawn Bowling tournament held at the Bowling Green yesterday, when fourteen rinks engaged in a lively contest. This was the first ladies' tournament on the new green and local bowlers were warmly congratulated by the visitors on the excellent surroundings and the splendid condition of the greens.

The visitors were greeted by Miss Anna Hurley, president of the club, who introduced Mayor George O. Tice. Mayor Tice, in an interesting manner extended a civic welcome to the women bowlers while Mr. Charles Symons, chairman of the Parks Board, in a short address of welcome, said that the Board wished to co-operate with the Bowling Club to make the greens the finest in Ontario.

Weather Ideal

The day was ideal for playing and the contest was keen. At five o'clock afternoon tea was served in the club house and the charming rooms and wide, verandah bright with a profusion of garden flowers looked their finest. The tea tables were centred with dainty baskets of pale pink and blue blossoms and these were presented by Mrs. M. P. Duff, Mrs. R. Chadwick, Mrs. J. W. Pearce and Mrs. C. Brown. Junior members of the club assisted in serving.

The results of day's play follows:

Deseronto—Mrs. Cait, Mrs. Rennie, Miss Cronk, Mrs. Randall, skip. 10-10-10-20.

Peterboro—Mrs. Breland, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Graham, skip. 10-10-10-20.

Belleville—Mrs. Hyde, Mrs. Gardner, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Walker skip. 10-10-8-28.

Norwood—Mrs. Sutton, Mrs. Kemp, Mrs. Carlton, Mrs. Cunliff, skip. 8-10-10-28.

Tweed—Mrs. Hurdle, Mrs. McGuire, Mrs. Spackman, Mrs. Wagar, skip. 10-10-7-27.

Brighton—Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Drewery, Mrs. Riggar, Mrs. Mayhew, skip. 9-10-8-27.

Stirling—Mrs. Meiklejohn, Mrs. Rowland, Mrs. Munro, Mrs. Whitty, skip. 10-9-7-36.

Belleville—Mrs. C. Symons, Mrs. Robson, Mrs. Wm. Symons, Mrs. Holgate, skip. 9-8-10-25.

Kingston—Mrs. Heagle, Mrs. Mooney, Mrs. Milah, Mrs. Orser, skip. 10-8-10-20.

Deseronto—Mrs. McKinnon, Mrs. Redner, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Weybourne, skip. 8-10-10-26.

Stirling—Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Hutton, Mrs. Potts, skip. 10-9-8-16.

Belleville—Mrs. Forster, Mrs. O'Connor, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Houston, skip. 6-7-6-12.

Belleville—Mrs. McGinnis, Mrs. McCreary, Mrs. Mayhew, Miss Farley, skip. 9-1-1-2.

The Belleville Ladies' Lawn Bowling Cup, which was won last year by Deseronto, again returns to that town. Mrs. Randall's rink having defeated Mrs. Graham's Peterboro rink in the play-off, and the handsome trophy was presented to the players by Miss Anna Hurley, with the wish that many bowlers' fingers be ready to show the trophy toward completion.

ROCHESTER of the International league bought Bob from Hollywood and the following season sold him to Detroit. As a Tiger Bob always managed to hit .300 or better.

CHICAGO became Bob's home in mid-season of 1930. Despite that Detroit must have depressed the big fellow for, for the first time in his baseball career, a member of minor, Bob Roy failed to hit .300 in 1930.

NOW FOTHERGILL has gone. A man who was a much better player than public or press had believed him to be has slipped to the minors. Now, Bob Fothergill, before the ballyhoo that many other players have robbed of stardom.

AMERICAN LEAGUE enthusiasts may get the big laugh from National league partisans when they assert their circuit is stronger because the Americans won the recent All-Star Century of Progress game in Chicago, but American leaguers can, without fear of ridicule, assert that their loop has uncovered more fine looking young prospects this year than has the older wheel.

In fact, the American league has quite an edge on the production of budding stars this season.

The junior circuit has a great pitching prospect among its first year men in Frank Pytlak. The youngster has passed the first stiring receiver of the club and is holding his own like a veteran.

In the infield the American league is rich in fine-looking youths. Hank Greenberg, Detroit, and Jimmy Bucknell, Cleveland, have been receiving praise for their fine work.

Other outstanding freshmen infielders include Bill Werber, Boston; Frank Higgins, Philadelphia; Marvin Owen, Detroit, and Joe Kuhel, Cleveland and Bob Boken, Washington.

In the outfield the American league can boast of Fred (Dixie) Walker, New York; Milt Galatzer, Cleveland and Bob Johnson, Philadelphia.

AGAINST THIS army the National league can offer an array of "maybe" stars but not as many.

In the infield the National league has a promising trio in Blondy Ryan, New York; Joe Moerry, Boston; Jimmy Jordan, Brooklyn and Billy Grabiana, Boston.

Joe Medwick of St. Louis is one of the best of the new outfielders in the big leagues. Chick Outen of Brooklyn also shows considerable promise.

Bud Tinning, Chicago and Gabby Schumacher, are youthful pitchers who may make National league followers feel this is not their first year in the senior circuit.

BETWEEN INNINGS

BOB FOTHERGILL recently released by the Boston Red Sox was one of baseball's biggest—but not lovable—players. Throughout his major league career, with Detroit and the Sox, Bob seemed to grow more and more dumb.

FOTHERGILL was one of those rare souls who really love the game they play. He was a ball hawk—he liked to bat. He was happiest when on the field and as a batsman he batted high in the .300's.

HARRY HEILMANN, former Detroit star, was once quoted as saying: "I bet Bob Fothergill can play ball for nothing. Just give him a big club and let him take his turn at bat."

LIKE MOST ball men, Fothergill is of a jovial nature. He likes his laughs—and when Detroit fans, however, Bob was no laughing matter as a ball player. When he made a wrong catch he caught it in such a way he could jam that apple!

BLOOMINGTON of the Three-I league gave Fothergill his start. Then he was back in 1920, and already Rob Roy was beginning to show the world toward corpulence.

ROCHESTER of the International league bought Bob from Bloomington and the following season sold him to Detroit. As a Tiger Bob always managed to hit .300 or better.

CHICAGO became Bob's home in mid-season of 1930. Despite that Detroit must have depressed the big fellow for, for the first time in his baseball career, a member of minor, Rob Roy failed to hit .300 in 1930.

NOW FOTHERGILL has gone. A man who was a much better ball player than public or press had believed him to be has slipped to the minors. Now, Bob Fothergill, before the ballyhoo that many other players have robbed of stardom.

Johnny Vergez, Giants, hit homer in ninth to beat Cardinals 5-4.

O'Dell Hale, Indians, drove in four runs, including winning counters, against Athletics.

Phil Collins, Phillies, held Reds to two hits in 3 1-3 innings of relief pitching.

Red Kress, White Sox, rapped Washington pitching for triple, double and two singles.

Bill Jurges, Cubs, figured in three double plays, one unassisted, against Dodgers.

Fred Lindstrom and Floyd Vaughan, Pirates, made three hits each against Braves.

John Stone, Tigers, knocked in two runs with double and two singles against Red Sox.

"I could just die while playing golf," Exhibited Miss Tillie Todd.

E. V. "Gene" Elsey of the Bay of Quinte Country Club was in rare form on Wednesday when he won George Tindall's Tip Top golf trophy in the special tournament against "old man par", Mr. Elsey posted out H. E. Graham, low net.

Apparently something went amiss during the boxing bouts held under the sponsorship of the C.I.C.A.C. down at Kingston, on Wednesday night. Three local leather pushers, Art Angell, Tom Bowler and Bob Cook were entered. Cook dropped a close decision to Whitehead of Kingston, while the two opponents of Messrs Angell and Bowler failed to put in an appearance. The boats in general were somewhat of a flop but, sensing an opportunity Angell and Bowler stepped in the ring and saved the night by hitting three hard rounds in the main bout of the evening. The three local athletes fought under the South End A. C. colors.

While on the subject of boxing Chris Abbott, manager of the Capital Theatre, informs us that he is planning the Carnera-Sharkey fight pictures the latter part of next week. Mr. Abbott's information received these pictures by far surpass any other fight pictures ever taken. The time of showing pictures at night was used ruthlessly.

Coach "Knotty" Lee has started to weld the axe out in Peterboro, it seems. Recently we reviewed "Spook" Scriver, pitcher and Ed. Starr, catcher. The Petes are endeavouring to get the Peter to Kingston to return to the game. "Heck," it seems, signed with Belleville after in the season but has not turned out any of the Peter to date. If what we hear is true it was quite apparent that he was not filling the engagement, due not want the veteran hurler around as they "borrowed" him from Belleville as part of the season bet, apparently forgot to return Mr. Starr to them. With a relief hurler like Heckman sitting on the bench Pete fans would always have an ace in the hole. Gone are the Hitchen, Brown, ell, MacDonald and young Bill Callaine to labour on the hilltop.

All of which reminds us that the Nationals are but five games behind the games this season. If ever the opportunity afforded itself, is the time to break in some more junior players for the senior club. It takes some little time to whip a bunch of green kids into a winning combination and if Wm. Lee, Meaghan, Lynch, Mills and company expect to launch the attack in 1934 season they need at least two additional infielders.

Of the local junior players there's Hean, Sero, Covert, Barriage and perhaps one or two others, who should see action with the Nats. Let who holds down the hot corner for the Victoria, might be given a try while Rundle of the Brighton intermediates is also anxious to play a game with the Nationals. Rundle reverts sometimes to some of the heroisms position and is just about the best second baseman in the City of Quinte.

The Nationals do not need to leave these kids in a full game if they are found wanting but, they should be given an opportunity to advance if they show the goods. The Junior player, we would like to see with the Nationals is Bell Grocer of Wellington. Manager Bell tried to procure his services earlier in the season but was refused. Maybe next season will see Greer a regular with the locals. At any rate now is the time to reconstruct for next season, not after the fling.

R. A. Fanning's Belleville Victorine, who now share the top rung of the local intermediate loop with Picton, have but five more games to play, three of them being on the home diamond. Picton comes here twice, Gibbards once, while the Ytes play a game in Brighton and one in Napanee. Chauncy Gower's pets must win three of the five games to finish in the money while they can sweep themselves of first place by winning four games.

Frank Orr tells us that the harness races staged at Kingston on Wednesday were about the best of the season. His mare Catherine Grattan, after a rather poor start in the first heat, went around the field to win race in three straight heats. J. M. Roddy's crack pacer, Tall Oats, went out to break the track record in a special race. Tall Oats did that little thing but was unable to share the honors with Bertha Paich who both horses turned the track in 2.27.

LIONEL BLAKER BIG STICKER

The first release of the batting averages of the Belleville Victorias show that Lionel Blaker, their initial sacker, is leading the regulars in batting with an average of .333 with Scott, their catcher next in line with .328 while pitchers Carl Clancy and Earl Bawden, who have appeared in but one game have hit well.

The Vics have had 242 runs at bat, who have registered 68 hits between them giving them a team average of .280.

The individual averages are:

	G.	A.B.	H.	P.C.
Bawden	1	3	2	.666

SAGA OF THE SEA SHOWS BRITISH NAVY ON AND UNDER SEA

Of outstanding interest should be the R.I.P. motion picture "Trapped in a Submarine," which will be seen at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow (Saturday) for three days. According to advance reports this production is a thrilling epic of heroism on the part of the crew of a wrecked submarine, encumber in their vessel adjusting 120 feet below the surface.

The story is a straightforward relation of the sinking of the submarine, following a collision with a tramp steamer, the escape of a portion of the crew; the many hours of agonizing waiting by eight men who have sealed themselves in a water-tight compartment; the fearful apprehensions of the wives, mothers and fathers of the entombed men; the cool bravery of these courageous men of the undersea, who realize that their chances for rescue are not even one in a hundred; and finally, their escape through the coming tower and ascent to the surface and safety aided by their Davis gears, the famous "safety lung."

This picture is of unusual appeal because of the many submarine disasters which have occurred during the past few years, and it should offer excellent entertainment to motion picture lovers of every age. The authenticity of the entire picture has been assured because every scene on the submarine was filmed under the supervision of the British Admiralty and is an accurate reconstruction of the "Poseidon" disaster which occurred June 9, 1931, off the coast of China. Several officers and men of that ill-fated submarine appear in various roles in "Trapped in a Submarine."

Circus Queen Murder

The most modern developments in detective technique add a freshness to the realism of the "The Circus Queen Murder," which opens tomorrow at the Capitol Theatre, and in which Columbia again presents Adolphe Menjou in the role of Thatcher Colt, detective extraordinary. The story is an adaptation by Jo Swerling of the mystery novel by Anthony Abbot, the second of his stories to be brought to the screen. "The Night Club Lady" which also featured Menjou in the leading role, was the first.

No strong-arm, third-degree methods are employed by Menjou in determining the murder of the circus queen, stricken before the very eyes of thousands of horrified spectators as she goes through her act high up near the roof of the big top." Murder, committed "as advertised and on schedule." A sure enough puzzler for your sourceful Colt.

This dual feature bill will be shown on a complete performance daily at 2.45, 7.15 and 9.00 tomorrow until Tuesday.

Dinnerware Gift as usual Monday and Tuesday.

Letter From India

The following is a continuation of a recent letter from Mrs. B. M. Miller, who is visiting far east, in India.

Bachelor Officers Give Dance

"The bachelor officers gave a dinner next day, in their new Royal Signal Mess, for the officers' wives and friends. As all knew each other well it was one of the jolliest affairs I've been to. A a all were going on to a fancy dress ball, at the Club later, everyone came to the dinner in fancy dress, including even myself truly, who represented the typical American tourist, with white helmet, white parasol, both lined with green, long white veil on top, camera hung from the shoulder, guide book and kogrette. There were several others who, like myself, did not dance, so we enjoyed watching those in costume. Some of these were very lovely others very funny. The band of the Gordon Highlanders supplied the music. About eleven o'clock the baked potato machine was wheeled into one of the halls and everyone indulged in a piping hot baked potato, smothered in butter and served in a paper napkin. Supper consisted of sausages and mash, eggs and bacon, with coffee, which was served about three a.m. I felt I'd seen all I wanted to see as the head chauffeur drive me to the bungalow about two-thirty."

Sees Mission Hospital

"I went with a friend, one afternoon to the Afghan Mission Hospital, Dr. Cox is the head of it and is one of the most remarkable men who has done wonderful work. The hospital consists of a number of [illegible] buildings in a beautiful garden, with a very large fountain. All the buildings for the patients are just one story high, and like all the Indian buildings, are made of mud. There are public wards which accommodate about a dozen patients, these buildings are divided into two-room compartments where the patient's whole family resides with him while he is in hospital. The furnishing in the wards is extremely plain, a bed with webbing instead of a mattress, no pillow and a heavy grey woollen blanket. The two-roomed compartments just the same except there is a chair, (why, I don't know) unless the nurse or doctor, when on their visits, for the natives sit only on the ground) and a mud stool, for the use of the family. One of the hospital buildings is very fine, looks like a mosque, and has a large dome on top. The main floor is used as offices and a general reception room for the second floor as offices for the heads and lady superintendent and the one white nurse—all the other nurses are native born, either graduated or nurses in training. Before leaving we had tea with Dr. Cox's daughter his wife being in England.

Meets Friend of Lady Twining

"I met a Lady Bannerman, the other day, whose husband was a late Resident, a position just under the Vice-roy. She was an intimate friend of Lady Twining.

"We have spent different places, in and around Peshawer, held a sports' day, or at least, an afternoon. We went to nearly every one of them. At Landikotal, the largest fort on the Kyber, we were invited for lunch, sports and afternoon tea. The sports were held on a very large plateau, surrounded completely by hills, in very far away. Perhaps I have told you before that out here, your hosts think me far more comfortable than you are at home when watching sports of any kind. Instead of sitting on a hard bench or chair, one has a very comfortable wicker arm chair, well upholstered.

"Each regiment vied with the others in giving a unique show. All were good, but the afternoon at Peshawar was, I think, most interesting. It was given by the cavalry, machine guns, tanks and planes. The first did some marvellous fancy riding, tent pegging and hurdle jumping; the machine guns drawn by mules, were interesting. A temporary fort had been erected at one end of a large field. In it, was supposed to be an Indian Prince, whom the tanks were to rescue. They tried to break down the walls while the planes overhead dropped cans of petrol and other bombs as near to the tanks as they could get. It was very exciting. Whatever was in the walls when they went off with a bang every time. At last the tanks won, the fort had completely developed and the maiden presumably rescued. We then trooped back to our original seats and a very elaborate tea was served. Of course, the sporting to these places were well guarded by armed Cassadors. I'll tell you how these sentries are chosen by the Government? They are the handsomest "bad men" from the different tribes who are found to be under a bit of a cloud. Their name is a terror to keep the road safe. As a rule these tribes are at logger-heads with each other so they are glad to arrest those of a different tribe.

Garden Party at Government House

"About the last of April we were at a garden party at Government House given by the Acting-Governor and Mrs. Cunningham, during the return of the real Governor and Mrs. Griffith, who have been away on a year's leave. Seven hundred invitations were issued and I doubt if there were any refused. The grounds are so large that there was no fear of any one. The Governor and Mrs. Cunningham received in the sunken garden. First to be received were about three hundred or more natives, who were of high rank, many of them members of the Indian Government. There were only about half a dozen native women, with them and some of these were heavily veiled. After shaking hands with the Governor and Mrs. Cunningham these all passed on. Then came the turn of the whites and we, too, moved on to tea. A large chaniah, (marquee) had been put up in case of rain. An equally large one had been erected on the plateau, the one for drinks of all sorts. Two bands of the Cameron Highlanders played all afternoon, the regimental band in the lower garden and the Kiltie pipes and drums on the upper level. The bands were so far apart that one didn't interfere with the other. The Kilties did some wonderful stunts with their drums while marching up and down the plateau. We spent some time walking through beautiful rose and other gardens. At seven o'clock, the two bands joined in playing "God Save the King." About five-thirty it looked very much like rain, but fortunately it held off until just as we entered the bungalow. I forgot to tell about a dozen Japanese, the Governor's personal guests, looked after the numerous Kimonos who served tea. These Japanese wear a scarlet uniform with any quantity of gold lace, white puggri with Government [illegible] They also carry a small revolver in a leather holster on their left hip. This is only on the north-west frontier that loaded revolvers are carried.

Mohammedans At Prayer

"While we were all tea, several Mohammedans, headed by a man all in white, whom we took to be the "Maulvi" or Bishop, spread rugs on the ground and six of them started to pray. First they stood with bowed heads and hands devoutedly folded, then bowed from their waists finally prostrating themselves altogether touching the rug several times and their foreheads. This they repeated three times. Another six took their places the Maulvi being with them each time. Honestly, they are far more devout than we are. No matter where they are, when the hour for prayer comes, they stop and pray silently. Most people arrange for their servants to be off duty at that time if at all possible. The natives are far more sincere than the majority of Christians."

THE MUSICAL COMEDY "COLLEGE HUMOR" NEXT ATTRACTION AT BELLE

One of the season's outstanding musical treats, with a background set up around college life, beautiful girls and a host of exceptional merit, is give "College Humor," coming to the Belle tomorrow (Saturday) for a two days' engagement that certain little bit of something that makes life sweeter and the old world a better place to live in after all.

Jack Oakie, Bing Crosby, Richard Arlen, Mary Carlisle, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Coach Howard Jones of the University of Southern California, Lona Andre and Mary Kornman have the featured roles in this college story. The Ox-Road Co-eds, a group of choristes that dazzle the eyes with beauty, prance in and out of the action.

"College Humor" is the average youth's dream of what college ought to be—a place where cheering and football are the two principal courses of study, where the professors seem to their classes, where all the male students are handsome and all the females beautiful.

He also has to do with the adventures of Crosby, a young instructor; of Arlen, a football star, who's not at all sure he's willing to die for good old whoosis; of Oakie, a big fraternity man who modestly admits he's a fine athlete and an equally fine student, and of the Misses Carlisle, Andre and Kornman, sorority girls who learn in college that the woman pays and pays and pays.

"Learn to Croon," "Moonstruck" and "The Old Ox-Road" are three of the musical numbers from "College Humor" which have already proved smash hits over the radio.

An amusing comedy entitled "Fish Hookey," featuring Our Gang, a comedy cartoon with Betty Boop and a Pitspatrick Travel Talk called "Daughters of the Sea" are also arranged for presentation with "College Humor."

CUTTING BEGUN

Cutting of rye has begun in Prince Edward County, several fields of stooked grain being noted in several districts. Rye cutting will soon be in full swing. Fall grains are much more promising than the spring grains.

Their Lives Despaired of, These Twins are Now the Picture of Health!

"I AM the proud mother of two babies (twin girls)", writes Mrs. J. C. Abbott, 7766 Bloomfield Ave., Montreal, Que. "They were seven months old on November 24th. It is really a miracle that both of these are living now." Baby Florence, weighed 3 lbs. 1¾ ounces at birth. The doctor said there was no hope for her.

"After she had lived for a month and actually lost weight, there seemed less chance than ever of saving her. At this period I started her on Eagle Brand Milk and now she is the picture of health. Florence showed few signs of life at all for the first month—she was too weak even to cry, but since she has been on Eagle Brand, it is a different story.

"At 6 months, both Florence and Jacqueline had two teeth and they were plump and firm with strong bones. At 7 months, Florence weighed 14 lbs. 14 oz. and Jacqueline 13 lbs. 5 oz."

If you cannot nurse your baby, try Eagle Brand Milk. You will find the directions on every label. We would like to send you the new 84 page edition of "Baby's Welfare." It gives directions for feeding and children's care and has pictures and life stories of many Eagle Brand babies.

TRY THIS MODERN SAFE WAY:

1. Sprinkle the tiny Lux diamonds into lukewarm water . . . you get instant suds. The improved Lux is 3 times finer—flashes twice as fast. But of course the new, pure Lux, just quicker, easier to use than ever.

2. Pop undies into your Lux suds—rinse—they're fresh and sweet again, free from perspiration odour. Avoid take-away habits and ordinary failures containing harmful alkali. You're safe with Lux!

Warm weather warning!

Active Summer days threaten daintiness—LUX undies daily!

WARM weather increases the risk of offending! Underthings absorb perspiration, and the odour is noticed so quickly. Don't take chances — LUX underthings after each wearing. Takes 4 minutes or less! Lux takes away perspiration odour . . . saves colours.

THAT DEPRESSED FEELING IS LARGELY LIVER

Wake up your Liver Bile
—Without Calomel

You are "feeling punk" simply because your liver isn't pouring its daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels. Digestion and elimination are both hampered, and your entire system is being poisoned.

When your bowels are free and active you feel like a million. Harmless, gentle, thorough, yet positive in action. Healthy candy or chewing gum or roughage which will not help you. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Purely vegetable. Mild but sure. Refuse substitutes. 25c, at all druggists.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

Traders Inclined to Turn to Specialties For Action—Market Cools Down And Nervous Price Movements Gives List Spotty Appearance—Silver Shares Occupy Attention Although Back From Level of Yesterday—Heavy Profit Taking in Toronto Drives Prices Down—Distillery Shares Dominate Trading.

WALL STREET

New York, July 14. (AP) — The stock market cooled down a bit today, following its hectic performance of yesterday, and irregular and somewhat nervous price movements gave the list a spotty appearance.

Traders were inclined to turn their attention to specialties, when most of the leaders failed to exhibit the expected enthusiasm, and some of these were run up around 7 points. Wheat, corn and rye were almost as indifferent as in yesterday's proceedings. Cotton, however, got back some of the previous day's losses. Bar silver surged 6 of a cent an ounce to 39¼ cents. The United States dollar rallied nearly 2 cents against sterling and improved substantially in terms of foreign gold exchanges. Bonds were steady to firm.

Canadian stocks and bonds were inclined to follow a narrow range in limited trading. Canadian Government issues were slightly off, but Canadian Pacific issues firmed modestly. Mackintyre Porcupine were up about ½ point. Those of Canadian Pacific and International Nickel eased. The Canadian dollar sagged 1-16 of a cent at 85¼.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, July 14.—(CP)—The Standard Mining Exchange assumed a more steady tone today and closed firm in all sections after the silver group had endured a considerable volume of profit-taking. Trade continued in the gold shares also, while the Base Metal group was more active and showed a better sprinkling of gains at the close.

Eldrado Mining Corporation, Nipissing and Mining Corporation led the list with gains of all showing 5 cents or better. Beaver Consolidated was up 4.35 after the selling during the morning at 3.05. The close at 4.89 gave a net loss of 5 points.

In the senior golds, Dome dropped 25, Lake Shore 25, Wright Hargreaves 5, Hollinger 15, and Pioneer 50 cents.

Nickel failed to regain its early strength, closing at 30.69 showing a drop of 90 cents. Noranda also receded 50 points. Other issues in most of the group were steady to strong.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, July 14.—(CP)—Beverage shares barely held their ground today under an avalanche of profit-taking that swept over the market and the close was moderately down from the final figures of Thursday. Trading shifted somewhat to the food and oil stocks today and leading in these groups gave a demonstration of firmness.

Walkers, Canada Industrial Alcohol, and Distillery Seagrams closed a half point to 4 under yesterday's figures, the Walker issue leading the main drop. Brewers and distillers all no time put up by Thursday's level of 2.65 and the close at 2.25 was off 40 to 50 cents. The beer stocks revealed more firmness than the rest. But closing unchanged at 14 1-2, Dominion slipped 37 ¼ and Canada Malting down a point at 33.

Base metals were irregular and the food group, climbing to 19 2-4 but this price was shaded a little before the close. Dominion Stores gained 3-4 to 20, Loblaw B 1-2, and Canada Vinegars ½ fractional.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, July 14 (AP) — The stock market followed a ragged course today. The list apparently found insufficient inspiration in occasional buying flurries of various specialties, and declines in the late dealings ranged from fractions to more than two points. "Wet" issues met late profit taking, concessions of one to more than two points occurred in Union Pacific, New York Central, National Distillers, United States Industrial Alcohol, United States Steel, American Telephone and American Can. Allied Chemical, International Nickel and United States Smelting shaded earlier, by points of around seven points. Transfers approximated 1,300,000 shares.

NOTED KIWANIAN IS DEAD AT BRANTFORD

Brantford, Ont., July 14 (CP) — Frank Strobridge, 37, member of the Strobridge Motor Sales Company, died in hospital here today following an operation for appendicitis. Strobridge, who was rushed to the hospital last Friday, was an active member of the Kiwanis Club and the Golf and Country Club of Brantford and Simcoe.

If some folks tried to swallow their pride they'd choke to death.

You can't tell by their haircuts which is the head of the family.

ROYAL ENTHUSIAST AT WIMBLEDON

Queen Mary, wearing colored glasses to protect her eyes from the glaring sunlight, is an interested spectator at Wimbledon during the match between Mrs. Fearnley Whittingstall and Mlle. Payot on the centre court. Beside her is ex-King Alfonso of Spain. King George and Queen Mary were accompanied by the King of Iraq when they visited Wimbledon on the last day of the meet, and saw Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody, American star, defend her crown as tennis Queen of the world, in a rousing match with Dorothy Round, English star.

HOW MRS. POST WILL FOLLOW MATE

This is how Mrs. Mae Laise Post, wife of Wiley Post, vetern flier, plans to keep track of her husband on his projected solo flight around the world. She is shown in their New York apartment. Post, who holds the world record for circling the globe by plane is awaiting favorable weather to hop off from New York.

RISE IN MILK PRICES SEEN

One Cent Increase Per Quart at Sarnia Forecast

SARNIA, Ont., July 14.—(CP)—Increase of one cent per quart in the price of milk in the near future is anticipated here in view of dried out pastures and consequent cost of feeding cows.

Creamery managers and dairymen indicated they may pay 20 cents more per 100 pounds for cream which would necessitate a boost in retail prices. Present prices to producers are from $1.10 to $1.55 per 100 pounds.

LOANINGDALE WINS STAKES

Firdausi, Favorite, is Two Lengths in Rear

SANDOWN, England, July 14.—(AP)—Colonel G. Wilson's Loaningdale, a bay colt by Polorado out of Perfection today won the Jubilee Stakes, valued at 11,000 pounds with the Duke of Devonshire watching the mile and a quarter race from the Royal Box.

Aga Khan's Firdausi was second two lengths behind the winner and Colonel G. Loder's Foxbridge third, three lengths farther back. A field of ten ran.

Loaningdale was held as 9 to 2, Firdausi 11 to 10, and Foxbridge 10-1.

The hand that rocks the roadster is the hand that wrecks the world.

FIFTH ROBBERY IN LONDON PERPETRATED

Shop Broken Into and Twenty Dollars Stolen

London, Ont., July 14 (CP) —The fifth robbery to be perpetrated here within the last three days was reported when police were notified that the Colliers Brothers' grocery store had been broken into during the night and did stolen.

Burglars gained entrance to the store by smashing in a plate glass door panels which led police to believe that the same thieves were responsible for other recent thefts where similar procedure has been followed.

Residents in the upper apartment of the building were not awakened by the shop-breakers' activities.

"Bugs" Baer Predicted Short Career for Ruth, But He Fooled 'Em

By DAMON RUNYON
Special to the Ontario Intelligencer

New York, July 14—Mr. Arthur "Bugs" Baer, the great American satirist was listening to the radio report of the baseball doings in Chicago. He cleared his throat with a large "A-hem" when the cocoa artist-dictator mentioned that Mr. George Herman Ruth, called Babe, had struck a home run.

"You know," said Mr. Arthur "Bugs" Baer, reminiscently, "I was in Washington, D.C., working as a sports cartoonist and writer when I first took serious notice of this fellow Ruth. It must have been along about 1914 right after he went from Baltimore to the Boston Red Sox.

"I was accounted a fine judge of athletics in those days. In fact, that was my long suit. Everybody respected my judgment. As soon as I slapped eyes on Ruth, I saw that he wouldn't last long. I think I said so in a very few words in the paper. He was built all wrong for an athlete. He had a large, bottle-shaped body, high up on skinny legs, and little bitsy spikes that looked as if a mosquito could snap 'em in two.

"I freely predicted that this fellow would go all to pieces in short order," continued Mr. Arthur "Bugs" Baer, "I pointed out how his body was bound to keep getting stouter, until finally he would be absolutely top-heavy. His thin legs and tiny ankles couldn't possibly support the weight of his body. His torso was out of plumb. His feet didn't track. There wasn't anything right about his construction. I thought it a pity because he seemed to me to have great promise as a ball player.

"When I first saw him," Mr. Arthur "Bugs" Baer went on, "he was a left-handed pitcher, occasionally serving as a first baseman, and when he lasted out the season of 1914, and also the season of 1915 in 1916 inclusive, in spite of his weird build, I could see that he was pretty lucky to be worked rather sparingly, thus saving his physique from wear and tear.

"Then, in 1919, Boston put him to work as a regular outfielder, and I knew that this would be his finish. He wasn't built to stand the daily laboring of a baseball regular. His legs were bound to go. Further, although he was hitting pretty good that year, I allowed everybody how it was impossible for him to keep up his lick.

"He did everything wrong," said Mr. Baer. "He held his bat at the far end of the handle, and took the widest kind of swings at the ball. I knew that if he didn't break one of his little ankles making a sudden turn while running the bases, or fracture his skull while sliding that the smart pitchers would soon curve him out of the league, unless he changed his batting stance.

"I felt that the Boston club was very wise in selling him to the Yankees in 1920 before he collapsed or the curve-ballers carved him cock-eyed. Yes, I felt that was the smartest deal any club ever made.

"Well," Mr. Baer went on, "although I expected every day to be his last in baseball, the fellow kept on going. He didn't collapse and the curve ballers couldn't curve 'em wide enough for him. The fast-ballers couldn't make 'em fast enough to get past him. He violated all the laws of baseball nature.

"But I could see that there was one thing bound to catch up with him, even if he dodged, collapsing, and continued to hit. That one thing was his utter disregard of the fundamental principles of athletic life. I mean early to bed and early to rise. I mean—but that breath figure shall never touch mine. I mean wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging. I mean the light that lies in winkin's eyes. Smoking coffin nails, burning double-headed candles. Et cetera, et cetera, et cetera.

"As soon as I learned that Ruth stayed up all night, shot craps, played the horses, slot machines and pinochle, took a dram before he felt like it and sometimes when he didn't, inhaled cigarcols and big segers, and ran around and around and around, and around, I said to myself: "Oh, ho," I said. "It won't be long now, old boy."

"I said that along about nineteen twenty something when I met Ruth and Ping Bodie in the Friars one day at noon, and they confided to me that they were not going to go to the ball yard unless their manager, Miller Huggins, sent them a personal invitation. They were finally persuaded to go up to the orchard, anyway, and Ruth won one game of a double header with home runs and Ping won the other with a homer."

"But I felt that this was the beginning of the end," said Mr. Baer. "I know a man could not lead a careless life and continue long in sport, especially when nature had conspired against him in the beginning by giving him a build like Ruth's.

"Of course, he has changed his manner of living entirely in the past few years, but he still has that tricky build, and as a judge of athletics, I am forced to the conclusion that he cannot possibly last long. I still think it is a great pity, because he seems to have natural hitting ability.

"I will say one thing for Ruth, however," said Mr. Baer. "When I first saw him in 1914, I gave him two years at the outside. He has fooled me by nigh on to seventeen years. Well, we can't always be right."

Canadian Bantam Knocks Out O'Neil in 8th. Round

London, July 14 (C.P. Cable) — Bobby Leithman of Montreal, Canadian bantamweight champion, knocked out Jimmy O'Neil of Scotland in the eighth round of a scheduled 15-round bout at the Liverpool stadium last night.

O'Neil tried to outbox his opponent but his defence was unable to withstand the Canadian's double fisted barrage to the body. The British fighter took two nine-counts in the eighth round before a perfect right to the jaw finished the bout.

SET FIRE TO PUMPS

Simcoe, Ont. July 14—(CP)—Rubbing a gasoline genre with a match in his hand almost proved disastrous for Leslie Crosbie and set afire two gasoline pumps and a motor car. Firemen subdued the blaze before any serious damage occurred.

The service station was scorched by the flames but none was hurt.

Moira Lodge Represented at Great Masonic Ceremony

Four Moira Lodges of World Will Take Part in Dedication

KING OFFICIATES

Her Majesty Queen Mary To Open Great Mason Home in London

Two unique occurrences in British Masonry will take place in England this month when the four Moira Masonic Lodges in the British Empire will meet collectively in London. The four lodges consist of three in England and the other in Belleville, Ontario. Moira Lodge No. 11, A.F.&A.M., G.R.C., of Belleville, will be represented by W. S. Herrington, K.C., Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario in the Grand Lodge of Canada. This event in Masonic history will be held on July 26th.

Five days previous Moira Lodge No. 92, of London, England, will participate in a new memorial hospital and Masonic Temple. His Majesty King George will officiate at the dedication of the Masonic Temple while Her Majesty, Queen Mary will officially open the new memorial hospital.

The many months past Very Worshipful Grand Deputy, secretary of Moira Lodge of Belleville, has been in communication with the other three Moira lodges in England in regard to this joint gathering of the four Moira lodges. Moira Lodge, No. 92 of London, is the most exclusive Masonic lodge in the world having but 50 members, no more and no less, with the exception of two honorary members, who are Col. W. N. Ponton, K.C. P.G.M., of the Grand Lodge in Canada, and W. S. Herrington, the present Grand Master, who was recently made an honorary member while Col. Ponton has enjoyed that honor said privilege since six years ago when he represented the local Moira lodge at a joint meeting of the British Moira Lodges in England.

At that time Col. Ponton presented Moira Lodge, No. 92 of London, with a gavel which was made of wood cut on the estate of the Earl of Moira, after which the lodge is named. When the second meeting takes place Grand Master Herrington, representing Moira Lodge of Belleville, will present Moira Lodge of London with a beautiful map of Hastings County showing all the points of interest named after the Earl of Moira and the Marquis of Hastings. Such places as Moira, Huntington, Hungerford, Hastings and other places of residence were all named in honor of this distinguished family.

The new Masonic Temple being built by Moira Lodge, No. 92, of London, is reputed to have cost $30,000,000 while the initial cost of the hospital has not been arrived at yet. Entire British Masonry is responsible for this philanthropic undertaking.

Letters of congratulation have been sent by the Belleville Moira Lodge, all of which will be read at the joint meeting.

HOBO KING STILL IN MARKET FOR QUEEN

Must Have $10,000 and be Good Looking

Brantford, Ont., July 14 (CP)—Charles Pearce, claimant to the much disputed crown of hobo kingdom in Canada is in Brantford again. And he is still looking for a prospective wife.

The 56-year-old transient majesty said that he had not yet found an ideal "queen". The ideal incidentally, must have $10,000.

"I suppose she must be young and beautiful too" the hobo highness was asked.

"About 26 but I'm not as particular about that as I am about the $10,000. I almost found one in Winnipeg; but she was $1,000 short so wouldn't have her." was the reply.

Klondike Kate of Yukon Fame Returns to North to Marry Miner

Seattle, July 14 (AP)—Klondike Kate, the dance hall girl who dazzled the Yukon in the gold rush days is going back to the Far North—as a bride.

She smiled wistfully here early today as she spoke of the romance that was born in Dawson on Christmas eve, in 1900—the woman, who is known throughout the west as the girl who gave Alexander Pantages his start in the theatrical world.

"Today, at Vancouver, B.C., she said, "I am going to marry John Madson, an Alaskan miner. We're going back to Alaska to live."

On her way to Vancouver, Klondike Kate (Mrs. Kate Rockwell of Bend, Ore.) passed through here and left on a night boat for the British Columbia city.

The couple planned for the ceremony to be performed by the Rev. George Pringle, in Vancouver, a "big friend" in the Yukon country many years ago and a friend of Kate's at that time.

He made any inquiry about her, and later met her, but kept his secret to himself.

Two years later, the popular Kate left Alaska with Pantages. Madson remained in the Yukon country, still digging for gold and recalling the Yukon he saw that Christmas eve. The years passed.

Four years ago, he saw in a newspaper that she had attended the Seattle stampede of the Sourdoughs and later that she was called as a witness in the Pantages' trial in California.

He wrote her and the correspondence was welcomed by both.

Meanwhile, however, Klondike Kate had married another man and went to the central Oregon country in 1914. There on a homestead claim, she picked rocks from the desert.

"I want to take care of you, and make you happy," he wrote.

Two weeks ago she visited him in Vancouver, after he had made a journey south from his claim on Matson Creek in the Dawson country of Alaska.

Time had silvered his sandy hair and she was no longer the slim girl he once had loved. She modestly gowned woman of 53 still remained his sweetheart.

"Now we're going back to Alaska together—back to the land of gold" she said.

TIGER Sterling North

By Russ Westover

She ... as she wouldn't dream about every lovely room of the place which would be hers—forever and ever for no given consideration whatsoever, but only if she would accept the gift from Joe Middleton.

Jerry pictured herself getting up in the morning in that modernistic bedroom panelled in prima vera and carpeted in almost black mauve room . . . She saw herself in the lovely frock of the negligee which had been in that wardrobe on the yacht and she sighed so deeply Joe put his arm around her gently and she did not take it away.

Yes, he was a tiger. But he moved on pretty padded paws and in no beautiful a jungle that Jerry sometimes could not think of him as a tiger at all but only as a very harmless and friendly pussy cat.

How he could rush a girl, Jerry wondered if there was ever another man in the world who could manipulate so many approaches, could lay within the course of a single week everything from the high-handed methods of a pirate to the almost tender scrutive wiles of a youngster in his late teens.

He didn't give her a minute in which to get her values clear. One moment it was dresses or a wrist watch, another it was a rum to make her accompany him on a yacht trip, then a wardrobe full of lovely dresses, a rough and tumble to steal a kiss, clever witty stories to make her forget herself in gales of laughter, romantic stories to touch her heart with yearning, pagan philosophy, pagan fighting with that brute in the cell to make her admiring but wholly Black, the hero so perfectly white, the girl so lovely and opportunity for the solution so simple and certain.

Jerry was not at all sure everything would come out so beautifully in the end. And what was "beautifully" anyhow?

Maybe "beautifully" was to take all the grand things Joe offered.

They had come now to a low-lying frame building set back among trees on the banks of the Des Plaine river which advertised in large letters, "Dinner and Steak Dinners."

They went in through a side entrance into a large dining room set with white tapery and gleaming silver, where a negro orchestra was playing hot, stirring rhythms.

Let me tell you the story of Minnie the Moocher.....

She was a red-hot hoochi-koochee. She was the roughest, toughest frail.

But Minnie had a heart as big as whale.

So moaned the big black orchestra leader, flexing alternate thighs in time to the rhythm and urging on his boys to even greater efforts.

"Hi de hil de hi," answered his men.

"He de hooo he ho," moaned the big black fellow.

How could you resist the pull of a song like that? Jerry's little foot A slippers just ached to be dancing, and when Joe swung her out onto the floor she knew she had never danced before with any one who wasn't an amateur.

What Joe could do to that music was simply too bad. The rhythm clicked around their heels, following their shadow like a hound dog. That mean low down rhythm.

Let me tell you the story of Minnie the Moocher....." sang Jerry in a low voice.

"You dance like an angel," Joe said. "You feel like a part of music down in my arms. I've never danced with a girl in my life who could dance like you do."

Hi de hil de hi," Jerry sang.

Jerry had no idea she was so hungry. She didn't think she could possibly eat half a chicken and all the rest, but she managed every thing nicely, including a pint of white wine that made her feel all warm inside.

They danced and danced. Jerry felt she could just go on like that forever, She didn't think about the time or about getting home.

And Joe was being so good to her. So awfully good. She told herself she had misjudged him terribly and that he was really a swell fellow and perfectly good and decent. He wasn't trying to kiss her or get fresh at all. He was just a nice fellow who was taking her out for a good time.

Then Jerry realized that perhaps she had taken a little too much wine and the fact that she had her to do was to insist on going home right away.

Joe didn't object at all. He just paid the bill, left a $5 tip and pelted her out into his big roadster.

They went streaking home through the chill moonlight night not talking at all, just sitting and thinking about the evening.

Joe didn't try to kiss her all the way home and he helped her out of his car at Blackstone avenue and didn't try to kiss her there either.

So Jerry said, "You've given me an awfully good time, Joe, and you have been awfully decent."

And Joe said, "Could I kiss you good night?"

And Jerry rather wanted him to but wouldn't let him. She ran up the stairs and slipped in quietly. The clock said 3:15.

CHAPTER II

The next day and the next brought no new word from Peter Baird, but Jerry realized that in being unreasonable to expect another message so soon. She supposed him to be on the way to the northward toward New York and told herself she must be patient.

After the exciting trip on the yacht and the happiness with Joe hone Joe hag built for her on the north above, Jerry found her life a little difficult to live.

Not that she loved Sarah or the children but she felt that as a substitute les determined to support them as best she could. Sarah needed her as firm as ever.

Jerry's little apartment seemed so drab and comfortless after the lovely home on the north shore, and the fact that Joe had not called after she saw when she went to work on the 15th made her miserable for the whole suffering world.

Why was it necessary that mothers with children, for instance, should have to scrub floors at night in the loop skyscrapers while men like Joe Middleton wallowed in luxury on their yachts? How could the wealth of the world be so unfairly divided that men should have to stand in line an hour at the Salvation Army "Y" standing waiting for discarded papers so that they could search the want ads for work?

Still there were plenty of high-powered executives who were suffering so well in this depression, Jerry remembered. Windows of the building where the Middleton Radio Corporation had offices were empty. Some one must be living on a situation like that.

And if Joe Middleton's radio business itself wasn't doing so well he certainly was living high.

In fact Jerry wondered very often how Joe managed to be so prosperous when almost every other business was struggling for mere existence.

Jerry's mind, however, was suddenly switched from the depression by a headline she saw on the newspaper she opened as she took her seat on the "L."

Jerry Anstell Missing: Police Make Search

Jerry was mildly interested to know that the police should concern themselves about one of Chicago's most notorious criminals. But she was so startled and horrified she almost cried out as she looked at the three-column cut of the gangster's face staring at her from below the headline.

Tony Anestil. That was the man Joe had taken prisoner aboard the Sea Gull. That was the man with iron Jerry had been taught in the cell and the man Joe had fought.

A thousand questions came to Jerry's mind. Why had Joe Middleton wished to keep Tony Anestil prisoner for a given time aboard his yacht? What had Joe finally done with Tony after putting him ashore at the deserted steel mill?

How could Joe possibly be so thoroughly mixed up in the Chicago rackets that he would want to fight one of the strongest gang chieftains in the city? In fact, how could Joe dare to fight so powerful a gangster as Tony Anestil?

Was it possible that the sensitive intelligent, romantic fellow who yesterday had taken her to see the house he had built for her and after ward had been such a gentleman as the roadhouse where they had eaten and danced the man who had seen home last night, was the same man who had dared to take Tony Anestil prisoner and then fight him single-handed?

Jerry read on, devouring every word of the story.

Tony Anestil, believed by some to be the successor to Capone has been made the object of a countrywide search Chicago police revealed today.

"The stocky, morose little gunman, who muscled into the west side alley racket two years ago, and who followed Nitti as executioner in the Capone mob, has been definitely missing for nearly a week.

"Scotland Yard refused to give the reason for the search, but from reliable sources it was learned that Tony was probably kidnaped from a rum-runner smuggling Canadian whisky into Chicago.

"Tony disappeared the night he was last seen by a friend, a Mr. Joe Middleton, while he was entertaining on his yacht, the Sea Gull. That was the last seen of Tony Anestil, who is known as a ruthless killer.

"Middleton, who is reputed to be a millionaire radio manufacturer, could not be reached for comment.

"Often do magicians lie in wait for the unwary, replied Tollog, sagely. Just then came the sound of men approaching through the jungle. "It is Fahd and Motlog coming back from the Shelk," said the Shelk. With astonishment, they saw Tarzan, surrounded by the guards, making his way toward the beyt. For a moment the ape-man silently scrutinized Ibn Jad and the shifty-eyed visage of Tollog.

"Once we are come to Nimmr," continued Ibn Jad, "there will be no difficulty in finding the treasure. The trouble will lie in getting out of El-Habeah with it and the woman. If she is as beautiful as the Bahar said, the city of Nimmr may prosper her even more savagely than they would like—treasure. But we shall find a way."

"We come but to trade in peace for ivory," Ibn Jad began suavely. "Thou least in thy beard," returned Tarzan quietly. "I have seen Galla slaves in the streets of Nimmr. They are not here of their own choice," said Tarzan calmly. "I have heard the name," sneered north from whence thou came." At that, Ibn Jad's eyes narrowed and he came close to the wrist-bound ape-man.

"Tarzan was the first to speak. "Who is Shelk here?" he demanded in tones of authority. "Behold him," replied Ibn Jad, "and by what name are you known?" "They call me Tarzan of the Apes, Mashna," said Tarzan calmly. "I have heard the name," sneered north from whence thou came." At that, Ibn Jad's eyes narrowed and he came close to the wrist-bound ape-man.

PRESENT PASTOR WITH FAREWELL REMEMBRANCE

4th Sidney, July 14—A large number of friends of Sidney circuit gathered at the Sharon Church on Thursday evening July 6th to say good-bye to pastor and family before leaving for their home at Harrowsmith and also to welcome Rev. and Mrs. Johnson and family.

During the evening lunch was served in the dining hall after which all wended their way to the church where Mr. C. Bowers acted as chairman. The Alkens orchestra favored them with splendid music. Mrs. M. Sine and Miss Muriel Vermilyea, gave splendid readings. After which Mr. S. Spafford read the following address and Mrs. Holmes presented the purse to Rev. and Mrs. Sexsmith.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Sexsmith and family:

We the members of Sidney charge, feel that we cannot let you depart from our midst without gathering to spend a social hour with you and in some way show our appreciation to you for your excellent work on the field during your ever readiness to visit the sick and bring comfort to the afflicted and bereaved.

We also feel that though your inspiring sermons and the helpful social touch many have been helped in the journey of life and the result has been shown by the large number added to the church roll.

You have been most agreeable and patient with your board though these very trying financial times, and we appreciate it most sincerely.

Mrs. Sexsmith, we also appreciate your help on the circuit duties coupled with the duties of the home and care of two small children, you have given of your best in your husband's work.

We hope and pray that God will long continue to give you health and strength to carry on the work you have been called to perform and that success will crown your efforts in your new field of labor at Harrowsmith and we shall also look forward to sometime in the near future when you shall visit us.

We will ever cherish in our hearts grateful remembrances of your six years spell on Sidney circuit.

Signed L. J. Ketcheson, Rec. Steward.

Mr. Sexsmith thanked the people most kindly for their kindness shown them during the past six years on Sidney circuit.

SPRINGBROOK LADIES' AID

Springbrook Ladies' Aid met July 6th at the home of Mrs. Edward Huff.

The theme for the devotional exercises conducted by the president, Mrs. A. F. Williams, was the constant mercy of God. The hymns "Sweet Hour of Prayer" and "What a Friend we Have in Jesus," and Psalm one hundred and three helped to develop the theme. The roll call, a verse from psalms forty-two to seventy-two, responded to, it was noted that there was an attendance of thirty. Three new members were added to our enrollment. Mr. and Mrs. Foley, the minister and his wife who have just come to the circuit were also present.

Suggestions for raising funds were discussed. A report of the morning session of the first conference of Women's Associations and Aid Societies of Prince Edward and Hastings counties, held June the twenty-second in the Tabernacle church, Belleville was given by Mrs. Fred Heath. A report of the afternoon session will be given by Mrs. Coulter and Mrs. Bateman. Mrs. S. Mason sang "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer." Mrs. Wm. A. Bateman played the piano accompaniment. Mrs. Geo. Thompson had selected a humorous reading "Bury Jane Rebekah" as her part in the program. Joslan, Gary Jane's husband, discovered that his wife earned an important share of their income. Mrs. Percy Beaman provided a reading "Resentment." It urged that, no matter if one would think one had a grudge against life, friends, or parents, to carry the grudge not only did not two to seventy-two, responded to, it was noted that there was an attendance of thirty. Three new members were added to our enrollment. Mr. and Mrs. Foley, the minister and his wife who have just come to the circuit were also present.

TWEED TEAM OVERWHELMS HAVELOCK NINE

Tweed Girls Defeated By Madoc by Score of 34-14

TWEED—Tweed baseball team with D. Smith pitching superbly overwhelmed Havelock in the railroad town on Monday by a score of 10-1. Smith was accorded splendid support by his teammates who made but one error. He struck out 12 Havelock batters and only sixteen men faced him in the first five innings. G. Quinn made four consecutive hits and crossed the plate four times. Martin also wielded a potent bat with four hits including a triple and a double, driving in four runs. Smith should not have much scoring on. Havelock's lone run came in the seventh inning with two men on the bases. The next batter drove a hard grounder to short which Orr was able to reach but could not hold. The next two batters brought him in. Orr and Cotton at third executed a nice double play in the fourth to cut off a promising rally. Campney and McLaughlin, looked best for Havelock.

Tweed—Cotton 3b; Orr ss; D. Casey c; Crasoe cf; Quinn lb; Marsh lf; P. Casey 2b; Cordy lf; Smith p.

Havelock—Card 8b; L. Hooper cf; McLaughlin cf; Campney ss; T. Hooper lb; H. Scramlin lf; Mackenzie rf; Kennedy c; W. Bexsmith p.

Umpires—Curry of Tweed and Campney of Havelock.

Madoc girls' softball team, administered an unmerciful trimming to Tweed girls on Monday. The score of 34-14 tells the story. Tweed was outclassed in nearly every department of the game, though Ana Thompson at short and Mabel Freeman at first showed to good advantage in the field and at bat. Home runs went made by C. Coleen (with the bases full) B. Keene, who collected two, and L. Empey for Madoc. M. Freeman and A. Thompson for Tweed. Madoc has a snappy team, L. Empey at third being an especially neat player, with a peg to first that many a man might envy.

Batteries:—Tweed—C. H. Mellis and; B. Nunan; lb; L. Empey 2b; C. Coleen cf; L. Ross 2b; H. Naylor rf; H. Ross c, D. Fox p.

Tweed—J. Sherry rf; E. Terry 2b; Robinson 2b; M. Freeman lb; F. Carleton c; A. Thompson ss; A. Gerald cf; F. Graham lf; A. McConnachie p.

Umpires—S. Rollins, Tweed and West, Madoc.

"We'll call you tonight"

Fred Adams and his wife had not been away together for years, chiefly because Mrs. Adams was always afraid to leave the family alone.

"But that excuse isn't going to work this summer," Fred decided. "You and I are going on a jaunt by ourselves for a change. You won't have anything to worry about because we can telephone home every evening."

The telephone calls meant only a few cents a day on the hotel bill, but they were worth the price of the whole holiday because they meant peace of mind. Long Distance is a ready aid — quick — clear — dependable — inexpensive.*

ROEBUCK FOR CABINET POST SAYS HEPBURN

Nominated For Candidate in Toronto-Bellwoods Riding

ATTACKS GOVT.

Advocates New Forestry Policy and an Investigation

Toronto, July 14—"If is my privileges to form an Administration, Arthur Roebuck will be one of the men whom I will invite to join the Cabinet," declared Mitchell Hepburn in the course of a speech before 600 Liberals assembled last night in the College Street Veterans' Hall, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Bellwoods constituency in the forthcoming Provincial election.

The name of Arthur Wentworth Roebuck was the only one brought before the big gathering, who apparently stood unitedly behind his candidacy. The chairman was Daniel Coffey, President of the Toronto Men's Liberal Association, and surrounding him on the platform were a group of prominent Liberals from the city ridings and many Provincial centres.

"Betrayed Public Ownership"

"The party now holding office at Queen's Park has betrayed the principle of public ownership in Hydro administration in a way that has become a public scandal," asserted Mr. Roebuck, in the course of his address; and he proceeded to indict the Henry Government in thorough fashion. "I will be one of the first duties," he continued, "to investigate these iniquities, and, to such extent as may be possible, apply corrective."

One of the night's most enthusiastic outbursts of approval from the audience greeted Mr. Roebuck's assurance that: "If there is a Liberal Prime Minister put in office at Queen's Park, we will re-establish in this country the right of free speech and free assembly. It will not be necessary to ask a policeman for permission when you purpose to make a speech. The owners of halls will not be terrorized into inaction when they get an opportunity to rent their establishments for a meeting. We will re-establish freedom of thought and action within the law—such as we have not had in many a day."

New Forestry Policy

Other points in the Roebuck speech included the demand for "a totally new forestry policy in Ontario—dedicated to the principle of public use rather than for the benefit of the timber speculators." The speaker was confident that the Mining Act in this Province is entirely out of date, and its administration is just a shame." Mr. Roebuck would "extend the provisions of the Workmen' Compensation Act, instead of, as now, restricting those benefits to mothers of at least two children"; and the speaker again brought general applause in declaring "We will do what we can to bring into force the beneficent principle of unemployment insurance."

Turning to educational affairs, Mr. Roebuck declared "Ontario has not kept her place in education, for the sufficient reason that, for the past decade we have not had a Minister of Education who would not set his examinations for the Mardi-heat in July. We should have a Minister who would not make up the waste of his 'patronage system by charging $15 per child for the writing of examinations."

In closing, Mr. Roebuck intimated: "Legitimate business has nothing to fear from the Liberal party —only monopoly need fear our approach."

RUNCIMAN REJECTION CRITICIZED BY PRESS

Says Work Program Does Not Relieve Unemployment

London, July 14—(AP)— The blunt rejection by Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, of public works programmes for alleviating unemployment aroused strong criticism today in some sections of the British press.

Mr. Runciman, on behalf of Great Britain, told the World Economic Conference yesterday that his government had found such schemes to be "most unremunerative of all efforts to reduce unemployment," adding that Britain would not initiate any such move and would not furnish a capital market for loans intended for such a purpose.

While the Conservative Daily Telegraph sounded a note of approval, the Liberal Labor organs were pointed in their condemnation of Runciman's statements.

MOIRA W.M.S.

The July meeting of Moira W.M.S. was held on Wednesday afternoon July the 5th in the church. The president opened the meeting with the Doxology followed with prayer by Mrs. Geo. Hollinger, Miss J. Henry read the Scripture lesson after which roll call was taken —The key word for the month of its hymn. All joined in singing hymn 136, then Miss Elsie Hanna read the Devotional Leaflet.

Temperance readings and a discussion followed. The readings were given by Mrs. D. Thompson, Mrs. G. Hollinger Mrs. J. Hanna, Mrs. G. Foster and Mrs. R. Morton. Mrs. Geo. Hollinger then rendered a very pleasing solo "Jesus My Savior to Bethlehem Came." Business was then discussed and it was decided to knit mittens and to give fruit for the sale. Hymn 133 was sung and the meeting was closed with prayer. Collection amounted to 73 cents.

Simple human honesty, without greedy over-reaching would lift us out of our troubles in a week.—Henry Ford.

To be agreeable or amusing is to contribute something to the pleasantness of life.—Emily Post.

A restored America would double-its contribution more to the revival of world trade than our sympathetic co-operation with other nations in the effort to standardize adversity.—Baltobridge Colby.

BELLEVILLE ONTARIO — SATURDAY, JULY 15, 1933

BALBO AND ARMADA PASS OVER AT NOON

Twenty-Four Seaplanes of Italian Air Navy in Flight Across Ontario

Armada Travels in Triads Three Minutes Apart

PROVINCE ALERT

Eastern And Central Ontario Gets View of Great Fleet

Montreal, July 15 (CP) — With General Italo Balbo in the lead, the first three planes of the Italian air cruise rose smoothly from the harbor here at 11:14 a.m. E.D.S.T., today and turned their bows towards Chicago, 750 miles away, the first leg of their flight from Italy, Augusto Rosso, Italian Ambassador to the United States, was on hand to speed them.

The remaining flying boats of the squadron of twenty-four favorite to Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition followed in flights of three, racing over the surface of the St. Lawrence in clouds of spray to take easily into the air with drumming motors.

The big twin-hulled craft left the water in groups of three and circled high over the harbor bridges to pick up formation before droning off in a westerly direction for Chicago.

At 11:23 a.m. six planes were in the air.

Fly By Triads.

Three minutes later nine planes in all were circling over the harbor before noon. By 11:33 a.m. half the fleet of 24 planes had taken the air.

The planes were daking the air smoothly, each triad three minutes after the others.

Fleet's Course

This course it would apparently take the planes near Prescott, Kingston, Belleville, Oshawa, Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Port Rowan, Bonderaa, Kingsville, Windsor, Walkerville, Grange, Elkhart, South Bend, Michigan, Diamond and Chicago.

Montreal, July 15 (CP)—General Italo Balbo announced as he went out to the plane in the harbor here at 10:18 a.m. E.D.S.T. today that he would lead his fleet of 24 Italian flying boats on a route, passing over Toronto, Buffalo and Toledo on the way to Chicago.

At 11.52, 18 planes were in the air, and at 11:18 a.m. E.D.S.T. all the planes were in the air for Chicago by Italian time by leaders that passed over Cornwall, 40 miles westward.

Prescott, Ont., July 15 (CP) — 12 planes of the Italian air armada en-route to Chicago from Montreal on the last leg of their flight from Italy passed over here 6E:13:22 p.m. E. D. S. T.

Brockville, July 15 (CP)—Five seaplanes passed over here at 12:26 E.D.S.T.

Cannonge, Ont., July 15 (CP)—Leaders of the Italian air squadron were sighted over Cananoque at noon (EST) today.

HIGH SCORING AT BISLEY

Canadians Shoot 44 Out of 50 at 900 Yards

Bisley Camp, England, July 15 (C. P. Cable)—Canada's team leads today in today's big program at Bisley, when the Canadian team and the thousands of other marksmen from all over the United Kingdom and from far parts of the Empire are in action in a big day that saw five major shoots decided.

Many of the best scored in the Times match, 10 shots at 200 yards, but the best Canadian score was a 48 recorded by Sgt.-Major N. J. McLeod of Toronto.

Today's program included the Times, the Stock Exchange, the Duke of Cambridge, the Daily Mail and the Wimbledon Cup, all service rifle matches. These were all at single distances with the exception of the Stock Exchange, fired at three ranges, 200, 500 and 600 yards.

Squadded early in the Duke of Cambridge match, the first detail of 900 yards two Canadians posted up scores of 47 apiece, a splendid start. They were Captain H. W. Bishop of Ottawa and the veteran G. M. Ensor of Toronto.

ELECTED VICE PRESIDENT

Baltimore, Md., July 15—Thomas W. Parsons, Toronto, was elected a vice president and J. C. Saunders, London, Ont., elected to head the committee of laws, appeals and grievances at the concluding session of the Grand Lodge of Theatrical Mutual Association annual convention here last night.

CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

St. Catharines, July 15 — Allowed out on $5,000 bail, Clifford Johnson, a North Grimsby Township young man, today faced Magistrate Campbell on a charge of manslaughter. Several weeks ago while driving on the mountain road near Grimsby he struck and killed his lifelong friend, Robert Montgomery. The preliminary hearing will be held in Grimsby August 3. The ball was renewed.

CAPTAIN GOES DOWN IN SHIP

F. L. Sears And Two Men Lost Lives in Fire at Sea

By Captain Nilsson, R.S., Gulf Gem
Written for The Associated Press

S.S. Gulf Gem, Off North Carolina, July 15—The S.S. Gulf Gem bound from Port Cities Service Petrol afire at 8 p.m. Arriving at the scene, we found two life boats in a heavy sea. The steamer S.S. Mountain picked up one and the Gulf Gem the other. We manoeuvred near the burning ship.

While men were on the bow flashing a light, we launched a small boat from the Gulf Gem, in command of Mr. Frederick Samuel Sears, and took the men off.

Captain F. L. Sears refused to leave the ship. Eight men were taken off the bow on ropes.

The life boat, with the sea was blazing, the tanker sank 30 minutes after the men were taken off.

MACDIARMID DIES AGED 63

Former Minister of Highway Victim of Stroke

Toronto, July 15 (CP)—Hon. Finlay G. MacDiarmid, former Minister of Public Works and Highways, died early today at the general hospital here.

Suffering a stroke earlier this week, Mr. MacDiarmid was taken to the hospital where a more severe attack overtook him on Thursday. He did not regain consciousness after the second attack.

Finlay George MacDiarmid was born at New Glasgow, in West Elgin, Ont., on March 6, 1870, of Scottish parentage. After receiving an education in the New Glasgow public school and Ridgetown Collegiate, he took up farming, in later years becoming extensively interested therein.

Mr. MacDiarmid served his political apprenticeship on the Aldborough township council for four years. He was a member of the provincial Election. At first Mr. MacDiarmid was defeated. Again his election was declared void and another held. This time he was elected by a majority of 17.

At the General Elections of 1902, 1905, 1908, 19111 and 1914 he was returned and in the latter year was given the post of Minister of Public Works in the Hearst Government. At the Provincial Election in 1919 he was defeated, but was successful again in 1921 and 1926.

He withdrew from the next election and until his recent appointment as chairman of the Ontario Marketing Board had been living in retirement from public affairs in Elgin.

Wrapped-up Sawed-off Shotgun Found in Culvert Near Stirling

Stirling, July 15—(Special)—Mr. Michael Shea on entering one of his fields about one half a mile south of Stirling on the Frankford Highway on Wednesday afternoon noticed a neat brown paper parcel well concealed in the nearby culvert. Because of his suspicion the investigation disclosed a sawed-off single barrelled shot gun which is in excellent working condition and has evidently been well lubricated quite recently. The gun which is of the type commonly used in hold-up measures eighteen inches in length and was manufactured by the Joslyn Fire Arms Co. of Stonington, Connecticut. The paper wrapper which had scarcely been damaged from exposure, would indicate that, in all probabilities, the gun has been placed in its hiding place very recently.

FOUR POWER PEACE PACT NOW SIGNED

Duce on Behalf of Italy Affixes Signature

10 YEAR PLAN

Newspapers Proclaim New Era of European Peace

Rome, July 15—(AP)—The four-Power European Peace Pact was signed here today by Premier Mussolini, and representatives of France Germany and Britain.

The accord which is designed to guarantee tranquility among European countries for a period of 10 years, facilitate reduction of armaments and lead to improvement in economic conditions, was given official approval in the Palace huge office in the Palazzo Venezia.

The signatures were made to the text as initialed in the same office June 7.

Besides the head of the Italian government, Sir Ronald Graham, the British Ambassador, Ambassador Henry De Jouvenel of France, Ambassador Von Hassel of Germany, all of whom attached their initials to the document early last month, were present.

The Ambassadors drove to the Palazzo Venezia in open cars before noon, dressed in top hats and morning coats and were welcomed by Signor Mussolini in similar attire. The simplest and briefest ceremonies marked the occasion. After handclasps, the four proceeded to affix their signatures in the presence of a small group of Italian Foreign Office officials and counselors and first secretaries of embassies.

At noon the Rome newspapers appeared emblazoned with front-page headlines proclaiming the signature and editorials proclaiming "a new era of European peace and a historic milestone" established by the agreement. Ratification of the treaty by the four governments is considered assured.

TEMPESTUOUS YOUTH FINED

Impatience Over Meal Leads Youth to Point Gun

Woodville, Ont., July 15 (CP)—Twenty-year-old Arnold Bruce grew impatient with his waiter in the noon hour rush at a local hotel and his impatience cost him $25.20.

Pointing a gun, he took his temper with his sister and when a neighbor, Percy Hollingsworth, intervened now, the youth pointed a rifle at him and warned him to leave him alone.

Magistrate Jordon gave a lesson in brief and emphatic contempt when he charged $10 and costs.

$2,000 FINE

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 15—St. Seneca. Portlock, lost his saw and shingle mill by fire, with a loss estimated at $2,000, but the old veteran's cut was also reported destroyed.

SURPRISE TO SEE BEER WITH HERD

Frightened When Owner Approached and Jumps Fence

Guelph, Ont., July 15 (CP) — It's all right for a cow to have normally tinted horns but when S. Shantz went to his herd the other morning he saw a pair of antlers spreading from the head of one of the cattle.

So he thought it was time to investigate.

He approached the cattle but the antlered animal became nervous and leaped over the nearest fence. A deer had evidently become lonesome and joined the herd to graze.

Important Questions of Conference Left Unsolved

(By Alvin Hallman)

London, July 15 (AP)— Another week of committee work and then the final few days of placing together such bits of international joinery as have been achieved faced the World Economic Conference as it began today its fifth week-end.

More than ever it was apparent in conversations of delegates in conference lobbies and their hotel quarters today that virtually nothing could be expected from the conclave on monetary questions but with resolutions of recommendation to the governments on minor questions.

The hope was widespread, however, that when the conference reconvenes, probably two or three days after the July 22 recess beginning July 22—some outstanding problems such as stabilization will at least be in such form as to be no longer a source of grievance so the delegates can work on them. The final plenary session will be held 12 days hence, and next Friday final reports will be given on the monetary commission's deliberations and on the economic committee.

With the expressed determination to reach an agreement of what restriction representatives of Canada, the United States, Argentina and other countries will make, tentative discussions with delegates from Soviet Russia and the Dominion contribute.

Another detail on the books is a meeting of the silver sub-committee next Tuesday, when it is considered possible the silver bidding and producing nations such as Mexico may reach an agreement against dumping of the metal.

Members of the U.S. delegation planned to sail for home July 20 and 27 and August 31.

Orders Defied as Airmen Take off on Non Stop Flight to Lithuania

Subject to Arrest in Foreign Country, Not Having Passports

LITTLE FOOD

New York, July 15 (AP)—The monoplane Lithuania, flown by two Lithuanian-Americans, took off from Roosevelt field at 5:24 a.m. E.S.T. today, on a 4,900 mile nonstop flight to Lithuania, in defiance of orders from Washington.

The flyers are Capt. Stephen Darius, 36, and Stanley Girenas, 33, both of Chicago and veterans of the American forces in the World War.

They went without passports and in the face of implied instructions from the United States Department of Commerce that they were not to make the flight.

They set out across the Atlantic Ocean on the first leg of the Roosevelt Field to Paris, which they wanted to make a non-stop flight.

The big orange and silver Bellanca monoplane was loaded to capacity with 795 gallons of gasoline, 135 of which were in five gallon cans and 25 gallons of oil. It bore the markings NR-105.

Most of the crowd which had seen Post off gathered to watch the Lithuanian at the take-off. The only officials on the field were Paul Sadaika, Consul-General of Lithuania. He shook their hands and wished them good luck.

Did Not Sign Register

The flyers did not sign the register at the field, and Major J. Nelson, manager of the field, was not informed as to their destination in the Lithuania.

The take-off was logy. They used every foot of the long runway and were so slow in getting away that the crowd gasped.

Field officials say they are subject to a heavy fine and loss of license if they do not return today to Floyd Bennett field and, furthermore, are subject to arrest in any foreign country in which they land since they have no passports.

Just before Darius and Girenas took off, John V. P. Heimuller, official of the New York National Aeronautical Association, went up to the monoplane, wished them good luck and clamped on to one wing as ice indicator, designed to tell the flyers at a glance if ice is forming on the landing flyers.

It was virtually the only newly developed aggeistic flying aid in the ship.

The pair aren't using parachutes. They have no parachutes on board.

For food they took 18 oranges, 12 apples, three dozen packages of malt tablets, a quart of black coffee, a roast chicken, and a gallon of water.

Captain Darius was born in Tauroges, Lithuania, and was brought to the United States when 10 years old. His mother is Mrs. Augustine Degutis of Chicago.

Log of Fliers in the Air

(By the Canadian Press)

Two aeroplanes roared out over the Atlantic from New York today, one of them attempting a record flight.

One, the Winnie Mae, was piloted by Wiley Post, who seeks to break the solo flight and 14 minutes between New York and Chicago, set by Colonel Lindbergh in 1927, with the object of circling the globe.

The other, also the Lithuanian, jointly piloted by Capt. Stephen Darius and Stanley Thomas Girenas, headed for Lithuania, 4,900 miles away.

Both planes took off from Floyd Bennett Field, the Winnie Mae at 4.10 a.m., and the Lithuania at 5.24 a.m. E.S.T.

Gen. Italo Balbo, Italian Minister of War, and commander of the Royal Italian seaplanes, were ready to take off early at 5.30 a.m. E.S.T. from Floyd Bennett Field on the first leg of their flight from Italy to the Century of Progress Exposition.

Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were at Cartwright, Labrador, checking the flying possibilities before continuing their mapping of an aerial passenger route to Europe.

FOUNDER OF STORE, DIES

Louis N. Dupuis, Head of Largest French Dept. Store

Montreal, July 15.—(CP)—Louis N. Dupuis, one of the founders of Dupuis Freres, largest French department store in Canada, died here today at the age of 77. He was born at St. Jacques l'Achigan, Assumption County, on October 17, 1855. He was educated at Joliette College.

After receiving his education at Plateau school, he joined the employ of his late brother, J. Nazaire Dupuis, in 1868 as a junior clerk. Mr. Dupuis played an important part in the building up of the company and became head of the firm in 1900, since then with various commercial enterprises.

Mr. Dupuis in his younger days was fond of travel and as far back as 1878 visited Europe. He was twice the city of Winnipeg, when the Canadian Pacific Railway was built and the Red River country was conquered from the far west.

He is survived by nine children, his wife, formerly Marie Melanie Panet Leveque, second daughter of Pierre Thomas Panet Leveque, Seigneur of D'Allebeout and Ramezay Having predeceased him. The funeral will be held Tuesday.

WILEY POST OFF ON LONE WORLD FLIGHT

Flies Same Machine he Circled Globe With Harold Gatty

ROBOT PILOT

Only Two Bad Spots in Weather Expected to Berlin

New York, July 15—(AP)—Wiley Post, 33-year-old Oklahoma, took off from Floyd Bennett field at 4.10 a.m. E.S.T. headed out over the Atlantic ocean on his attempt to fly alone around the world.

He was flying the white and purple Lockheed monoplane Winnie Mae in which he and Harold Gatty made their globe girdling world record of eight days, 15 hours, 31 minutes in 1931. This time, he hopes to do it faster.

"I'll be back as soon as possible," he declared.

Only two bad spots of weather were expected on the first leg of his trip, the 2,900 miles to Berlin. There was a low pressure area off the Labrador coast and New York, which he intended to fly around, and rain off the coast of Ireland which he plans to fly through.

His schedule calls for a halt at Edmonton as the last stop before completing the first leg of his flight to New York.

The heavily loaded Winnie Mae ran the length of the runway before she left the air. Post bounced the ship once trying to get it off the ground, but when it finally did rise he pointed it steadily and headed straight into a cloudbank.

He expected the Winnie Mae to cruise at 180 miles an hour and to be increased at least 25 miles by a strong supporting west wind. The monoplane has a cruising speed of 210 miles an hour.

Has Robot Assistant

Although Post flies alone, he will have the aid of a robot assistant pilot, a mechanical apparatus designed to keep the plane on its course, and maintain the altitude and lateral stability without human aid. Post says it will permit him to doze when flying a straight course at high altitudes. The robot pilot will be the secret new radio compass installed by the United States army at Wright Field, Dayton, O.

Post arrived at the field about midnight, after a few hours of fitful slept preparatory to the take-off. He was dressed in blue grey silk, was bareheaded, and wore a white patch over his left eye, the eye which he lost in 1926 in an oil well job. Two years ago, on his 'round-the-world flight, he wore a grey knitted skull cap, that he decided to abandon for this year.

He signed the pilots' register—Wiley Post, From—Floyd Bennett, Time—Midnight.

While Post slept, the Winnie Mae already to go, with the 700 gallons of gasoline in the tanks were filled with 150 gallons of gasoline and a grease gun; five spare wireless tubes; 12 spare spark plugs; fishing line and hooks; cigarette lighter; two-man rubber life raft; and protective flashlight.

Also in the plane's equipment are included. They are a trick parachute which he won't wear but can slip on in a hurry in case of emergency; and an Indian tomahawk, for defense. Post is guided on his transAtlantic flight by wireless station WRCO of Bellmore, Long Island, which will give him regular directional and weather reports. The Winnie Mae is equipped with a radio receiving set only.

Thousands Turn Gaze Aloft to Italian Air Armada Flying to Chicago

Perfect flying weather will enable Italy's flying armada to make good time over the Bay of Quinte district, according to Wing Commander Bradnor.

Mr. C. G. Breadner, in charge of the Air Camp on the Trent Road, received information today, with a high ceiling and no head wind, little trouble will be experienced by the armada in adhering closely by the duled time. "Visability, however, a bit poor, and the flight will be declared Wing Commander Breadner. As the Air Camp on the Trent Road fire or six military planes will take the air with the arrival of the air fleet commanded by General Italo Balbo, in order to salute the flying emissaries of goodwill. No plans have been made to escort the leaders and the planes will be merely sent aloft from the local Air Camp as a gesture of military courtesy.

The course of the Italian aerial fleet over this district is not known by Wing Commander Breadner.

"If they follow the mail route they will pass over the northern edge of Prince Edward County, and the northern shore line of the lake," he said.

Wing Commander Breadner, instructor in charge of all types wa. able to journey to Montreal on Friday, and it is an excellent opportunity to see the Italian air fleet land in Montreal harbor. He was unable, however, to gain an interview with General Balbo or any of the Italian aviators.

The planes in flight are following the established army manoeuvres of flying in threes headed by the commanding officer, and then in order according to rank. It is the belief of Wing Commander Breadner that the fleet will pass over this district about noon today.

BRITAIN SHUNS U. S. INFLATION

London, July 15.—The British Dominions, it was learned from the highest quarters last night, while undoubtedly exerting strong pressure on the modern country to follow the example of the United States in an inflationary policy, will be unable to move the United Kingdom from her present settled policy unless there are definite indications within in the mother country itself that such a move is demanded.

These indications it was said, are lacking at present.

"We are moving slow in the direction toward an increase in price values," this statement said, "America is going fast in wildest fashion. But you can't combine the two. A world-wide wildcat would be most unimpressive.

LINDBERGH IS HARD AT WORK

Arrives in Cartwright And Will Map Northern Airway

Cartwright, Labrador, July 15 (C. P.)—Colonel Lindbergh apparently looked forward today to the task of mapping out an air trail to Europe across the north Labrador terrain. With his wife and flying companion he left Cartwright about 8 a.m. (D.S.T.), which brought him from New York to the Labrador trading village.

The Lindberghs landed their low-winged monoplane on Cartwright Bay late yesterday after a flight from Bay Bulls Big Pond, ten miles from St. Johns, Nfld. They had made a brief stop on the way to Botwood, Exploits Bay.

Mrs. Lindbergh was her husband's wireless operator on the flight and she will act in this capacity during their northern stay. They expect to remain here for about a week while the flying colonel directs survey flights along the coast of Labrador and Greenland.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, July 15 (CP)—A shallow low of low pressure extends from Hudson Bay to Minnesota and another over the Great Lakes to the lower Mississippi Valley with high pressure over the northwest States and northwestern Canada. Two over the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland have occured in some sections of Western and Northern Ontario and Northwestern Quebec, and a few light scattered showers are reported over the Western Provinces, while from Central Ontario eastward to the Maritime Provinces fine weather has been fair.

Forecasts: Ontario — Northerly winds; mostly cloudy and cool with scattered showers. Sunday—Northwesterly winds; mostly fair; stationary to a little higher temperature.

Lake Ontario — Moderate to fresh southwesterly and northwest winds; partly cloudy with local thunderstorms tonight. Sunday—Moderate to fresh northwesterly winds; partly cloudy and somewhat cooler. Monday—Probably fair with moderate temperature.

Lake Superior—Moderate to fresh northwest winds; mostly fair and comparatively cool.

Northern Ontario—Not much change in temperature.

Southern Ontario—Mostly fair; not much change in temperature.

Alberta—Partly cloudy; probably scattered showers.

TRACE STARLING FROM COLUMBUS, O.

Truman Wilcox, of Montague, North Hastings, had the unique experience of capturing an English starling in the barn and in the properties discovered the bird carried a leg band with the following inscription: "Banded in Columbus, Ohio, on March 23rd, 1933, by Levi Jerome E. Hicks." This just goes to prove that distance is no barrier in the flight of the starling.

FOUR CANINES NOW IN POUND

At present dog catcher Thorne has four canines in his possession, that will be disposed of if not identified and called for by Monday. He has a bull terrier, with collar, a hound, that was found dragging a chain from its collar, a fox terrier and a mongrel dog in pound at present. Six cats and one dog were passed by Mr. Thorne yesterday. The dog, that it was found necessary to gas had apparently eaten poison as it was in a rather sick condition and lying on the curb near the corner of Strachan and North Front St., Mr. Thorne it necessary to gas the dog as it was in a poor condition.

CITADEL BAND TO VISIT PICTON

The Salvation Army Citadel Band, under the leadership of Bandmaster D. Wardell, will visit Picton, in the town of Picton, on Saturday and Sunday, July 22nd and 23rd, and conduct a special series of Salvation meetings and Musical Festivals. On the Sunday afternoon the band will visit Bloomfield and the Inlet. The after-church Sunday evening service had the usually evening proved so popular that these special meetings will be continued throughout the summer season in the corner of Front Street and Victoria Ave.

Adjutant and Mrs. Martin have been warmly received in the city.

SHOE PRICES RISE TANNERS DECLARE

Kitchener, July 15—Shoe prices are rising and will continue to increase until the fall, it is the view of tanners and shoe manufacturers here. It is believed that shoes this fall will be from 50 cents to $1.50 a pair dearer than they were on March 4. The increase to date has been from 10 to 20 per cent, over spring prices. Manufacturers can get plenty of orders for future delivery, but owing to the increased costs of hide and leather they cannot accept them. Hide prices have increased 100 per cent. since May 1, and some tanneries have refused to quote on hide, for future delivery to shoe manufacturers.

FULL FORCE IN MAN HUNT

Guardsmen to Assist in Hunting For Brother Officer

Albany, N.Y., July 15 (AP)—Khaki-uniformed National Guardsmen were ready today in a hundred hamlets and cities to throw their full force into the man-hunt for their kidnapped officer, Lt. John J. O'Connell, Jr.

As the snatch crime entered its ninth day, fellow officers and Guardsmen of the ultra-select regiment of Democratic boss Big Dan O'Connell and political influential lawyer M. O'Connell, awaited a new command from Governor Herbert H. Lehman.

After receipt yesterday of the fourth note from the kidnappers the Governor's office promptly initiated an early contact with the young man's captors just as they did when the previous communications were received. In the other instances there was a lapse of three days between notes.

The latest note, signed by young O'Connell, revived the family's hope which had been rapidly fading. Mrs. Katherine Lee Bates, wife of the poet, under the care of a physician the last few days, was greatly eased by her son's note which indicated he was well.

FARMER WITH MONEY MISSING FOR WEEK

Post-Marked Letter From Windsor Puzzles Police

Windsor, July 15—Norman J. Martin, a wealthy farmer living in Southern Essex County, and a School Trustee in Section No. 3 Colchester South, disappeared last Saturday under circumstances which are being investigated by the Ontario Provincial Police.

The police were told that Martin, 38 years old, married and the father of two children, left his home without given a reason and that on Monday, a letter signed with his name, was received by his wife, stating he was not coming back. It was post-marked Windsor.

Mrs. Martin said her husband had $4,000 in cash which he had just collected from an insurance company for loss of a barn and its contents, burned on his farm early in June. She said her husband had been despondent since the burning of the barn. She quoted her husband as saying in the letter that he "wanted to be left alone."

Martin was a Warden of Christ Church, Colchester South, and is formerly served on the Township Council in Colchester, and was influential in local politics. Martin is of about 5 feet tall and weighs 190 pounds. He is of dark complexion, and has dark hair.

A high percentage of unintentional traffic law violations are penalized inevitably under the present system. Police in St. John, N.B., however, seem to have evolved an excellent plan of impressing the absent from the goals. For strangers and others who violate minor traffic laws the first time, a courtesy windshield sticker has been issued by the Chief of Police. The publication has won much respect and commendation, especially from tourists. The sticker, signed by the police constable, is a printed slip reading something like this: "You have unintentionally violated the traffic laws of this city by parking longer than allowed by law. The town thinks will not occur again. Thank you."

Letters to the Editor

Belleville, Oct., July 13, 1933.

British Coal Freight Rates Under Review by R. J. Graham

Editor Ontario Intelligencer:

It might interest the people of Belleville to know the situation concerning the present high cost for anthracite coal. We have been importing mostly American anthracite coal from Pennsylvania and paying comparatively high prices for it, incidentally when public articles have been very materially cheaper since the depression.

We have been urged to purchase British goods and bring trade in with the British Dominions which is progressing satisfactorily but we have not been consuming the quantity of Welsh coal on account of the high freight rates which have been sold. The Government has investigated and I believe intend to prosecute some Montreal importers for charging unreasonable prices for this product. I find on investigation that Belleville is handicapped in regard to freight. At present the rate from Montreal to Belleville is $4.70 while the rate to Toronto is $1.85. There is no reason to charge a higher rate for a shorter distance and our Chamber of Commerce might well take this matter up. I believe that a much lower priority prepared can be laid down in Belleville at $6.00 per ton, which is less than is now charged. I have been in communication with Mine owners and coal operators in Wales who would be very pleased to co-operate with our citizens to consummate a better trade within the Empire for this article.

If the Chamber of Commerce are sufficiently interested and the citizens are desirous, I will send a car-go of this coal for distribution to our citizens at reasonable reasonable prices.

Yours truly,
R. J. E. Graham

SUNDAY SELLING

Toronto, July 12, 1933

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer:

Sir,—In a recent issue of your excellent paper there is an editorial entitled "Sunday Selling." In it you refer to an alleged petition signed by ten thousand citizens of Toronto asking that the sale on Sunday of ice cream be permitted. I have just called up the Deputy Chief Constable of the city, and he knows nothing of any such petition, although he saw some reference to one in the papers.

It seems curious that such a petition should be circulated, for there is no law that I know of that prevents the sale of refreshments in places of entertainment on Sunday. There is a magistrate's judgment in the city of Calgary to the effect that such sale must be in a bona fide restaurant, and that therefore such sale in ice-cream parlors could not be permitted. But so far as my observation and information goes, ice cream is sold as freely on Sunday as on the other days of the week all over Canada.

The chief difficulty that our organization has with this kind of business is that it offers an excuse and an opportunity to sell all sorts of merchandise. The ice cream parlors and small refreshment places gradually develop into regular grocery stores, and Sunday sales of merchandise is not only a violation of the Lord's Day Act but is manifestly unfair competition with regularly established provision merchants whose stores are closed by law on that day.

I shall be glad if you will publish this letter. I agree with you that Sunday should not be made a day of buying and selling or of unnecessary work. For forty-five years the Alliance has been trying to prevent this. Yours faithfully,

Charles S. Morris, Gen. Sec. Lord's Day Alliance of Can.

SCOUTS RECEIVE LIFE SAVING INSTRUCTION

The 5th Belleville Scouts who are planning to proceed to their annual camp at Wellington, have held a visit to the Y.M.C.A. yesterday evening and received instruction in rescue work and life saving from Ralph Morden, Physical Director of the local Association. The members of the troup were given a demonstration and practice in both the land drill and the water drill of the National Y.M.C.A. Life Saving Programme. Many of the boys showed considerable promise in this work and with further instruction and practice would soon qualify as life savers.

RIVERSIDE IN FIRST PLACE IN SOFTBALL

Trenton Team Defeats R.C.A.F. Team by 8 to 6 Score

IMPERIALS WIN

Dusty Bend of Brighton Lose Match at Gardenville

Trenton, July 15 (Special)— A stubborn grass fire was stopped yesterday afternoon between Sidney and Byron Streets near the C.P.R.

The brigade were not called but Engineer Gale Coleman and Chief Goodsell, with the aid of several town workers, were able to check the blaze before any damage was done.

Riverside Dairy maintained their first position in the Trenton softball league when they defeated the last place R.C.A.F. last evening by 14-4. The Dairy played one of their best games of the season and if they could have hit when the opportunity afforded the score would have been different. Palford pitched a steady game with good support from his teammates. "Dave" Claffis in the field made many sensational catches.

Bill Bowen, first sacker for the dairymen clouted out a homer, the only one of the game.

"Wern" Chambers went the route for the Riversides.

Batteries:

R.C.A.F.—Gibbs, Claffis, Wray, Hamilton; Mason, Mallory, Roth and Palford.

Riverside Dairy—K. Chambers, Alexander, Scarlett, Smith, Anderson, Steenburg, Chase, Miller and Bowen.

LaBrash Imperials Win Again

Dusty Bend of Brighton lost 10-6 to Geo. LaBrash's "Imperials" last night at Gardenville before a large crowd. Sero and Sager had no trouble keeping the Brighton kids off the score sheet. Ted Simmons in the Bend's 8 run rally on 3 steady, walking several men that a few hits made into runs.

The story will be different when the return match is played at Brighton next week. Ted Simmons Bros. battery of Toronto will be available for the boys of Dusty Bend.

The boys of both teams enjoyed a social after the game at Mr. LaBrash's cottage on the lake near Gardenville.

Lineups:

Dusty Bend—E. Quick, Simmons, P. Quick, Cooper, Sherman, Asmstrong, Swift, Alexander, Semple.

OBITUARY

MRS. THOMAS ARCHER

Marmora—Death came suddenly on Monday to Mrs. Thomas Archer of Toronto, who with her husband had been the guest for the past week of his sister, Mrs. Charles Phillips, of Marmora township.

The deceased lady, who had suffered slightly from asthma, was seized with a coughing spell on Monday afternoon from which she never came, but a heart attack proved fatal. Mr. and Mrs. Archer had planned to spend a further two weeks holidays at the Phillips' home and her sudden demise came as a great shock to her relatives.

The remains were taken to Toronto on Monday evening for later burial there. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Mildred McCullough and one adopted daughter, Mrs. Clifford Chapman all of Toronto.

GR. BRITAIN IN FINAL RD.

Defeats Australian in First Single Match to Take Series

Wimbledon, Eng., July 15 (AP)—Great Britain qualified today to meet the United States in the Interzone Davis Cup final round at Paris next week as Henry W. (Bunny) Austin defeated Vivian McGrath of Australia 6-4, 7-5, 6-3, in the deciding single match of the Inter-zone zone final play.

Bunny had a straight set victory gave Great Britain the necessary three matches in the five matches series. In the first day's engagement of the day, the final singles encounter between John Crawford, Australia's new Wimbledon singles star, and Fred Perry, Britain's most possible bearing on the final result.

Great Britain divided the singles of the opening day as Perry beat McGrath after Crawford has trounced Austin, and took a 2 to 1 lead yesterday when her doubles pair, Perry and George Patrick Hughes beat the young Aussies, Adrian Quist and Don Turnbull.

The victory put Great Britain in the closing rounds for the first time since 1931 when Perry turned the trick back in the challenge round.

The winner of the Paris zone finals at Auteuil in Paris next week and meets France for the trophy in the challenge round the following week-end.

CREEKS, STREAMS, LAKES MAINTAIN WATER LEVEL

Wells Also Show Higher Level Than in Years Past

Although fields and pastures in this southern section of Hastings and Prince Edward County have been burned and dried from past weeks of drought, strangely enough wells in the section show a higher water level than for many years past, according to reports from various districts. Creeks, streams and lakes in the northern part of the Hastings County have also shown little signs of drying up. So far reaching has been the effect of the recent dry weather that farmers in the district south of Sophiasburg, Ameliasburg and Hillier and Mr. Ray Meyers, dealing of raising a crop of oats or other grains have also been forced to the fields and have allowed their stock to forage among the ruined grain. Rose Hill is also reported, have not fared so badly. In the Township of Marmora and Hastings County, genlis showers, which have fallen more frequently during the past few weeks have aided a greener and fresher tone to the fields of grain. Early reports from excellent reports of harvest conditions are given, in contrast to the front townships.

LOOKING FOR TOMBSTONE

Hamilton, Ont., July 15—(CP)— Hamilton police are being looked for a man, who stole a blue marble tombstone from the office of Murray's monument shop here.

Harry Murray, proprietor of the shop did not miss the stone till he went to look for it yesterday. Then he notified police. Police are puzzled.

BROILERS SELL 50 CTS PAIR

Another Large Market Seen in Belleville on Saturday

Fresh fruit and vegetables featuring Saturday's local market, drew in size until the crowds were forced to display their wares in the streets, the crowded was the market square. No variation in prices were noted, however, when the prices of butter, eggs and other farm commodities remained stationary.

Eggs continued to sell for 18c a dozen, while butter sold at 26c a pound. The marketing at the inside stalls was brisk during the early hour owing to the intense heat, but the outside market continued well into the afternoon. A few broilers were offered at the inside market at 50c each while, fine milk fed chickens brought 80c to 75c each with young broilers selling at 40c a pair. This year's honey sold for two combs for 25c while plenty of home cooking was offered successfully found purchasers.

Besides fresh vegetables and fruits the beautiful cut flowers adorned the booths market. In the fruit line red raspberries sold at 15c a box while the blue variety brought 10 to 12 cents a box. Fine looking cherries sold for 15c a box, while ripe currants and strawberries brought 25c per box for two boxes. Blueberries sold 20c a quart with red currants selling at 10c. For the raspberry line the basket cap variety brought 25c for two boxes.

Early pears green corn sold for 25c a dozen ears, while hot house tomatoes were offered at 25c a box. Fresh cauliflowers sold for 10c and 15c each, while new potatoes brought 45c a peck. Green vegetables such as carrots, beets, lettuce and radishes all sold for 5 c a bunch. Transplanting celery was in evidence, the two varieties of cut flowers and potted plants were also on sale.

Pets such as pups, rabbits and canary canaries were also displayed and offered for sale.

DISCUSSIONS ON RAILWAY WAGES

Stratford, Ont., July 15 (CP) — Prepared to continue discussions on the proposed cut in railway employees' wages, F. J. Cullum and W. IS COWARDLY SAYS MEIGHEN

Member of Hydro Commission Comments on Slaght's Speech

Toronto, July 15 (CP) — "If Slaght's statement is not a cowardly way of deceiving the public," Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen declared today in commenting on a speech made by the Toronto lawyer last night when he demanded Mr. Meighen's resignation as a commissioner of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission.

"I made a statement on this matter in the senate on April 6 last," said Mr. Meighen referring to Mr. Slaght's remarks on the Abitibi bond deal. "If the facts as stated there are correct they are absolutely conclusive. If challenged charges should have been made accordingly and if so I publicly invited investigation. I did the same in a publication dated last May 1. A similar investigation was made on this same subject by a royal commission when his legislature was sitting. None of these challenges was accepted." Mr. Meighen said in a statement issued today.

Should Be Definite.

"When the honor of a public man is attacked and especially his conduct in relation to his public duty the manly course, and that followed in British countries, has been to have definite allegations involving his honor made in the appropriate parliament on the responsibility of the attacking member and of the Government," the statement continued. "This is something this new generation of politicians has carefully avoided. One is not called upon to be discussing and defending his personal affairs at the behest of every loose-tongued aspirant of publicity.

"If the public, however, feel I am not entitled to the accepted and traditional consideration in this regard I will make no objections.

"What was said in the senate is entirely true and there are no qualifying facts. What is said in this statement easily will be established as true, including the first sentence."

THE STORY OF LIGHT INTERESTING FEATURE OF WORLD'S FAIR

The story of light is one of the basic features of the Chicago World's Fair in the Hall of Science. J. A. McFee of this city, who returned from Chicago yesterday after attending the annual three days convention of the American Optometric Association held at the Palmer House there.

"The magnitude and splendor of the 'Court of Light' crowded was the all my expectations," enthusiastically declared Mr. McFee, "and I only wish that I could have spent more time there. At night, the lighting effects are beyond description. In the Hall of Science one has the opportunity to witness a demonstration manifestations of this mysterious thing we call light.

"Light, we know, is but a form of light which reveals the subvisible world and another form which penetrates the hardest Steel. There was ultra violet light, infra red light and the X-ray. You know, also, beyond the limits of the visible spectrum.

"There is a filtering greenish light which is the light of the submarine regions; and there is a deep blue, which is the moon light which is that of the stratosphere. These and other light manifestations of nature in the light wave would cause almost anyone to realize the vital relation of light to certain between light and human welfare."

As an optometrist Mr. McFee has made a study of the physics of light and the behavior of light rays in relation to vision and human vision. His appreciation of the Century of Progress lighting is somewhat that of a scientist.

Mr. McFee attending a three-day visit while at the Northern Illinois College of Optometry while in Chicago, and saw a distinguished optometrist, Dr. William Feinbloom of New York City, demonstrate the application of his new telescopic spectacles in cases of subnormal vision.

DID YOU EVER TAKE A WATCH OR CLOCK APART?—Perhaps in your younger days when you were "the budding genius in the family" you were allowed to try your hand at fixing the kitchen timepiece or your own dollar ticker; it is doubtful, however, if you succeeded in the task and the clock or watch if worth the cost, was eventually taken to a real workman to do the job. Watch repairing is no job for an amateur — it requires expert knowledge, training in performance in order to turn out satisfactory work. In Belleville A. E. Wonnacott enjoys an enviable reputation as a watch and jewelry repairman and he receives a large patronage from residents in the city and surrounding district. When he does a job it is done right and his charges are most reasonable. If you have a timepiece which requires attention take it to Mr. Wonnacott, you will be satisfied with the service he will give you. His store is number 292 Front St., next door to Loblaws.

"THE OLD OPERY HOUSE"

The Belleville Opera House, sometime known as the Carman Opera House, and later as the Griffin Theatre, will soon be a thing of the past, and remain only in memory, as it is being demolished. According to Frederick Adams, one-time manager, the Belleville Opera House was opened about the year 1862, the first manager being Harry Talmadge. According to Mr. Adams the opening show was either "The Devil's Auction", or "Zoso, the Magic Queen", but these names are so suggestive of buxom burlesque and pink tights that it would seem that better openers might have been found, even "A Pair of Deuces". Pink tights shown in the old days were frowned upon in polite society, and women stayed away from the "lorrid, brazen things" but the gallery overflowed with men and boys, and nary a skirt was in the house, on or off the stage.

AERIAL NAVY PASSES OVER

General Balbo's Armada Skirts North Shore Lake Ontario

(By Wallace Ward)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
Montreal, July 15.—(CP)—Hazy skies greeted the members of the Italian air cruise this morning as they prepared their 24 seaplanes for the last leg of their journey from Italy to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago. General Italo Balbo, the commander, and the 100 member of the crew, rose at seven o'clock and it did not appear possible to get away before 10.30 a.m. Eastern Daylight Time, Airport official said.—

General Balbo was eagerly engaged in the study of weather reports of the Great Lakes Area. Expection was there would be no change in tentative arrangements to take a course along the north shores of Lake Ontario and Lake Erie to Detroit, thence a compass course to Chicago. Definite statements were made last night no stops would be made on the way. Plans were that squadron would be met by a group of American planes at Detroit and escorted to Chicago.

Today's trip to Chicago was expected to take between five and six hours, the air line distance being about 750 miles.

NOT FAIR TO ABOLISH CASH COMPENSATION

Milk Producers Wait on Premier For Relief

Toronto, July 15 (CP)—Declaring it was not fair for the Federal authorities to abolish cash compensation in respect to cattle slaughtered under the tuberculin-free herds campaign and at the same time press them in connection with the campaign, a deputation of the Ontario Whole Milk Producers' Association waited upon Premier George S. Henry yesterday to ask Ontario government assistance. They desired the provincial authorities to impress upon Ottawa the necessity for immediate return of relief. Premier Henry did not commit himself upon any of the representations but promised to place them before Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, upon his return from Europe.

PRODUCTION IS STEPPED UP

General Motors Hits Sales Record For June And July

OSHAWA, July 15—Reflecting the improvement in business conditions all over Canada, C. E. McTavish, general sales manager, General Motors Products of Canada Limited, today announced a further step-up in General Motors schedules of 500 units. This makes a total scheduled increase since May 1 last of 5,438 units, an increase of over 20 per cent.

General Motors' decision to further stimulate production in answer to unprecedented seasonal demands, means accelerated July and August business for primary and secondary industries all over Canada—steel, tires, lumber, glass, textiles, paints and varnish, etc.

Not in the history of General Motors has there been such a record of seasonal sales as during this June and July.

Exultant over June retail sales that broke all records and confident of smashing further records in July, Toronto dealers and retail salesmen, one hundred and fifty strong, descended upon nine General Motors plant here today clamoring for cars to fill the unprecedented July demand. Already for this month last year, sales figures have been passed for Chevrolet, Pontiac and Oldsmobile, and McLaughlin Buick and truck sales are well up, and three daughters.

Led by E. R. Birchard, manager and J. N. Lister, sales promotion manager of the Toronto district, the visitors went through the plant, were the guests at lunch in Col. Mc-Laughlin Hall, and then E. Brown and C. E. McTavish, and departed hurriedly lasting with them one hundred cars to fill the Toronto demand—Chevrolets, Pontiacs, Oldsmobiles, McLaughlin Buicks and trucks—but largely Chevs.

The record of Toronto sales for June as compared with the same month last year, follows: Sales of Chevrolet ..... up 34 per cent. Pontiac ..... up 104.5 per cent. Oldsmobile .... up 12.5 per cent.

For Ontario, the percentage increase was:
Chevrolet ..... up 84 per cent.
Pontiac ..... up 135.5 per cent.
Oldsmobile ..... up 186.5 per cent
McLaughlin Buick ..... up 5 per cent.
McLaughlin Buick up 33 per cent.

Together with their record in new car sales, Toronto dealers also had behind them a record for used cars for June of 950 cars as against 648 in June 1932.

CUPID BUSIER THAN USUAL AT WORLD'S FAIR

Chicago, July 15—(AP)—As a maker of matches, a Century of Progress Exposition is doing a good job subbing for cupid.

Marriage license bureau figures revealed about 150 weddings a month directly accredited to the World's Fair.

Among the matches was that of Louis C. Peltier who came from Cape Town, Africa, and Miss Jeanne Alcier, from France.

Romance of Golf Course Ripened in Reno Culminates in Marriage

Philadelphia, July 15 (CP)— A romance which began on the golf courses of California and ripened in the divorce colony of Reno will make a youthful Philadelphia divorcee the bride of one of Canada's wealthiest sportsmen.

Miss Betty Jane Smith, daughter of Mrs. Acland Hilton Smith, of Suburban Merion, will be married at noon today to John R. Booth, 38, wealthy paper and manufacturer and motion picture man of Ottawa, Ont.

Booth is a brother of Princess Erik, of Denmark, and also of Fred H. Booth, who a few weeks ago married Miss Anne Vanderhoef, at Greenwich, Conn. His father was the late John Frederick Booth, distinguished Ottawa citizen.

He and his wife Ida, were divorced in August 1932 in Reno just two months before his bride-to-be also secured a Reno decree from George Joseph Ross, son of a former Philadelphia cabinet official.

Booth was one of the first Canadians to learn to fly and still owns his private plane. He served with the Royal Naval Air Service overseas and later with the Governor General's Foot Guards, second Canadian Infantry Depot Battalion.

He said he has three Miss Smith more than 7,000 miles during their courtship.

Booth at one time was internationally known as a fancy ice skater and was partner of Lady Rachael Cvendish whose father at one time was Governor General of Canada. He is an enthusiast in "other sports, and has won several trap-shooting titles. He is an ardent golfer.

ODDITIES IN THE NEWS

Vienna, Austria, July 15—(AP)—Charged with hiding 400 lira in currency during bankruptcy proceedings, Emil Lerner said he had been living on nothing but sardines ever since the day he had to close his delicatessen store.

"I have literally eaten 60 of the 400 tins and probably will have to eat the remaining 340 too," he added.

Cincinnati, O., July 15—(AP) —While the temperature at around 83 degrees above zero, four men almost froze alive when they were showered with refrigerating fluid in a warehouse.

St. Louis, July 15—(AP)— The police radio announcer told the occupants of scout car No. 3 to hurry to a certain street corner.

"There's been an automobile accident," he droned.

Patrolman Albert Merschen, then opened the throttle wide and headed for the hospital where the victim already had been taken.

The driver, hurried to the scene.

Elaborate Efforts Made to Apprehend Kidnappers of 2 Abductions

(By the Associated Press)

Elaborate efforts were under way by authorities today to apprehend kidnappers responsible for two abductions—that of Lieutenant John J. O'Connell, Jr. in New York and that of John Factor, Chicago speculator.

At the same time it was revealed Chicago authorities were guarding 40 prominent citizens to prevent attempted abductions, after Factor had disclosed the men who kidnapped him had a book of prospective kidnap victims.

From Albany it was reported National Guardsmen were prepared to engage in an extensive manhunt for their kidnapped officer, Lieutenant O'Connell, Jr.

Agents representing the family of August Luer, Alston, Ill., banker, recently abducted, said they were negotiating with his kidnappers for his release, but that definite action was held up because of a failure to receive any note bearing Luer's hand writing.

THREE TRANSIENTS HELD BY POLICE

Two men giving their names as Kenneth Turcott and George Bal-

ton, transients, were arrested by Sergeant Harman and Constable Taylor following a lengthy chase through Thurlow, in the Canada quarry and the nearby vicinity late yesterday afternoon. Turcott and Batton appeared in the local police court Saturday morning charged with vagrancy and intoxication and were remanded for one week by Magistrate Millard.

Previous to their arrest it is alleged by the police, that Turcott and Batton had entered Twiddy's grocery store on West Moira St. and left with chocolate bars, for which they did not pay. They also are alleged to have tried to gain entrance to a Purdy St. home after being assured that the owner of the house was away. The men were alleged by the police to have been intoxicated and were using profane language.

Gerald Perro, transient, who was arrested by Sergeant Harman, last night on a charge of vagrancy was also remanded for one week. Perro was making a house to house canvas on the east hill "pan handling."

Old Cabs of London

Old London seems to take pride not in the youth but in the age of its taxicabs. Ancient cars still are used in large numbers. Out of 8,044 licensed motor cars, 211 are more than 20 years old, and 1,794 between 15 and 20 years. Sir Ernest Secretary, Sir John Gilmour, reports.

NATURE TAKES A HAND

How Providence or Nature has in a measure changed the world outlook on the problem of the so-called grain overproduction has been only too clearly shown in the past few weeks with the delegates of a world conference trying to reach an accord on acreage sown.

When men needed assistance most, it has come in the natural way, not the way of laws and regulations which are dependent in the last analysis upon nature, good or poor crops.

Now for the first time in forty years a United States wheat crop half a billion bushels short is in prospect, the outlook being for a 55.8 per cent. normal crop, with an estimated yield of 496,000,000 bushels. This is far short of domestic consumption which is set at 600,000,000 bushels. If exports remain at their present low level, a substantial reduction in the wheat carryover is assured. The condition in wheat is also noted in grain.

Canada has fortunately not been so much the victim of poor growing conditions as the United States has this year.

Meanwhile the upward movement is creating an appreciation in the value of farm properties.

It has been noted that the people who cry loudest for some remedial legislation when the depression is in the depths, become the first to shout "Let nature take her course" when there are signs of recovery and fight shy of all legislation. People hang back from paternalism on the part of the government.

One writer quotes the old proverb:

"When the devil was sick the devil a saint would be,

"When the devil was well, the devil a saint was he."

On the other hand there remain those who believe that stimulants and assistance from the government are still essential.

So the war goes on between those who will let economic laws work out their redemptive ways and those who believe in intervention by governments. Nature, however, has helped in the solution-to-be.

CANADA IS KNOWN

Canada is well known in the United States. On any day, though the tourist trade may not quite equal the proportions of some years ago, the licence plates of cars from many states are to be found on the streets of Belleville. The cavalcade of cars comes not from one state nor one section of the Union but from practically every part of the Republic.

Events of the past few years have tended to bring Canada more and more before the people across the line. President Roosevelt even in these latter days has set a happy example and through him more people know New Brunswick than New Brunswick could reach with circulars and pamphlets in years of effort.

But it is not only the tourist who spreads the good news of a hospitable Canada but it is the public men of this land, and the achievements of Canadian industry that stimulate the imagination of the people of the United States.

BUMBERSHOOT

The boy who creates and uses words for the mere sake of sound has a champion in an editorial writer in the New York Times, for he takes the odd word "bumbershoot" or "bumbleshoot" and adorns it as fit for a place in any language. He says: "Dictionaries usually lack the best words. The gamins of speech are homeless. Dogberrys of propriety pursue them from parish to parish. They can get no licence, show no papers. They are tramps, if you like, but their health is all the better for it."

One man tries to explain how the "shoot" became the suffix. "The family umbrella of other days, when Tray was a callow pup, opened somewhat explosively. This would account for the suffix," he says.

But when comes the . "bumber" or "bumble"?

No answer is given, the Times editor goes on: "They (these words) have a rude power. Their Latin sister looks lackadaisical by their side. Have the wiser youngsters of today forgotten these choice extracts from what A. Ward called 'the bright Lexington of youth'? If they have, so much the worse for them for in 'bumbershoot' 'bumbleshoot' is something of the enchantment of

When I see and a little, tiny boy,
With hey, ho, the wind and the rain."

BUTANE IS A NAME and substance new to many readers, but more will be heard about it presently as the result of experiments being made on the Southern Pacific Railway with an aluminum stream-line train scheduled to run 110 miles an hour, using butane as fuel. Butane is found in natural gas. Butane is otherwise known as "Bottled gas" which has become an important commercial commodity. Some 175,000 farmers and suburbanites in United States burn it for cooking, and gas companies also use butane to enrich their gas. Propane is another product, similar to butane, taken from natural gas, and experiments are being made on these products as fuel for automobiles, stationary engines having been operated by butane and propane very successfully.

CHRISTMAS KEOUGH had a long and dishonorable career. Every Christmas he made some jeweler unhappy by leaving counterfeit drafts on a Canadian bank in exchange for diamonds. In number of years ago Christmas Keough started in Toronto by purchasing a bank draft for $2500. Then he had a bank draft photographed and a cut made from which he printed a plentiful supply of bogus drafts which he used for making purchases in jewelry stores at the Christmas season. After a splendid harvest, a clear conscience, a pocketful of diamonds and a grand feeling of Christmas cheer Christmas Keough, as he was afterwards called, retired from public view until his exploits were forgotten, then, to reappear again next Christmas in a different city and clean up as usual. This he did for nearly a dozen years, captured and put away for so many years that he is not likely to afflict mankind again in his lifetime. A Toronto mining man going to the United States for the Christmas season a few years ago, was arrested in St. Louis, charged with being Christmas Keough, who had just swindled several jewelers there. The Toronto man was 'identified' by the clerks of the stores victimized and narrowly escaped conviction, only the fact that the real Christmas Keough bobbed up at the same time in New York and put over a coup there, saved the Toronto man, who sued for false arrest but failed to collect anything.

TRAINING OF CHILDREN CALLED ART

Unpunished Child Tends to Become Anti-Social By Nature

By Louis Berg, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology.

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Although the proper training of a child is so essential to his future success and happiness, not to mention the importance of good citizenship for the nation as a whole, there can be no question but what many mothers make of their task a decided failure.

Not that they don't try, nor that they are not conscientious. The mothers who really consider their children a burden are few indeed. Nature sees to that! Mother love is such an overwhelming instinct that it overcomes all obstacles.

In fact this very mother love, and just because it is so deeply-rooted in the feminine make-up, is often to blame for the failure in child training. Over-indulgence never helped any boy or girl. Being too forgiving likewise makes poor building stones for the foundation of character.

At the outset a mother must realize that her own child, the same as any other, is an untamed little savage, for he needs control and restraint; he must be taught; the rights of others must be emphasized; his emotions must be repressed to a more or lesser degree; finally, he must frequently be punished.

The unpunished child soon tends to become an anti-social man or woman. Such a child refuses to fit a law unto himself. He does not fit in with organization and recognized standards of conduct. His ego becomes intolerable. He always wants his own way, and in the end, and in consequence of such a bringing up, he himself develops into a most restless, inefficient and unhappy human being.

Child training may be so badly managed that the parents actually obey their children rather than that their children obey them. This is mighty hard on the child. Such is such a state of affairs distinctly pernicious for the proper development of any boy or girl.

Spoiled children are bound to feel that the world is going to give them everything they want and that everything they desire because their own father and mother — the two persons authorized to be constituted the child's world—were unanimously doting their bidding. Likewise do such youngsters get the notion that they can make their own rules law.

Obedience, therefore, becomes a social necessity, and parents therefore must be resorted to in order to gain such obedience.

Punishment should never, however, be resorted to unless all other methods have failed.

Every child has good in him and every one can somehow be reached. A child must be studied as an individual apart from all the world. Children even apart from his brothers and sisters, have the teachers of different character traits.

Frightening a child doesn't help nor do promises of punishment that are not carried out. Always must a parent be reasonable; always must he explain why the punishment is deserved and then only if it is expected to accomplish; always must it be done without a show of anger.

Deprivation of sweets or an outing, or the taking away of a toy is usually sufficient. If not, an old-fashioned spanking will harness even a most obstinate delinquency provided such a procedure has not become a habit.

Dr. Risch's Daily Diet Hint

Jellies, preserves and jams are excellent when not eaten to excess. For those who cannot digest butter fat they are essential to be recommended. Children should not be given these sweets exclusively, however. Butter at least once a day is desirable for their health. An old-fashioned bread and butter sandwich is advisable when they complain of hunger after a full meal.

BETHANY W.C.T.U.

The regular monthly meeting of Bethany W.C.T.U. was held at the church on the evening of July 2. It was opened by singing Hymn 8 followed by prayer by Mrs. Badgley. Then all repeated the pledge. The lesson was read by Mrs. W. Casey, first chapter of Daniel. Hymn 17 was sung. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The treasurer's report was given. A review of questions and answers was conducted by Mrs. Badgley. There were 24 present. Collection $1.00. Mrs. Frank Walker took charge of the program.

The temperance Doxology and hymn 26 were sung after which Mrs. Oaland gave a reading, Mrs. Walker gave a reading. A solo by Mrs. G. Sills. An interesting reading by Mrs. S. Cooley. Miss Bertha Badgley favored us with a solo. Hymn three was sung and the meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Walker.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE OF ROSLIN MEETS

Roslin, July 15.—The July meeting of the Roslin Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Stanley Carter. The newly-elected president, Mrs. H. Chisholm, was in charge of the meeting, which was opened in the usual way by singing and what did he do, but wink back, the Institute Ode and repeating the Lord's Prayer. The roll call was responded to by payment of fees, and showed an attendance of twenty-three.

Games were made for a sports day.

It was decided to assist both of the Institute girls in taking up music this year if the school boards so desire.

Mrs. H. Palmer was leader for the day and at the conclusion of the splendid business took charge of the remainder of the meeting.

Mrs. A. Bates gave a delightful reading. "The Social Cup of Tea" and Miss Vera Copeland favored with an instrumental selection. The meeting was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem. A dainty lunch was served and a social hour enjoyed.

Practically everyone from this neighborhood attended the garden walks either at Trenet or Cannilton on Wednesday.

The ball team held another very successful dance in the hall on Thursday evening. Plainfield orchestra furnished music for dancing.

The death occurred at the home of her son, Mrs. J. Chisholm, on Thursday, July 13th, of Miss Kate Ann Vanskiver. The deceased had been a resident of this neighborhood for the past thirty years.

Little Benny's Note Book

Last nite I went to bed and something happened and I didn't get no sleep for real or just a dream, being pop sticking his head in my door and saying, Does anybody in this room want to make a date?

I do, O, me I said, and pop said, Then spill your milk at breakfast. O, why? I said, and pop said, Ask Ann and you shall be not angered. Spill it at low tide, he said.

When's that? I said, and he said, When you receive a wink for a wink.

And he stuck his head out again and this morning I woke up and I remembered it plain as anything, and I thought, I wonder if it really happened, maybe he wanta me to spill it like on ma or something, gosh, if it really happened I don't want to lose a chance to make a dime.

And I went down and started to eat my breakfast, and pop was drinking his coffee with a absentminded face, me thinking, If I wink at him and he winks back I'll know it really happened.

And I took another mouthful of my glass of milk and made kind of a gurgle swallowing it on account of being excited, and pop looked at me and I winked at him and he didn't wink, saying, I've got all of the asinine tricks, are you losing yours wits entirely?

And he wouldn't give me any cream money, proving it was ony a dream after all.

FINGER NAIL IS TORN OFF

Nellie McMichael, Catcher For South End Girls is Injured

In a rather weird game that was filled with errors and loose playing the South End A. C. girls downed the local Maple Leafs by the score of 15 to 10 at the Victoria Park diamond last evening.

Lois Carter was on the hilltop for the "south siders" and let the Leafs down with five hits during the six innings in which she labored on the hilltop. Jessie Hamilton and Marion Mondeville looked the best for the Leafs.

"Chubby" Burley led the S.E.A.C. team in both fielding and hitting when the scrappy little blonde second baseman for the winners collected a home run and three singles besides supplying the fielding sensations during the game. Tiny Thompson also came in for honor with Pat Elzier had two singles and a triple.

The S.E.A.C. battery lineup was a severe loss to their cause when Nellie McMichael, their star catcher, sustained a badly injured nail on the third pitched ball of the game. The nail was torn from the finger following a foul tip. The injury was attended to by a physician and the fate of Nellie McMichael will be felt by the S.E.A.C.

S.E.A.C.—N. McMichael, Knott, Graham, Burley, Thompson, Cousins, Reeves, Hamilton, Bradshaw. Mc-Michael, Morgan, Ehler and Little.

RAILROADERS WIN BY 12-8

Defeat South End A. C. Softball Team in Exhibition Game

Behind the superb hurling of Teddy O'Neil the Trenton C.P.R. softball team defeated the local S. E. A. C. nine by the score of 12 to 8 at the cricket field last evening.

O'Neil was in rare form and turned back the Beehive Eleven with a masterprolific manner mixing his slow and fast ball to an advantage. Besides letting the locals down with eight hits, O'Neil whiffed 11 batters.

Chuck Sager was on the hilltop for the locals and but for the few mistakes committed by his teammate looked like the winning hurler until the Trenton aggregation launched their attack in the fifth and sixth frames when they counted nine of their 12 runs.

Sager provided the fielding sensations of the game for the locals while Begin, Lott and Bowler were the best for the visitors.

Trenton — Bowler, Begin, Kidd, Johnson, Lott, Bowler, O'Neil and Lang.

S.E.A.C.—Knott, Kiser, Faux, Burridge, Fletcher, R. Cornell, P. Cornell, Scrimshaw and Sager.

Score by innings:

Trenton ..... 100 045 020—12 runs
S.E.A.C. ..... 000 020 141— 8 runs

A BIG SURPRISE

By Jack Sords

CURRENT SPORT

Knocks and Boosts

One of the prominent members of the Belleville Golf Club writes: "A bad lie often makes a good score. The birdie is often followed by the swallow. One good thing, the ball can't laugh back. Some golfers only use the fairways to walk on—they drive from the couch."

Out in Peterboro there is some talk of staging an "old timers" baseball game when such players as "Hal" Harrison, Harold Rose, Al Heckman, Max Swanston et all will return to the diamond and cross bats with the present day Petes.

Now that our Nationals are lodged safely in the cellar position of the C.O.B.L. perhaps such a game should be in order in Belleville. Something of a nature like the above suggested should be tried as this is the first year in more than we can remember that Belleville has not been in the C.O.B.L. playoffs.

Let's wander back to the provincial champions of 1919, the old Grand Trunks, and see how many of them could be mustered for a game between the baseball scribbles of yester-year and the present. Belleville's Hank Whalen, Harry Whalen, who labored on the hilltop, is living at home with his brother and will be tempted to twirl an innings or so. Then the veteran Freddie Coyer '46 at present pitching occasionally for the Hamilton Moodies and would very gladly come to Belleville for such a baseball game. Of course "Peewee" Mills would naturally want to catch for Freddie. Then we have Walter Gerow down in Niagara who cavorted about at the initial sack. Just try and keep Walter away from such a game.

Allan Meagher and "Cap" Smith who played second for the 1919 team are around long as is Wep Weir, short stop, and Joe Kelleher. In the outfield we have that veteran fly chaser, Sammy Symons who still makes Belleville his home, "Wicky" Ross, the pere of all outfielders ever to grace the territorial loop, Stan Hagerman and the Casey boys, Babe and Jack. Harry Mills, who later supplanted Walter Gerow is a resident of Belleville and might be induced to don the spilled shoes once again.

With such a galaxy of old time baseball celebrities in view from the local grand stand would not start to hold the crowd that would be on hand—say civic holiday.

Then a little later along came Jack "Chief" Williams and made the name of Belleville ring up and down the country as far as baseball went. Jack is home in Verona and would jump at the chance to pitch just one more ball game to "Peeney" Mills. Why, it's even betting that Jack would die in peace if he could but hurl one more game with Mills on the receiving end. Of course Williams is a professional but, if the proper authorities were approached, and such a game did materialize, we feel sure that both the O.B.A.A. and the A.A.U. of C. would grant Jack Williams special dispensation to take part in such a game.

What a medium for an advertisement — "batteries for today's game, Freddie Coyer and Jack Williams will pitch while "Peeney Mills will catch."

Then there's another player who might be available in the person of Johnnie "Crock" Williams, who cavorted about at the hot corner for years with Nats. Jack is living at Niagara Falls at present but usually spends his summer holidays with his father-in-law, Mr. W. J. Thomson, who by the way would make a good man to be on a secretary for the "old timers". If the game could be arranged,

President Chas. Meagher and his subordinates might do worse than think the matter over and if it is at all feasible we feel that the fans would literally flock to such a game. On paper we feel that "the old boys" might surprise the youths of the day. When we started this little epistle we never thought we'd get this far but we hope we have started something that some person else agrees with us on and may it flourish to realization.

After "Thursday night's double header in the town senior softball league the race tightened up considerably with but three games remaining in the schedule. What has been noticeable, however, is the rather poor sportsmanship that has been shown by some of the leading clubs in this league. The players and officials should remember — some team has to finish at the bottom it — you can't win 'em all, boys. The local softball league is conducted by leaps and bounds during the past two seasons but, rough play and fistic encounters will not help matters take its toll and ruin the league.

GOLF FACTS

NOT THEORIES!

By Alex J. Morrison

ALEX MORRISON says:

There seem to be an epidemic of heavy clubs. Both in irons and woods.

Some of our leading players are setting a new style by using wood clubs that I'm told weigh anywhere from 16 to 20 ounces.

That's more weight in the shape of a golf club than any human can swing accurately and consistently. This is being proven by the performances of three players in the tournaments.

You may have used a heavy club to advantage for a short time. It seems to add something to your swing. It does.

But it gives a downward impetus to the club which you fail to apply ordinarily. If you'll just emphasize this downward motion with your medium or lightweight clubs you'll enjoy a permanent improvement in your game.

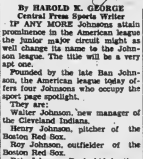
Four Johnsons in Spotlight In American League Race

By HAROLD K. GEORGE
Central Press Sports Writer

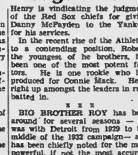
IF ANY MORE Johnsons attain prominence in the American league the junior grade circuit may as well change its name to the Johnson league. The title will fit it pat one.

Founded by the late Ban Johnson, the American league today offers four Johnsons who occupy the sport page spotlight.



They are:

Walter Johnson, new manager of the Cleveland Indians.



Henry Johnson, pitcher of the Boston Red Sox.

Roy Johnson, outfielder of the Boston Red Sox.

Bob Johnson, Roy's kid brother, outfielder of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Henry Johnson

Roy Johnson

Henry is vindicating the judgment of the Red Sox chiefs for parting with Danny McFayden to the Yankees for his services.

In the recent rise of the Athletics to a contending position, Robert, the youngest of the brothers, has been one of the most potent factors. He is one rookie who has produced for Connie Mack. He is right up amongst the leaders in runs batted in.

X X X

BIG BROTHER ROY has been around for several seasons — he was with Detroit from 1927 to the middle of the 1932 campaign — and has been chiefly noted for the most powerful if not the most accurate arm in baseball. No other major league can approach him throwing for distance. While his average is up by his 1933 work he is one of the features of the promising Red Sox.

Henry, strictly speaking, isn't in the family, but he has done well in advancing the name of Johnson in the pitching records this season. His record is one of the better ones in the American league.

The Red Sox acquired Roy and Henry about the same time last season. Roy went to the Red Hose from Detroit along with Dale Alexander in exchange for Earl Webb and cash. Henry was swapped with Ivy Paul Andrews for McFayden.

LODGE BOYS PUT OVER WIN

Defeat Crystalaco 6-3 And Better Position in Race

Jack Kidd's long double followed by Bill Menh's three base blow gave the Moose Juniors a 4 to 3 win over the league leading Crystalaco last evening at the Alemite grounds when the "lodge boys" bagged five runs in the final inning to nose out the Art Young-managed crew and knock them out of first position in the Hastings County junior loop. The win elevates the Moose Kids into third position and gives them an opportunity to get into the league play-offs.

Behind the masterful hurling of Art Weeks on the hilltop for the Moose, the lodge boys played heads-up baseball and fielded perfectly, having but one error throughout. Weeks in his rare form fanning the hard hitting "Lacs" down with three hits only one of which was one of the extra base variety and being accommodated by pitcher Eddie Langmaid, who found for the Lodge boys the fatal screens. Rigby and Don Thompson caught Langmaid, being the only other members of the Young-managed aggregation to connect safely for the game which proved to be one of the best junior tilts of the season. F. Lee was rushed to the mound in the seventh to try and stop the onslaught but the damage had been done.

Bill Henn, with a triple and a double, led the Lodge boys at the bat with Brown collecting two singles and a double out of three tries. Jack Kidd, who handled the slants of Weeks from behind the bat in a rugged fashion, hit the timely double that tied the score.

Sensational fielding by the outfielders featured while Semark looked the best for the Lacs. Infielders Bill Henn and Robinson playing well for the Moose kids on the defence. Weeks struck out five batters in the tilt and failed to walk a single batsman while Langmaid walked seven but passed two to first base via the four ball route. By virtue of the win the Crystalacs drop back into second place in the local junior loop a half game behind the fast stepping Wellington kids, with whom they were previously tied. The line-up and

Spying on Sports

BY William Ritt
Central Press Canadian

BASEBALL OBSERVERS have long wondered what became of one of the old trium that a champion is a champion and you had better not forget it, either.

For the first half of the current season he looked a champion but he was a popular pastime to feel sorry for Babe Ruth, manager of the home sluggers and the Chicago Cubs, champions of the National league.

Ruth, it was being freely predicted, would not be around the season as a Yankee regular. The old boy had slowed to an amble and what with his age, his weight and one thing and another—well, you know.

The poor old Cubs were bouncing around the canvas and being trampled under foot by the Giants, Cards and Pirates.A clear case of second childhood, they said, and forgot them.

Have you been reading the sport pages lately?

X X X

WHETHER OR NOT the interleague all-star game held in Chicago recently had anything to do with it, your correspondent won't say but, at any rate, Ruth, Gehrig and Ruth came out of that game with glory and they have been hot ever since.

The Babe won the game for the American league with a thunderous home run and in Pitcher Lon Warneke, loser for the National, the Cubs showed the world what good mound work should look like.

That all-star game home run acted as a tonic on the Bambino. Since then he has been the leader of the New York attack. In one afternoon he won a double-header for the Yanks with three home runs.

Since the all-star game the Cubs have been traveling at the fastest pace in the National league. They have knocked off the league leading Pirates four games in a row and have turned the senior circuit's race into a four-club flag fight.

IT'S A HAPPY sight to see, this business of the Babe coming into his rightful spot in the limelight, again. However, Ruth has for long been the recipient of great and prolonged cheering. Not so the Cubs. Therefore, well-wishers of the Baby Bears are all the more pleased to see the Chicagos confound their critics.

It is doubtful whether a National league championship team of recent years has been so ignored and generally kicked around as have the Cubs. And, in a way, you can not blame the press and the public for figuring the Charley Grimms were grand bosts.

After barging into the lead and the title last summer when the Pirates collapsed, the Cubs put up a woeful fight against the Yankees in the world series, losing four straight.

This spring, the Cubs started the race slowly and then almost came to a dead stop while the rest of the league rolled merrily by. My, but the ears of the Baby Bears must have burned during those embarrassing weeks.

However, all that seems now past and unless this correspondent misses his guess, Chicago will be in the National league flag fight from now on until the end of the race.

The instinctive feeling of a great people is often wiser than its wisest man.—Kossuth.

CORRECT CLOTHING FOR MEN

BETWEEN INNINGS

JOHN BULL and his bearded brother, your correspondent Sam, are at it again—and so far honors appear to be just about all even.

Great Britain and the United States are the greatest rivals in sport. Yearly the world's greatest empire and the world's greatest republic compete on the golf links, on the tennis court, in and on water, and, sometimes, in the air.

In the last several decades Uncle Sam has won a majority of these tilts but certain events in sport indicate he may find himself pushed to finish second of the British contingent this year.

John Bull is beginning to perk up. He no longer takes defeat on the golf links and tennis court with a stiff upper lip resignation he also had. He certainly has been slapping back this year.

X X X

JOHN BULL'S first notable victory this season was the thumping of his Ryder golf team over an all-star American aggregation. It was so close that the final putt decided which nation would possess the cup —but Great Britain won and that is all that counts.

Then, in the British amateur golf tournament, the Hon. Michael Scott, a 50-year-old British subject, walked off with the championship. There was a handful of Americans in that meet. While it was no true test of superiority between British and American amateur golfers the presence of those Yankees in the tourney was an international angle—and a son of John Bull won.

The third great triumph for Great Britain came in the victory of Jack Crawford, Australian tennis star, over Wilmer Allison, American and former Wimbledon champion, in the English tennis championship tournament.

X X X

BALANCING these triumphs of old John Bull are two notable triumphs by Americans.

Two Yankees finished ahead of the field in the British open. Craig Wood and Denny Shute, therefore, played an all-American playoff for one of the most highly prized sport prizes, the British open title. Shute, as you know, won.

Added to this is the sixth Wimbledon tennis championship for Mrs. Helen Wills Moody. The Berkeley beauty bowled over all opposition in the tourney and the finals. There she met a tartar in Miss Dorothy Round, star British player. With difficulty Mrs. Moody defeated Miss Round.

However, youthful, Dorothy's great battle against Queen Helen, coupled with Crawford's win over Vines, has boosted John Bull's tennis hopes. His star may be in the ascendancy and Uncle Sam's may be setting. What do you think?

Beauty . . .

By Helen Jameson

Want weather brings blessings and ills to the complexion, offers no chance of a vacation for those who work in the cause of beauty. Outdoor life hoes circulation, but the skin catches more atmospheric ills, needs frequent renovating. Sunlight slaps on freckles, but it washes the pores free of blackheads, helps to heal pimples.

Hot weather appetites lack pep, thin down the rosy-pink darlings, so they can more easily wriggle into their bewitching baggery. But the silly season puts a damper on the ambitions of the string bean consultants who are cultivating curves. So it goes.

If the feminine face is to look spring-like when the leaves begin to fall, it should have more than the usual attentions. The cleansing and bleaching pack is offered as first aid to the countenance that has gone tan-patchy, been roughened by summer or is pesky generally out of form. The pack is creamy and for that reason, is with appeal to girls and women who have a notion that the most effective medicine is the one that tastes the worst — a good old-fashioned superstition that still flourishes.

Purchase from the druggist a small box of lanolin, which is our old friend Pullery, earth purified to a state of cleanliness.

In a small bowl place two heaping tablespoonfuls of the powder. Add one teaspoonful of peroxide hydrogen, add slowly enough rosewater to form a paste that is the consistency of whipped cream. I can't tell you exactly the measure of the rosewater, for one heaping tablespoonfuls of solids vary in quantity.

The pack must be thin enough to spread evenly, thick enough to hold together so that the amount placed on the skin is a fairly thick layer. If by chance you get the thin, more rosewater, throw in a bit more tan.

Before the application is made the face should be bathed thoroughly with soap and warm water, rinsed with tepid water, dried gently.

You can spread the pack with the fingers, or use a silver table knife or a spatula. Begin on the neck, at the line of the collar bones, and work up upward to the chin, over the cheeks and forehead.

The longer the pack remains, the more effective it will be. But in fifteen or twenty minutes it will crack, by which time it will be done. So off with it, using a washcloth and tepid water.

After the drying, dip bits of absorbent cotton in witch hazel, stroke over the skin surface. When that dries, indulge in a five minute massage, tapping, stroking and palming in a heavy emollient cr cleansing muscle oil, which-ever you prefer.

The proper time for the pack is at night. In the morning use cold water, nothing else. There will be a lovely velvety feel to the skin, and pores will be fairly free of dust and oil deposits.

Bleaching And Cleansing Pack

Why not tell her you love her first, and let the Watch depend on the kind of answer she gives you? If you only gazed on this young charmer from afar, naturally she has no idea of the "bone rum" dreams she is inspiring in you; and you don't take the first step about that flat or bungalow, she is free to smile on whomsoever she pleases.

Just tell her about the havoc she has created in your heart my dear Pitcher and await her answer like a man. I'm sure she won't be able to resist a successful ball-player. This letter will also answer another ball-player who signs himself Z. H.

FATHER IS A MIGHTY NIMROD

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My sister and I put in a few days work a week but do not bring enough home to keep my parents without worrying about how her bills are to be paid. My father doesn't care. He thinks of nothing, not even where the next meal is coming from, but worries about his hunting and fishing. He thinks more of his hounds than he does of his children.

He rented a large summer house, has a big car, and still is not satisfied. There is one ten in our family, and six are still minors. He said the whole family can live comfortably on $10.00 a week. I don't know what we would do. He always has his tobacco. He also claims pay envelopes.

A Daily Reader

It is almost unbelievable that a man should put fishing and hunting before the needs of his family. But there are lots of such husbands and fathers, as I've had similar letters from wives and daughters. The selfishness of husbands and fathers spend on cars, boats, hunting dogs, fishing tackle, etc., while their families go without.

The only way that of a man who bought soft-shell crabs for fishing bait—he early gambled, too, when crabs are expensive—and there was nothing in the house for the children but some dry bread. The 12-year-old son put a crimp in his father's game by frying the soft shells.

It seems to me that you and your sister make a mistake in turning over your pay checks to your father and you might try to rent out a few rooms in the big house. Some boarders would help with expenses, carry selfishness to an abnormal degree and their families make a mistake in yielding to such self-indulgence. Sometimes it's best an opportunity to talk things over with your father he would describe himself as a domestic tyrant, preyed upon by an unfeeling family. It's almost impossible to believe to see the other's side of the case.

Can the Wife Who Works "Look Up" to Her Husband?

(By Beatrice Fairfax)
Famous Authority in Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We've been engaged for the past six months and both have jobs. I make $25.00 a month more than she does and I am the better salesman for promotion than I. If we marry, I suppose she will go on with her job and I think there will be no difficulty with her employers about that.

It has been my experience that occasionally married women don't look up to their husbands the way I should like my wife to look up to me. Maybe I'm inconsistent, because she did give up her position it would be difficult for us to marry and live with any degree of comfort. Perhaps I'm selfish in not wanting my wife to work, and yet I am willing to accept the benefit of her salary.

John

The desire to have one's cake and eat it, too is a universal one among us mortals. Many a woman has tooth prompts cake—rich, with lots of plums in it—and, as old Father Adam did, of the forbidden apple, and regretfully filed the cake box empty!

Perhaps every man with a working, or a fiancee who proposes to keep on with her job, feels exactly as you do. It harks back to our inherited standards prejudices or whatever you like to call them. The division of labor in family life for untold ages has been for the man to go out and forage for the livelihood, and for the woman to remain at home and make things comfortable for her lord and master.

So, my dear young man, it's only natural that all the dead and gone forefathers in you, from your cave ancestor down, should rise up and object to this "new deal"—Woman working after marriage.

But today, when bread and cheese is scarce although there is as much in demand as ever, we have created a new problem in fact, so many of them do that it no longer causes comment.

If they belong to the sale and same type of young womanhood, they put by what they can for the home and for the children who will make the home complete. But if they belong to the scatter-brain type, whose motto is "eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we die," the extra dollars will not serve to keep them in "extras".

But whether your girl and multitudes of other girls faced with the same alternatives keep their jobs or not, I say to them as I would to a husband in the old-fashioned sense of the word, "Look up to your homedrawn carriage."

Women do look up to their husbands today, and always shall, I devoutly hope. But it's a different kind of looking. It is more from the way a real companion looks up to and admires another. It is not the cringing, conciliatory glance that dress-grandma gave to great-grandpa when she waipled the price of a new black silk.

The only reason for a married girl not working for a year or two after marriage is that she may have conscientious scruples about husband and wife both earning, when dollars are scarce—the feeling that some brown girl may need her job more than she needs it.

SHE INSPIRED HIM TO PLAY BETTER BALL

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a professional baseball player and not much for girls, but lately I've met one who seemed to inspire me to "make a home run". She is pretty, and very fond of me, and seems O.K. to me. This girl inspires me to play better ball and win several games. I moved on with the team, and she was just as fond of me as ever. It harks back to our inherited standards prejudices or whatever you like to call them. The division of labor in family life for untold ages has been for the man to go out and forage for the livelihood, and for the woman to remain at home and make things comfortable for her lord and master.

So, my dear young man, it's only natural that all the dead and gone forefathers in you, from your cave ancestor down, should rise up and object to this "new deal"—Woman working after marriage.

JANE FROMAN

One of radio's loveliest songstresses, Jane Froman, whom you heard on a network program this spring, returns to the air every Saturday as the star of a new series. She will perform to the accompaniment of Jacques Renard and his orchestra.

A MODERN CHARMER OF THE SCREEN

LYDA ROBERTI

One of the most "hot-cha" of the screen's blondes is Lyda Roberti. She has a leading role in "Three-Cornered Moon."

Child Who is Selfish

(By Constance Cameron)

The mother is terribly upset. Her baby who has always had out to fast anyone standing by when he eats, has suddenly refused to share anything with anybody. If the visitor offers candy, he might rate more amiably. But the mother must realize that her baby has reached the stage when he comprehends that he is an entity, that he owns things, that the delight is his, that is, for the moment he is the whole show. It is not the toddler's desire but it can be taught and it is the mistake that in the stage of development through which almost every child passes. The next step, after that of making the child share gracefully is to give him the delight of joy in sharing. The baby who has been possessive alone, and selfish by, because young babies have not to compete with themselves, must themselves learn to compete with or master another human being, now that another baby has come to the period when he can be shown graciously. He is delivered at the stage of his development when he needs group psychology. The best thing for the mother is to throw a ball to another child that is present. Soon he will learn that in sharing his sand pail with the small next-door many play ideas come to life which he hadn't thought of before. He will learn to push someone. And in playing with someone a fellow has to learn his turn.

Teach Child Generosity

Or another can help to tide over this period successfully, with another method. The habit of getting the toddler to share food with his playmate. Tea for two, which may be just milk and graham crackers is sharing, gracefully, enjoyably, and without effort. Then the guest get his full share. If not, be sure to watch and see that the host always try to make guests happy. That thought will not take long to penetrate into the young brain. And with group play and a sharing of food, we have started on our course of "selling" the idea of sharing to the child.

With a little care and thought as to results, you can, during this period, get the excellent habits of generosity. Know that it will pass. Your efforts will not have to be unduly prolonged. But don't miss the opportunity of helping the child to learn to enjoy sharing with someone.

DEATH STALKS THE CIRCUS ON TRAGIC FRIDAY THE 13TH

Adolphi Menjou, who created the role of Thatcher Colt in "The Night Club Lady," returns to the screen as the jaded reporter in the second of the Anthony Abbot murder mysteries, "The Circus Queen Murder," with Ona Munson in the role of the ill-fated performer.

Thatcher Colt, Publicity Chief of a New York Police Commissioner, wealthy, distinguished-looking, of fine family background and at the same time a practical, hard-headed police executive, is a most amusing supercilious about Colt as there was, for example, in the Philo Vance characterization brought to the screen so entertainingly by William Powell in a series of films. Vance and his screen prototypes, Powell and Basil Rathbone in one film and Walter Huston in another—solved baffling mysteries by the uncanny process of deduction. Colt, on the contrary, solves his perplexing problems by what he terms "Common Sense," plus intelligent police methods.

The crime confronting Colt in "The Circus Queen Murder," is the carefully concealed murder of a lovely woman aerialist with a travelling circus, who meets her death before the very eyes of thousands of spectators, as she goes through her perilous routine high up in the "big top." Sensational? No wonder! Who killed her? Her jealous half-crazed husband? Her lover? Any one of thirteen persons might have done it. How Colt eliminates one suspect after another, finally tracking down the real culprit makes surprise film entertainment.

Grim Realism

Screen entertainment of a most unusual character is promised at the Capitol Theatre when "Trapped in the Submarine" is the feature picture drama, opens there today on the screen. The picture is a thrilling pictorial record of the sinking of a British submarine following collision with a freight steamer, and the visualization of what goes on inside the ill-fated craft, constructed where a portion of the crew is imprisoned 130 feet below the surface, is said to be unusually vivid and realism.

In a few brief moments before the submarine is submerged a portion of the crew escapes through the conning tower, but eight men are trapped in an after compartment. Slowly, but with increasing convincing sequences the various reactions of the men are shown, their struggles to survive when all the passing hours bring conviction that the steel hull is destined to be their tomb. How they eventually escape provides a fitting climax to a tense, gripping story.

News and cartoon completes this cosmopolitan program which remains at the Capitol until Tuesday.

Monday and Tuesday are Dinner-ware Gift days.

Carnera-Sharkey

Full pictures of the famous Carnera-Sharkey fight have been secured and will be shown at the Capitol Theatre at all regular performances next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

"COLLEGE HUMOR" HAS ALL-STAR CAST AND MANY LAUGHS

Today and Monday the year's funniest film picture "College Humor" will be shown at the Belle daily at 2.30, 7.10 and 9.15 p.m. and for a good two-hour entertainment Belleville theatregoers should not miss this attraction.

An exceptional cast includes Bing Crosby, Richard Arlen, Mary Carlisle,Jack Oakie, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Coach Leonard Sons of the University of South California, Lona Andre, Mary Kornman and a perfectly dazzling collection of much-beloved maidens named the "Ox-Road Co-Eds."

Though no college was ever like the Mid-West University pictured in "College Humor," you'll think there were, that you might rush right out and enroll for any and all degrees! There, for Mid-West is the ideal lifetime resort for the romantic, a co-educational institution that specializes in dazzling blondes, flaming red-heads, alluring brunettes, the best collection of singers you've ever heard, taught by that master of crooning "Bing Crosby" and a football team that always wins.

There isn't a serious, silent or serene moment in the picture. It's all giggles and guffaws, songs and cheer, and unconfined and somewhat unrefined, hilarity. It moves with the pace of a fire engine on the way to the blazes, and the pace is so fast and so frequent that you may want to see the picture again to get the lines you missed the first time.

The Mid-West University, where the story is laid, is a pretentious institution that puts out capable football teams and co-eds that always get their man. To it comes Jack Oakie son of a wealthy butter and egg man, in the typical bragging Oakie role. Dick Arlen is a half-back on the football team; Crosby is a singer teacher. Burns and Allen, an old vaudeville team, run the campus sweet shop. Oakie makes the team —and a dame "Makes" him. And "College Humor" follows his career through four years of the maddest college life any man ever had, without a serious moment, with the loveliest girls you ever looked at, with three songs destined to be hits, "Learn to Croon," "The Old Ox-Road" and "Moonstruck," all introduced by Bing Crosby. It's one picture that all lovers of good, fast, clean entertainment should not miss.

Previous to the showing of "College Humor" at all performances, an excellent program of short subjects will be shown which includes the latest release of Our Gang Comedies entitled "Fish Hooky", a Betty Boop comedy cartoon and a most interesting Pinnacle Travel Talk entitled, "Daughters of the Sea."

Tuesday and Wednesday at the Belle another two feature program will be presented. "Lucky Devils," with Bill Boyd, Dorothy Wilson, William Gargan and Roscoe Ates and the picture that you see everything that happens, but we defy you to solve it, "The Crime of Dr. Crespi," with Erich Herschell Wynne Gibson, Stuart Erwin and Frances Dee.

NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

After Dorman More Than Week, Gold Issues Bounce up More Than Dollar Share in Some Instances Under Heavy Trading—Financial Markets Taken on Renewed Hope, when Wheat Soars Upward

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, July 15 (CP) — After being dragging for more than a week the senior gold shares showed signs of life in the latter session of the week on the Standard Exchange, and shallow recoveries gains under a heavier volume of trading. Silver issues on Kirkland Lake were quiet and the base metal group showed fitfulness without getting anywhere.

Lake Shore and McIntyre met with some demand and the former advanced to $44, up nearly $3 and the latter at $35 was up $1.50. Hollinger gained 10 cents, Wright Hargreaves and Teck Hughes about 30 cents each and Pioneer climbed $1.75 to $14.75. Dome gained more than a dollar to $28.25.

Eldorado edged higher under good buying volume, closing $3 for a gain of 30 cents. Other Kirkland leaders showed strength in Nickel and Noranda, both gaining about 50 cents each.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, July 15 (CP) — Trading in the shares showed mixed today, the food shares particularly developing an active streak. Loblaw and Ford of Canada also were under evident accumulation. Heavy buying hit the market in the last few minutes, lifting prices.

Traders bid up the Loblaw issues strongly, 77, 2, "A" issue going to 81 and the "B" stock to 79 1-2, both up a point to 1 1-2. These prices were shaded a little at the close. Early in the session the beverage stocks opened up from Friday's close but profit-taking was encountered and gains were mostly wiped out. Walkers common gained 2 but returned to 53 1-4 up 1-4. Brewers and Distillers did not start off as well as the issues in the close. Industrial Acceptance rallied a gain of 7 points to 96 and Imperial Bank Seagram also closed up 1-4 at 33 1-2.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Winnipeg, July 15 (CP)— Three figures were posted on the board of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today for the first time in almost 3 years, when May delivery passed the dollar mark in the early trading. Values opened 1¼ to ¼ higher. At top levels a tremendous amount of wheat was poured into the pit and values dropped 1 cent but heavy trading orders help the market steady there.

As mid-session prices came back to stand 1¼ to 2 cents higher, July at 93¼, October at 95, December at 96¼, and May at 100. Trade in cash crop news was responsible for the boost and support swept into the market with buying orders.

Most of selling was credited to a large prominent interest, supplemented by profit-taking. The volume of trade was large and grain brokers' facilities were taxed to their utmost to keep up with the fast changing prices.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, July 15 (AP)— Financial markets took on renewed buoyancy as wheat prices again soared and business news continued highly encouraging. Stocks did irregular at first, rallied under the influence of speculative buying and closed firm with many gains ranging from a fraction to three or points. Trading volume was not pronounced, transfers approximating 1,620,000 shares.

BEES TROUBLE FIRE FIGHTERS

Lindsay, July 15—Edward Johnston of Cambridge Township lost a loss bee by fire when seventy hives of bees were destroyed. The fire started inside the place where the bees were kept. The bees were busy on the farm of Talmage Brien, and it is understood the firefighters found it difficult to fight the flames because of the bees swarming about.

SHE SOUGHT ADVENTURE, FOUND IT

ELIZABETH JACOBSON

Tired of her prosaic job as typist in Brooklyn, N.Y., Elisabeth Jacobsen, 19, got her parents' permission to see the world alone, went adventuring. She had read a book about the annual grain "race" of the last of the windjammers from Australia to England, went there and shipped as the youngest female apprentice on a Finnish bark, one of the few girls ever to lose feminine apprentice on a Finnish bark, one of the few girls ever to participate in the race, which is not a sport event, but an effort of captains to beat each other to market. She did a regular sailor's work on the 100-day voyage. She's back home, filling up on ice cream and chocolate, the things she missed most.

HOOT GIBSON FINDS A NEW LOVE

Another Hollywood divorce is in the offing. This time it's between Hoot Gibson cowboy film star, and his wife, Sally Eilers, inset, who is now abroad. Gibson is shown in a Los Angeles hospital where he is recovering from injuries received when his plane crashed during the national air races. The divorce announcement was made in the presence of June Gale, 21-year-old nurse, shown here at Gibson's bedside, who admitted that she and the cowboy actor are "madly in love" with one another.

JUNE GALE AND HELEN HOMMEL

Mrs. Mate Hommel, bridge divorcee, started a Los Angeles courtroom where she sought an equal division of the $500,000 fortune of her divorced husband, Dr. Wesley J. Hommel when she described how she became the mother of three children, ABOVE, by a "scientific father." The domestic drama involved the husband who wanted children but had none; a "scientific father", and a third man who brought love into her life. Mrs. Hommel, asserting that motherhood was achieved by artificial means, told the court, "I am the mother of three children, but I never was a wife in fact to their father." She fell in love with the children's father, she said, after letting him come to her home to visit them.

TIGER Sporting Yarn

By Russ Westover.

"I still advise you to play a waiting game. I'll call for a showdown when the time comes. And this isn't the time.

"Don't tell a soul about this kidnapping business. And you can bet no one else will ever tell about it. Joe is too smooth to let information like that slip out.

"Of course we won't go to the police. That would be ridiculous. I'll be police, judge and jury when the time comes."

"You don't know how good you have been to me," Jerry said with gratitude.

"Forget it," Harriet said. But there was an answering note of friendliness in her voice.

And so, for the time being, that was all there was to the Amanti kidnapping business. The story ran with constantly dwindling interest for a few more days. The police promised to continue the search until the last man dropped, but most of them went back to their pinochle games, and Joe Middleton went about his business as though nothing had happened.

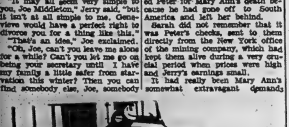
But Jerry thought once or twice he watched her quizzically when the papers were brought in.

Joe, however, was getting impatient about her answer on the house.

"Now listen, Jerry," he would say. "If I could manage to build the house in two weeks just to please you, I should think you could make up your mind in two weeks to please me.

"After all, what have you to make up your mind about? I'm not asking a thing in return for this house. Only your——well friendship."



"That's the trouble," Jerry said.

"Or, I should say, that is one of the troubles. You're never completely frank about what you want from me."

"You're to dictate the terms, Jerry pal. I. All I want is for you to be happy."

"It may all seem very simple to you, Joe Middleton," Jerry said, "but it isn't at all simple to me. Genevere would have a perfect right to divorce you for a thing like this."

"That's an idea," Joe exclaimed. "Oh, Joe, can't you leave me alone for a while? Can't you let me go on being your secretary until I have my family a little safer from starvation this winter? Then you can find somebody else, Joe, somebody who hasn't the ....the ideals and ....and conscience that I have."

"I've Suspected for a Long Time That he was Mixing up in the Racket."

"That's what I like about you," Joe said. "You're not like any other girl I've ever met before.

"How about Genevere? She has ideals, and she loves you, Joe."

"Genevere," Joe said with a little smile, partly wistful, partly bitter, "why Jerry, I married Genevere for her money."

CHAPTER 15

In the attic apartment everything was a whirlwind of preparation for Lucia Maria's birthday party. Conference with Kitten and Jackie, had decided that when Mary Baldi arrived he would live with them. In preparation Jerry had spent night and day hard-and-fast, trying to have a carpenter come in and partition off one of the sleeping-rooted alcoves as a room for Peter.

They had no idea when he would arrive, and Sarah, remembering how remarkable his appetite had been, had and how much Peter liked finger-bread, made a big batch early day before the party, so he'd have time to eat it.

Then they had to buy another chair for the little dinette set and a bed for Peter, which Jerry was able to get for a song at a bargain sale in the loop.

And Jerry had to tell the children all over again what their father was like and how big and strong and good he was, and why he had gone South America and why he had not been so long in returning.

"Will he bring us any presents?" Kitten wanted to know, "I do hope he brings me some of those pretty necklaces I'm dreadfully in need of circles. One of the girls in first grade wear a different dress every day."

"Maybe he'll bring presents," Jerry said, "but we can't be sure. Perhaps he'll be too busy to bring us. Jerry will have to support him, too, until he can get work."

"I'll bet my daddy is the swellest engineer in the world," Jackie said, "I'll bet he can dig swell mines."

Jerry felt as though Peter were a big brother coming home from wide adventures. She had always thought of him that way, because that was the way he had always treated her. She was always, "little Jerry" to Peter and even when he was going with Mary Ann, and Jerry had been in her early teens, she and Peter had formed a sort of alliance.

Peter had secrets they wouldn't tell Mary Ann, which used to make Mary Ann rather furious, and which had made Peter take that far-away but well-paid job. Sarah was a dear old thing, but terribly unreasonable at times, Jerry thought.

Jerry was particularly anxious to see what Peter thought of his children. He had never seen Jackie at all, and Jerry was terribly worried. Jackie was still not well and Peter would see him first as a thin, bigeyed little boy.

Kitten of course, had grown before anything he would imagine. She had been toddling when he had left and was now reading stories out of her little primer.

But Peter had made his way safely the entire length of the Amazon River, and back had fought his way through swamps and jungles, escaped from captivity among the Indians and out-tricked all the poisonous snakes and insects, all the animals and diseases of the tropical forests. And then, having reached civilization something happened!

But how could anything save happened? What could happen to Peter on a New York subway or a railroad train? What could possibly happen to him once he reached civilization?

But Jerry was not so sure that civilization is less dangerous than the jungle. Strange, for instance, was often very like the jungle and controlled by the laws of the jungle. There were, of course, the vast majority of people who were lawabiding, decent citizens, but in that other world of which she had caught only a glimpse, that world of conterfugs and sly assault, of gang war, a hijacking and sudden death, lived by claw and fang.

Jerry suddenly thought of the jungle as a city, and the city as the darkest sort of jungle, with the black, dirty river running through its deep canyon between the buildings, and the people moving like apes, the cars like shiny beetles.

She herself was a small bird or a very timid antelope in a jungle where these descendants things ate the food upon which the other animals lived.

One day Joe called her into his office.

"This is a showdown," he said, and there was no laughter in his voice or in his eyes, just a hard clear ring like metal on stone.

"I've played with you long enough. Either you give me an answer or you get out, do you understand?"

"I understand," Jerry said.

"Either you accept the house I have offered you on the terms I outlined or you do not need to report to work

TARZAN, LORD OF THE JUNGLE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"We will pay you well for permission to pass through "Be careful, Moslem," warned Tarzan, "the arms of your enemy," the Sheik snarled. "Not hundred the ape-man are long. They may reach out even in Tarzan. "Peace and profit have I offered thee, death and their fingers encircle thy throat." "Thou Christian dog," and Ibn Jad's voice took on an ugly shall have small dark to decide," called the Sheik to lone. "Since thou wouldst have war—so be it!" Then the ape-man. "Know this also, that Ibn Jad will not to his men: "Take him away and bind his feet." turn back until he hath that for which he came!"

They took Tarzan and at a distance from the bey of Ibn Jad, pushed him into a small tent. Within this flimsy prison, it required three men to throw him to the ground and bind his ankles, even though his wrists were already bound. In his own quarters, Ibn Jad sipped sweetened coffee and sank into profound thought.

Presently he leaned forward and addressed Tollog: "The Christian dog lies yonder, securely bound. The night will be dark. A dead Tarzan may not reach out to harm us. Then, Tollog, shall attend to this matter for me." Then Jad arose and entered the quarters of his harem.

Slaght Turns Light on Meighen Company Canyon Bond Deals in Address

Liberal Debate on Hydro Held Without Conservatives Present

HEPBURN CHEERED

All Phases of Government Activity Reviewed by Leader

Toronto, July 15—Climaxing his declarations with a demand for the resignation from the Ontario Hydro Commission of Arthur Meighen, Arthur G. Slaght, K.C., publicly charged Friday night that, shortly before the Ontario Government bought Ontario Power Service bonds at 100, the Canadian General Investments Limited, "of which Meighen was a guiding officer," was buying bonds "as low as $52.50, then turned them over to the Province a short time afterward, when the deal was announced, at $90."

Tory Absence Satirized

The setting for Mr. Slaght's sensational allegation was what was to have been the Hepburn-McCrea public Hydro debate gathering in Foresters' Hall, 22 College Street. Hon. Charles McCrea, for reasons which he set forth in his published letter to Mr. Hepburn, was not present, and his absence was the subject of satirical comment by every one of the evening's Liberal speakers.

The Ontario Liberal leader preceded Mr. Slaght, his lieutenant, in a characteristic, hard-hitting political address, in which he placed Hydro and Provincial finances at the top of the impending election issues —an election, he prophesied, which would be under way within six weeks.

The hall was filled, with some standing, and, despite the almost overwhelming heat, the audience remained intact throughout the whole of the Hepburn and Slaght speeches. The audience was intensely enthusiastic—an enthusiasm brought into full swing by a preliminary sing-song led by song leaders. Mr. Hepburn was cheered to the echo upon entry and before and after his address, with three rousing salvoes as added tributes.

Sarcasm Critical of the Conservative Administration

Queen's Park were plentiful throughout the Liberal leader's biting denunciations, but these interruptions began to sayor of hilarity as Mr. Slaght delved into his charges affecting the company with which the alleged Senator Meighen to be connected.

Audience at High Pitch

Starting back in the Legislature days when Opposition members leveled questions concerning Ontario Power Service Corporation bond records and transactions, Mr. Slaght wound his audiences up to high pitch of expectancy with a promise of ultimate announcement of "scandal." Neither Premier Henry's nor Senator Meighen's name, he said, appeared in the trust company list of bondholders. The Ontario Government had refused to Parliament information as to the bond purchases and sales of the half-dozen alleged-ly Meighen-directed companies. Was the Premier asleep? Was the Attorney-General asleep? A staff of accountants could have analyzed the company books in twenty-four hours. And then to his bombshell charge:

"I am going to give you some facts," Mr. Slaght said, "that have been heretofore concealed. I have taken some trouble to uncover for you certain information which Premier Henry and the Cabinet refuse to give you, and you may regard it as startling. It was revealed that in from March of last year until August of last year the promoters of the Ahitibi Corporation and the Power Service Corporation, the two companies that were bankrupt, were in negotiation with Premier Henry and Commissioner Meighen, through Hydro.

"Pretty Clever Work"

"During that interval Canadian General Investments, Limited, of which Meighen was a guiding officer, sold in the market Abitibi bonds which were going down, and which company went into bankruptcy at as high a figure as $41. That was pretty clever work. But much more significant is the Canadian General Investments, Limited, between March and August last year, bought Ontario Power Service bonds. And through them a short time before the Government announced that they would take those bonds over at $90, for the Province with Commissioner Meighen at the helm, bought those bonds back from some unfortunate bondholders last year as low as $52½, then turned them over to the Province a short time afterward, when the deal was announced, at $90. Pretty good graft, you will say."

And then, in stentorian tones and emphatic gestures, he went on to demand why did Premier Henry, Commissioner Meighen, "and the entire Cabinet, assist in protecting Meighen from disclosing those transactions to the public and the members of the House." Let Pre-mier-prospects for one of the best crops in years had been shattered by the unusually dry period.

Similar opinion was expressed by Robert Beatty, farm manager at the Ontario Reformatory, who stated that the crops throughout the district were drying right up.

"If rain does not fall within the next week the situation is going to be very serious," said Mr. Beatty. On his travels throughout the province, Mr. Beatty has found the oat fields ripened much too fast with the farmers getting a very poor yield, while he states that the root crops are also seriously threatened. Wheat is doing well, and the barley is good he declares.

Farmers in general are greatly concerned over the situation which they admit is the worst in these parts in many years.

SHOWERS TOO LATE TO SAVE MUCH GRAIN

O. A. C. Professor After Inspection Makes Report

FRUIT BELT HIT

Guelph, July 15—Lack of moisture in the past few weeks combined with the extremely warm weather threatens to cause a serious situation in this district if rain is not forthcoming immediately. The long period of drought has already affected the oat and barley crops to such an extent that farmers are getting a very small yield owing to premature ripening, while the pastures are now dried up badly and the root and corn crops need rain very badly.

Every part of Wellington County has been affected by the long dry spell and farmers stand to lose thousands of dollars owing to existing conditions.

Prof. W. J. Squirrell, head of the field husbandry department of the O.A.C. is sizing up the situation admitted that the drought had been a tremendous blow to farmers all over the district. He stated that everything was against them, the lack of rain and the oat and barley crops had been particularly hard hit. "We need rain in this section very badly," said Professor Squirrell. "If it showers some now, they will be too late to save the Spring grains, but they will be of tremendous benefit to the pastures and root crops provided they come immediately."

Not Calamity Yet

Professor Squirrell said the drought had not reached the calamity stage yet but admitted that

DODGERS' BEST — By Jack Sords

MANY ATTEND BAND CONCERT

Court House Lawn is Scene of First Concert of Year

There was a good turnout of delighted citizens at the concert given by the Belleville Municipal Band at the Court House, Friday evening. Lighting arrangements prevented the concert starting till nearly 9 p.m. and the music concluded at 10 o'clock.

The terraces at the Court House form and ideal central spot for holding of such concerts. When playing at the Tourists' Camp, Dundas St., or at the Agricultural Park a few other than the residents of the immediate vicinity attended, but when held at the Court House citizens from all sections of the city were present.

Considering the very short notice given regarding the holding of the event, the attendance last evening was much more than expected.

The following was the programme rendered:

March, "Tinvercargill", Lithgow.
Overture, "Bridal Rose", Lovalle.
Waltz, "Congratulations".
Selection, "Carmen," Bizet.
March, "Semper Fidelis" Sousa.
Overture "Normandy" Miller.
Scottish Selection "Among the Heather", Hale.
March, "B. M. P."
God Save The King.

TOURISTS ARE UP TO RECORD

258 Automobiles Are Registered at Local Camp

Contrary to the general belief that there is a decrease in tourist traffic this season statistics at the local Tourist camp show that practically the same number of tourists have registered at the Belleville Tourist Camp up to and including July 14, 1933 as was registered on the same date in 1932.

According to Mr. S. Nelson, the manager of the local camp, this year's registrations exceeded those of last year for the month of June, but declined somewhat during the first two weeks in July, contrary to the recorg of the camp in other years. Up to Friday night of last week some 258 cars had registered at the local camp compared with about 260 up to the same date last year.

In 1932 approximately 1060 cars were registered at the Belleville Tourist Camp and were afforded the privileges of the grounds. Some stayed one night only, while others, liking the surroundings and the scenic views of the Bay of Quinte stayed longer. One evening last year Mr. Nelson, by actual count, ascertained that there were 11 of the 48 States of the Union represented by automobile licences, besides three Canadian provinces.

In 1932 there were approximately 1,050 different automobile owners registered at the Belleville Tourist Camp with the majority being in the camp after the first day of August. The camp of 1932 opened on May 20th and closed on October 14th. This year the camp opened on the same date as it did in 1932 and according to Mr. Nelson, if the travelling motorists warrants the camp staying open it will remain open until the middle of October again this year.

Once again Mr. Nelson has the Belleville camp in a very clean and presentable condition which was exemplified no later than last week when a motorist from Boston, Mass. registered for the fourth consecutive season, and stated in no mild terms highly of the Belleville park and the manner in which it is conducted. Mr. Nelson stated to the newspaperman that he was somewhat disappointed regarding the falling off of registrations during the past two weeks as he had felt that a larger number would have been registered at this time than has been especially after the rainy season ending opening.

To date cars registered from Quebec, New Brunswick, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia in Canada have been at the local camp with U. S. automobiles from New Jersey, New York, New Hampshire, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois have been in evidence.

According to the figures of last season and those of 1931, the heaviest part of the tourist trade for the camp comes during the months of August and September each year.

OLD FASHIONED BARN RAISING BEE HELD

Neighbors Join in Replacing Barn Destroyed by Fire

Crediton, Ont., July 15 (CP)—A large new bank barn stood erected today on the farm of Harry Haist, just north of the village, as a result of an old-fashioned barn-raising bee held yesterday. The structure was built on a storm on June 7. About 140 men participated in the work and some 60 women prepared the meals, served on long tables on the lawn.

LITHUANIAN FLIERS MEET DEATH IN FOREST

Trees Mistaken for Field Fliers Crash to Death Within 400 Miles of Goal Bodies Mangled Beyond Recognition, When Located

12 TREES BROKEN

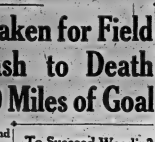
Motor Snapped Out And Wreckage 80 Feet From Crash

(By Louis P. Lochner)
(Associated Press Staff Correspondent)

Berlin, Pomperania, Germany, July 17—Stephen Darius and Stanley Girenas crashed to their deaths in a group of trees five miles from this ancient little town today when they were 400 miles from Kaunas, Lithuania, their goal when they took off from New York Saturday.

They had completed roughly nine-tenths of their proposed non-stop flight. Presumably through lack of fuel they sought to effect a landing in the dark morning hours, when there were low hanging clouds. They struck the forest with terrific force, apparently mistaking the green for a landing field. The bodies were mangled beyond recognition.

The plane mowed down about a dozen fir trees and then crashed to earth, one wing resting against a tree. The ship had turned completely around in crashing.



The motor was snapped off and carried 16 feet away. Some parts of the plane, which was smashed to bits, were found 80 feet distant.

The log of the airmen indicated that their plane, the Lithuanica, followed a remarkably straight course, keeping virtually the same latitude throughout.

The time of the disaster remained a matter of doubt tonight. Some people in the neighborhood said they heard a crash about 1:00 a.m. and then silence. It is thought a clap, Berry pilcoes declared they heard the drone of a machine at five o'clock.

The bodies of the two aviators, covered by a tarpaulin, rested beneath the trees.

RECTOR AND PADRE PASSES

Indian Parishioners in Tyendinaga Mourn Former Rector

Gananoque, Ont., July 17 (CP) — Archdeacon A. H. Creegan, Rector of Christ Church, died at the Rectory here early today. He was 81 years old.

Archdeacon Creegan had been ill for some months and recently his condition became critical.

Born in Halifax, N.S., he received his education at Queen's University, Kingston, being ordained in 1894.

For years he served the church at Bancroft and Christ Church, Tyendinaga Indian Reserve. In 1915 he went overseas as a chaplain with the Canadian forces and succeeded Canon Scott as senior chaplain of the Canadian Corps.

Surviving him are two sons, Frank G., of Coleman, Alta., and Rev. John B., North Augusta, Ont., and three daughters, Kathleen, Marion and Isabel, all of Gananoque. Mrs. Creegan died some years ago.

Archdeacon Creegan was well known in this city where he had often occupied the pulpits of St. Thomas and Christ Churches.

While in charge of Christ Church at the Mohawk Reserve he was received by his Indian parishioners and it was with reluctance that on their long-time friend and spiritual adviser removed to Gananoque.

SAYS HE KILLED A RATTLESNAKE

Although local naturalists view the story with sniffs of suspicion, here's George Carr's story—and the one he intends to stick to. On the farm of Mr. E. T. Brummel, West Huntingdon, where he is employed, Mr. Carr spotted a large snake gliding across the ground in front of him. Seizing a handy stick he despatched the snake and then examined it. On the tail of the reptile three distinct rattles could be seen. Residents of the section classed it as a rattlesnake.

Bruin Holding Fort Against All Comers Must be Removed Says Officials

Long Beach, Calif., July 17—(AP) —Bruno, a pet bear, has been holding the fort against all comers, but now the law is after him. The "fort" is property of his owner, V. K. Heilman, recently taken over by a bank on foreclosure action. Bank agents tried persuasion and force to oust Bruno but failed, and officials of the city pound, fled with lacerations. Now, under an order by the city prosecutor, Heilman must remove Bruno within a week or face charges of maintaining a nuisance.

NO DECISION RESULTS FROM RAIL PARLEY

Rail Department Claims Cut Too Heavy at Present

CANVASS MADE

Union Group at Montreal Includes Secretaries and Chairman

Montreal, July 17.—(CP)—Nothing tangible resulted today from the first of a series of meetings between executives of the railroad shop trades and company heads to discuss an 8-National 10 per cent wage reduction.

It was learned that during discussions Robert J. Tallon, President of Division No. 4 of the Railway Employees Department of the American Federation of Labor, and George S. Hodge, Chief Company Spokesman and other railroad representatives that his section of labor has already contributed too much to be left to undergo further reductions in pay. Rail heads will likely reply to this note at a future meeting.

Meanwhile other groups are taking a canvass of their membership to ascertain what steps should be taken. In this category are the running trades and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees, comprising clerks and storekeepers, among others.

It is also said that he is responsible for the "castor oil" administration to enemies of the Fascist revolution.

WILEY POST WINGING WAY TO NOVOSIBIRSK ON LONE FLIGHT

Had Perfect Weather Ahead But Delayed at Moscow

(By Stanley F. Richardson, Associated Press Staff Correspondent)

Moscow, July 17—Wiley Post, round-the-world flyer, left Moscow here from Koenigsberg, Germany, this afternoon and a few hours later soared eastward on the 1,818 mile journey to Novosibirsk, in Siberia.

The most perfect possible weather conditions prevailed from Moscow as far as the Ural Mountains. Local weather officials, who gave the airman full meteorological information before he left, said it was probable that the present cloudiness between the Urals and Novosibirsk would clear up before he reached that area.

Post refused a chance to snatch a few minutes sleep at the Moscow airport that he might speed up mechanicians working on his plane.

It was 5.13 p.m. (9.13 a.m. E.S.T.) when the flyer started the Novosibirsk leg of his journey. He had been in Moscow two hours and 52 minutes.

Wiley he sped away from the Soviet Capital a more than 48-hour growth of beard had disappeared from his face, as he spent fifteen minutes of his short stay here in the airport barbershop.

MOSCOW, July 17.—(AP)—Wiley Post, around the world flyer, landed here from Koenigsberg, Germany, (6.30 a.m. E.S.T.) today after a flight from Koenigsberg, Germany.

Post who seeks to better the mark he and Harold Gatty set on a globe girdling journey in 1931 left Koenigsberg at 6.45 a.m. local time (12.45 a.m. E.S.T.)

Weather reports indicated that after he passed the rain storm he braved at the time of his departure he had fair flying conditions the rest of the way.

Post and Gatti had an elapsed time of 8 days and 34 minutes when they reached Moscow.

Post made the trip from Koenigsberg to Moscow in five hours and 35 minutes and had therefore an elapsed time of 50 hours and 10 minutes on his arrival in Soviet Capital. He is behind the schedule he had arranged for himself, but was four hours and 24 minutes ahead of speed he made with Gatty.

The Oklahoman lost time in Berlin because of poor weather conditions and later in Koenigsberg because of rain.

Needs Work On Ship.

His monoplane swooped down suddenly out of the west, circled October Field, and then made a perfect landing. The airman took by surprise airport officials and the corps of foreign correspondents who had not expected him to hail in Moscow, particularly because he spent the night at Koenigsberg, comparatively a short distance away.

WHEAT RARE JUMPS UP 5 CENTS BUSHEL

Chicago Pit Prices Triple Those of Six Months Ago

FLOUR CLIMBS

Barley Skyrockets Twelve Cents to Eighty Four Cents

Chicago, July 17—Wheat seemed as scarce by board of trade brokers today that it shot up 5 cents a bushel in two hours today.

The rise on top of many others put some options as $1.37 a bushel, triple the quotation six months ago when wheat reached a low record for the last 300 years.

Flour rose to a new five year record in Minneapolis, gaining 30c a barrel to a top of $4.85, including $1.38 Federal Processing Tax assessed to pay farmers to grow less wheat.

Flax seed shot up 16 cents a bushel to $2.34. The only seeds gained 8 cents higher and soon rose as much more at Minneapolis.

Barley gained attention on the Chicago Board of Trade as wheat drove through $1.77, the brewing skyrocketing 12 cents a bushel to nearly 84 cents.

The winner will receive $3,000. Pearce is guaranteed $2,500, win, lose or draw, under the terms of the agreement.

The race will be held in Lake Ontario on the regatta course of the Canadian National Exhibition. The Exhibition sports directors made announcement of the signing today.

Pearce will train on the same Phelps will leave England July 24 and will complete his training here.

George Lee, Opel, Germany, who was defeated in the Diamond Sculls at Henley will accompany Phelps. Von Opel may enter some of the amateur events held during the regatta.

RAIN, HAIL IN WHEAT AREAS

Grain Crops Threatened in Vicinity of Calgary

Calgary, July 17—(CP)—Thunderstorms accompanied by heavy rains during the week end relieving drought in certain wheat areas and bringing grief to power companies as lightning interfered with the service.

Edmonton, which draws its power from Calgary Power Co. was thrown into darkness when lightning danced along the wires, disrupting operations. Similar trouble in the Alberta capital were forced out of commission.

Cheery rain was brought into Calgary district farmers as a 72-minute rain broke a three week's drought which threatened ruin to grain crops. Other southern districts received the beneficial moisture but there were areas still reporting serious drought situations and factor crop failures unless rain appears shortly.

Girl Tells Court Father Sold Her in Marriage to Man for $300

Chicago, July 17 (AP) — Circuit Judge Benjamin P. Epstein has been called upon to decide the question of annuling the marriage of 18-year-old Marion Fisher, who told court her stepfather sold her to Kasper Felder for $300.

She also testified that her mother gave her a drink of whiskey on the morning of her marriage last December 31 and that her mind was a blank for several hours afterward.

"I never saw Felder again until I came to court just now," she said.

Although Felder sought the annulment the judge indicated the girl's testimony would be embodied in a decree for her.

General Apathy Expressed by Delegation to Conference

(By DeWitt Mackenzie)
(Associated Press Staff Correspondent)

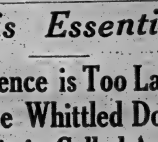
LONDON, July 17.— The leaders of the World Economic Conference have decided after a long consideration that too many cooks spoil the broth. Unless they change this view the Conference; which will take a recess July 27 will not be reconvened in its entirety.

The belief that the parley should not be revived after the recess was voiced at this morning's meeting of the steering committee, it was understood.

There is a growing feeling the Conference as now constituted is so unwieldy it blocks its own progress, Experts Needed

If and when it is brought into being again—in London, Washington, Geneva or elsewhere—its numbers will be whittled down so that it will not take a census expert to keep track of the sub-committees of sub-committee of committees appointed by sub-commissions of the commissions.

PRIZE CATTLE BURNED



Belhaven, Ont., July 17 (CP) — Thirty hogs, three calves and a prize cow were burned to death yesterday when a barn, on a farm operated by W. Shropshire was struck by lightning and completely destroyed by the resultant fire.

Besides the stock nearly a year's crop of hay, stored in the building and numerous farm implements were destroyed.

GETS MILLIONS

ONLY 2—BUT SMOKES

The cigar smoking legion can't boast of a younger member than Charles (Sonny) Norwood of West Paterson N. J., who is pictured puffing away at something new in packages—a Perfecto. Sonny, who won't be two years old until July 28 developed his love for cigars by accident at the age of 14 months, when he was attracted by a cigar in his father's smoking. Instead of reaching for a rattle, Sonny reached for the cigar. His father pulled it away. Sonny yowled for several days. Only the cigar would do. Finally the family gave in and it didn't take him long to know his brands.

SETS FIRE TO CLOTHING

Windsor Woman Uses Kerosene Also Fires Children's Beds

Windsor, Ont., July 17 (CP)—Mrs. Annie Brookbanks, who was taken to hospital early this morning suffering from severe burns received when she set fire to her kerosene soaked clothing, died shortly after at the hospital.

Authorities believe that Mrs. Brookbanks first fire to the beds of her three sleeping children, then turned beyond the flames.

The children, authorities say, were awakened by the sound of smoke and followed their mother down the stairs of their home to the street. The mother, they said, shut herself in the kitchen and there set fire to her clothes.

Screaming in agony, she rushed from the house, rousing neighbors in the terrace who came out to find the three children, Hilda, 13, and twins, Billie and Duncan, 10, huddled in terror on the lawn.

By the time help arrived the mother was badly burned and she was rushed to hospital. The children all escaped uninjured.

Hilarion Brookbanks, Canadian Pacific Railway employee, husband of the injured woman, could give no reason for her alleged actions. "She was all right when I left home to go to work at 11 o'clock," he said. "She kissed me goodbye after I had my lunch and the next I knew of this terrib'e thing was when I was called from work."

"I need some work on the ship and also some gas and oil," he said.

MAY BE SOME SAVING IN OILING STREETS

Oil Distributor is Giving Entire Satisfaction

With nearly one third of the city streets now treated, a halt was called this week in street oiling, which has been carried on during the past few weeks. The International, on the work will be used a temporary one however, to enable employees of the department of public works to prepare other roads particularly on the east side of the city for treatment. Three large tank cars of standard preparation for road treatment have so far been used by the new distributor in covering roads already treated. According to officials of the public works department, perfect satisfaction has been given by the new oiler and distributor since the commencement. It is believed that an appreciable saving has so far been made in the work over the cost of previous year's contract work.

City and District News

FIREMEN LUNCHED AFTER THE FIRE

Appreciative of the splendid work performed by the local fire department at Sunday night's blaze, Mr. Chas. J. Symons had the members of the Brigade as his guests at supper Monday morning lunch at the Lyndon Cafe following the subjugation of the fire in the McKie-Symons' block.

EVERETT LIDDLE WINS 4TH PRIZE

Mr. E. H. Liddle, of this city, received information from the Canada Dry Beverages Company of Toronto last week relating to the provincial-wide contest, sponsored by that company, in which he was awarded the fourth cash prize. Mr. Liddle, who is connected with the local sales staff of the National Grocers, finished well in the contest as there were 85 such salesmen throughout the province competing. The fourth prize was a substantial cheque.

FIRST CLASS HONORS FOR RETA CLARK

At the Toronto Conservatory examinations held at Albert College recently, Miss Reta Ellett, pupil of Miss Pearl Bowerman, was successful in passing her Primary Piano and the Elementary Theory with first class honors.

OFFICERS RETURN FROM TRAINING

The members of the party or officers and other ranks of the Argyll Light Infantry, who have been in attendance the past two weeks at the Camp School at Barriefield, returned to the Belleville last. They report a most instructive class and their treatment under canvas, everything that could be desired.

TWO CONCERTS BY THE ARMY BAND

The Salvation Army Sunday evening held its second after-church service for the summer at the corner of Front Street and Victoria Ave., at 8.15 o'clock. The service drew quite a goodly crowd and for three-quarters of an hour a meeting of music and testimony was held.

In the afternoon the Army held a musical service at the Firemen's Park, South Front Street.

CITY CLOCK STOPS FOR FEW HOURS

"Big Ben" of Belleville bent on a least Monday night did not become better before Sunday evening, and its hourly warning of the fleeting time was welcomed to the residents of this city and the wayfarer in his encompassing confines for nearly twenty-four hours.

Back on the job once more, however, the time-piece in the city tower is again scoring out its hours' time, while its hands are again pointing to the passing minutes and hours.

SUNDAY'S RAIN NOT GENERAL

A gentle rain which was of an entirely local nature fell over the city and immediate district on Sunday afternoon for a short period, leaving in its wake a greener shade on the burned and dried fields and the cool crops of the section. Although a slashing hail and rain thrashed and levelled standing grain west of the city in the district of Foxboro, Belleville escaped the devastation of the storm and appreciably lower temperature following. Some Sunday downfall, Hamilton and Foxboro residents reported, but not a drop of rain fell in the city vicinity although it is believed that rain was received further north in the county. It rained hard in Picton Edward county.

EELS PLENTIFUL IN QUINTE BAY

Eels, larger and more plentiful, than they have been for years, are biting freely in this district, furnishing the unemployed of the city with a welcome addition to the family larder as well as considerable nocturnal sport. On Saturday evening, at the government dock, where the elongated fish are swarming thickest during the evening hours, Mr. Geo. Reid, local fisherman, managed to hook and land one in the space of an hour. Other fishermen report the same successful fishing.

HUM OF ACTIVITY AT GOVT. DOCK

Opening activities for the week at the local government dock were inaugurated on the loading of the steamer Olena Allan with a large consignment of cheese and canned goods for the port of Montreal. Word has been received today by Mr. Bole, County road harbor master, concerning a large freighter in distress on the rocks near Deseronto. No details regarding the name of the boat or the cause of the accident had been received.

SAILING TRIP IS ENJOYED

South End A. C. Fleet Maye Trip to Trenton

Sponsored by the South End A.C., the local yachting fleet enjoyed their visit to Trenton on Sunday, Leaving Victoria Park at 9.30 a.m. the boats anchored at the Bay Bridge and passed through to start on what look to be a windless journey but when the boats reached Redeserville they had all the breeze they wanted, the wind coming from the west, turned is into a real sailing battle to make headway. However Pigeon Island was reached about 12.30 so lunch was the next order, the larger boats continuing on to Trenton. After the eats were disposed of the official boat with Rene Collier in charge and the club secretary aboard towed the small boats to Baker's Island and then let them loose to finish the trip under their own sail into Trenton, the first boat docking about 2.15 p.m. and thereafter the boats being in by 3 p.m. After visiting awhile a short excursion down the bay was accompanied by Mr. Reddick of Trenton with his boat.

Start For Home

At 6 p.m. the fleet set sail for home and the boat reached Bay Bridge at 5.45 p.m. Meanwhile the sky in the west became clouding over and it looked like a storm coming, but the club members were apparently set off to bring up the rear of the fleet, this being, as it turned out, a good move for Mr. Cobbs because a squall came along and "Gloria" and "Bobbie" both capsized and the boat was right there to give the necessary help, only smart thinking kept the "Lets-Go" from going over too, immediately the skipper saw what was happening he reversed his mainsail and so kept upright.

The remainder of the trip of the day was certainly "The Toits", when passing the Bay Bridge on the outward trip she broke an outlock but gamely continued the journey as far as Ninety-one Point, then transferring into shore for repairs, in the face of the west wind this was no small feat, she was picked up on the return journey and made the safely home.

Many Boats in Fleet

The two boats which capsized would not be the only ones that day, as were sailing full wind and ome starets into the bay, in the squall except and had no chance to hold the boats up.

The following boats took part in the trip: After-U II; Joka; Volunteer; Dolphin; Gloria; Bobbie-O; Jester; Scrapper; Gloria; Bobbie-O; Jester; Scrapper; Gloria; Bobbie-O; Jester; Scrapper; Toots and Skippy.

The boats with the exception of Toots (disabled) Volunteer and Roma, the latter two having started back home for same reason, take part in the exhibition race. Altogether a good time was spent and a grand time was had by all and the reception in Trenton was very cordial.

The freedom movement which Canadian cattle now enjoy within the United Kingdom, as a result of the agreement reached through the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa, has been a very important factor in preventing contagious foot and mouth disease virus widening the outlet for Canadian cattle.—Dominion Live stock Branch.

2 ACCIDENTS AT TRENTON

Cars Damaged in Both But No Injury to Persons Reported

TRENTON, July 17.—(Special)—Two minor motor accidents were reported to the local police over the week end, resulting in no injury to persons.

A car owned by Alex McLeod of North Bay and driven by his stepdaughter Miss Marjorie Gardner was attempting to turn around on Queen and Dundas street, where the collision occurred, by George Rosenpiolet of Trenton, tried to go through the McLeod car but struck it damaging his fender.

Mr. H. S. Gunn of Toronto turned his roadster into the ditch near Riley's on the Trenton-Belleville highway last evening about 9.30 p.m. Considerable damage was done to the car but the driver and passenger were uninjured.

The crane from Fligelbon and Clegg's garage brought the wrecking to Trenton for repairs.

Two small children miraculously escaped serious injury on Saturday afternoon when they darted from behind a parked car near Scurie's drug store directly in front of a car driven by Dr. Agnew of Toronto. Dr. McGrade was called to examine the boys but except for a few scratches they were not injured.

Luxuries are things which you can't afford and buy anyhow.

ANOTHER ROGERS

MARY ROGERS

Fresh from an exclusive finishing school in New York, 18-year-old Mary Rogers, only daughter of Will Rogers, cowboy comedian, has taken the first step along the motion picture trail beaten by her famous father. As Mary Howard she walked into the casting office of a Hollywood studio, asked for a job and got it without revealing her true identity. She passed her film test 100 per cent. and will definitely chosen the screen for her career.

News Reel With King and Queen Attending First Talkie

The scenes of Their Majesties King George and Queen Mary attending a public showing of the British film "The Good Companions" at the Capitol Theatre in the news reel at the Capitol Theatre on the present program.

The visit of the King and Queen to the London showing of "The Good Companions" aroused wide interest. Their Majesties had never previously attended a public showing of a talking picture and the occasion was the first upon which the Royal standard had been flown by a cinema.

"The Good Companions" is by general consent, the finest picture ever produced in a British studio and Manager Holmes of the Capitol theatre is delighted to announce that he has been successful in securing this attraction for showing at the Capitol theatre commencing Saturday next for an engagement of three days only.

ACCIDENTS MINOR OVER THE WEEKEND

Box Flies Into Car and Driver Loses Control

Despite the rather heavy motor traffic, that was in evidence on the highways over the week end, the various automobile accidents were reported to the Belleville district although two minor accidents happened east of Belleville on Sunday morning.

About 9.30 a.m. a car driven by Mr. Hector Judge, R. R. T. Canon, of Cochrane collided with a car driven by A. Howell of Shannonville, as the later crossed in front of the Judge's car endeavoring to enter the drive way near the Roman Catholic Church at Marysville.

Mr. Howell was proceeding westward at the time and made a left hand turn, while Judge driving in the preceding eastward. The cars met with both right hand fenders colliding. No serious damage was reported although the fenders of the cars were torn.

When a bee flew into A. Fritz's car of Marysville, about one mile west of the village, Sunday morning, Mr. Fritz momentarily lost control of his car, that went into the right hand ditch. No damage or injuries were reported.

QUINN GENERAL STORE AT TWEED ROBBED

Cash and Goods to Value of $150 Are Taken

Gaining entrance by forcing the lock on an adjacent building in the rear, robbers broke and entered the Quinn general store at Tweed sometime Sunday night, stealing goods and cash to over the value of $150, the actual cash taken amounted to around $40.

The robbers broke the lock from back door in a shed and have forced the rear door of the store. Once inside the building the robbers ransacked the building taking articles of clothing such as suits of clothes, shirts, and shoes to a value reputed to be over $150.

Provincial Constable Hill of Madoc investigated the robbery but no trace of the robbers has, as yet, been announced by the provincial police. Transients are thought to have been the robbers.

POPULATION IS PROBLEM

Density in India is Theme of Rev. Dr. La-Flamme

The pulpit of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church was yesterday supplied by Rev. Dr. H. T. LaFlamme of New York City, who at present is sojourning in Bath, Ont. His boyhood was spent in Montreal and for a number of years he has been Baptist Missionary in India and is associated with Rev. and Mrs. Chute (nee Miss Bowerman) who are family relatives of Mrs. W. C. Dempsey of Prince Edward County.

Last evening Rev. LaFlamme's discourse was upon India as a missionary country. Stirring himself added to the inspiration of the service. One of the problems of that land, of which he is familiar is the density of the population. India is the third-ful of that of the Dominion of Canada while the 330 million inhabitants are equal to those of Europe, less Russia and also Africa. India has been groping for centuries with the fundamental query of nations' and has caused many elucubrations as to the future of the race. It is the great city peculiarity or life in the varied climatic aspects of life in the country, live either in great cities, towns, or numerous villages instead of being spread out in rural communities as in most countries. In Canada a million acres of land is allotted to about one thousand souls to shepherd, evangelize and instruct, whereas in India an area of 28,000 belongs are entrusted to the missionary's parish. There is seeing 36 miles long by ten miles wide must be traversed in looking after his flock The three native religions are Hinduism, Mohammedanism and Buddhism with Christian populations of about six millions.

The problems of transmutation and reincarnation common to India along with the Hindu cast system are stupendous problems. The deplorable state of her twenty-seven millions of souls, many of them very young, is pathetic.

Dr. LaFlamme described the Sacred Books of the Hindus and also referred to much filth, obscenity and immorality in connection with the same. Nevertheless, he said, remarkable changes have taken place in the social customs.

Illiteracy there is lamentable. Only one person in every three have no schools. Three out of every four boys and sixteen out of seven girls are receiving some kind of education. Thirty-five dollars constitutes the annual income and other thirty-five dollars invested well will furnish a teacher for a year in the line of the Three R's, Writing, Arithmetic and Religion.

The speaker looks forward with ahead in India cannot be compared to what the United States is trivially accepted will be the Philippine Islands. "There would be no India without English rule and to co-ordinate the several dominions there is a big task for years to come. The manifold itself to transportation opportunities and correspondence with other place. Co-operation is a factor and dependent upon credit based upon good character. Heroism comes the north of the redemptive gospel of Christ. We can print the missionaries and missionaries, give of our substance as stewards, yet most of all is needed good living for Christ effort and no stream can rise higher than the fountain source, concluded Dr. LaFlamme in a very interesting, informative and earnest address.

COLLECTION INCREASE AT INCOME TAX OFFICE

Increase of $18,623.18 for First Quarter Noted

The Belleville District office of the Dominion Income Tax Branch of Department of National Revenue shows an increase in collections for the first quarter of the government year ending June 30 over the period in 1932. For April, May and June of 1933, the local office took in $320,675.61 as compared with $302,252.43 in 1932, an increase of $18,423.18.

Throughout the Dominion for the first three months of the 1933 fiscal year there was a decline in revenue from Income Tax of $5,991,416.77. In the period ending June 30, 1932 collected as against $44,138,462.04 in 1932.

AUTOMOBILE DASHES DOWN STEEP HILL WITHOUT INJURY

Remarkable Demonstration of Motor Car Gymnastics in Which an Automobile Does Series of Circus Somersaulting.

Rolling over and over down a steep hill an automobile furnished the chief interest in a moving picture show at the Capitol Theatre last week. When the auto reached the bottom of the hill it was righted and climbed the hill on its own power, apparently none the worse for its gruelling experience. The film was taken as a demonstration of the strength of the Fisher Body, an outstanding feature of all General Motors automobiles and the results certainly justified the effort. At the top of a very steep hill a car was placed and the top of the purpose of overturning the car which was selected for the purpose. Both the car was started on its long journey down the incline. So perfect was the balance of the body that the car righted itself after one complete somersault. The remarkably slow motion showed that the resilience of the steel in the frame of glass in a front window was broken by a flying seat cushion, but no other glass was broken. Doors and windows were in perfect working order, as were the No Draft Ventilators.

Damage to the car was confined to the crushing in of the roof and the roof panels or the body.

Then the big thrill of the picture occurred, when a driver stepped into the car and drove it back up the hill. Another test was made only on a steeper hill with the same car and the same result, except that it reflected. No further damage was done, doors and windows opened freely and the car drove under its own power to a repair shop where a few minutes' work put it completely as good as new. The entire film was a remarkable demonstration of the strength and the safety quality of the famous Fisher Body.

Sports and sportsmen in the picture related to all kinds of sports, athletic skill in every line of human activity, courage, self-reliance, health and character is needed in all lines of sports and the close association between the upbuilding and strengthening of the human body as necessary to success in sport to the same qualities in the body of an individual which is subject at times to such terrific tests.

The film was presented by General Motors and Canada through the local representative J. B. Boyce and providing entertainment and education to the thousands who witnessed the showing at the Capitol Theatre.

BIG DEMAND FOR FAIR PRIZE LISTS

Secretary States Entries Will be Heavy This Year

Mr. R. H. Ketcheson reports that never since he has been secretary of the Belleville Agricultural Society has there been the demand for prize lists of the Belleville Fair as there has been the past fortnight. Anticipatory exhibitors who have never asked for lists are asking for them this season, and the increase from the speeding events have been sent out on solicitation from horse owners.

Everything is going forward with exceptional success and everything is shaping for the best fair Belleville has yet attempted.

The ruling of the Ontario Department of Agriculture to withdraw from fairs all gambling and betting at the fairs this fall has embarrassed the directors of the local society considerably, but excellent award makers have been selected to judge the various lines and everything is going forward with despatch for the great annual agricultural exhibition of Hastings County.

If people in the mass persist in thinking that a certain monetary mechanism is safe and sure, they will incertainly succeed in making it unsafe.—Sir Josiah Stamp.

OBITUARY

NICHOLAS WHITE

Following a short illness, an aged and respected lifelong resident of the second concession of Tyendinaga, township, passed away Sunday afternoon, at his late residence in the person of Nicholas White. The deceased was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas White and was born in Tyendinaga 80 years ago, where he engaged in farming in that township since his youth. The late Mr. White was a devout member of St. Mary's R. C. Church of Marysville, and was a man well known and esteemed throughout the township of his birth. To those left to mourn his loss is extended the sympathy of their many friends in the southern section of the county.

Immediately surviving are the widow and two sons, Edmund and Joseph at home, and two daughters, Miss Lena also residing at home and Mrs. Thomas Drummey of Tyendinaga.

The funeral will take place from the late residence, Tuesday morning to St. Mary's Church for Mass at 9 a.m.

LATE MISS K. J. WHITEHOUSE

Many friends and neighbors were Saturday afternoon in attendance at the funeral of the late Miss Kate R. Whitehouse, which was held from the residence of her brother, Mr. M. Chisholm in the ninth concession of Tyendinaga. The Rev. W. H. Merrick of Carrington, conducted the service at the home and at the graveside in the Bellefield cemetery.

The bearers were Messrs William White, Adam Reid, Joseph Colden, Albert Wilson, Alexander Crawford and John Johnson.

MRS. WILLIAM WATSON

Another elderly resident of this city passed away this (Monday) morning at her late residence 46 Catherine Street following a lengthy illness in the person of Mrs. Beatrice Watson, widow of William W. Watson. The deceased was born at Big Island, 80 years ago, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nancy Thompson and nearly all her life had been spent in this city. She was a member of the Tabernacle United Church and was beloved by a host of friends here.

Surviving are two sons William Wesley and Arthur Watson of this city; three brothers, Frank of Burnaby, B.C., Samuel of Vancouver, B.C., and Ira of Calgary; and two sisters, Mrs. R. D. Harris of Belleville and Mrs. George Caverly of Kingston.

The remains will rest at the Pickell & Browne Funeral Chapel, 197 Church Street, till the time of the funeral; Wednesday afternoon.

MRS. EDWARD W. VERMILYEA

Many friends will regret to learn of the death of Mrs. Edward Warman Vermilyea, passed away suddenly this (Monday) morning at the home of her friend Mrs. W. R. MacTavish, 33 Catherine Street. Of late months Mrs. Vermilyea had been visiting there, Mrs. Vermilyea was the daughter of the late Dwight and Lucy Faulkner and was born in the village of Pearceville, all her life however had been passed in the community. The late Mrs. Vermilyea was a very estimable Christian character and will be sincerely missed by a large circle of friends in this city. She was a member of the Bridge St. United Church and quietly and unobtrusively had carried on the work of her Master here.

To mourn her loss immediately surviving are her son Roy, of Santa Barbara, California and Gerald of this city; and three daughters Mrs. Robert D. Macaulay of Vancouver, B.C., and Mrs. P. H. Wills and Mrs. Charles F. Lyall of Belleville.

BELLEVILLE BOY'S CAMP NOTES

Browned and happy the boy, at Moira Lake Camp lead a busy life, both in the water and on the baseball championship while all groups also enjoyed special honors in holding the honor flag awarded daily.

Hikes were conducted Friday, the first going northwest under leadership of Adam Reid, Jr., while the second group went northeast from the camp under Milburn George and a visitor the tale mine. The third went southeast under Jim Zufelt and discovered the farm and the south shore. The fourth, under John Stephenson took the trail to the southwest and explored the old fourpaw mine and the heavy woods to the south of the west lake. Thrilling stories were told around the camp fire for campers Allen Millar, Warren Williamson, Jack Dickens and Stuart Muirhead.

Two former ladies, Mrs. Gordon and Joe Hitchon dropped into camp Friday and remained for camp fire. Ernie Smith, an ex-camper and a present pitcher for the senior baseball team, visited the boys.

The horseshoes, five pins and archery championships are narrowing down.

The boys were aroused by the drone of bombers and fighters on Saturday and rushing to vantage points had a splendid view of some ships of the Italian squadron on its way to Chicago.

An overnight hike and sleep in the open will provide a thrill and Friday craft racing, a real humor of the older boys on Saturday, Monday, aquatic meet; Tuesday, athletics; Wednesday, camp closes after noon dinner.

Sunday the campus have chapel service following breakfast; go to church in Madoc at 11 a.m.; have a Bible class and vesper camp in the afternoon and a camp fire talk in the evening. The boys and staff give a good deal of time to the visiting friends on Sunday.

FOUR FRONT STREET STORES DAMAGED BY FIRE

Firemen Battle Stubborn Front Street Blaze with Damage Believed $20000

Breaks Out Hour Before Midnight Sunday and Soon Under Control

SMOKE AND WATER

J. W. Cook, Scopis Restaurant, C. J. Symons and Schryvers Suffer

The most spectacular and destructive fire to take place in this city in a number of years was that which gutted the McGie-Symons block late Sunday night. The alarm was turned in at 10.45 p.m. by Reeve Arthur Harman and at 11 o'clock flames were shooting from the third floor windows of the building on the Front Street side and at the rear of the premises. Volumes of forced smoke and sprays of ascending sparks with the glow of the fire bursting from a dozen windows and a throng of nearly a thousand of the residents of the city lent the scene of conflagration.

It was a stout and timely battle the members of the Belleville Fire Department put up against their fiery adversary, but inside of three quarters of an hour they had subjected the flames. The fire was kept within the confines of the one block but smoke permeated into the John W. Cook and C. J. Symons on the three floors of that store were dense with smoke for over an hour; the Schryver Harmony also being affected by smoke to a slight degree and some water came through there in the back shop.

Suffer Most

The second and third floors were where the fire wrought havoc. J. Arnold Thomson, architect, had his office and living apartment in the rear of the second floor and everything there is wreckage though little damage caused by the fire itself. The Prudential Insurance Co. occupy two offices at the front of the building on this floor and suffered from water damage. Charles J. Symons had storage space on the second floor, heavily occupied, by the office, hallway and a couple of class rooms of the old Ontario Business College and it was there the fire raged most fiercely. This part of the building was literally gutted through. Charles J. Symons' store on the ground floor received the greatest damage by water, as the fire progressed its interior somewhat. Many rain streams and the volume of water thrown onto the glowing furnace overhead made the water run through the ceiling in thirds of rivulets. The Scopis restaurant, the other store occupying the block also was drenched with water but not to the extent that of the Symons' store. Both suffered heavily with smoke as well.

Firemen's Good Work

The Fire Department made a quick run to the scene of conflagration and had four streams of water pouring into it short order. The pump house ran an extra pump and the pressure was of the best, the streams playing well over the height of the building. Chief Branch and his men made a splendid job of their undertaking while the police had traffic regulated and kept the fire department had full and unrestricted scope for their activities.

The ladder came into the fray Sunday night and both at the front and rear of the building these were thrown up to roof. One of the firemen had a warm minute at the back of the building, when he went up a ladder and directing a stream into the third floor window from the second floor window into a roaring flame and belched out through the three rear second floor windows for a moment he was enveloped in the flames. He came down, still in the flames, but was and shot the water into the inferno raging there.

A well runs down from the roof to the cellar of the old Cummings' block on Bridge Street, just to the rear of the Dominion Bank block, with a wooden frame work at the top. The chief's watch was appreciative that this might take fire and embers drop there and ignite that block also. To prevent this and protect the adjoining blocks about the fire break through the roof of the burning building a line of hose was thrown up the hallway of 19 Bridge Street to the third floor, taken up a ladder and through a hatchway into the roof. This timely manoeuvre gave protection for the rear of the two blocks and also permitting the stream to play on the heated walls and roof of the Cook block and also be directed into the rear second and third floors of the burning structure.

The fire wall between the Dominion Bank building and that of the McGie-Symons block prevented any fire spreading southward and no damage was sustained in the offices of Wallbridge and Cameron, or Geo. Ketcheson on the second floor. The Dominion Bank staff were standing-to in the bank office but were not calling on for necessary action.

EASTERN ONTARIO CHEESE BOARDS

Napanee, Ont., July 17.—At Saturday's meeting of the Napanee Cheese board 125 boxes white and 12 boxes colored were boarded and all sold at 13 15-16 cents. The usual buyers were present.

Belleville, Ont., July 17.—At Saturday's meeting of the Belleville Cheese board 1,740 boxes white were boarded all sold at 10 15-16 cents.

Perth, Ont., July 17.—At Saturday's meeting of the Perth cheese board 895 boxes white sold to Beckett at 10 11-16 cents.

Picton, Ont., July 17.—At Saturday's meeting of the Picton cheese board 480 boxes white cheese were boarded; 310 sold at 11 1-8 cents and 270 at 11 1-16 cents. Buyers, Murphy and Cook.

Cause Yet Unknown

The cause of the fire has as yet not been established, indications however point that it must have started in a toilet room on the second floor. This is to the rear of a furnace room and a doorway from the hallway leads into this room which adjoins the Thomson apartment. It is understood this door is kept locked, the members of the Prudential staff having the key to it.

The Thomson family were away for the evening and passersby were the first to detect odors of smoke coming from the building. Sergt. Harman had left the police station at 10.40 p.m. and coming westward along Bridge Street, noticed the smell of smoke and investigated various stores and doorways along that thoroughfare. When he reached the "Four Corners" he saw smoke coming from the burning block and turned in the alarm.

Covered by Insurance

Messrs Arthur McGie and Charles J. Symons, joint owners of the premises, stated last night that they carried full protection. Mr. Chris. Scopis had his stock in trade insurance to cover the damage wrought in his restaurant, though he will suffer loss of trade for some days. Mr. John W. Cook said he was fully insured and Mr. Allan Schryver also stated what damage was done his store was fully covered by his stated The Prudential Assurance Co., who were badly damaged, had theirs are insured. Mr. J. Arnold Thomson will be a sufferer as his office equipment, furniture and furnishings are only partially insured.

Mr. Charles J. Symons could not state just what would be loss on his till a check up was made. He carries insurance but might sustain some loss. In all the fire must have occasioned $20,000 damage at least.

Credit to Firemen

Credit is due to Fire Chief Lynch and his brigade for the excellent work they put up against the fierce conflagration. They had a bad and threatening fire to contend with and under control in a little over half an hour. A fire, which had made considerable headway before the firemen arrived, and their precautions for allaying any spread of other premises gave them well for the forethought and headwork of the Chief and his assistants.

SEEK DRIVER

London, Ont., July 17 (CP) —Police today sought the driver of a heavy grey truck which Saturday night forced two automobiles into the ditch on the Springbank Park road at a point where the bridge is under construction, forcing the cars off the road the truck sped off into the darkness toward London. No one was injured.

South Hastings Entrance Results are Announced

DEADLY PEST, SWEEPING WEST, DOES MILLIONS DAMAGE

An army of termites which has done $50,000,000 damage in recent months in New York state is sweeping westward, has attacked Philadelphia and adjoining counties, and is moving on. The soil-like pests ravage anything that is destructible. The photos show damage done to books and shoes in invaded areas, and what is left of a piece of wood after its attack. The destructive jaws of the four different termite types are shown in the greatly enlarged heads, illustrated here.

Very High Percentage of Pupils Pass Entrance High School, Collegiate South Hastings Results Announced For City And Other Schools

COUNTY MEDAL

Medal And Prize Won by Queen Mary School Pupils

Below will be found a list of the pupils who successfully passed the High School Entrance Examinations recently held in the Inspectorate and they are now entitled to enter any High School or Collegiate Institute in the Province.

An unusually large percentage passed this year, especially those on the teacher who prepared them.

Certificates will be awarded to those who have not already received them, by reason of the fact that they were not required to take the final examination, as soon as they can be prepared.

The County of Hastings Medal is won by Genevive Babcock of Frankford Public School.

The I.O.D.E. prize is won by John Black of Queen Mary School.

There was a very close competition for the Governor General's Medal which was won by Madeline Rose of Queen Mary with a total of 629 marks out of a possible of 750. Those who were close competitors for this medal were Ethel Mae Mitchell's Academy who had 628 marks, Ruth Archibald of Queen Victoria with 625 marks and Donald Bell of St. Michael's Academy with 623 marks. The winner of this medal must be under 13 years of age on December 31st of the current year; the I. O. D. E. prize is competed for by pupils irrespective of age and goes to the candidate making the highest aggregate who is not the medallist. That is no candidate can win both the medal and the I. O. D. E. prize.

Those who were unfortunate enough to fail will receive a statement of the marks they made and they will be entitled to write again on August 15th but in view of the fact that every care was taken in the marking of the papers, and every doubtful case was carefully considered, a second failure is not expected.

The convenience of reference the lists are arranged by schools and alphabetically. Honours are indicated by "Hon." in brackets.

MISS B. FINDLAY, R.N. V.O.N. AT BROCKVILLE

Miss Findlay Was Formerly in Charge of V.O.N. Work in this City

Brockville, July 17—At a meeting of the executive committee of the local branch of Victorian Order of Nurses held Friday afternoon conducted by Mrs. George T. Fulford, Jr., president, the resignation of Miss Ruth Miller, Reg. N., was accepted with deep regret. The committee accepted the recommendation for appointment to the local nursing position from headquarters in Ottawa of Miss Belva Findlay, Reg. N., who has had a year in public health nursing and four years with the V.O.N. Miss Miller, who has been here a year, will leave minute her duties in Brockville early in August and proceed to Montreal, her home city, to engage in industrial nursing.

TEN VIOLENT DEATHS OVER THE WEEKEND

Lightning, Drownings, And Car Accidents All Listed

LIST HEAVY

Accidents Occur in Nearly Every Part of Province

Toronto, July 17 (CP)—Lightning, drownings, train, automobile and diving accidents combined to cause ten violent deaths in Ontario over the week-end. Four of the fatalities were caused by drowning, train and diving fatalities each accounted for two deaths; one young boy was killed by lightning and the lone motor car accident brought the total to ten.

Two drownings occurred in Lake Erie yesterday, one at Ormond Beach and the other at Crystal Beach. Bowers, 31, of St. Thomas lost her life when a wave upset the canoe she and a friend and the other at Kingsville where Meyer Brook, seven-year-old Windsor boy fell off a pier and was not missed until some time afterwards.

Tossed backward from his seat on a horse into the St. Lawrence River, James Bradley, 20 year old Queen's University student, drowned Saturday afternoon. The horse was swimming in about eight feet of water when it reared and threw his rider. The fourth drowning took place at Welland where Pow Fong, Chinese, was drowned while bathing in the canal yesterday.

Unidentified Man Killed

One unidentified man lost his life when struck by a train at High Park, near London, Sunday, and a 13 year old boy, James Watson, of Fonthill, was killed when a car at Niagara Falls when he ran into the path of the approaching train in an attempt to save his dog from the same fate which overtook him. The animal jumped to safety.

Diving fatalities occurred at Sault Ste. Marie and Woodbridge, near Toronto. John Junor, 25 year old father of four children, dived into the water while bathing at Port Findlay yesterday and failed to reappear. He was dead when taken from the water shortly afterward. A young girl from a similar spot took into four feet or water in the Humber River Saturday broke the neck of John McNeil, 16, C.P.R. conductor. He died yesterday afternoon.

Lionel Dallaire, six, was killed when struck by lightning at Britannia and eight year old Howard Dempsey suffered almost instant death when hit by an automobile near Guelph late Saturday.

HUTTON SUES FOR DIVORCE

Husband of Aimee Semple McPherson Charges Mental Cruelty

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—(AP)—David L. Hutton, former husband of the Canadian-born crusading evangelist, Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, said he will file suit for divorce today in Superior Court on the ground of mental cruelty.

Specifically, said the baritone chorister who married the Angelus Temple Evangelist 23 months ago on a flying trip to Yuma, Ariz., he was tired of having the intimate details of his married life "publicly aired."

Mrs. McPherson-Hutton is on the high seas, en route home from Europe.

Divorce, often rumored, is sought by Hutton as a climax to a tumultuous wedding life which, only a fortnight or so ago, was punctuated by serio-comic cablegram from his wife in Paris, announcing the birth of a son.

Subsequently the explanation drifted out of Temple headquarters that Sister Aimee was merely trying to find out where the "lost" was occurring in confidential messages she sent the Lillian Hutton.

The complaint to be filed to-day alleged Aimee, who is a native of Woodstock, Ont., made him and his married life "ridiculous" by pig-a-back riding in boat as to the birth of a baby," which was "bandied about by the News of Los Angeles," when, in fact, "no baby was born".

Don't Drag Around "Half-Dead"

If You Are So Weak, So Exhausted That Your Daily Work Is Too Much for You, LOOK TO YOUR BLOOD STREAM

The Trouble M ay Be There

Your Blood Stream is your Life Stream. It flows to every part of your body, reaches every organ. You simply cannot be well if your Blood Stream is thin, watery, unhealthy.

Invigorate and enrich your Blood Stream with more Oxygen and more Iron—and new energy and new life will flow to your weak and exhausted system. As many thousands of grateful letters prove, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have restored to vigorous health "half-dead" people in 72 different countries in the world.

Recently a practising physician—well acquainted with the formula of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—prescribed them for a number of patients after blood-tests indicated a deficiency of haemoglobin and red corpuscles in their blood streams. This doctor reported substantial improvement in the health of these blood-tested people

New Strength and Vitality Follow Use

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills increase the amount of Oxygen in the Blood, and restore the Iron your Blood needs, making it rich, red and healthy. As a result the appetite is sharpened, digestion is stimulated, nerves are restored, color is put into the skin, and flesh is put on thin frames. The whole system is filled with new strength, new energy, new vitality.

Make a start NOW on the road to restored Health. Get a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from your Druggist, take them regularly—and watch results. 50 cents a package.

LITHUANIANS KILLED WHEN PLANE FALLS

Crash Near Soldin, Pomerania on Solo Flight to Lithuania

Defied Orders From Washington in Going Through Pomerania

SOLDIN, Pomerania, Germany, July 17 (AP)—The aeroplane Lituanica in which Stephen Darius and Stanley Girenas were attempting a non-stop flight from New orYk to Lithuania, crashed early today at Kuhnsdorf and both fliers were killed.

Kuhnsdorf is five miles south of Soldin.

The plane was discovered in a forest. The bodies of the airmen were under it.

No one in Soldin heard the crash about seven o'clock this morning but a local chief discovery of the ship was not made until a few hours later.

A party of aviation and police officials left immediately from Berlin for Soldin.

HON. E. LAPOINTE AT LIBERAL RALLY

Holds Liberalism Bulwark Against Reaction

Trois Pistoles, Que., July 17 (CP)—Liberalism stands out as the greatest bulwark against a triumph of reaction in Canada today, in the opinion of Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former Minister of Justice, who declared he was a "Liberal and a reformer to the last" in an address here. He was opposed to socialism because he believed in the right of property and in the necessary reforms, which would give to the people a share in the progress their fair share of liberty and the sunshine of life.

The former Minister of Justice along with Hon. J. E. Elliott of Restigouche, Minister of Municipal Public Works spoke at a Liberal rally arranged here yesterday by Jean Francois Pouliot, Liberal member for the constituency of Temiscouata. To a large extent the rally took the form of a protest against the redistribution Act passed at the last session of parliament, which eliminates Trois Pistoles along with several other municipalities from the riding of Temiscouata.

WANT TO TRAP BEAVERS

SUCCESSFUL PUPILS

Hundreds of bright boys and girls who have attended the public and separate schools in this inspectorate today received their reward for the announcement of their passing of their examinations entitling them to attend a high school or collegiate.

Passing of the entrance is a more important event in the life of a boy or girl than matriculation into the university or passing into a normal school. It is an almost complete change from what they have been accustomed to from the time when they were about six years of age up to the age of twelve or thirteen. Their primary instruction is completed as far as the public and lower portion of the separate school is concerned. They graduate now into a rank of much greater responsibility.

This change comes, too, at a momentous age in the life of the child when he or she is entering into the 'teens with a view to this means to the physical and social development. Secondary education and methods endeavour to meet this changed outlook.

This next step upon which the scholar is entering is that which brings very close a decision as to the work in life the scholar intends to pursue, with the probability of a definite determination of lifework.

Many a home today has had something about which to talk as the successful pupil thinks upon the days which are before him.

WHO NAMED AMERICA?

"The name America was derived from that of Amerigo Vespucci," says the Encyclopedia Britannica. This statement is definite enough, but there is no finality about such matters and even such a reliable authority as the world-famous encyclopedia may be wrong. The agitation in Montreal aroused by the inscription on the John Cabot monument, attributing the discovery of America to that explorer, much to the annoyance of the French-Canadian element, also claim the honor for Cartier, has had its repercussions in England. It was from Bristol that Cabot sailed in 1497, and that city stands the Cabot tower commemorating the discovery of Canada. Bristol will not lightly give up the honor, and goes even further. Mr. R. V. Hinde, secretary of the Bristol Development Boards, says: "That America received its name from Richard Amerik, sheriff of Bristol, England, in 1503, who was the person who handed the king's reward to John Cabot, after his discovery of North America, is being seriously investigated following the finding of an ancient manuscript among the muniments of Westminster Abbey. The manuscript was the customs roll of the city of Bristol for A.D. 1496 to 1499, and its chief interest lies in the fact that among the payments are two of £20 each to John Cabot."

This is, to say the least, an extremely interesting item of news. There has been endless controversy about the exploits of Amerigo Vespucci and his claims to himself ashare in his own accounts of his travels. In many respects these contradict themselves; it has been held that Vespucci could not possibly have done what he professes to have done, and that he did not, as a matter of fact, take part in the 1497 voyage and had no share in the discovery of the continent. According to his own story, however, he reached the mainland of America about a week before Cabot, but the statement is discredited. It would be ironical if it could be proved that, after all, the continent was named not after this vainglorious Italian adventurer, but after the sea-at-home sheriff of Bristol, whose name has not so much as even been heard of till now by the majority of people. — Hamilton Spectator.

TRANSFORMATION

Only a little shrivelled seed,
It might be flower, or grass, or weed;
Only a box of earth on the edge
Of a narrow, dusty window-ledge;
Only a few scant Summer showers;
Only a few clear shining hours;
That was all. Yet God could make
Out of these, for a sick child's sake,
A blossom-wonder, fair and sweet,
As ever broke at an angel's feet.

Only a life of barren pain,
Wet with sorrowful tears for rain,
Warmed sometimes by a wandering gleam
Of joy that seemed but a happy dream;
Only a few acres and brown and bare
As the box of earth in the window there;
Yet it bore, at last, the precious bloom
Of a perfect soul in that narrow room;
Pure as the snowy leaves that fold
Over the flower's heart of gold.

EX-ALDERMAN ROBERT GARDINER has given the Lamplighter some further interesting facts about the Pringle family to which reference was made in this column a fortnight ago. The Pringles, of Hoppringles, as the name is sometimes recorded, have been prominently associated for several hundred years with Mr. Gardiner's native city, Galashiels, about thirty miles from Edinborough, Scotland. This is apparently where the family, now quite numerously represented in Belleville and Hastings County, had its origin. A souvenir booklet, commemorative of the festival held at Galashiels and known as "Braw Lad's Day," June 22, 1930, is in Mr. Gardiner's possession, and contains the following references to the Pringles:

"It was about 1416 that Robert Hoppringle obtained from Douglas the forest lands of Galashiels and Mossiles, which still remain, after 500 years' tenure, in the hands of his heir of line, Mr. Scott of Gala. That is a pedigree worth noting.

"It is interesting to note that the first Pringle of Torwoodlee, William (1486), was the son of James Pringle of Galashiels and Smailholm, and of his wife, Isabella daughter of Murray of Philiphaugh and Falahill. Thus we find, if we care to read the records of the County, that the Pringles of Galashiels and Torwoodlee, were connected with the Murrays, and that Sir Walter Scott also claimed a distant connection with the same family. This was the Pringle who was slain at Flodden Field, and whose interest in Fife, etc., led to follow the lines of least resistance and that means a less adventurous manner of living which is likely all too soon to grip the individual and leave him, as it were, lost in a dense fog.

"Therefore develop a liking for books early in life. Learn to love nature. Try to take an interest in flowers and cultivate, if possible, a garden, make a collection of some-thing: stamps, beetles, butterflies, coins—anything. Perhaps you can even try your hand at drawing, painting or sculpting. Increase likewise your interest in games of all kinds. And, of course, don't forget the stimulus to be derived from current events and conversation with congenial friends.

Keep your mental wits alert always and you may be certain it won't fail you when you need it most!

Dr. Bieh's Daily Diet Hint

A diabetic must always try to select streagthening foods that are free from carbohydrates, or nearly so. Among these may be mentioned the muscle parts of beef, veal, mutton, and lamb; lean fish; eggs; turkeys, sweetbreads and liver; smoked meats and tongue, ham and bacon; sausage containing no bread fillings; all fish that is fried, boiled or broiled, but not in bread crumbs.

KEEPING MIND ALERT FOR DAYS OF AGE

Almshouse Full of Old Persons With Cloudy Minds

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D., Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Almshouses are full of old men and women whose bodies are still sound and strong but whose minds are clouded and dulled even to the point of actual mental deterioration. Such a condition to be is surely is a sad plight.

Such cases, of course, are not to be found in public institutions alone. They impress one more strongly there, however, because the economic difficulties which have forced these people to seek charity is so directly connected with their failure of mental powers.

Yet there is no scientific reason why the mind should go to pieces any quicker than the body; nor should the body become incapacitated before the mind. After all, mind and body constitute a single entity, a unit. Both are nourished by the same blood stream; both are activated by the same "glands of internal secretion"; both start with the same initial and inherent capacity and vitality.

That each of us possesses one or more organs—and in this conception the brain must be included—which always remains a time second, cannot be denied. The reason, nevertheless, why the brain so often turns out to be a weak organ is because people have not yet learned that the mind must be exercised, kept alert, and given the same solicitous attention that is accorded the muscles, the heart, the kidneys and the rest of the organs.

In other words, we must prepare for old age mentally.

To do this it is necessary to develop interests in early life which will continue, and so stimulate the brain cells, even after we retire from active life and give up the daily routine. We must keep the thinking processes fluid so that the passing of the years will not, so to speak, rust the machinery.

It is a fallacy to believe that, after we have saved enough to take it easy, we can then—and then only—become absorbed in some new pursuit or hobby and that it is time enough to think about leisure and the advantages it will yield when the opportunities for leisure actually arrives. It is likewise an erroneous notion, also held by many, that when we reach a ripe old age glorious to do nothing, not even to think.

Unless we find a use for our minds in one or more directions in addition to our regular work or profession we are sure to deteriorate long before too late, that our spirit and enthusiasm for new ideas are lost, and that the power of initiative is gone. For old age tends to follow the lines of least resistance and that means a less energetic manner of living which is likely all too soon to grip the individual and leave him, as it were, lost in a dense fog.

Therefore develop a liking for books early in life. Learn to love nature. Try to take an interest in flowers and cultivate, if possible, a garden, make a collection of some-thing: stamps, beetles, butterflies, coins—anything. Perhaps you can even try your hand at drawing, painting or sculpting. Increase likewise your interest in games of all kinds. And, of course, don't forget the stimulus to be derived from current events and conversation with congenial friends.

Keep your mental wits alert always and you may be certain it won't fail you when you need it most!

PETITION IS OUT TO HAVE EVANGELIST STAY

Continues Services at Parkhill Despite Obstructions

Parkhill, Ont., July 17 (CP)—Supporters of Evangelist Alfred Fields continued their quest today for signatures to a petition urging the ex-London, Ont., janitor to remain in Parkhill, while on the other hand another petition was being circulated asking that he leave.

Saturday Mr. Fields announced he would move his home to London, but would continue to conduct his revival meetings here. More than a week ago his tent and organ were stolen, forcing him to hold his services in the open. During the week dead skunks were deposited around the area, where the meetings are held and previous to that hooking of motorcar horns had disrupted his services.

City debentures amounting to $22,000 have been sold to the Oddfellows' Relief Association, Kingston, at 91.15. This was the best offer obtainable at 5 per cent.—

Mayor Wills says that the assessment shows that property is now assessed at nearly its proper value. The total assessment this year is $5,730,000, which is an increase over last year. Of this amount $3,132,000 is for high and public school purposes and $580,000 for Separate School purposes.

The city council has granted $50 to the committee in charge of the reception to the Old Boys and Girls from Toronto who will visit the "old home town" shortly.

REQUEST OF MAHATMA GANDHI is REFUSED

Must Abandon Passive Resistance Says Viceroy

Poona, India, July 17 (AP) — Lord Willingdon, Viceroy of India and former Governor-General of Canada was understood today to have refused Mahatma Gandhi's request for an interview about peace possibilities in the civil disobedience campaign unless the latter unconditionally abandons the passive resistance movement.

In reply to a long message from the Viceroy, the leader of the Indian Congress party immediately sent a telegram, the nature of which he refused to disclose.

Gandhi was authorized to treat with Lord Willingdon by the party most of whom seemed to be willing to drop the campaign in the belief cessation would induce the government to co-operate with the Nationalists.

A very impressive service was held at United Church on Thursday evening when members of the West Huntingdon charge completed the induction of their new minister the Rev. Ronald Merriam and that of Fred Joblin of Stirling was master of ceremonies. Rev. Rowland of Stirling assisted in the induction exercises using those grand old hymns such as "The Church's One Foundation", "Unto the Hills Around do I Lift up", and "Breathe on me, Breath of God". A portion of scripture was read and prayer and prayer suitable for the occasion was offered by Rev. Rowland. Following this the Rev. Joblin conducted the inducting service and Rev. Merriam took the charge inducted and received by the right hand of fellowship.

Mr. Blake Ketcheson of Morra who is recording steward of the charge, gave an address of welcome to the new minister. Rev. Fred Lucas of Tweed also an old friend was upon to give the charge to the minister. Rev. Merriam and Rev. Lucas is indeed a pleasure to be back with his former charge and we found it a wee bit difficult to try and advise a man who had been as a brother to us for so many years. We felt however, that having had experience on both circuits and knowing even the pitfalls in the roads we would be prepared to travel well, he could at least give some information that might be useful to him. Rev. Lucas spoke highly of the tasks of a faithful minister of the Gospel, to the faithful shepherding of his flock. To do this successfully the minister must be a man. Must visit in homes. He must not try to subordinate all duties to himself but believed, rather as in Moses' time share the laymen of his church. He must have holidays, a

CITY, COUNTRY SEE ARMADA

Part of Fleet Passes Over City And Result Over Hastings Villages

Belleville was one of the few cities in Ontario which caught a glimpse of General Balbo's Italian air armada on its way from Italy to the City of Progress Exhibition at Chicago. Six of the aluminum-clad planes passed over the centre of the city at 12.33 noon Saturday and a few minutes later nine, more passed up over the bay. The first six seaplanes veered northwest from here in apparent plan to escape a storm which was reported to be blowing about Toronto. The planes were flying at 1,000 or 1,500 feet.

About the time the planes passed over the city, the many units of the fleet of fifteen other planes was flying in formation over Warkworth. Warkworth saw the fleet or part of the fleet not long after the planes had passed over Belleville. At Burlington Beach the majestic airships were next seen and from that point they crossed north of Toronto, skirting the edge of the city to the disappointment of half a million citizens who were watching and wait greetings to General Balbo's intrepid fliers who had navigated the air for the first time of the northern hemisphere since they left Rome from Montreal, and which conducted the inducting service and Rev. Merriam took the charge inducted and received by the right hand of fellowship.

Mr. Blake Ketcheson of Morra who is recording steward of the charge, gave an address of welcome to the new minister. Rev. Fred Lucas of Tweed also an old friend was upon to give the charge to the minister. Rev. Merriam and Rev. Weddings

WELSON—HORIE

A quiet wedding took place at St. Andrew's church, Saturday afternoon, when Edith Grace, elder daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Horie was married to Mr. Robert Austin Welson, Stratford, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Welson, Toronto. The Rev. Dr. J. A. Seymour performed the ceremony.

The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. W. D. Hutchinson of Montreal, and wore a gown of point d'esprit over taffeta in Josephine style with puffed sleeves and sash. Her veil in cap effect caught with orange blossoms, had been worn by her aunt, Mrs. W. A. McGuinness, Montreal, at her wedding. The bride carried a shower bouquet of pale pink roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Dorothy Horie, as maid of honor, who wore pink net and carried pink roses and blue delphiniums.

Mr. Gordon Wilson of Toronto, the groom's brother, was best man.

After the ceremony an informal reception was held at the bride's home, Charles street.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left by motor for the East, the bride's travelling suit being of powder blue silk crepe, with grey fur cuffs and grey shoes and hat. On their return they will reside in Stratford.

LA MORRE—MAYNARD

A very pretty wedding took place Saturday morning in St. Mitchell's Church with Monsignor Nicholson officiating, when Lena Anne Maynard daughter of Mrs. Lucie Maynard and the late Louis Maynard of Nahma, Michigan, became the bride of Francis Joseph La Morre son of Joseph La Morre and the late Mrs. La Morre of Trenton, Ont. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Joe Guyer, looked charming in a gown of white silk rice crepe with hat and shoes to match and carried a beautiful bouquet of premier roses, baby's breath and maiden hair fern.

The bride was attended by her niece Phyllis Guyer in a gown of orchid silk net with hat and shoes to match and carried a bouquet of cream roses, baby's breath and maiden hair fern. Mr. Allen La Morre did honors for the groom.

After a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride the happy couple left amid showers of confetti and rice for Oshawa, Toronto and points west. On their return they will reside in Trenton.

Is The American Child Lacking in Manners?

(By Constance Cameron)

The thirteen-year-old girl has just returned from a year in France. And watching her, one gets a most unpatriotic sensation. Just there after all, there are a good many things we could profitably learn from the old world.

Oh, youth is lovely, and we are a youthful country. Companionship between children and their parents is the one thing we boast proudly of. Our children aren't afraid of us, we say. No. And that is a commendable thing. But are they decently courteous to us and other people? Not as markedly courteous as children trained across the ocean, as this little girl, I feel, we can copy with benefit.

Without being subservient in any way, the thirteen-year-old is courteous with what some people have called a "quaint" old-fashioned courtesy. And it is indeed pleasing.

Old World Courtesy

She waits for older people to enter an automobile. She asks pardon, if in playing bridge, she hesitates and holds the game up for a minute. If you start toward a mail box, she is glad to ask if she may mail your letter. She asks if she may play the radio—a courtesy that many adults might copy to the relief of the rest of the family. She assiduously avoids picking up letters on your desk, never asks personal questions, until later, when she perhaps asks her mother about the situation has been considered. And it isn't done ostentatiously. It has become a part of her. And, as I said before, we could do a lot worse than to think a little about such training for children of this country.

We don't say we have no courtesy here but we haven't it to the marked degree that the people of the old world have it. Shouldn't we try to teach the children a little finesse, a little consideration for other people, which, after all, is the epitome of good manners?

While creating records in exports to the United Kingdom, Canada is ambitious in lesser known lines. Canada and the Irish Free State are the only Empire exporters of cherries to the United Kingdom last year, mustering a modest 61 hundred weight between them. Again, Canada and South Africa were the only two Empire countries exporting peaches to the United Kingdom, Canada contributing just two hundredweight, evidently a gesture of good-will and South Africa 29,[illegible] hundredweight.

WHEN SUN'S RAYS TINT THE SKIN

Then it's Time For a Change in Powder And Rouge Shades

(By Helen Follett)

When the skin has tanned slightly, rachelle powder of a tone slightly darker than the skin puts up the best complexion front. If there is a natural flush, add a bit of rose colored powder to the dark one, mixing the two shades by fluffing through a fine sieve.

If Mr. Sol's kisses have brushed on a deep bronze tone, rouge and lipsticks should carry an orange hint, so please avoid the purple shades that belong to the raspberry shades. They're trying as all get out, are more likely to make the face haggard than bright, which is the purpose of health hues that are dipped out of cosmetic containers. Powder first, touch with rouge, powder again. By that trick rouge will blend with powder, there will be no streaks.

No sense curling the supercilious nose at exercises. They help one to that "glow" of health because they start blood streams galloping past roses of which never appeared on human head.

Applied scantily to pepper and salt locks, it will do almost nothing to the dark hair while it will redden the white ones.

A henna rinse is safer than the back if the amateur does the deed. Boil one ounce of henna leaves (not powder, mind you) in a pint of water, cool and strain, pour over the henna many times directly after the shampoo.

Some varieties of banana leaves are so waxy that they are used for waxing floors.

Many a man is a hero to himself without having to work hard at it.

Stocks And Staples Soar on Wings of Renewed Optimism, Grains Rising One to Eight Points—Distillers Seagram Ahead Nine Points at One Time—Eldorado Provides Fireworks on Mining Board—Jumping 37 Cents Between Sales—Gold Shares Also Prominent.

WALL STREET

(By Victor Emanuel, Associated From Financial Writer)

New York, July 17—Stocks and staples soared today on wings of renewed optimism and highest level for the past two years or more were reached by most commodities and leading securities. Grains rallied from one to as much as 8 points.

With May wheat spurting more than five cents a bushel in Chicago, cotton rallying around $2. a bale, barley jumping more than 10 cents a bushel and corn, rye and rubber futures exhibiting strength, the buying rush in shares swept quoted values forward with a momentum that bade the machinery of the stock exchange.

Canadian stocks and bonds generally were firm but not buoyant. Shares of McIntyre Porcupine, Dome Mines and Canadian Pacific advanced fractionally and International Nickel remained unchanged. The Canadian dollar held to its Saturday closing rate at 80¼ cents.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, July 17—(CP)—Eldorado bore the mining stock fraternity a real boom-time thrill today when it skyrocketed 3.70 to 8.10 as a crowd of bear traders were chased to cover. The stock sold as high as 8.40 finished and closed the week at 8.40. Today it opened up 20 cents and advanced steadily on a stream of buying until it passed the eight dollar mark for the close. It later dropped back to 87 but soon Fitzsimons again closed at 7.35 for a gain of nearly 42.

Late in the afternoon the Base Metal stocks caught into prominence taking the play from the gold shares that had been under accumulation through the morning session. Hudson Bay turned in the best performance advancing more than 3 points. Sherritt climbed to 1.80, Base Metals Corporation to 2.36, Consolidated to 4.40, Nickel to 21.00 and Noranda to 94.50, all up 5 cents to 35.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, July 17 (AP)—Stocks advanced into higher territory today under leadership of the Capitol and various specialties which included Hudson, Chrysler, Nash and other categories. Gains in late dealings ranged from one to round eight points. International Harvester, Machine, National Distillers and American Commercial Alcohol registered extreme advances of more than eight points while others up three or more included Commercial Solvents, Standard Brands, Case, Goodyear, Du Pont, Western Union, Auburn, Unitec States Rubber stg United Smelting, American Smelting, United States Steel and Bethlehem Steel. Sales increased to two million shares.

Trading was resumed on the New York Stock Exchange today after the banking holiday. Transactions were limited to 400,000 shares.

When to his middle on the road little Aylvin Royale aged four years, turned and ran back. The fender of the car struck the little boy, knocking him down. No serious injuries were sustained by the little fellow, who was taken into his home, 426 Bleecker avenue, by Mr. McCoy, who later reported the accident.

FINED UNDER FOREST PREVENTION ACT

Fails to Take Necessary Precaution With Camp Fire

Gordon King, Limerick Township, pleaded guilty to a charge under the Forest Fire Prevention Act of neglected to take the necessary precaution to prevent a camp fire from spreading and was fined $25.00 and costs by Magistrate Wiggins at Bancroft this morning.

King was prosecuted on an information laid by H. W. Crosbie, forester stationed at Wood. The fire which was believed to have been caused by King's carelessness was detected and extinguished by the Forest Protection Squad of the Canada Forest Brigade stationed in the northern part of Hastings county. King stated that after extinguishing a camp fire, which he lit, while south of Bancroft last week. The fine was paid.

Arthura, of Toronto, Mrs. Timothy Callaghan of Grafton, N. Dakota, and Mrs. Raymond Bradford in Los Angeles, California.

$42.00 IS TAKEN AT MELROSE

Cutting a pane of glass from the front store window robbers broke and entered F. D. Pringle's general store, Melrose, early Saturday morning during $42.00 in cash. None of the merchandise in the store had apparently been disturbed. Provincial Constables Kelly and Campbell investigated the robbery.

COOLER WEATHER FOLLOWS RAIN

Cooling west winds on Monday brought relief from the heat of the past few weeks as temperatures once more descended to more pleasing levels. In contrast to the high mark of 84 above on Sunday, the highest recorded registration on Monday was set at 77 above. Low for Sunday was given as 51, while low for Monday was marked at 56. One-fiftieth of an inch of rainfall was received over the district on Sunday.

STORES AVAIT INSPECTION

Following Sunday night's disastrous fire there, J. Brayden's store is closed today awaiting an inspection by fire insurance adjusters, and will remain closed for some days, till the stock can be gone over and prices readjusted.

The store of John W. Cook is also closed today awaiting the visit of adjusters. The stock has received considerable damage by smoke, water, being stored up in daylight.

Mr. Chris Scopis, proprietor of the Scopis restaurant believes it will be two weeks at least before he can open once more for business.

The staff of the Brayden Insurance Agency is carrying on in its offices under handicap, and will likely have to occupy desks elsewhere as till renovation in their quarters are made.

Looking over the building today gives some idea of the difficulties the fire the local brigade had to contend with, and the narrowness of the escape from serious loss the department had, who went on the roof of the Brayden building, finding but the metal roofing is left where they tripped through the flames to thoroughly extinguish the flames the supports and under-roofing there had been completely burned away.

"CRIME OF CENTURY" AND "LUCKY DEVILS" FEATURES AT BELLE

"Tomorrow (Tuesday) and also on Wednesday the Belle Theatre is offering an exceptional two-feature program that for thrills, romance and mystery aplenty there atmosphere will surely be filled to the rear seat in amazement and suspense until the final scenes have been shown.

"Crime of the Century" featuring Jean Hersholt, Wynne Gibson, Stuart Erwin and Frances Dee is a mystery thriller from start to finish, where have enthusiastically engrossed in its suspense and where some comedy with Stuart Erwin, as the detective, keeping the audience in that will solve the case, which keep the audience speculating right to the end, as no one will be the wiser as to the actual person or persons involved until the last scene of the picture has been shown.

"Lucky Devils" features a stirring tale of modern Hollywood's stunt men and women, who actually in many pictures risk their lives as automobiles over cliffs, flirt with dynamite and nitro-glycerine, rush into burning buildings, bound over burning structures and many, other daring feats to entertain the millions of film fans, are lionized together as a group of dauntless thrills and action in one big picture.

"Lucky Devils" is a film of what lengths serialists and general stunt men will go to satisfy the fans' craving for thrills, they think nothing of the denouement, but steel their nerves and co-ordinate mind and body to perform breath-taking crashes, leaps and falls. Richard Dorothy Wilson, William Gargan, and Roscoe Ates are the featured characters throughout and Ralph Ince, directed.

Ends Tonight

"College Humor" the musical romance hit of 1933, with Bing Crosby, Richard Arlen, Jack Oakie, Mary Kornman and the OX-Hoad Co-Eds, that kept the house audiences at the Belle on Saturday shaking with laughter ends tonight. Complete shows at 7.10 and 9.15.

FIRST NIGHT IN FILMLAND

Large Audiences See Saturday's Showing at Capital Theatre

Outstanding among films which have been shown here is "Trapped by the Police" at the Capital Theatre which is being shown at the Capital Theatre and made its first appearance here on Saturday afternoon. Back of all the mechanism which plays so large a part in the picture of this kind is the daunless courage of the men who perform.

In such an accident as this film portrays, discipline is the only safeguard. Lack of order and control would probably mean the loss of all, and many lives would be sacrificed, it might mean death. the crew was saved to a man.

The scenes in the sunken submarine after the escape of a number of the crew and officers, those locking in the iron hull have to endure to ensure a safe escape, safety is assured by a faultless manner, are telling scenes. The "safety lamp" is the outstanding feature as a life-saver.

Theatre audiences are assured in this picture that they are seeing what might actually occur for the Admiralty supervised the production of the film. The picture continues at the Capital Theatre today.

Petes Score Six Runs in Sixth Frame to Down Nats in Well Played Game 8-5

Ernie Smith Threw Good Game Except For One Innings

KITCHEN HURT

Struck on Head by Batted Ball And Had to Retire

Peterboro, Ont., July 17—Belleville dropped an 8-5 decision to the Petes here Saturday, before a large crowd of fans in a good ball game. One bad inning, the sixth, in which the homesiers broke through for six runs, cost the Nationals the game. Outside of this one bad frame the Nats had the better of the argument, and they threatened the last three innings, scoring four and thundring the Leo several times.

Base hits by the Pete's and errors by the Belleville infield lost a nice battle for Penney Mills' hustling young squad. On the other hand the Petes turned in a great defensive exhibition playing errorless ball to hold the Nats in check when they threatened. Snapp fielding saved the home crew on several occasions when Belleville had men in scoring position.

Ernie Had Innings

Ernie Smith pitched for the losers and aside from the sixth threw a good game. He was nicked for a total of twelve hits as he fanned one and walked three. Given better support, he would have made it a real battle, although he was called hard in that one inning. Ernie Kitchen twirled for Peterboro and held the visitors to five hit still he retired in the sixth inning with a sore eye trying to stop Sonny O'Brien's hard liner through the box. Bill Calledine went in then and pitched a fair ball but was jobbed of the win as he fanned five. Rigby walloping a homer out of the park under the scoreboard in center, and Reath in old smashes in the eighth sending in two runs.

Weir started on second with ten out of eleven chances, several being great ones, at the position, and Rigby pulled down three nice catches. Hollingsworth, Rose and Ballen went good for the Petes. Rigby led the Nats with the willow pounding out a homer and two singles in four, while Uhronki got in three singles, and Reath and Weir two apiece. Foley led the Petes with three hits in five and Rose had two.

The Petes got one in the first, Barton tripling and tallying on an error. Belleville scored in the second Weir doubling and getting in on Rigby's single. Then, error and hit by Foley scored one for the Leo team in the fifth and they showed in biz in the sixth frame on an error and singles by Rose, Foley, Ash, Beavis, Whatley and Kitchen with Ballen's triple. Belleville got one in the seventh on Rigby's mighty homer, two in the eighth on a walk and hits by Uhronki, Green and Chambers; and one in the ninth on Rigby's single, an out, and Uhronki's clean single.

Sweet corn will not lose its sugar —by turning it to starch—so rapidly if kept in a cool place.

WHAT ARE probably the two toughest jobs in baseball today belong to Messrs George Gibson and Jimmy Harris, managers respectively of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Detroit Tigers.

Both men pilot clubs which, to put it mildly, have been distinctive disappointments so far to their respective constituents.

Ballyhooed as the next National league champions, the Pirates first frittered away a pretty good lead and then dawdled around the tail end of the first division while the Giants, Cubs and Cardinals gleefully galloped by on their way up.

The Tigers entered the field of battle last April with a fine looking lot of young men. They were not experienced, to be certain, but Detroit fans had high hopes they would show enough to suggest that soon the first pennant since 1909 would flap over the Auto City. The team still looks promising—to, no more than that.

GEORGE GIBSON is regarded as being in an especially hot spot because the fall of the Pirates in the second Buccaneer collapse in two consecutive seasons. Last season the Pirate collapse cost Pittsburgh a pennant all but won. Unless they go quickly they will have lost another flag before long.

To regain first place is a chore of mounting difficulty for the Buccaneers. The whole club has fallen into a slump but St. Louis gives every indication of being ready to replace the Giants if they vacate the leadership. And then there are the Chicago Cubs.

The Pirates are playing better ball than they have been producing in some weeks but the Cubs have been playing an even supperior brand. So—Pittsburgh must get by three clubs instead of just one or two, to win.

Statisticians have figured that the Pirates must play something like .640 baseball or better to win. And that is a tall order when there are three other pennant contenders on the scene.

BUCKY HARRIS is in his fifth season with the Tigers and so far they are not much better off, judging by the league standings, than when the erstwhile successful Washington leader took over the reins.

It has been printed that if Harris lands the Tigers in fourth place his contract will be renewed. A fifth-place team would make that doubtful and should Detroit wind up sixth or worse Tiger Town fans will expect a new head man for the Bengals.

To land fourth the Tigers will have to beat out all but one of a field consisting of the Philadelphia Athletics, Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians. It is a good guess that the team cannot go it.

So don't envy George or Bucky —they have their troubles.

Knocks and Boosts

For the second time this season the Picton intermediates stepped into Napanee and downed Ernie Gibbard's charges when the Prince Edward County lads banded the Gemmell clan to a 2 to 0 win, trimming right on the new Napanee diamond on Saturday. Behind the hurling of big Ron Church the Picton boys must had things all their way, 'tis said.

When the Napanee club came into the Bay of Quinte loop last spring all and sundry concerned predicted they would literally "mop up" as they had for three or four years in the Lennox County loop. But, they forgot one thing, better and faster baseball has always been played in Bay of Quinte loop than in the Lennox County League.

Over in Wellington on Saturday "Bob" Redner's B.A.A.A. kids missed a chance to pull up in the lead junior race, when they lost a tough game to the league leading Wellington juniors by the score of 13 to 8. The win places the Prince Edward County club a full game and one half ahead of the second place Crystalites, with the Moore juniors trailing in third place and the champion B.A.A.A. kids in the cellar.

Out in Peterboro on Saturday the Belleville Nationals dropped another. Everything went along in a big league fashion until the wheels of locals opened up. With one lat and two an Ken Chambers plastered one of Ross' Kitchen's slants for what proved to be a homer but, the gods ruled, other-wise and Ybrs Beavis raced back to the river in deep right f ld to make the season's most sensational catch. That play was the turning point of the game as it turned sure victory into defeat as the Petes opened up in their half of the sixth and plastered Ernie Smith's slants for six runs. Again a few errors were registered in to add a little flavor and detroit from the Nat gmal's appearance on the field.

Manager Mills started Season Bigby again and the big fellow came through on the offence ak. with two singles and a mighty clout to the score board, that went for a homer. On the defence, though, Bigby, was rather off feeding ground ball. Two of such kind got past him and they eventually went for triples instead of just ordinary singles. Lack of experience could be attributed to these misplays.

One play that marred the game preceded the retirement of Russ Kitchen in the seventh. Kitchen was hurling a pretty fair sort of a ball game when "Sonny" Green hit one straight on a line back at him. Kitchen managed to get his hands in front of his face to stop the force of the ball but the ball careened from his glove hitting Kitchen on the temple, flooring him for the count. He later was carried home in favour of Bill Calledine, an ag-an-coming junior. Calledine made a little trouble for himself in the ninth when he struck out "Penney" Mills, who batted for Barriage, with three pitched balls. As Feeney remarked after "they were all peaches."

BERTHA PATCH AND TOLL GATE MATCHED

Race at Kingston Aug. 7th For $500 Purse And Side Bet

Kingston, July 17—George H. Veal secretary of the Kingston Driving Club, has announced that the match race between Toll Gate and Bertha Patch has been definitely arranged for Aug. 7, Civic Holiday. An agreement has been drawn up and signed between the owners of the two horses and the Driving Club and final arrangements were completed at a meeting of the owners of the horses and the executive of the club. A purse of $500 has been offered by the club and in addition to this purse the owner of each horse is posting a side bet. The race is to be the best three out of five heats and will undoubtedly be one of the premier racing events in Canada this season.

Piles Go Quick

Itching, bleeding or protruding piles go quickly and don't come back, if you really remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the lower bowel and hemorrhoidal veins causes piles by weakening the affected parts weak, flabby, almost dead. Salves and suppositories fail because only an internal medicine that stimulates the circulation and drives out the impure blood can actually correct the cause of piles. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt discovered a real internal Pile remedy. After prescribing for it 1,000 patients with success in over 900 cases, he named it HEM-ROID. J. S. McKeown and druggists everywhere sell HEM-ROID Tablets with guarantee they will end piles, itching, misery, or money back.

FIRMER GRIP ON 1ST PLACE

Wellington Kids Defeat B.A.A.A. Juniors by 13-8 Count

Bunching their hits in the third and fifth innings the Wellington juniors took a firmer grip on first place in the Hastings County junior loop race, when they defeated the last year's champion B.A.A.A. kids at Wellington on Saturday by a score of 13 to 8. The winners hit the ball hard in the third and fifth to score ten of their 13 runs.

"Bud" Roseberry started on the hilltop for the Ameliasburg kids but was derricked in the fifth, after the homesiers had scored three runs, in favour of Art Temple, who finished the game for the locals. "Rusty" Monroe was on the mound for the Wellington kids and limited the visitors to eight hits.

Bill Dimmick, who was on the reporting end for the B.A.A.A. kids, led the hitters of the day with three safe blows in his credit. Lickfold and Baker also hit well. Bob Greer, Wellington's catcher also collected three hits for the winners, while Pilingham and Burley also welded their bats to an advantage.

The lineups:

Wellington — Stein, Pillingham, Kirby, R. Greer, Burley, McDonald Bowerman, Vanderwater, Monroe, Phillips and J. Greer.

KINGSTON PONIES EKE OUT WIN IN OSHAWA

Come From Behind to Overcome Three Run Deficit.

The 11th win of the season in the bag, Kingston Ponies sat back today with a lead which should enable them to coast home in first place in the Central Ontario Baseball League.

Ponies edged out a 5-4 win over Oshawa Dukes at Oshawa Saturday, coming from behind to overcome a three-run deficit the victory propelled the Limestone City nine to retain their four-game advantage over Crosby Joe's Peterborough Petes, who sunk Belleville Nationals deeper in the cellar with an 8-5 win. Only six more games remain on the schedule.

The situation in the inter-County circuit remained unchanged, both Galt and Guelph, the leading teams scoring victories over the week-end.

Skeeters Have Bunch of Promising Youngsters in Hand

HITTING BALL

Leafs Lose Fine Chance to Climb by Dropping Twin Bill

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jersey City apparently is hopelessly mored in the International League cellar for this season but developments of the past week or so indicate the Skeeters will be a lot tougher in 1934.

After months of experimentation, Mike Kelly finally was hit upon a combination of youngsters, who are walloping the ball hard and scoring plenty of runs.

In seven games this outfit has averaged better than 71 hits and seven runs. Because of pitching weakness, the Skeeters have been able to win only two of these.

It was pitching that cost the Skeeters two games with Buffalo Bisons yesterday, 11-10 and 7-6. The Skeeters outhit their rivals in each game but failed to find a pitcher who could stop the Bisons from scoring in bunches. The double triumph put Buffalo within a half a game of the sixth place Albany Senators, who along with Toronto's Maple Leafs, were idle.

Newark, holding a three game lead over the third split two games with Montreal. The Bears won the first game but dropped the second 1-0 as Johnny Michaels gave only two hits and outpitched big Jim Weaver. The nightcap was decided by Lou Finney's single with the bases loaded in the eighth.

Rochester took a 12-9 trouncing from Baltimore in the first game but came back to win the second 3-1 in five innings. Ogden gave Rochester only three hits in the opener while the Orioles were scattering 15, all but which four went to Don Heffner. Dutch Henry limited Baltimore with five hits in the nightcap, shortened because of wet grounds.

On Saturday's bill Montreal walloped Newark's Pacesetters 7-3, behind Jerry Moore. The Royals clipped from the offerings of Tommy Mills and Mamaux. Toronto finds could not solve the slants of Albany pitchers and suffered a twin defeat 6-5 and 4-3

KI-Y SOFTBALL

Last Friday evening saw the completion of the schedule of games between the players of the Midget series, teams in the Ki-Y Softball League for the past month. The first half, which participated in this series and of this number five will be the holders of first series honors, is the standing of the teams after finishing the regular game schedule.

	P.	W.	L.	T.
Midgets	7	5	1	1
Bowerman	7	5	1	1
Q.V.S. Cubs	7	5	2	0
Bruins	7	4	2	1
S. E. A. C.	7	3	4	0
Maple Leafs	7	2	4	1
St. Michaels	7	2	5	0
Pirates	7	1	5	1

The Midgets who finished at the top of the schedule will get a bye in the playoff series while Maroons and the Q.V.S. Cubs in the first playoff game to be played on Monday. The second round will consist of the winners of first round with the winners of the second in the Midgets in the final game for the championship.

ASK ADVICE ABOUT ANY GAME BUT ATTACK YOUR OWN CLUB

ALEX MORRISON says:

If you haven't played the game very long, if you are finding ever new strange course or if you're in any way undecided about the shots you have to make, by all means get what information you can from your caddy or three familiar with the shots.

However, once they've told you about the proper line to take and the approximate distance to carry, then translate this information into things you know you can do with your own clubs.

Don't let your advisors name the clubs you should use.

It may be the right club for them and entirely wrong for you. So two players do not exactly play the same results from the same club.

Jerry ... fainted before and it was a new feeling. When she came to she did not remember for a moment what had happened. There was something cool and wet on her forehead and some one was kissing her lips and she discovered that Joe was lifting her carefully.

"I love you, Jerry," he said, and the cold hard ring was gone from his voice. "You fainted for a second and struck your head as you fell. Be quiet now and you'll come around all right."

"Forget about my threat, Jerry. We won't talk about disinheritance. But please do give me my answer some time this week.

"I can't sleep for thinking about you. I haven't had a peaceful moment since you first stepped into my office on that day which seems years ago.

"You don't know how much you mean to me, Jerry. You are everything I am not. You are young and innocent and I am old and wicked. You are fresh and good and vivacious and I am stale and iniquitous and bored.

"I can give you everything in the world that you want. I am rich and you like a queen. And I won't ask very much of you in return. Perhaps nothing.

"I only want to have you at my beck and call. I want to take your pretty places and buy you pretty things. I want to dance with you sometimes, and that may be all.

"Couldn't you give up this silly job of being secretary to a man who scarcely needs a secretary and become companion to a man very much in need of a companion?

"This is the last possible day on which I can give you an answer."

"Next Monday morning," Joe said, and now there was something of a cold ring in his voice again, "All right, Miss Hartford, that will be all for today."

He held the door open for her and watched her pretty stride as she walked away.

So it had come at last. Monday was the last possible day and this was Thursday.

What would it mean to be companion to a man like that? Could she be honorable and virtuous and the master of her own destiny?

Jerry had heard that sometimes geisha girls of Japan, who were trained from childhood to be gifted entertainers and companions, adept at the fine art of conversation and often gifted as musicians, painters or writers, were at times very much masters of their own destinies—

And was it not possible in old Greece to be the intellectual companion of a great man and still be honorable?

But this was America and Jerry was the better type of American girl. She rebelled with her whole

First to Step From the Plane Was Peter. Brown and Tall moral fiber against the entire proposition. She was not sufficiently philosophical to understand the nature of Joe's decadence, but she knew that she was repelled by the code of men and his outlook on life.

Only until Monday. At the most four more days of grace. Would Peter Baird ever return?

CHAPTER 19

Friday morning before Jerry left for work there was a letter which brought to her door. It was from Peter Baird.

"Airfield Municipal Airport 2 This Afternoon. Please Don't Meet me."

Wasn't that like Peter? It was always so thoughtful. He had undoubtedly figured that the whole city would be decked Sarah would have the children on her hands while Jerry would be at work. And he didn't want to cause any unnecessary inconvenience. Good old Peter. He had been away all these years.

As though Jerry wouldn't be there when the plane came in! She wouldn't miss that moment for worlds.

Jerry phoned the office and received permission from Harriet to take the day off. She spent the morning pleasantly sticking with the children, helping Sarah put the apartment in shape and working on the dinner.

They would be scandalously extravagant and have a cocktail of orange and grapefruit sections, roast chicken with wild rice, asparagus tips tatoes and new peas, then apple pie and cheese and coffee.

That was the sort of meal which would make Peter Baird ask for a second helping and say, "Delicious!" And that, after all, is the final compliment to any housewife or cook.

Jerry pondered a long while whether she had been wise to call Jack home from school, and had Jack home after school with her. At last she decided that the excitement and the long ride on the jerky third street car would not be good for them. She would go alone.

She put on her rough brown wool ensemble with the perky little hat to match, gave a last dash of powder to her nose and was off for the airport.

How slow the street car seemed! Jerry wished she could take a taxi or at least get out and push this impossible Tomorrville trolley. It was taking her nearly as long to get from Blackstone avenue to Cherokee as it was for Peter to fly from New York to Chicago.

Jerry scarcely gave a thought to the sword of Damocles hanging above her head. Monday morning she would have to tell Joe Middleton whether or not she would accept. If she did not give him an answer it meant dismissal.

But this was Friday, and today Peter Baird was coming home.

For all the slowness of the car Jerry was at the airport half an hour before plane time and had a chance to look around the port.

She was thrilled by the big hangars which almost hooked the field along two sides, she was intrigued by the great shining bronze planes which come soaring down out of the blue sky to make perfect three-point landings.

She watched planes leaving for everywhere and wished that she was one of the smartly dressed passengers climbing into one of the be whisked away a moment later for a ride through the air to almost any place.

Jerry had never been up in a plane and she thought aviators just too romantic, and she wished that some time she could have a little more easier job with "Jerry" painted on the side of the plane.

Jerry thought it would be gay to have her plane enameled in light red and silver wings and propeller. She would learn how to fly it herself and go soaring all over everywhere and up to some little cabin on a Wisconsin lake.

But here she was wanting things again. Why must a girl forever be wanting things? Life would be so much more simple if she could just be contented with what she had and not dream and long for all the pretty things she could never have. The fur coats, and the long sleek car and the boy friend who was lovable and had a million dollars.

Maybe she couldn't have anything like that. But she could have a swell big brother by the name of Peter Baird, who was going to drop like a gift from the blue in a few minutes now and take her in his big arms and kiss her.

At last the lane appeared out of the small smoke to the southeast, circled the field once and landed.

And first to step from the plane was Peter, as brown and tall and young that Jerry gave a little cry and ran forward to meet him.

Why, little Jerry! You're almost a young lady," Peter said. He picked her up in his arms, as he always had when she was a kid and she kicked one foot just like she always used to when she kissed her, and they were awfully happy riding back to the apartment in a taxi that Peter rented upon arrival.

"I thought this home-coming was going to be very sad," Peter said. "And I have been thinking about Mary Ann most of the time since I left Chicago, and that has helped to dull the edge Jerry."

"Oh, I'm sorry if I have seemed too gay, Peter!"

"No Jerry. You are just the sort of tonic I need. We can't go on forever sorrowing over her. You see, down in the jungle I had time while in which to do nothing but think. And I came to appreciate myself for almost anything."

This seemed terribly sad to Jerry.

"Yes, I had thought she might be dead, or more possibly married again, or dead and married. And that she was dead."

"You don't need to tell me, Peter. I know what you went through."

Peter Jerry made up some of his like old times. It's grand to be back. You're still living at the Blackstone avenue place, I take it. I sent a telegram reached you there. And Sarah's living at the old address, too?

"They are, Peter. And they have been getting along fine. Sarah has a daddy in the last week that they'll feel they always had you with them."

The children were shy at first, and Sarah cried because she said she couldn't remember Peter, and called her Mary Ann. But by the time dinner was served they were friends and children were chattering like magpies and asking a thousand questions.

"What did you bring us, daddy?" Skeeter wanted to know. She flirted with him outrageously and even made mock love to Jerry's dear face in order to see if he would laugh or scold.

"I brought half of South America in one of my trunks which are coming later by train," Peter said, "but I've got some little things to my bag.

"Why, daddy, you must be rich," Jackie said.

"Not rich," Peter said, "but not poor, either. I brought out a few trinkets from that place Jerry which I purchased for a song and items were willing to bid for. That is why I wasn't home as quickly as my letter. I stopped off in New York to turn the stuff into money."

"But Peter," Jerry said, "we had it all figured out that you would be desperately poor. We've even picked a room for you here and everything."

"That's perfect," Peter said, "if I'm not overwhelming. Later, perhaps, we can make some adjustments."

After supper, while Jerry and Sarah did the dishes, Peter sat quietly watching the children. He knew that most children make better friends slowly and that after a few hours or minutes of shyness they will make the first overtures.

And so when Jackie asked him to build a road mine shaft with his mechanical builder set Peter got down on the floor happily and began assembling wheels and lifts and other structural parts into a marvelous mine shaft that lifted lumps of sugar instead of ore.

And then there was a game of checkers with Kitten and, last of all, a pillow fight which got so strenuous that Jerry came running in to warn them that if they didn't all be quiet the people downstairs would come up to see what was the matter.

"Let 'em come. We'll throw them downstairs again won't we Jackie?" Peter said.

"You're swell," Jackie said by way of reply.

"Anyhow, it's the children's bedtime," Jerry said sternly.

"Oh, you're going to let us stay up the night our daddy comes Louie, aren't you?" Kitten asked in a very abused tone of voice.

"Gee," Jackie said, "we don't have to go to bed yet, do we, Jerry?"

"Yes sir," Peter said, pelting her with pillows while both Jerry's rolled on the floor with laughter.

Peter was like that. He had both the thunder and the lightning in his voice. He was tall and with her was Zayd, whispering his love. The Sheik had willed that his daughter should belong to the Harem of Pahd. Alaja hated and feared Pahd almost as much as she did Tokog, her uncle. Besides, she believed these two were plotting against her father. And now, even while with her beloved, was far from happy.

Fur-hide the night Tarzan struggled to free himself from the thongs that bound him. Suddenly the sand

"But it came from where he lies!" insisted The Jad. Tearfully Jerry ran him and examined Tarzan's bonds, which the spe-man had almost loosed. "He has wrists again, and tighter. In front this time," ordered the Sheik. Then to Tarzan: "Did you hear that cry? Yes, I heard it," said Tarzan grimly, "but why disturb me? It was but the call of one beast to another."

INJURED GIRL HYPNOTIZED TO NORMALITY

Girl Forgot Friends and Surroundings after Blow Restored by Hypnotism

Montreal Psychiatrist Employs Hypnotism in Hospital

THREE STEPS

Return of Consciousness Finds Girl Fully Restored

Montreal, July 18—(CP)—Hypnotism is claimed responsible for bringing back to normality Marie Paule Gougeon, who was severely injured last March, when bandits held up the post office branch where she was clerk.

Since the bandits she received at the hands of the hold-up men, she had been living in a realm of uncertainty. She did not remember her friends, fellow-workers, or even the surroundings of the post office, where she worked for two years prior to the attack. Yesterday she was taken to the Montreal General Hospital, where Dr. Norman Bethune, local psychiatrist and member of the new Neurological Institute, employed hypnotism to restore the memory.

In his treatment the doctor explained, there are three steps necessary. The first is suggestibility, that is, to see whether the patient is amenable to hypnotism. The second is to be able to dig out the buried facts, while the patient is in a hypnotic state. The third is to bring into use post-hypnotic suggestion, so that the unconscious mind may retain what has been forgotten.

Satisfied that his patient was completely under his care, the doctor proceeded with his questioning, concluding with the command, "when you get up you will remember everything."

He then brought the girl back to complete consciousness, and she rubbed her eyes for a moment, then smiled at the psychiatrist and the watchers out with her mother. She was normal and well, it was claimed.

The medical world today is using hypnotism more frequently in treatment of amnesia cases. Dr. Viner later explained. It cannot make a man better than he is, he admitted, but it can restore any of his mental faculties which may have been suspended through nervous ailment.

FINED FOR SELLING TICKETS ON CAR

Guelph, Ont., July 18 (CP) —Issuing the warning that "these things cannot be carried on in Wellington County," Magistrate Hillyer of Kenilworth in police court here today fined Allan Osborne of Bowmanville $25 and costs for having sold tickets on an automobile raffle. Osborne pleaded guilty. Tickets remaining were seized and Osborne was instructed to take the car out of the county. Chief Constable J. A. Ireland intimated that several Guelph residents might face charges of having purchased tickets on the car.

HYDRO DEALS WITH RENTAL

Offer to Mr. I. L. Moore Made on Upper Floor of Building

Belleville Hydro Commission at its special meeting today decided to offer to Mr. I. L. Moore of the Ontario Business College the lease of the floor of the new Hydro Building, Front Street at the rental of one hundred dollars per month, on a five year lease, the local commission to make the necessary changes to accommodate the business school and supplying heat and paying the hall rent.

Mr. Moore had made the Hydro an offer of $75 a month rental with a three year lease but the necessary changes Hydro men would have to make, made this unsatisfactory, the commission felt.

The president of the O.B.C., who is on vacation, will be asked to make an immediate reply to the offer as the work, if the reply is to the affirmative, will take considerable time to prepare the floor for the college.

For some time the Hydro commission discussed with Mr. Ritchie of Arnott, acting on behalf of Mr. E. Schuster, a complaint over the loss of his reputed account by the use of electric energy at his home on Dundas Street extending over several years. No decision was made.

Belleville Hydro Board today instructed the local manager to keep under what conditions other hydro centres deal with special lighting arrangements. Information will be sought from Walkerville, Brantford, Hamilton, Kingston, Smith's Falls, Perth, and Trenton. Belleville Hydro has been finding the strict reservations as to the supply of power for such cases and finds that in the case of a public park on the part by the V.O.N., Belleville price was sixty-five dollars higher than that in another city for instance.

Mayor Ponton or Commissioner Mayne Tice seconded by Commissioner Reid the manager was authorized to supply the V.O.N. with current for a garden party, the manager to submit the bill to the commission.

Chairman M. P. Duff presided.

NINE MONTHS IS ADDED

Tim Buck Sentenced For Part Taken in "Pen" Riots

Kingston, Ont., July 18 (CP)— Tim Buck, former leader of the Communist party in Canada, was sentenced nine months in addition to the term he already is serving for his association with the Communist body, for his part in the prison disturbances last October.

John Evans, colored convict found guilty of participating in the riot was sentenced to two years in addition to that he is serving.

Convict Evans pleaded that his sentence be suspended, and Judge Lavelle said that if he behaved himself the sentence would be reduced to an appreciable extent.

Confesses Shooting Former Sweetheart Turning Gun on Self

Alleged Slayer May Live But Girl Dies in Hospital

CHIEF BIG CHIEF

Nelson, B.C., July 18 (CP)—Hettie Ball, Nelson waitress, is dead and, according to Coleman, 23-year-old transient from Cranbrook, B.C. is in hospital with a bullet wound in his head as the result of an alleged murder and attempted suicide here.

According to police, Miss Ball, whose home is in Natal, B.C., had come here recently from Cranbrook, where she worked in a cafe. In a confession Coleman reported to have made to police, he stated he followed Miss Ball here, and that she was a former sweetheart, with the intention of slaying her.

Entering a cafe on a downtown street last night, where Miss Ball was employed, Coleman is said to have given an order and then followed the girl into a room and pushed her into a booth. A second waitress, who witnessed Coleman's actions ran for the manager. Before help arrived two shots were heard. Miss Ball and Coleman were found in the floor.

The girl died shortly after admittance to hospital.

Coleman is in a serious condition and even if he survives will lose the sight of both eyes.

Balbo Starts Back to Italy with 24 Airboats on Wednesday

Chicago, July 18—(AP)—General Italo Balbo and the 96 champion fliers with whom he crossed the Atlantic via eastern Canada decided today they would leave Chicago for Italy at 8 a.m. Wednesday.

Their route was announced as along the Great Lakes to Albany, N.Y., and then down the Hudson River to New York City, where a stop of a week-end was scheduled, it was claimed.

During the New York stay, on which the 24 huge flying boats will be moored in Jamaica Bay of Floyd Bennett air field, Balbo and his 24 officers will make a hurried trip to Washington for a luncheon with President Roosevelt, a banquet, and a reception.

A statement was issued from Balbo's headquarters today praising efficiency of the seaplanes on the 6,000 mile degree of the University of the State of New York. He also fought in the Brothers' School at Kingston, Ont., and was accorded lively sub-director and director of the orders Junior Novitiate.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Harry Bowen of R. B. Gandy, Rochester, N.Y., and Mrs. Martin J. Quinn, of Buffalo, N.Y.

He is survived by parents, and 3 brothers and sisters.

Just Like Pet Poodle Says Hutton Plenty of Affection but no Privileges

Los Angeles, July 18 (AP) —David L. Hutton who has filed suit for divorce from Aimee Semple McPherson, Canadian-born evangelist, coined his own phrase to describe his relationship to her.

"Pet poodle," he exclaimed, "I was just Aimee's pet poodle. I had plenty of affection—Pat—but no privileges."

And further: "I object to being Mr. Aimee Semple McPherson.' I felt all the time as though I were living in some unreal, heedless realm. I was only a puppet waiting for someone to pull the strings."

In a direct message to the Examiner from the Inner City of Havre, far out in the Arctic en route to America from France, Mrs. Hutton today said "reports concerning divorces are preposterous."

To Hutton the evangelist sent this cable:

"Sweetheart, reassure me your confidence." It was signed "Wife."

Mr. Hutton did not reply.

"She may be wirelessing in an entirely different vein tomorrow," he said. "Guess I'll wait and see how she feels about it in an-other day."

NOTED JURIST DIES AT 82

Sir Francois Lemieux, Quebec, Has Brilliant Career

Quebec, July 18 (Tuesday) (CP)— Sir Francois Lemieux, veteran of many trials and Chief Justice of Superior Court of the Province of Quebec died today at the age of 82. His death was not unexpected as his illness which necessitated his taking leave from his duties some months ago took a critical turn last week.

For more than a half century Sir Francois was a dominant figure in the courts and on political platforms. His elevation to the bench climaxed a brilliant career at the bar and in politics. He was one of the foremost criminal lawyers in Canada.

Back in 1886 Sir Francois, then a young lawyer who had already won his spurs, was one of the defence counsel at the trial of Louis Riel for high treason at Regina. His efforts on behalf of Riel were not sufficient to secure his acquittal, however, and the fiery rebel was hanged.

It was after the Riel trial that Lemieux launched into politics as one of the leaders of the Quebec Nationalist Movement. He sat in the legislature for a time but later devoted all his attention to law.

Born near Levis, county seat across from the Provincial capital which he was later to form as one of its most distinguished figures, Sir Francois was the son of a farmer. He was educated at Laval University there.

Sir Francois, whose wife Lady Lemieux, predeceased him almost a year ago is survived by six sons, F. X. Lemieux, Deputy Minister of the Department of Labor; Gustave Lemieux, Leonidas Lemieux, assistant Parliamentary Librarian, Ottawa; Buildings, M.A., Lawyer, Levis; Lemieux, chemist, Dr. Edgar Lemieux and J. P. Lemieux, engraver, all of Quebec, and five daughters, Madame Mailloux, wife of Judge Hector Verret, Sherbrooke; Mrs. Eugene Dubreuil, Montreal; Mrs. Octave Lacroix, Trois Pistoles and Jean Lemieux and Mrs. Charles Lemieux, Quebec. Funeral services will be held at the Quebec Basilica on Friday.

Dredging Extended to Coal Docks if Ottawa Agrees Upon Extension

Suggested Operation May Solve Status of City as Port

RAIL FREIGHT

Mr. W. E. Tummon Favors Work Into Inner Harbor

Dredging operations at the government dock may be extended to reach into the harbor and provide additional shipping facilities which will be of particular value in respect to the importation of British coal.

"I have asked for an extension of the dredging operations at the Government dock as far up as the coal docks," stated Mr. W. E. Tummon, M.P., for South Hastings today, speaking of the problem which has developed as to Belleville's status as a port.

"I think the prospects of extension good," he added. "Of course when the question of dredging came up at Ottawa, nothing about coal was mentioned. But we are now at work on this. There is only one difficulty with regard to the extension and that is that when a certain amount of money has been appropriated for a purpose the operation is generally not extended."

Speaking of the question of rail coal rates to Belleville, Mr. Tummon gave it as his view that the question is really one for the Chamber of Commerce and the railway companies."

However he believes that if the dredging is extended to the harbor the question of the rail rates may solve itself.

Freight rates by rail on British coal from Montreal to Belleville is $1.70 as against $1.50 from Montreal to Toronto. Mr. W. E. Schuster has brought the difference in rates to the attention of the public and has elicited the reply from the railway companies that the difference is because Belleville is not a competing point as a lake port.

Mr. R. J. Graham has recently taken up the question in the hope of bringing Welsh coal in at a lower rate.

Dredging of the outer harbor is still being carried on. This week the large shovel is working close to the government dock where an average of four feet of mud and gravel is being greded from the bottom, making a regular depth of 18 feet in the harbor to accommodate the lake freighter and tankers making this city their port of call at the government dock.

RASPBERRIES 11c BY CRATE

Fine Quality of Berries Offered on Local Market

Despite the lack of rains throughout the Belleville district some of the finest looking raspberries of the season were offered for sale at Tuesday's mid-week market. The red variety sold for 15c per box, while the blue ones brought 12c for two boxes or 11c a box when purchased by the crate. Fine looking cherries sold for 30 and 75c a basket according to the size. Huckleberries remained at 40 cents a quart.

More than the usual amount of eggs were offered for sale on a midweek market and sold for 18c a dozen. No butter was offered for sale, however.

New Potatoes brought 50c. a peck, while shelled peas sold for 20c a basket. Fresh beets, carrots, lettuce and radishes all sold for 5c the bunch. New cabbage brought a 5c and 10c. a head. The market was not as largely attended as it was on last Thursday.

ALBERT HATFIELD HIT BY THROWN STONE

Sustains Cut Lip and Loss of Front Tooth

Despite the fact that numerous warnings have been issued by the police relating to the throwing of stones in the Lasser dam area, little Albert Hatfield, aged 14, of 223 Front street, received a cut on the face with a stone, while he was swimming above the dam yesterday afternoon sustaining painful if not serious injuries.

The little Hatfield lad had been in the act of swimming with two companions from the front boys started to throw stones at them. From the bank at the river, down near Laster's dam, Young Hatfield attempted to swim while his companions returned to the opposite shore where they set up a barrage of stone-throwing in retaliation to those coming from the other bank. One of the missiles struck him on the east shore struck young Hatfield in the mouth, cutting his lip and knocking two of his permanent upper teeth out.

Frequently the police have been called to the Lasser dam district where disturbances are reported. Following the report of yesterday's stone-throwing incident, it is said the provincial police stepped in and all concerned were brought to the local office, where they were questioned.

All of the boys, who threw stones will be asked to appear in the Juvenile Court, wherever and whenever they will probably face charges. The offence is a serious one as some innocent person may be seriously injured by flying stones.

Great Relief From Pinkham Medicines

Three Times This Ontario Woman Has Been Benefitted by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I was always tired and I had severe pain at my periods. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me. I took it before my two children were born and I am taking it now at the Change. I have also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and found it a great relief for inflammation and for a discharge.—It's bothered me."

VISITS FORMER P.E. PEOPLE IN WESTERN CANADA

Mr. Fred Haycock, West Lake Has Enjoyable Experience

West Lake, July 18—Mr. Fred Haycock returned last week from an interesting trip to the west. Leaving Toronto June 12th had an uneventful trip through to Calgary, splendid train service, genial conductors, arrived at destination Stettler, Alta. Had splendid visit with relatives and friends there, returning back to Alex. called on a former neighbor, Lacombe to Stettler lines. Had splendid visit with William R. Brown. Mr. Brown taught the West Lake school for fifteen years and moved with his family to the West many years ago. At Alex. Mr. W. E. Pettit a former West Lake boy, son of the late Daniel A. Pettit, who is secretary treasurer of his township, also doing an insurance business there, also Stephen Sovereign, a former living home as arranged, but was up to Calgary to see and meet the guest. Mr. Pettit has a fine, well appointed home and a very gracious highly esteemed wife. A two day motor trip was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Pettit, which covered some five hundred miles, travelled through Buffalo Park, Chester to Wainwright to call on Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sovereign, former residents of West Lake, Mr. Sovereign has a gasoline station there, a fine home and charming daughter, a short visit there was enjoyed. He proceeded on to Vegreville where Mr. Pettit's son Dave is in partnership in a garage, next day to Edmonton, down to Wetaskiwan, Ponoka to Lacombe, Innisfail and to Alex where an evening's visit was enjoyed with Mr. Manley Yarwood, grandson of Mr. Bruce Yarwood of Warning's Corners, received again in Stettler. Made another start for home on the 26th. At Calgary he was detained for three days by Mr. H. E. McPaul (also a principal of high school at Calgary and son of Mr. and Mrs. Haskell McPaul of Allisonville) who entertained Mr. and Mrs. McPaul, a three day motor trip was enjoyed through the Rocky Mountains, National Park, Banff, Lake Louise, Yield, B.C., and the Columbia Bridge. One who has not been there cannot imagine the grandeur and magnificence of the scenery along this line. Left Calgary on July 3rd, home, arriving on 10th.

Mr. Haycock reports conditions to the West not very promising. There have been approximately half a crop and from that to nothing.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Paul and baby Coe Hill dined with recent guests at Mr. D. Maitlands. Miss Lillian Maitland accompanied them home for a week's visit.

The fish and game inspector was through here recently.

A number of American tourists are arriving at the different resorts here. West Lake locality is a very attractive spot to spend one's holidays.

Mr. Henry Wood while spending a night back North, had the tires and batteries stolen from his car. It is hoped the culprit will be found and punished as he deserves.

Miss Ella Allen is also spending some weeks with Mrs. Byron Hyatt, who is accomodating a few American tourists at her pleasant home.

The Warden's picnic at Lake Shore lodge on the 12th drew large crowds. There was a continuous line of cars to the Sand Banks Hardhall and all parked in a constant play.

The West Lake road was oiled last week in front of each residence and the effect is a good condition again.

Mrs. Emory Rogers is having her house painted. Ray Wright is doing the work.

Mr. W. S. Brinton passed away at his home here on Thursday after an illness of several months. The funeral service at the home on Saturday afternoon was largely attended. Service was conducted by Rev. Chauncy Mullins pastor of the Church of Christ here, assisted by

FINDING GUN MAY BE CLUE

Solution of Recent Crimes May Result From Discovery

Stirling (Special) — Provincial Constable Kelly of Belleville was in town on Monday to investigate the mysterious finding of a sawed-off shot gun by Mr. Michael Shea near his home on the Frankford Highway. Officials state that the first-class condition of the gun would indicate a readiness for use and think that the finding of the wrapped-up gun may be of some real significance in the solution of some recent mysterious crimes. Early this spring a pair of men's trousers, an old coat and blue and white handkerchief were noticed in the ditch near the culvert and although no importance was attached to this at the time, it has since the gun episode, assumed a grave aspect. The gun and clothes are now in the custody of the police.

GENE DISEASE IS CAUSE OF CANCER

Woman Scientist Makes Hopeful Discovery

New York, July 18—Evidence that hereditary cancer is a single gene disease, a hopeful development is presented by Maud Slyle of the University of Chicago, in American Journal of Cancer.

Genes are the units of heredity. Every human being is quite literally the product of his genes. These determine the physique and mentality are so small that scientists have estimated a single teaspoonful as sufficient to hold all the different traits which human being have ever developed.

Miss Slyle has discovered that in mice a single gene controls the susceptibility to cancer. Her findings eliminate the likelihood that cancer is the product of a whole group of genes, and thereby simplifies the prospects of finding a key to control the hereditary susceptibility. Although no gene control is yet possible in mice, geneticists already have been able on lower animals and plants, to alter single genes before birth, thereby controlling the corresponding characteristics in the adult. More than 100 genes have been found which could be manipulated under scientific control.

TRAIN IS HALTED TO SAVE DEER

Port Stanley, July 18—Brakes screeched and minutes were added to the scheduled run, when an L. & P. Wiley Post Streaks to Irkutsk Shortly After a Long Trip from Moscow

Tired Almost to Exhaustion But Takes Off on Next Hop

SOON TO REST

Battles Bad Weather From Ural Mountains to Novosibirsk

Novosibirsk, Siberia, July 18 (AP)—Wiley Post streaked for Irkutsk, 1,818 miles away, at 1:22 a.m. (8.22 p.m. E.S.T.) today, just two hours and 35 minutes after finishing an 1,818 mile flight from Moscow.

The doughty around-the-world flier swooped down on the Novosibirsk field at 6.37 a.m. (10.37 p.m. Monday, E.S.T.) and then, tired almost to the point of exhaustion, took off again at 8.02 a.m. (1.02 a.m. E.S.T.) with the intention of getting some badly needed rest at Irkutsk.

Post was lost twice on the way here from Moscow, and only his sense of direction, his automatic pilot having failed, enabled him to conquer fog and rain and to land safely here.

At one time he had to fly at an altitude of 21,000 feet, so bad was the fog. Once he landed in a field —he did not know where. Again he landed near Tarbank, 200 miles west of Novosibirsk, and once more, by sheer luck, he admitted, he found his direction.

He had left the Soviet capital at 5.15 p.m. Monday (9.13 a.m. E.S.T.) and arrived here 13 hours and 15 minutes later, and 26 hours, 17 minutes after leaving New York.

The Oklahoman had planned to fly directly to Khabarovsk, Siberia, his scheduled jumping-off place for the trans-ocean hazard, but bad weather, which had dogged him most of the way from the Ural Mountains to Novosibirsk and caused him to land twice before reaching the latter point, forced him to decide to spend the night in Irkutsk, rather than try to go on to Khabarovsk.

Bad Flying Weather

Weather reports given him during the brief pause here told of extremely unfavorable flying conditions all the way to Khabarovsk.

He was 16 hours and 57 minutes ahead of the time he and Harold Gatty took for a like distance when he left, for the pair stayed here 9 hours and 13 minutes on their world flight two years ago.

At this point he has completed about half of his world journey. Irkutsk is about 880 miles farther on. The entire estimated distance to Irkutsk to Khabarovsk is 1,300 miles. Thus, Post will ige several hundred miles for Irkutsk is made in a direct line between here and Khabarovsk.

Ivan Rooncharoff, chief of the Novosibirsk airport was talking to the Associated Press correspondent in Moscow when Post arrived, at the time from some unknown point, and for his safety.

Almost simultaneously the chief heard that Post had passed over Tartask, 250 miles west of here.

That was the first report of him since he left Moscow.

Post's average speed across the Atlantic to Moscow was about 150 miles an hour. From Moscow here his speed was about 150.

At this rate, he declared confidently, "I'll be back in New York in less than three full days."

Over Four Hours Ahead

When he left Moscow from Koenigsberg he was four hours, 24 minutes ahead of the previous flight, on the same plane. Although he was tired and worn from the pace he had set himself, he insisted on taking off after two hours and 35 minutes.

Driving him on was his self-imposed schedule because of which he said he was not proud of his visit from Germany to Moscow.

"I hoped to be at Irkutsk by this time," he said. "But I still have got a chance to beat our record, and I am out to do it."

Soviet mechanics were interested in Post's automatic pilot, which most of them saw for the first time. They asked about it.

"The mechanical Mike," he replied, through an interpreter. Then they asked what a Mike was, he explained.

The robot, he said, had been a disappointment and had caused such difficulties that he had to steer the plane manually all the way. He was weak with fatigue when he arrived in Moscow but he refused to sleep, preferring to visit a barber and supervise the repairing of a leak in the gasoline feed.

TABLE IN OKLAHOMA HAS JITTERS

Oklahoma City July 18.—(AP)—Oklahoma City's Shimmying Table still has the jitters.

The table, all metal and three feet long by one foot wide, sits on a concrete floor in a welder's shop. Detached from all other objects it has been shaking since 9 a.m. last Friday.

Mechanics, professors and laymen have not been able to solve the mystery. At times the table shakes so much as a quarter of an inch from the floor. W. C. Owen, owner says he believes the table is in perfect balance.

NEW YORK TO BE ONLY STOP

CHICAGO, July 18—(AP)—Hundreds of gallons of gasoline were pumped today into the 24 seaplanes of General Italo Balbo's Italian Atlantic fliers as they prepared for the second phase of their epic flight, the return trip to Italy.

Taking time out from the round of receptions, which has threatened enough to tire them more than did the 6,100 mile flight to Chicago from Orbetello, Italy, most of the fliers spent most of their flight from New York to Lithuania.

The two were killed yesterday, only 400 miles from their goal. After flying 5,000 miles, in about 38 hours without a stop. Police, investigating the wreckage of their plane, the Lituanica, said the gasoline tank was empty and the fliers evidently had piloted their ship into the treetops of a woods, mistaking it for a grassy field.

All last night the fliers' bodies were guarded by six Nazi storm troopers, standing rigidly at attention. Their bier was covered by a Nazi flag and by garden flowers. Four Lithuanian army officers are to come today to accompany the bodies to Stettin and thence, by aeroplane, to Kaunas, the Lithuanian capital, for burial.

The Lithuanian government has declared a period of national mourning for Darius and Girenas, for whose arrival thousands had waited all Monday night at Kaunas. Both were born in Lithuania. Darius was in the United States, a citizen of Lithuania by air corps.

Aviation circles were amazed by the precision with which the Lithuanians had been held to her route. Using only a compass, and with for modernized flying equipment, the fliers had held her on a bee-line for their goal.

Members of the Lithuanian legation remained at the Soldin Cemetery with the guard of honor overnight. The bodies were placed in coffins sent from Berlin and will be taken tomorrow by automobile to Stettin to await their flight to Kaunas.

ALBERTA GOVERNMENT TO AID FARMERS

Conditions in Some Districts Worst in 19 Years

Edmonton, July 18 (CP)—Alberta government today was taking steps to bring aid to stricken farmers in Central and Southern parts of the province where crop failures have occurred due to prolonged drought. Conditions are said to be the worst in 19 years, it was reported to the government today.

Complete loss of crops, including fodder and wheat, is reported. Sunnybrook and Berry Creek in Central Alberta are seriously affected.

Drought has demolished even the grass and in some areas placed in will even be without seed. The government is investigating the situation to determine the extent of relief required.

Lithuanians Prove Right to be Called Great Aviators

BURIAL AT KAUNAS

Marvell at Precision With Which Ship Was Held on Route

Soldin, Pomerania, Germany, July 18 (AP)—The bodies of Capt. Stephen Darius and Stanley Thomas Girenas of Chicago, who proved in death their right to be called among the great aviators, were ready to start on the last leg of their flight from New York to Lithuania.

The two were killed yesterday, only 400 miles from their goal. After flying 5,000 miles, in about 38 hours without a stop. Police, investigating the wreckage of their plane, the Lituanica, said the gasoline tank was empty and the fliers evidently had piloted their ship into the treetops of a woods, mistaking it for a grassy field.

LUNGE PLENTY HUNGRY AND HOOKED TWICE

BOBCAYGEON Ont. July 18. — (CP)—First it was young Clary Walton's story about the big fish that leaped into his boat now listen to this one. Incidentally a companion and eye-witness to that story told by Marshall Flay of Niagara Falls N.Y.

His companion, Bert Audley of New York hooked a big lunge that gave a terrific jump, broke the line and escaped. The fish disappeared with hook and part of the line.

Almost immediately however, Flay felt a jolt on his line and started winding in. Fastened to his hook was the line lost by Audley. And fastened to Audley's broken line was the big fellow that got away——— temporarily.

TRIES TWICE TO KILL SELF

J. W. Harriman Still Free After Escaping From Nursing Home

New York, July 18.—Joseph W. Harriman fled from his nursing home again today, apparently bent on accomplishing the suicide he attempted on his first disappearance last May.

Taking a taxicab to a ferry terminal, he made the round trips to Jersey City N.J. On each trip he tried to jump into the Hudson River, but deckhands restrained him.

Finally he left the ferry terminal by taxi at noon, about two hours after he had talked out of the Regent Nursing Home and dropped from sight.

Operatives of the Department of Justice and private agencies joined police in an intensive search of the metropolitan area, but were unable to pick up his trail again.

The 67-year-old banker's disappearance from the Regent Court inquiry into his mental fitness to stand trial on charges of falsifying the records and misapplying assets of the closed Harriman National Bank and Trust Company, which he once headed.

United States Attorney Medalie moved for the forfeiture of Harriman's $25,000 bail when he failed to appear at the resumption of his examination in Federal Court today.

The Prosecutor said he had been advised that Harriman had "fled to parts unknown."

Colonel William J. Donovan counsel for Harriman, moved for an adjournment, however, saying:

"As to a forfeiture of bail, if he is fleeing that is one thing, but if he is not of a mind that is another and that hasn't been decided."

Harriman's disappearance today was the second within as many days. He left the Regent Court room of the nursing home and was found in Central City a Long Island Inn, registered under an assumed name. The inn was near the spot where he had early on Sunday killed in an automobile accident five years ago. When he was discovered he had pinked himself in the chest with a knife, but the wound was not serious.

ON WITH THE GAME SAYS PAROLED MAN

Joliet, Ill., July 18 (AP)— It was the eight inning of the baseball game between Joliet state prison team and the Will County Democrats, and the score was tied 6 and 6.

Jack Padgett, thing baseman for the prison boys was playing some sparkling ball when a guard walked out on the infield and handed him his parole papers.

"Ferts" or words to that effect said Padgett, who had been in the prison five years, "I've got to play ball."

And he did, breaking a tie with a single in the 14th. Then he checked out.

Heavier-Than-Air Ships Only Practical Means of Long Flights

General Balbo Twice Discouraged by Fog on Long Hop

Chicago, July 18.—Perils that at times caused him to doubt whether his mass flight of twenty-four seaplanes over the Atlantic ever would be completed were recited by General Italo Balbo in an exclusive interview.

"Twice when we were flying through thick fog," Balbo said, "I was discouraged. Once near Reykjavik, Iceland; the other time was as we were nearing Labrador.

It was the perfection of the huge 61-ton flying boats, the excellent training of his men and the complete organization of the flight along scientific lines, General Balbo said, that enabled the flight to reach Chicago—6,100 miles from the starting point at Orbetello, Italy—with only one mishap.

Balbo, muscular, black-bearded stalwart of Benito Mussolini, referred the Associated Press reporter in his hotel suite. Striding up and down the room and puffing furiously at a cigaret, he told of what he believed was accomplished by the flight.

"Of this much I am certain," he said, "this flight has proved that heavier-than-air ships are the only practicable means of long-distance flying. I was convinced of it seven years ago when I was Undersecretary Italian Minister of Aviation. Italy has built no dirigibles since that time. We have seaplanes, proof of my belief."

Balbo speaks no English, and his replies were translated by Augusto Rosso, Italian Ambassador at Washington.

Of his ninety-six companions on the greatest mass flight ever completed, General Balbo declared himself justly proud. However, the 76-year-old commander holds no belief in "fatalism" or relying his men. His system in conducting the flight rested in one word—discipline—absolute and final.

ODDITIES IN THE NEWS

Pamerov, O., July 18 (AP)— Dr. Amy Whaley, who at 86 claims to be the oldest living registered dentist in the United States, was told a subscription to her favorite magazine had expired.

"Well," she said, "you'd better renew it for three years. I think I'll be able to enjoy it that long —anyhow."

Ashibaula, O., July 18 (AP)— A female swan and her male protector summoned a decidedly hostile attitude toward humans as soon as she started setting on three newly laid eggs. When he baby swans appeared after weeks and weeks of waiting, both proud attaches ignored their protests and investigated. The eggs had been stolen and replaced with steam.

Oklahoma City, July 18 — (AP)—Ted Hicks, State Corporation Commission Secretary, straddling the Oklahoma-Arkansas line at Dumbolton Springs and with one foot in each state, declared that he can't prosecute half a man and besides Hicks laughed, they'll never know whether I was in the bottle in Arkansas or Oklahoma."

Agreement of Danubian Producers for Export Wheat Quota----Reached

54 Million Bushels This Years And 50 Millions Next

QUITE IMPORTANT

Russia Will be Asked to Set Definite Export Quota

London, July 18 (AP)—Representatives of the four largest wheat-producing nations in the world reached an agreement today with Danubian producers whereby exports of the latter nations would be held to 54,000,000 bushels this year and 50,000,000 bushels next year.

The accord is held to be of the highest importance since it represents the keystone of provinces set up by Australian delegates to participation in an acreage restriction scheme, which is considered necessary to use up the large existing wheat surplus in order to raise prices.

Negotiations for an agreement regarding creation of the world wheat acreage and exports have been in progress during the World Economic Conference, it was by spokesmen of Canada, the United States, Australia and Argentina.

The "big four" representatives went directly from a meeting this morning which considered means of Danubian countries—Hungary, Rumania, Jugoslavia and Bulgaria—at a session with Russian spokesmen.

Russia Will be Asked

In the session Russia was told that they would try to tie Russia down to a definite export quota for the next two years.

Another parley with representatives of Russia and other European importing countries is scheduled for this evening, at which time an effort will be made to induce those nations to eliminate some of their restrictions, such as import quotas, which handicap a free-world market for wheat.

The Danubians had first been asked to limit exports this year to 40,000,000 bushels, but later conceded a volume of 45,000,000 bushels.

Upon representations, however, that this year's crop in those countries is likely to be larger, they conceded a quota of 54,000,000 bushels provided that next year's amount will be limited to 50,000,000 bushels.

"It is only a few million bushels more or less, and the difference is less worth standing in the agreement for," one delegate said.

JUDGE STUBBS IS CONFIDENT

Believes He Will be Next Member For Mac-Kenzie

Yorkton, Sask., July 18 (CP)—Confident of victory as the member for Mackenzie constituency at the polls, Federal Judge Former Justice L. St. G. Stubbs told an audience here that land values, particularly for his dismissal from the bench known he was to be a candidate in the Saskatchewan constituency they would have left him on the bench. His ambition, he said, was he was far less dangerous to them than as a member of the House of Commons.

I am the candidate for the Farmer-Labor party in Saskatchewan in the Mackenzie constituency and there is nothing surer under Heaven than the fact, that I am going to be the next member for that constituency," the former Manitoba Jurist told his audience last night.

MARIO COZZI

Recently returned from a successful season at the famous La Scala opera in Italy, Mario Cozzi is now filling a weekly radio engagement on a network program in "Concert Footlights". The young Italian-American baritone studied with noted teachers in the United States and was connected with the Metropolitan Opera in New York for several years in an executive capacity.

KIDNAPPERS SEEK VICTIMS

Washer Millionaire And Oregon Pastor Receive Threats

New York, July 18.—Reports of fresh kidnap threats reached baffled United States authorities as search continued for a long-held victim with a $60,000 ransom demand.

Plots against P. L. Maytag, millionaire washing-machine manufacturer of Des Moines, Iowa, and Rev. R. M. Close of Portland, Ore., provoked new precautions for an official dom frankly worried by a racket growing apace. Meantime, there was no word of the kidnaped John J. O'Connell Jr., held since July 7.

There was a report of hope, however, in the O'Donnell case. Illinois authorities said a family politically powerful in upper New York State was aided, a letter has been sent the family by the abductors every third morning. One was due today, but did not arrive. The family hoped one of twelve persons named as possible was made contact with the kidnappers.

Federal, state and civic authorities warned it is war to the finish against kidnappers, but they did not stop two men from seizing Rev. Mr. Close soon after Sunday midnight, with the demand for $15,000 ransom. The minister said he escaped by knocking one of the racketeers from his commanding revolver range and scaring the others with a fountain pen he had in his hand.

The white-haired Mr. Maytag traveled from Des Moines to Trenton under the protection of a bodyguard. A twenty-four-hour change in his travelling schedule was believed to have thwarted a plot to kidnap the 76-year-old millionaire.

The San Diego, Cal., home of P. Ortis Rubin, ex-President of Mexico, remained under vigilant eyes following telephoned demands for $50,000 under pain of abduction. At Chicago police arrested Frank "The Enforcer" Nitti, of the Capone gang for questioning in the recent John Factor kidnapping.

FAIR PLAY!

Small words "is la carte" under a glaring sign, "Chicken Dinner, 45 Cents" will not save any tourist resort owner from the unpopularity which will attach itself upon all who charge extortionate prices.

How overcharging feels no one has the slightest doubt for at some time or other every person has come across the man who "soaks" him. There is no resentment so bitter as that against the extortioner.

A U. S. tourist ate a piece of chicken at a "camp" or eating place between St. Catharines and Toronto after reading a sign about a forty-five cent dinner and then was forced to pay $5.85 for the dinner he and two others of his party regaled themselves on. He carried home the feeling that he had been "done" by a Canadian. He happened to be an industrial man and he took the first opportunity to present his case when he met Mr. J. O. Herity, Belleville's industrial commissioner, who was on a tour of discovery in the U. S. for prospective industries. The commissioner, knowing the harm such overcharging would do, sent on the complaint to the Ontario Motor League which has launched an agitation which will put a ban upon such treatment.

The complaint has more than an individual aspect for it hits at one of the things which some few persons seem to get through their heads, that no man wants to be fleeced. He does not mind spending money if he has it to spare, but he does not want to be robbed at the counter or table and told that his bill is three or four times what he had reason to believe it would be. Most persons know that the best way to drive away trade is to overcharge, but a few linger in business and on the highways with a notion of getting all they can off the chance customer or wayfarer because he may not come that way again. That person is a modern fool. That cheated customer is publicity agent No. 1 who does not fail to tell the bad side of touring in a strange land where some few fact as if they wanted to grow fat on profits all at once. And the tourist trade is a big one—one worth cultivating, not by overcharging, but by fair means.

The law ought to make an example of such people, as overchargers, and if there is no law just covering this point then the law ought to be amended so as to treat such an extortioner, according to his deserts.

Hospitality and common sense would demand that the tourist be protected by means of a licensing plan "gypers."

During the slump the tourist trade held up and now it is growing more and more, and it will continue to grow. But there must be honest purveyors to serve them. Better fewer places of refreshment than to have the guests of the country "gypped."

One thing we like to see comes across this unpleasant selfish type with an overplus of low cunning which never makes him money or brings him big trade in the long run. Others persons are too wise and hospitable and fair to descend to these tactics, outlawed by good business, hospitality, and every sense of decency.

The fair play which people ask is not confined to eating places but to every trade which has dealings especially with visitors.

AIR NAVY IS SEEN

Those who gazed upward on Saturday at noon had an opportunity which millions of people on this continent would have delighted to see, but were not privileged—the appearance of a number of ships of the seaplane armada under General Italo Balbo on his way to Chicago from Italy and the sudden change of course slightly to the north as they passed over the Moira River to reach Lake Huron.

Duplication of such an event is not an everyday event even in this age of scientific surprises and when almost anything may happen in the way of wonders of achievement. Fleets do not come from Europe every day, or once a year. This was the first time such a fleet visited Canada and it may be many a long month before the event is repeated though this is a time when instincts are frequent.

Il Duce has made many gestures, some of them have not been understood as he wished them to be, but this gesture of goodwill and co-operation in making the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition a striking event excels in its way anything which he has yet done. Interest in it has been worldwide. Here is a cruising air navy with the air chief himself aboard flying from continent to continent, separated by the Atlantic Ocean, entering strange lands on a peaceful mission.

The great aerial navy which the poet Tennyson foresaw is realized. Belleville fans have seen it, dwellers in the country-side hereabouts have seen the real fleet.

Such a vision as was witnessed Saturday may naturally lead to musings about what may happen in the days yet to be — airlines crowded with fast-moving freight and passenger air trains borne over our heads where now are but trackless wastes.

SIDELIGHTS

UNPAID

There are so many debts we never pay,
Unthinking, careless through the flying years;
Who can recall the hope of yesterday,
The bliss of laughter or the boon of tears?
The strength that was a staff where we might cling,
The face that was a torch to fire our souls,
Who goes through chance and chance, remembering
The loves that lifted him to bygone goals?

There was one hour in the long ago;
It seems another self, another earth,
So far away, so great the debt I owe,
For which I tendered coin of little worth;
My tardy gratitude will never wane,
Though this debt, too, unpaid mus still remain!

HARD LUCK those two young aviators, who defied the United States government, the elements, and all laws of chance to make names for themselves and spanned the ocean and came within measurable distance of their goal, only to meet sudden death through a minute miscalculation. Hard luck, indeed, but their actions evidenced that they preferred death in a glorious adventure than life with insignificance. The expression that life is sweet has been qualified by the known fact that life is also very often sour and many people on this funny old ball are living unsweetened lives or with not much else to show longer it is prolonged—aside perhaps from the fear of what lies beyond the horizon of our intellects.

GENERAL BALBO accomplished a great feat when he successfully brought his armada of twenty-four powerful seaplanes from Italy to the Chicago World's Fair and landed them safely with the loss of only one man, and without the loss of a man or plane after leaving Europe. General Balbo, as head of the aerial military forces of Italy is a very capable and popular officer in his homeland. Belleville Rotarians, who attended the International Convention in Vienna a year ago, saw General Balbo while enjoying a side trip to a summer resort on the Adriatic sea, and had an opportunity to see just how popular he was there. Premier Mussolini received a special party of Rotarian officers including the Belleville contingent and made a very favorable impression upon them, speaking excellent English and evidencing outstanding ability and statesmanship.

CAUSE AND TREATMENTS OF JAUNDICE

Jaundice First Noted in Lemon Yellow Color in Eyes

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology.

(Copyright 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.).

By jaundice is meant discoloration of the skin and mucous membranes by the pigment of the bile.

Bile is secreted by the liver. It is stored up in the gall bladder, if, for any reason, the flow of bile into the large intestine is blocked, bile pigment penetrates into the body tissues and discolores them.

Jaundice, therefore, is an effect and not a cause. It is a symptom, not a disease. In all cases the cause must be found and removed if jaundice is to disappear.

Gall stones may produce a clogging of the bile duct. Tumors in the duct itself, or in adjacent structures and pressing on the duct, may likewise obstruct the flow of bile. Any inflammatory condition in the duct, causing swelling, may make the opening through the duct smaller and finally close it entirely.

Sometimes the difficulty starts in the stomach. An alcoholic debauch may be responsible. Also quite an innocent reason as overindulgence in unusual, spicy or rich food.

Jaundice is usually noted first in the "white of the eyes which look a lemon-yellow color. The skin of the body generally may also take on the same tint. In more severe cases the skin may turn a deep olive-green or even brown. It also has a characteristic appearance.

Temperature in jaundice cases is not the rule. Often, however, the temperature is below normal by one degree or more. The pulse is slow. Appetite wanes and finally disappears nearly early in the course of this disorder. Nausea and vomiting may occur. Either constipation or diarrhoea develops. A tired feeling or even utter prostration, without exertion, is complained of.

The stools, in a well-developed case of jaundice, are characteristically clay-covered. This is because no bile has into the intestines to mix with food- residue. As might be expected, the tongue is coated and the breath foul. Because of the consequent taxemia, headaches are common.

One of the most annoying accompaniments of jaundice is itching of the skin. This may be so severe as to produce a state of nervousness which is difficult to combat. In fact all jaundice patients are more or less irritable. They want to be left alone and prefer a rest.

From one to four weeks is the usual course of a jaundiced state. If symptoms persist for a longer period it is probable that a more serious condition than simple inflammation of the bile duct exists.

Rest in bed is desirable for all varieties of cases. If this cannot be done, at least a quiet life, free from excitement or exercise, should be led. A good dose of calomel, followed by salts in the morning, should be taken at the very first suspicion of jaundice. The bowels should likewise be kept free throughout and for this the liberal use of a wild cathartic is necessary.

On the first day only water should be drunk. Later on a liquid diet is indicated, composed especially of milk.

A simple catarrhal jaundice will probably field to ordinary measures as outlined above. Nevertheless, it is always the part of wisdom to consult a physician regardless.

After the attack has passed, the abdomen should be kept warm with a flannel binder for a few weeks.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

Rice water is a refreshing drink and good for children. This is made by taking one desertspoonful of rice flour and blending it with a little cold water. Then mixture is then stirred into ten ounces of boiling water to which a pinch of salt has been added. After cooking in a double boiler for thirty minutes the same is strained. Then water is added up to a pint. The same may be done with oat or wheat flour.

RACE FOR 70 YEAR OLDS NOT ON PROGRAMME

All Over That Age Has Been Fun-ning

Hamilton, Ont., July 18 (CP).—Once feature of the civic employees' annual picnic sports program, the race for men more than 70 years of age has passed into oblivion. "Not any old man in the place apparently," said the clerk as he chocked over the entries at the picnic.

And here's the reason. The city council decided to pension civic employees at the age of 70.

At the annual gathering even old chaps with long white beards merrily said "40" when asked what class they were entering.

At the International Pair of Budapest, the microphone of the powerful Budapest station was placed in an exhibition stand, and anyone could speak over it for a small fee.

STRIVING TO SAVE PARLEY

Experts to Meet To-day to Find Some Work For Committees

London, July 18—In an effort to insure that the World Economic Conference may survive in some form after the scheduled adjournment, July 27, a number of experts will meet today to consider continuing some work in special committees after delegates go home.

Some of the experts said privately last night that they see little chance for the possibilities of survival, but Cordell Hull, American Secretary of State, was described as feeling that the parley had uncovered a vast field for useful activity with results in clearing away excessive trade barriers.

Premier Hull declined to express his opinion as to how the deliberations might be kept going, saying that this problem was still under consideration.

In important sections of both British and United States delegations there is much doubt that any general conference will be reconvened at any time in the future.

Negotiations for wheat and silver agreements will resume their labors today in last effort to score some accomplishment for the London deliberations.

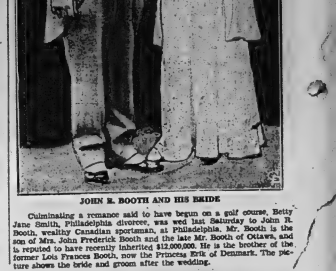
AUTO AUCTIONED FOR 30 CTS BY BAILIFF

Two Sales Bring Grand Total of Thirty-Eight Dollars

PORT HOPE, July 18.—Fifteen hundred people turned out to two auction sales in this district yesterday and the proceeds of the two totalled only $38. The sales were conducted by farms of Fred Brown and George Henderson neighboring farmers on the Provincial Highway six miles west of here. The sales were held under the bailiff's warrant issued through Solicitor A. Chisholm of Cobourg.

Fred Brown ran in the morning 600 people attended and the proceeds totalled $18. The sales were conducted by auctioneer Jack Brown, brought 25 cents each and calves the same. A binder and a seeder were knocked down for 50 cents each. Thirty acres of oats and wheat were sold for 20 cents an acre and 12 tons of hay for $3.



Farmers came from miles around, and some even brought their dinners. The Henderson sale got under way in the afternoon. Nine milk cows brought 25 to 30 cents a head, 200 lb. C.?

WHIRLPOOL OF NIAGARA IS CONQUERED

New Jersey Boy Caught in Rapids Makes Safety

CONFIRMATION

Whirlpool Last Attempted by Captain Webb Fifty Years Ago

Niagara Falls, Ont., — William Kondra, 21, Jersey City, N.J., made an unpremeditated swim last night of the lower Niagara Rapids and Whirlpool, the death hole for decades of practiced professional swimmers. The swimmer had neither clothes nor a barrel.

Taking off with a chum from the American side just above the lower bridge he had swum two-thirds of the way to Canada when he changed his mind and started back. As he turned, however, the current caught him and carried him down the river.

After trying several strokes, he finally concentrated on keeping his head above water as he plunged through the rapids and great waves at the whirlpool, and then, with desperate effort, he propelled himself out of the fast moving calmer waters.

He entered on the American side at 7 o'clock and emerged on the Canadian side at the whirlpool at 8.15.

Harold Brooker, zero car manager, was with him in the middle of the whirlpool, provided him with a pair of overalls in which to return to the American side.

Mr. Brooker, who provided the lad with clothing, described him as very much "all in" when he found him. Mr. Brooker said he could not see the boy swim the rapids and the whirlpool as he saw him in the whirlpool, and his affidavit to the effect that the swim was actually accomplished is based on the last time this particular swim was attempted was in 1883 by Captain Webb, who, of course, perished in the effort.

Verification of Kondra's story was made late last night by his chums, Kondra, who was separated over the river and brought the clothes over to him at his request, as well as the youth going down the river, but could not watch his progress because of the bends.

The city police quite frankly were skeptical of the youth's story because of his condition. Kondra is a great husky blonde and appeared to feel no ill effects of what must have been a terrific struggle.

The story, however, is verified from several sources, and Kondra is the first known man to swim through the rapids and emerge alive.

REPRESENTATIVE BODY TO ATTEND FUNERAL

Obsequies of Late Finlay G. MacDiarmid at New Glasgow

New Glasgow Ont., July 18 (CP)—Representative men from all walks of life, including members of the Dominion and Ontario cabinets, the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, and the C.N.R. Association of Ontario were present at the funeral today of Finlay G. MacDiarmid, Minister of Public Works and Highways in the Hearst administration.

Mr. MacDiarmid died in a Toronto hospital Saturday, following a week's illness.

People of the district, both old and young, who knew the late executive minister intimately thronged the doors of Knox Presbyterian Church where a service was conducted by Rev. P. Oliver, Member of the Masonic Lodge, of which Mr. MacDiarmid was a Past Master, and representatives of the Knights of Pythias were in attendance.

Interment was in New Glasgow Pioneer's Cemetery.

Armies of Insect World are Described to Rotary Clubmen

Birds Ally of Mankind in Keeping Down Insect Pests Which Otherwise Would Do Great Havoc—Man's Constant Warfare Against Voracious Insects

"Bugs and Birds," was the subject of an interesting address by Rev. R. R. Mickelson, of Trenton, before the Belleville Rotary Club, on Monday at the Country Club. Mr. Mickelson gave a very graphic description of the havoc occasioned in his own flower and vegetable garden by insects, and then went into detail to show the great damage caused by insects to the growing crops, fruits and flowers of the nation each year, and the great value of birds, even birds that prey in keeping the insect menace from becoming a major disaster.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. J. H. Tummon, M.P., who gave a brief sketch of the career of the speaker in Western Canada, the prairies, and the mining country of Northern Ontario.

There are 500,000 different kinds of insects already classified, and perhaps four times as many more unclassified, said the speaker, quoting scientists who are experts on entomology. Crops are made, if unchecked, could destroy all the foliage in the United States in eight years, said the speaker, showing the urgent necessity of ceaseless warfare against the insect peril. Fortunately the birds are ever on the watch and warring against insect life, even so-called birds of prey hundred times its own weight in caterpillars in 24 hours. The only human comparison of this would be if a baby could eat 150 pounds of beef on the day of its birth.

The boll weevil, said the speaker, had done untold damage to the cotton, but preventive measures had reduced that damage from $14,000,000 a year to $7,000,000.

Man vs. Insect will constitute the next great war, said the speaker, pointing out the danger of the steady invasion of foreign insects. The Japanese Beetle has entered the United States, just as the European corn borer did in 1907, imported from Austria in a shipment of broom corn, and millions of dollars are being spent to combat these menaces. Fearing disaster to the corn belt of the western states from the European corn borer Congress appropriated ten million dollars and put 5,000 men at work with 3000 tractors and other equipment to fight the invaders.

Six years ago, said the speaker, the Mexican Bean Beetle arrived from the land of bandits and chili con carne, and if not exterminated may cause the plebian Boston baked bean to advance into the plutocrat class at one dollar a plate or more.

In the United States the insect damage to-day is estimated at one and a half billion dollars annually while Canada loses at least two and one-quarter million dollars annually through the pests. One hundred and fifty million cords of standing pulpwood were destroyed in Quebec by insects.

Weeds were also the cause of great loss, and the speaker pointed out the fact that several species of weed seeds consume great quantities of weed seeds and thus keeps this menace in check. Field mice are also kept from multiplying by several species of birds who enjoy eating them.

Loss from grasshoppers and other insects was also pointed out by the speaker and the necessity of ceaseless warfare against the insect pests who threaten the supremacy and even the very existence of man, if not effectively checked they will destroy all vegetable life and obliterate mankind, and will attack man and destroy him too.

Rev. Beauchamp Payne expressed his appreciation of the Rotarians present at the instructive address, and the thanks passed on to the speaker by President Ed. Bernstein who starts his term of office under the most auspicious circumstances.

SWEPT AWAY BY UNDERTOW

Detroit Youth Drowns in Port Hope in View of Mother

PORT HOPE July 18. — Swept off his feet by a heavy undertow, Jackson Southwell aged 18, of 423 Dickerson Avenue, Detroit, was drowned in Lake Ontario here at 2.30 o'clock Monday afternoon. Due to the roughness of the water dragging operations were baked, and at a late hour Monday night the body had not been located. The victim was bathing with his brother Lawrence Southwell aged 16, about thirty-five feet from shore off the Port Hope west bathing beach. The younger brother was swept off his feet by the undertow and was carried from view by a huge wave. Lawrence managed to grasp his hand, but the victim was pulled away.

George Southwell aged 13, another brother was on the pier a short distance away and witnessed the tragedy. The lad's mother Mrs. R. V. Southwell was standing on the shore, and when she saw her boys in trouble she immediately dashed to their aid throwing the wraps, fully clothed. Half way to the scene she was forced to give up. Numerous bathers thoroughly searched the water adjacent to the shore and it is believed that the body was carried out into the lake.

FIRED, KILLS BANKER

CHARLES WHALLEY

Returning to England, where on a vacation he was notified that he had been discharged from his post in the foreign exchange department of the Bank of Montreal branch in Mexico City, Charles Whalley, 34, native of Southampton, England, and well known in Mexican sports circles as a golfer, entered the office of his former employer, David Enenza, a Canadian, and fired six shots, killing Enenzo instantly. Enenzo, a native of Newfoundberg, Nova Scotia, was one of Mexico's leading banking figures. Whalley is shown in the Mexican federal penitentiary, talking over the long distance telephone to a London newspaper. He said the shooting was an act of impulse.

Never Marry an Aviator Unless One Cannot Help Loving Him Says Mrs Post

New York, July 18 (CP)— Mrs. Wiley Post, who married an aviator, advises other women not to, unless they can't help it.

"If you find yourself hopelessly in love with an aviator—so hopelessly, that life without him would mean nothing—marry him," she said today. "Otherwise find a husband among the salesmen, business men—anyone, so long as he keeps his way."

JUST BEFORE THE LONG HOP

Mrs. Wiley Post bids her globe-flying husband good-by as he takes off from New York, and goes home to wait anxiously for him to return from another air adventure. Post, eight-day ordeal she endured with composure in 1931, when he spanned the globe with Oatty. Post landed safely in Berlin on first leg of Journey.

PATHWAY TO POWERMAPPED

C.C.F. Speakers State Capitalism Must be Removed in Canada

(By Sam C. Ross, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Regina, July 18 (CP)—The pathway to Federal Government power after the next Dominion election today had been initially mapped for the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

While the Provincial Executive continued its sessions today in preparation for the first National Convention which opens tomorrow, fairly delegates discussed the call to definite political action given by a public meeting here last night by Captain Harold Philpott, Toronto, a leader of the C.C.F. in Ontario. Also addressing the meeting were J. S. Woodsworth, Winnipeg Labor M.P. and Provincial President of the C.C.F. and Prof. King Gordon, Montreal.

Complete removal from life of the Dominion of all traces of capitalism was urged by Captain Philpott as he declared half the Ontario seats in parliament would be held by C.C.F. candidates after the next Federal election. No permanent good could be obtained from reforms, while the nations participating clung to the capitalistic system, he declared.

"The whole government power must be over the debris of capitalism," he said. "A co-operative economic and social system must be built a new commonwealth based on freedom also protected human rights above monetary privileges; giving every man the right to be well born and educated to his abilities; a job where knowledge security of employment and a respectable living in his old age; and the right to leisure; the right to work, the right he declared, went the duty to work.

SHOT HORSE THEN SELF

Teeswater Farmer Angry Over Division of Farm Work

Teeswater, Ont. July 18.—Anger over the division of farm work led Alexander Wilson, of this district, to shoot a valuable prize horse Monday and then kill himself.

Wilson, who had lived in the house with his uncle, William Watson, and owned a farm of his own across the road, had planned to have his uncle assist him farming with his horses. When instead neighbours arrived to help the uncle work in his own wheat field, he became angered, according to Coroner D. M. H. Gillies of Teeswater. Without a word picked up a .44 calibre rifle and went to the stable, where he shot to death a heavy draught horse which had won many show ribbons. Then Wilson disappeared, and later his body was found beside the rifle in a field. He had been shot through the heart.

Coroner Gillies, who investigated with Provincial Constable McGevin of Walkerton, said it was an obvious case of suicide and that no inquest was necessary.

DISOBEDIENCE ACTS AUGUST 1

Apparent Breakdown of Peace Negotiations in India

Poona, India, July 18 (AP) — Because of an apparent breakdown of peace negotiations with Lord Willingdon, Viceroy of India and former Governor-General of Canada, individual disobedience acts are scheduled t obegin August 1, the Mahatma Gandhi said in an interview today.

He himself will not attempt any action of disobedience, he added, unless he first warned the government of his intention to do so.

Lord Willingdon and Gandhi have exchanged messages regarding the Indian congress party's peace moves. The latter asked for an interview with Lord Willingdon, who denied the request except if the whole party movement campaign were unconditionally suspended. The whole fabric of the Indian National Congress, the leader asserted, is to be destroyed with the acting president of the group elated to become dictator of all India. Provincial dictators of the party will be appointed shortly.

Gandhi previously maintained that the party wanted to bring about an honorable solution to the differences between the government and the party.

THREE MILLIONS IS COST OF FLIGHT

Rome, July 18—The flight of the Italian air armada under General Italo Balbo to Chicago was estimated to have cost about $3,000,000, including $56,000 for each plane.

The expenses along the route, including the taxes for travelers, were about $54,000, which will be met by a special sale of air stamps. This sale already has reached $100,000.

The fuel and lubricants for the planes were supplied by commercial concerns. Other expenses include costly instruments, at about $2,500 each. The training of the pilots required two years. It was part of the usual air force training.

Weddings

FRANKLIN—THOMPSON

On Monday July 17th., there was solemnized the marriage of Lovina Denight Thompson of Bloomfield to Arthur Jacob Franklin of the town of Picton. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Viola Winnifred Thompson, while the groom was supported by Mr. Arthur Sherman Mann. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Enos Farnsworth at his residence, 184 Main street, Picton. The happy couple carry with them the best wishes of their many friends for a happy wedded life.

McLAUGHLIN—SMITH

Miss Isabel Keith Smith, niece of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Keith of Bowmanville, and Col. Lorne T. McLaughlin, M.C., D.S.O., son of Mrs. McLaughlin and the late Mr. McLaughlin of Bowmanville, and officer commanding the 2nd Battalion, R.C.R., were married yesterday in High Park Presbyterian Church. Masses of colorful garden flowers and tall candles decorated the church, and Rev. John McNabb officiated.

The wedding music was played by Miss M. Hazel Stedman of Kingston, and during the signing of the register, Miss Jessie McDougall sang. The bride, who was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. G. W. Keith, wore a very bewitching suit, a New York model of Lanvin blue crepe, with lustrous white straw trimmings, and carried a bouquet of Butterfly roses and lily-of-the-valley.

There were no attendants and the reception which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Keith, Lodge Hall, later the bride and groom left for Vancouver, and will sail for Alaska, returning later to live in Bowmanville. For travelling the bride wore her wedding suit with matching Lanvin blue hat and purse.

Col. McLaughlin was formerly Company Commander of the 39th Battalion and at the close of the war officer commanding the 2nd Battalion which he brought back from overseas.

JUST A BIT IN ADVANCE of the early Autumn mode is the lovely satin that one smart woman is wearing. The black satin is of the thinnest weave and is made entirely for cool afternoons with tiny self buttons. The blouse is of lustrous pink satin with tiny pink satin buttons.

STRIPES ARE STRAIGHT headed for success, judging by the number of striped dresses seen for dress and sports wear. Even hats are going in for stripes, as witness the small close fitting white hat trimmed with narrow braid stripes in red, black, blue and gold.

Just turn about and see how many dresses for evening are going in for that high-in-front, and-low-in-back line. A dress of heavy black lace is very high in front and has long tight sleeves. But in back it reaches in a point even below the waistline, where a cascade of tiny lace ruffles fall to the hemline, forming a short train.

Beauty .... By Helen Jameson

Growing Old Gracefully

If some women didn't try to look so young, they wouldn't look so old. You know them. You've seen them, lots of them. Hair bleached to a cinder or dyed jet black was cheeks bedizened with red apple splotches eyebrows crayoned, frocks costs and hats from the junior section, highest heels that are made by the hang of man. One more backward step into the past and they'd be skipping round in rompers.

Time somebody lit into them. We hate to do it. But the children and the grandchildren, seeing perfectly good grandmothers going to waste, will be happier if the old gals settle down, be themselves.

Advancing years bring a certain element of beauty which should be grasped, not fought off. The compassion softens, lets on transparent delicacy. Silvered tresses form a rich and flattering tiara. If a woman has learned anything from life she has ceased to argue, to fight to struggle, to criticise or complain because all that is useless, stupid and silly. The thinking woman, the wise one is blessed with an expression of tranquility after she touches the sixty mark.

Her life work isn't finished. She will toil on to the end, enjoy pleasures and pastimes. But the fever is over and the rush and over.

This wise lady has learned that the cruelest thing in the world almost is to hurt the feelings of another human creature, so she is kind.

She doesn't worry about her crochies because she knows that new ones are ever on the way, she'll never be out of worrying material, so she might as well chuck the whole mess of it. All the worrying she did in the past didn't get her anything, pay any happiness dividends.

She doesn't consider beautifying efforts foolish. She has her hair beautifully dressed, piles the skin food, keeps on with the astringents. But she knows that best beauty aids come in the form of sleep, fresh air, sunshine, nourishing simple foods, mental hygiene, bathing, exercise.

If she has been lucky enough to stay slim she can slith-wear youthful attire. There are women of sixty who look funny in age-sixty clothes. But as advancing years bring a dignity of bearing there should be cultivating an appreciation of dignified garments.

The great test of beautiful old age is the admiration of the young fry. If young people enjoy being with Gran, she is a good egg, you be sure of that. There's no reason why spirits should mildew; anybody can chug up fresh ones if they know how. Birthdays mean nothing to the brain, nor do they dull the scene of humor. There are dour boys and girls of twenty who are as old as the hills, tiresome companions, soured on the world. There are grandmothers who are the salt of the earth and the bright, sparkling balance wheels of the family. Join up!

Beatrice Fairfax Letters

SEVEN LETTERS HAVE GONE UNANSWERED.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am of a romantic nature, and about two months ago met a girl who lives in another city. She invited me to see her, and I enjoyed my visit very much. Even her family were very friendly. We corresponded after my return; then, for some reason unknown to me, everything stopped. She doesn't call me when she comes to our city, and I've written her seven letters, but haven't had an answer to any of them. Should I visit her without an invitation or let the whole affair drop?

W. W.

Seven unanswered letters is a pretty stiff dose for a young man to swallow, but —there are well-authenticated cases where a persistent suitor has had more than twenty-seven letters turned down and won out in the end. Better try to meet her by chance. Going uninvited to call, you might get a decided rebuff, but if you meet the young lady by "chance", you might ask her why she dropped you so unceremoniously, and you practically think she is too young to have company.

THINKS TOO MUCH TO MOTOR OR GO TO A SHOW SOMETIMES

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Why don't my parents let us go out for a ride in our car—not late at night, for I do not care for that —or let us go to a show or take a walk in the park? We have been going together a year now. When he came to the house I thought it was the right thing to do. My parents don't objects to his coming to the house, but we want to be alone sometimes, so we can talk. I think my parents should let us go some places of evenings.

I work hard with my father at his place of business all day and the evening is the only opportunity I have of seeing my friend, as he works all day. I am nineteen, he is twenty.

B. J.

Yes indeed. I do think your parents might consent to your going to a show or motoring with a boy who has been attentive to you for a year. Their refusal must be because they think you're both too young to consider marriage. But on the principle that half a loaf is better than no bread, let me whisper that many girls who write to this column are not permitted to see their boy friends at all.

Often parents do not explain their hand in hand restrictions are, and I hope if you will talk to them as you've written to me, they will see your point; it's worth trying, anyway.

THEY WANDERED, THEN CAME BACK

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We are four girls—two brunettes and two blondes—all around 18 years of age. For a long time we have been chums, four days. Everywhere we went, it was always together, and we had such fun. Everybody's house and always had lots of fun. Sometimes we would go with other girls, but the boys never seemed to like them.

Lately these boys dropped us, for no reason at all, and started going with some girls a wider type. The girls never smoke, drink, or neck. Is it because of that that they don't like us? Or were they just tired of us? Now they want to come back. Shall we let them, or give them a bye-bye?

Four Musketeers.

It's up to you, my dears, whether you're going to let those young men back or not. Evidently they wandered away in search of wilder game, but found that the Misses Easy-Mark palled.

Perhaps they had a thoroughly good time with them, perhaps it might be well to reinstate them in your good graces. Girls of the type you tell me they fell for temporarily have their lack for charm, but after a while boys and men weary of such easy conquests.

STONE CHURCH LEAGUE

On Tuesday evening, July 11th the League met in the Stone Church with a good attendance. The meeting was opened with hymn 205 by Mrs. W. Ritfield. The scripture was read by Mrs. Jeffrey. Hymn 85 was sung followed by prayer by Rev. Johnson. The Scripture reading was given by Miss M. Woods followed by a short paper on the Scripture reading by Miss Mildred Phillips. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. Miss Margaret Johnson gave the missionary topic from the Study Book. Miss Magdalene Lloyd favored us with a vocal solo and Mrs. F. Jeffrey read a paper. Rev. Johnson spoke a few words and the meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

BATHER STEPS INTO DEEP HOLE BUT SAVED

Receives Nothing More Than Scare for His Mistake

While bathing in the Moira River just above the old Lazier dam, Sunday afternoon about two o'clock, Mr. George Poulous of this city, unable to swim, stepped from a ledge into a hole beyond his depth. He was rescued by his business partner, Mr. Jim Amiss, who had accompanied him on the bathing expedition, and was little the worse for his experience, save a scare.

There are several deep holes at this point in the river and it is well for non-swimmers to acquaint themselves of their whereabouts before bathing in that vicinity. Generally a number of people are swimming thereabouts who know the locality and would gladly give their advice.

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.

The July meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United Church was held on the lawn of Mrs. Stanley MacDonald on Thursday afternoon with thirty-six members and five children present. The meeting opened by singing hymn 390 "Stand Up For Jesus". Mrs. Claude Clark read the Scripture lesson from the book, Ruth, and Mrs. W. S. Dies led in prayer. Mrs. Carl Clarke read the Devotional leaflet, telling the story of Ruth the devoted daughter-in-law. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. A committee was appointed to arrange for a lawn social. Mrs. C. Stratton kindly offered her lawn for it, the date to be set later. It was decided to take turns in laundering the church tablecloths so that the work would be more evenly divided. Mrs. S. MacDonald, group leader in charge gave a reading on temperance education. Mrs. H. Murphy, Miss Marie Emmons, Mrs. Will Hickerson and Mrs. C. Liddle each gave a short reading on this subject as they were called on. All joined in singing two verses of hymn 323 "What a Friend we Have in Jesus." The next chapter of the Study Book "The Destination of Canada" was read by Mrs. Harry Sine. Mrs. Sam Elliott was appointed to succeed Mrs. R. Gilligan as Supply Secretary as Mrs. Gilligan will soon be leaving the church community much to the regret of the W.M.S. members.

The collection for the flower fund was one dollar and 85 cents and the regular collection was five dollars. Total collection $6.85.

The meeting was dismissed by all repeating the Mizpah Benediction. Lunch was served at the ice cream and all enjoyed a social time together and appreciated very much the delicious and seasonable treat so kindly provided by the hostess.

CHATTERTON W.M.S.

The meeting of the Chatterton W.M.S. was held on July 4th at the home of Mrs. J. Frost. The president opened the meeting with hymn 400. Mrs. Horton led in prayer; responsive reading was read by Mrs. Horton. The minutes were read and adopted. Nine members answered to the Roll Call with a verse. Mrs. Bleeker took charge of the programme with Esther and appropriate very much since was given by Mrs. P. Campbell and Mrs. E. B. Finkle and a solo by Bessie Bleeker. A chapter of the Study Book was taken by Mrs. Bleeker. The meeting was brought to a close by hymn 212 and prayer by Mrs. R. Finkle. Collection 66c.

Financial Markets Roar up Ascending Trail But Forced to Hurdle Huge Profit Taking Barriers as They reached New Highs For Past Two Years—Dizzy Tilt Stocks Show Losses of Eight Points Before Buying Support Could Them Back—Senior Gold Issues Move in Sicker Gear.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, July 18—(AP)— Financial markets roared up the ascending price trail today but were forced to hurdle huge profit taking barriers as they reached the highest levels for the past two years or more.

Stock trading, during the early hours, was at about the fastest pace of the recent upswing and blocks of 1,000 to 30,000 shares of several of the favorites changed hands shortly after the opening. Gains of one-to-four or more points, however, were substantially around noon and some of the stockholds even showed losses of eight points before supporting orders enabled them to climb back.

Canadian gold mining stocks were the feature of the demolition list. Dome got up nearly three points and McIntyre Porcupine advanced 1 1-2. Canadian Pacific showed similar fractionally and International Nickel followed a narrow rage.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, July 18—(AP)—New York buying of the senior gold shares, particularly McIntyre, Dome, Teck Hughes and Hollinger Harpweave gave this group the leadership on the Standard Mining Market this afternoon after Eldorado and some of the base metal shares had led the stage in the morning session. The turnover was the heaviest in recent weeks and the prices ruled for the entire group till the closing gong.

Dome jumped $2.50 to $38.50, McIntyre $1.50 to $48.50, Hollinger 30 cents to $16.75, Hollinger 20 cents to, $18.50, and Teck Hughes 25 cents and Wright Hargreaves 10 cents to the latter two to 17.40 and 57.30 respectively.

A wide trading interest also developed in International Nickel in the afternoon and the price was carried up to $22.25 and the close was at $22.12 1-2, a demand in the support of the new interest in the golds as well as "the buoyancy" the base metals and they closed up to $26.25.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, July 18 (CP) — Stocks took the count in their contest today with the bear party, the whole list showing losses ranging from 25 cents to 7 full points. The weakest period came soon after setting very low prices for the year.

Other sections wavered with the "wet" group but only in fractions of the lead which could still picked up, led by International Nickel which climbed above $22.50.

Walker common dropped from a high of 86 to 54 and the close at 57 showed a net loss of 24 points. Industrial Alcohol receded from 40 to close around 36 and a similar loss Distillers Seagram slipped back from its peak at 53 to close at 41, down 10 points. Canada and Dallhousie weakened about 15 cents.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, July 18—(AP)—Various groups of stocks were brought forward today but the market as a whole failed to maintain a uniform advance and prices were decidedly irregular in the final hour. Some interest turned reactionary after an initial spurt, while good mining shares were in the limelight by gains of two to five points. Homestake $1.50 at $48.50, Dome 2 3-8 to $16.75, Hollinger 30 cents to, $18.50, and Teck Hughes 25 cents and Wright Hargreaves 10 cents to the latter two to 17.40 and 57.30 respectively.

A wide trading interest also developed in International Nickel in the afternoon and the price was carried up to $22.25 and the close was at $22.12 1-2, a demand in the support of the new interest in the golds as well as "the buoyancy" the base metals and they closed up to $26.25.

Order Rescinded Cutting Off Relief on July 15 after Parley

Trenton Will Proceed Along Same Lines For a Time

Trenton, July 18 (Special)—The town council, business men and ratepayers met last evening in the town hall, where five members from the council had an interview with the council after notice of relief being cut off on July 15. W. A. Fraser, M.P. and W. H. Ireland, M.P.P. were also present.

It was unanimous, that the needy should be looked after. Mayor Graham was in the chair and after hearing the unemployed delegates they were asked to leave while some solution could be reached.

Councillor W. McClung, chairman of finance gave the town's position at present which shows that our debt is $1,000 in addition to Distillers Seagram slipped back from its peak at 53 to close at 41, down 10 points. Canada and Dallhousie weakened about 15 cents.

"CRIME OF CENTURY" AND "LUCKY DEVILS" FEATURES AT BELLE

Today (Tuesday) and also on Wednesday the Belle Theatre is offering an sensational two-feature program and for thrills, romance and laughs these two shows alone, locations will hold you glued to your seat in suspended and expectant mutes and third to cut some other department such as schools.

"It is more essential to keep the stomachs of women and children full than to have educators, so we could leave the schools closed for a few years," said Mr. Fraser.

Mr. A. Fraser, M.P., said it was a hard task and a policy must be decided on. "We are not a charity stores," quoted Mr. Fraser.

W. H. Ireland, M.P.P., favored bills of $5,000 of towns datedures whereby the governments share relief. Similar action was taken.

A total of nearly $13,000 for the relief fund.

Public subscription was not favored by the council.

Col. Bywater favored the reopening of the welfare department or a place where to locate the needy.

J. J. McNabb of the Public Utilities Commission also favored cutting off of relief and was given order for groceries.

On a motion of Councillor Harry Cory and seconded by Councillor A. Delong it was decided to carry on with the relief as before and till some other arrangement could be made. The motion was carried.

At present the workers are paid $1.25 a day with the number of days per week alloted to each man according to the number of his family.

"WHO'S WHO IN "THAT'S MY UNCLE" NEXT AT CAPITOL

Stanley Lupino—Well known to Belleville theatregoers immediately by funny "Sleepless Nights," which was the Easter attraction at the Capitol this year, continues his stage career at the tender age of seven as a Monkey Performer, Stanley will never recognize him as Madame Yvette.

Ida Hobby commenced his singings in 1906, and score boundaries have been installed since. Animal influence again felt here—his first role being that of the Unicorn in "Alice in Wonderland."

Dorothy Boyd is declared to be voice-perfect for recording purposes and recording purposes. Can weep copiously at a moment's notice.

Landed with two husbands on her wedding day Dorothy's plight will make you sorry with the tears in "That's My Uncle."

Nothing like the perfect ramp. Has played every conceivable part on the legitimate stage and in real life, Jack Hulbert has adopted the motto is "get your man," and she does, to the complete delight of Stanley Lupino and the hysterical helplessness of all onlookers.

Lupino Lane, the director of "That's My Uncle." Has produced many films in America and has played in more than a hundred productions. One of the famous facial accolades he can play any part from Pekoe in "Aladdin" to Ko-Ko in "The Mikado."

Charles Courtneidge, brother of Cecily, he is the Inspector out to catch Lupino and Hulbert. Both rows are your joys.

"That's My Uncle" opens at the Capitol Thestre tomorrow (Wednesday) for three days.

Carmers-Sharkey

On the same program an exclusive showing of the Carmers-Sharkey of recent Carmers-Sharkey combat for the world's championship will be shown at all performances.

These pictures are clear and concise and give the audience a ringside seat.

Tonight

"Trapped in a Submarine" (British and excellent), "The Circus Queen Murder" and dinnerware for the ladies is the treat at the Capitol this night. Wednesday and Thursday "The Good Companions" opens on Saturday for three days only.

AGED TURKEY EGG BARRAGE GOES UNFLUNG

Preacher at London Has Difficult Time at Services

POLICE ACTIVE

London, July 18— Bigger and "badder" eggs reposed in the ammunition dump of Evangelist Alfred Fields' foes in the Parkhill religious feud, which was continued at the second Sunday night meeting since the tent was stolen, held on the hastings street field.

For the second time the intended noisome barrage was withheld, again because the preacher was surrounded on hand. The police made their presence known when James Munro, 18 year old resident of the town, created a commotion during the singing of a hymn by the missioners.

The youth was immediately taken in hand by the police and held in the rear seats of their cars with the doors closed, without further disorder. He was then taken to the Middlesex Hall by High Constable Caverly and Chief "Sandy" Campbell, where he joined the rest of the boys to keep the decomposed turkey eggs in their hands with them, from under the eyes and nose of the officers of the law.

Shortly after the collection there might have been serious disorder in the ranks of the foes of the evangelist, for resentful undertone was clearly seen among the opposition forces grouped around the tent, but the police were there in force.

Another angle to the already complicated situation came to light Saturday when it was learned that Minister Barnes, daughter of Mr. Barnes, will appear in juvenile court here on complaint of her father, who charges in his complaint with incorrigibility in that she refuses to return to her home and parents, and has ordered to do so by them. Major O. N. Bradshaw, probation officer of the juvenile court, pointed out that the girl has been accorded the protection of the law and that all summonses by those interested in the religious feud in Parkhill.

Evangelist Fields is going to shake the dust of Parkhill from his feet and come to live in London, where even the rowdy element is civilized.

This information was given by the doughty preacher himself.

"I'm not going to stay any work out there," he stated, "but I'm going to move into the city so that I can live and work in peace. peacefully is least part of the time."

Mr. Fields, according to Evangelist Fields, that big two sons, aged 8 and 13 years, have been visited by Parkhill juvenile toughs. Boys on the street hoot at them, insult them, and generally, make life quite miserable.

"But I'm carrying on the job," said Evangelist Fields.

"The preacher first struck the front pages of the newspapers several weeks ago, when gangs of rowdies began to break up his meetings in the Hastings Street tent.

The eagle eye of uniformed provincial police officers has been in view over the meetings last Sunday.

Next the evangelical tent was stolen and whisked away to unknown place, and it has never been found, despite search by police, citizens and other places.

"We have had a hard time financially," the evangelist said, "and we still owe $35 on the tent. We still have to pay that off, and I want it gone."

Several search warrants are ready for use by the police, it was learned. The last search resulted in the finding of three bags of oil, and Evangelist Fields expressed his regrets that a straw stack had been disturbed.

"But we're going to keep on hunting," he declared.

Two rival petitions are going the rounds in Parkhill, one seeking the expulsion of the evangelist from the midst of the bad folk out there, and the other one, signed by all the good folk, asking that he be given full protection to carry on his work.

"The good people want me to preach the gospel to them," said Evangelist Fields, "and I'm going to do it."

Brooklyn Takes it on Chin With 14-2 and 7-0 Losses

By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer

Recovered from a batting and pitching slump that threatened for a time to plunge them into the second division, Pittsburgh Pirates were back in the thick of the National League pennant fight today.

Their pitchers clicking again and their highly-touted outfield, especially Paul Waner and Freddie Lindstrom, beginning to wallop the ball, the Pirates have won eight games of the 13 they've played since the home stand began and now trail the second place Chicago Cubs by only half a game and the pace-setting New York Giants by four. Moreover in the vital matter of games lost the Cornsilk show a two game edge, over the Cubs who owe their grip on second place to the fact that they've won three more games than the Pirates.

Taking full advantage of the fact that they had the major league stage all to themselves yesterday, George Gibson's hopefuls battered Brooklyn pitching for 32 hits, good for 44 bases, and trounced the Dodgers in both ends of a doubleheader, 14-2 and 7-0.

Brooklyn's ace twirlers, Owen Carroll and Ray Benge, officially were charged with the defeats but Fred Heimach, making his first appearance since June 24, when the Pirates slapped him in the showers and seven runs in one inning, was the chief sufferer. Heimach was called to the mound at the start of the eighth inning of the first game with Pittsburgh leading, 5-1, and before he could be removed the Corsairs had pounded him for seven hits and eight runs with only one out. Paul Waner's triple with Wilbases loaded sent Fred to the showers and Roxy Ryan came in to end the rally after one more run had scored.

Pittsburgh pounded Benge hard in the second game and finally drove him to cover with a four-run splurge in the fifth. Steve Swetonic's third hit of the game, a triple, driving in two runs, Swetonic himself allowing the Dodgers only seven scattered hits, never was in serious trouble.

Bill Swift, likewise, pitched seven hit ball in the opener and the pair of Brooklyn's two runs was earned. All other major league clubs were off.

Both the batting leaders of the International League, Julius Solters of Baltimore, and Ike Boone, of Toronto, lost ground yesterday. Solters, however, lost one more point than Boone and still has a title for first place with the Toronto outfielder at .377.

Bluenose Adds Fresh Water Laurels to Salt Water Triumphs in Race to Mackinaw Island

Leads Fleet of 27 Over Finishing Line in Special Race

Cruising Race in Another Division Develops Into "Pip"

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 18 (CP)—A champion wherever she goes, the Canadian International Yachtbuilding fishing schooner Bluenose has added fresh water laurels to her salt water triumphs.

The Lunenburg fishing schooner led a fleet of 27 sailing vessels across the finish line at 7.05.45 (Central Standard Time) last night in a special mid-ocean event, to simultaneously win the 265th annual Chicago-Mackinac Island race. Her elapsed time was 54 hours 35 minutes 45 seconds for the 313 mile haul.

Yet to be determined was the winner of the cruising division, with Malabar, Bagheera and Chimon, the Canadian challenger, engaged in a fight to the finish.

Up from Lake Huron came the fleet of 13 sailing craft on a 240 mile haul in the ninth annual Port Huron-Mackinac Island race, with Baccarat, the new cutter-rigged sloop of Russell Alger, Detroit, the winner on corrected time.

First across the line of the Port Huron fleet was Margaret F IV, at 6.30 (Central Standard Time), but Baccarat finished ahead in a special division and not competing for the Mackinac trophy awarded the race winner.

Tridents, also of Detroit, and twice a winner, finished at 9.54 followed by Baccarat at 9.58 but a time allowance of three hours 19 minutes to Tridents one hour six minutes made Baccarat the victor. Trailing in the fleet that set out from Port Huron Saturday afternoon were such formidable rivals as Blunderbuss, Commodore Vanare, the yawl that engaged in the last Bermuda race and is now bound for Duluth, her new home port, Enigma and Grace, of Erie, Pa., and Sea II, which had a time allowance of less than an hour.

Bluenose was paced during the early part of the Chicago race by Dorella, the speedy sport of O. Lorman Dwight, Milwaukee, and was not able to pass her until 4.15 p.m. yesterday. Bluenose, Tecumseh and Dorella were the only entrants in the special division, Tecumseh was left far in the rear.

Anyway, Albert didn't have the necessary $10 and costs so he went to jail for a week.

The Lyceum Club Company, owners of the best known women's club in London, the resort of artists, writers, musicians, sculptors and other women of talent, is being compulsorily wound up. The club itself, however, will carry on.

Albany Senators Making Hot Race For Playoff Berth

By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer

Albany Senators, in sixth place now, have not yet given up hope of winning one of the International League's four championship play-off berths. Seven victories in their last nine games have revived the Senator's hopes of beating out the Baltimore Orioles for the second qualifying place among the south-ern clubs. They still have quite a deficit to overcome but a continuance of their present pace would make it far from impossible.

They got seven-hit pitching from Ray Prim yesterday and nosed out Montreal Royals, 3-2, to move to within 2½ games of fifth place, now held by the Royals. John Pomeranski pitched good ball for Montreal but the Senators pushed over an unearned run in the seventh and the aid of a wild throw by Grabowski and then bunched three hits in the eighth for the deciding counter.

Newark maintained its three-game lead on first place by beating Toronto 3-1. Marvin Olsen's triple, Bob Seeds's double and Johnny Gee-owski's single, a wild pitch, base on balls and two outfield flies gave Newark its victory. Ike Boone hit for the circuit for Toronto.

Rochester, in second place, nosed out Jersey City, 4-3, getting all its runs in the ninth in tie and one in the 11th to win. Charley Wilcox's single with the bases loaded broke up the battle.

Baltimore's Buffalo skirmished through two hours and 56 minutes of lusty clouting in a night game at Buffalo before finally winning, 15-9 decision. Don Heffner and Sam Ariell hit homers in the first inning and it was a slugfest from then on.

MEN'S SENIOR SOFT BALL

The South End A.C. and Grills' Garage softball team drew nearer the fifth Delaney Cup game of the night, when the "Mechanics" downed the McNabb crew by the score of 16 to 5 on the R.A.A.A. field. Closely fought battle with Charlie Tidsworth's Collegiate Hill Club as the score of 8 to 7.

Down at the Cricket Field the "South Enders" behind the pitching of their versatile hurler, Jack Gillis, staged a fifth innings rally to pull into second place in the local Men's Senior Softball League when they beat the deliveries of "Red" Miller in the fourth game. R.A.A.A. crew took no part of the Cubs mitigated the chances of the Tidsworth-managed crew throughout.

The All Star team introduced a new face to the local softball fans in Ivan Smith, a junior, who hurled to the tune of 16 to 5 without striking him out. Bill Kiser was the only home run hitter of the night. Hits throughout the tilt were quite scarce, Jones-Bee batters having collected but six hits off the deliveries of Miller, while the losers counted but three.

The lineups:

R.A.A.A.—Scott, Barriage, Kiser, Palmer, Ehler, Faux, Cornell, Perrinshaw, Bright and Weir.

College Hill—Lunenette, Gray, Miller, Pearce, Tidsworth, Hanson, Rigby, J. Murray and McDonald.

Score by innings:

	R	H	E
College Hill	000 100 1—2	3	1
South End A.C.	110 240 x—8	5	3

Umpires—Rollins and Robinson.

Mechanics Win

Over on the same field this Wally Grills' "Mechanics" kept well up in the league race when they trimmed Don Gilmour's McNabb 16 to 3. The win places the Grills' aggregation in a few points behind the South End and but a game behind the league leading Bearcats. G. Barriage and W. Clarke hit the only four base clouts.

This tilt proved somewhat of a decisive victory for the "Mechanics", who essentially are playing a fast Tweed softballers at Coleman Flats on Wednesday evening. The Tweed club downed the "Mechanics" in Tweed by a close score, but return game should create interest in local softball circles.

The lineups:

McNabb—Murphy, Morgan, Day, Champagne, Doyle, Carroll, Stringer, Gilmour and Bennett.

Grills—Barriage, Barnett, Hatser, W. Clarke, E. Clarke, Matthews, Latchford, Reid, G. Barriage, Ridley, Thompson and White.

Score by innings:

Grills	342 530 0—16	runs
McNabb	000 300 0—3	runs

Umpires—Rollins and Robinson.

MAYBE THE Red Sox, after all aren't the baseball Moses elected and called to bring Looton out of the big league wilderness.

Maybe said service is to be performed by the Braves.

Anyway, the Braves certainly have a better chance to go places this season than do their city rivals the Red Sox—despite a fortune spent Mr. Tom Yawkey and herculean effort on the part of Mr. Eddie Collins, Mr. Marty McManus and the Red Sox personnel.

The Braves, today, are playing some of the best baseball on view in major league parks. They have been knocking them all around, the pennant contenders as well as the second division outfits.

Meanwhile, the Red Sox play has improved but not enough to sug-gest the McManusmen will land higher than sixth, if that high.

IT MUST be highly annoying to Yawkey, Collins and Company to see those despised Braves suddenly put on a pennant drive all of their own. Boston, my American readers, is an American league city and just waiting with open arms and plenty of paid admissions for a winning Red Sox team.

However, if the Braves get there first—well, a baseball fan loves a baseball fan and the natural is always higher than sixth, if that high.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By

Alex J. Morrison

ALEX MORRISON says:

There's one rule that few golfers have mastered. A rule that is not of my making or the setting of any group of individuals. It's something that is natural to me and which must be recognized if the best results are to be had.

This is the rule:

Don't overdo a good downswing unless you've made a good backswing.

Sounds silly, eh. Keep it in mind and you'll soon learn that most of your shots are spoiled right at your backswing.

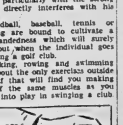
Smooth up on each stage of your wind-up. And even if the backswing isn't all that you want it to be don't make your swing worse by trying to adjust during your downswing.

"Anything to shake off that terrible tension!"

Golf is a very exhilarating worry of the golfer. But all the will power in the world won't loosen up tight muscles and joints if the player doesn't do something to shake up his habit to be free in his movements.

Using a club with a flexible shaft is one way to cultivate loose-ness in your wrists and forearms. You'll find, when you near the end of a shaft, that, instead of tightening up you'll be rewarded by a loose action. In the willow-like action of the club.

Make several swings with a whippy whole swing becomes smoother.



Golf is a two-handed game in the only way the hands can be alike in formation is in the movements is by having the weaker of the two hands lead their movements.

This requirement means that anything the golfer does with one hand, particularly the left or top hand, directly interferes with his swing.

Handball, baseball, tennis or bowling—all call for a delicate and one-handedness which will surely crop out, when the individual goes to swing a golf club.

Walking, rowing and swimming are probably the only exercises outside of golf that will find you making use of the same muscles and you bring into play in swinging a club

The left hand should be strengthened but not in the way the average player tries to do it.

For example, a player will spend hours swinging a club with just his left hand. This idea is all right; but when the right hand goes on the club the player finds that his left hand hasn't developed as much as it should from the workout he gave it.

And so it is with most exercises of this kind, however, you can help your grip with the left hand simply by exercising the fingers in this way:

Squeeze a handball or a soft rubber ball first between your left little finger and the palm; then use the next finger and so on until you have exercised all the fingers. Then concentrate on the little and third fingers.

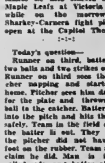
CURRENT SPORT

Knocks and Boosts

Apparently the suicide clubs in the Bay of Quinte long feel they play better baseball on Ernie Gibbard's new diamond than do the Napaneen them-selves.

Yesterday B. A. Fanning announced that his local Victorias would play their home game of Wednesday afternoon on the Gibbard diamond. The Vics. played Walter Grewe's sharpers at Napanee on Saturday afternoon and trimmed them on a pretty appearance in that town, while Phelon has taken two from Mr. Gibbard's boys and they don't feel bad yarn flies for this season.



The Bay of Quinte loop has developed into one of the most interesting circuits possible in an amateur baseball loop. At present the Vics. cling to a slender lead with six wins and two losses, while the local contingent stand five wins and but two losses. Down in Napanee the Gibbard A.C. have played five fine games but they have dropped four, while the Brighton entry have yet to win a single en-counter, out of some eight starts. The lowly Brighton team have been dropping games via the single route but may turn on some team one of these fine days and spoil the well known apple cart."

Down in Napanee on Saturday when the league leading Victorias trimmed the homesters by a 3 to 0 count a rather queer incident happened when the two umpires differed relative to a decision at the home plate. It seems the Gibbard A.C. were having their usual ninth innings rally and had managed to get a man on first and a man on second. The next batter hit to shortstop, who threw to third for the force play. Umpire Locke of Napanee, who was performing on the bases called the runner safe at third as the baseman had pulled his foot off the bag trying to complete a double play, he did. Umpire Croft of Picton, stationed behind the plate sauntered down the third base line and waved the base runner out. Both decisions coming on the identical play.

Naturally arguments ensued with the result that there is some talk of the Gibbard-Napanee Pitcher Steve Lucas sue for the plate and throws the ball to the catcher. Baxter steps into the pitch and hits the ball safely. Team in the field claims the batter is out. They assert the pitcher did not have -his foot on the plate when he let go his claim he did. Man is finally called safe, and batter allowed to take first base. How would you call this play if you were at the game. If the pitcher had foot off rubber when he threw ball, he was an illegal delivery, if not over, the batter is the plate, safely for hitting the ball and hit it safely and it is therefore a fair hit and run count.

Today's question—

Runner on third, batter has a ball and a strike called on him. Runner on third sees the pitcher napping and starts for home. Pitcher sees him start for the plate and throws the ball to the catcher. Batter steps into the pitch and hits the ball safely. Team in the field claims the batter is out. They assert the pitcher did not have -his foot on the plate when he let go his claim he did. Man is finally called safe, and batter allowed to take first base. How would you call this play if you were at the game.

"There is a saucy, sweet defiance in the tilt of your chin which keeps me awake at night, drives me to drink, makes me gamble away the money I can't afford on the ponies and is swiftly and surely preparing me for a nice room, in a psychopathic hospital.

"You have everything, Miss Hartford, and I use that word with circumspection.

"This has gone about far enough," Jerry said with decision.

"That isn't even the start, Miss Hartford, New paragraph.....

"I have promised you there's a trust fund and everything else your capricious little heart desires in return for nothing but your friendship. I have even intimated that sometime in the future I might ask for a divorce and instruct to your care the enviable name, Mrs. Joe Middleton.

"Perhaps you think all this is very amusing. Possibly you are under the impression that you can play with fire and not be burned.

"Just for your own information, you are now being rather closely shadowed by private detectives. All of your movements are known to me and are reported to me hourly.

"You know too much about my life for your own good. You are hoping to trap me and expose me to the dull, plebeian world and their ignorant, vicious tools, the police.

"The Tiger does not wait for the attack. He strikes first. The terms of our little proposition are now changed a trifle.

"You will still have until Monday noon to give me your answer. But if you are still defiant the result will be something considerably less mild than mere dismissal.....

"Sign that, Sincerely, Joe Middleton."

"That would make excellent evidence," said Jerry, her eyes blazing.

"Please give me that notebook for one moment," Joe said, in a tone that made Jerry realize she dare not disobey.

He tore the leaves containing the shorthand notes of the letter from the book, touching a flame to them with his cigarette lighter, and held them by one corner until they had burned.

He Tore the Leaves Containing the Shorthand Notes from the Book, Touching a Flame to Them From his Cigar Lighter

"And now," Joe said, "that will be all for today. Feel I need a rest and my run up to my place on Lake Geneva over Sunday.

Jerry hoped that Joe would leave the office before she left, for she was to call for her. She had had no idea her employer would come down on Saturday morning or, she would not have suggested that Peter come to the office.

She looked at the clock, but it was already 11:30 and Joe had told Jerry not to be disturbed over the week-end.

When he was gone Jerry called Harriet into her office and told her of the new threat.

"And do you know he is having me shadowed?" Jerry said. "We must be desperately careful this noon. I feel that right here in this office.....

"Shhhh!" Harriet warned. She tiptoed to the office door and pulled it open quickly. Outside a young man, whom she had added to the staff only three days before was leaning over to pick up a paper which had blown to the floor.

"I want you to take a message to our rental store on Madison street," Harriet said. "And don't return without an answer. If you know what is good for you."

Harriet scribbled the unimportant message asking the number of radios of a certain design in stock at the store, sealed it in an envelope and walked out to the elevator with the young man, giving him ridiculously explicit instructions. Then she returned to Jerry.

"Don't worry, Jerry. If we aren't more intelligent than a lot of private detectives we deserve to be caught. We'll slip out the back way, where I will have a cab waiting, and lose them in ten minutes."

"Better than that," Jerry suggested, "why not leave the building at the lower level under Wacker drive. We could lose Sherlock Holmes, Philo Vance and the Whole Chicago force in that dark cavern."

"You have got a head on your shoulders, haven't you?" Harriet admitted with grudging admiration.

Peter showed up a few minutes later, and he and Harriet, were friends on the sit. She liked his honest and unaffected good humor, and he liked her brusque, pointed sarcasm. Jerry thought she could not have found two such confederates elsewhere if she had combed the entire world.

Harriet went to a pay phone at the end of the hall to order the cab fearing that the office wires might be tapped.

Then, after they had waited the few minutes they thought necessary, they went to the freight elevator.

Instead of any one of the passenger elevators ,and down to the lower level.

The lower level of Wacker drive in Chicago (if you have never been there) is probably the most perfect spot in Chicago for the safe execution of a major crime. Paralleling the river for a number of blocks west of Michigan avenue, the dark bank thoroughfare, set at frequent intervals with huge granite piles supporting alleys and other highways over which roll trucks and autos.

And yet in any number of deserted alleys and cyber cut to the way convoy a murder could be perpetrated and not discovered for many minutes or even hours.

Jerry never stepped out of the building into this dark, tunnel-like street without a shiver.

Today, however, the cab was waiting at the lower door, and they were all certain that the coast had cleared. But a moment after the cab pulled away a big black sedan swung out from behind one of the pillars and, keeping about 300 feet behind, followed in the wake of the cab.

Peter noticed it first, and leaning forward whispered to the driver of the cab who shot them forward at a high speed. But the driver of Jerry was certain that any amount they would be held up by the traffic at Michigan avenue the driver turned north to cross the river on the lower level of the Michigan avenue bridge. But just at that moment the bridge began to rise, and the gate descend.

"Step on it!" Harriet ordered, and the cab went hurtling up the gently sloping pavement of the opening bridge.

CHAPTER 21

The bridge was rising so slowly and the cab moving so fast that the gap from the end of the rising bridge to the other was a small one. There was a moment when Jerry had the feeling that she was floating and then a bump which was not as severe as she had imagined. A second later the cab crashed through the gates at the north end of the bridge and was speeding northward.

They all looked back to see if the sedan following them had dared to take the same chance, but found that they had shaken their pursuers as effectively as if they had disappeared into thin air.

Just to finish the process with a flourish, however, Jerry turned several corners in rapid succession and drove for about ten minutes. Then Peter had decided to take them for lunch. He turned the cab over to Harriet, heavily enough so that he could fix his bent fender and broken headlight and have a bit left over and by the time the Michigan avenue bridge had folded back in place they were ordering lunch.

That was a memorable council of war. Everything that either Jerry or Harriet knew about Joe Middleton was laid upon the boards. Every reason why he deserved their sympathy of their ingering enmity was discussed pro and con by all three of the conferees.

But the deciding factor in their final agreement as to a course of action was Joe's treatment of Jerry and his latest threat if she should fail to comply with his demands. They then felt that her life was in danger.

They were of one mind in the opinion that it was either Jerry or Joe and that Jerry had to be protected.

Harriet now confessed to a more thorough knowledge of Joe's underworld activities than ever before in her conversation with Jerry. She warned the other two not to underestimate his power or his absolutely merciless nature once he was crossed. She agreed that a thorough knowledge of the deserted steel mill and whatever secret it held would be a powerful weapon in their hands at the time reckoning but that they must be careful.

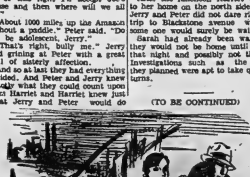
"I'll see this thing through alone Jerry" Peter said. "It's too dangerous for you."

"You'll do nothing of the sort, Jerry said. "This is my battle we are fighting, and wherever you go I go..... Besides, you wouldn't even know the spot unless I were there to point it.

Harriet, too, felt that Jerry should have a part in the whole affair as much as possible.

"Peter and I are old campaigners," Harriet said. "You're just a useless little tenderfoot, Jerry."

"I'm not useless, and I'm not a tenderfoot" Jerry protested, "and if you two don't let me in on every bit of this fight I'll accept Joe's proffered love and then where will we all be?"



"About 1000 miles up the Amazon without a paddle." Peter said. "Do not be adolescent, Jerry."

"That's right, bully me." Jerry said grining at Peter with a great deal of elderly affection.

And so at last they had everything decided. And Peter and Jerry knew exactly what they could count upon (rec) Harriet and Harriet knew just what Jerry and Peter would do over the week-end. They were all determined that Joe would have his answer and a very final answer at noon Monday.

After the luncheon Harriet went to her home on the north side but Jerry and Peter did not dare risk a trip to Blackstone avenue where some one would surely be waiting. Sarah had already been warned that they would not be home until late that night and possibly not then. Investigations such as the one they planned were apt to take queer turns.

TARZAN, LORD OF THE JUNGLE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"Tomorrow," lied the Ape, "it is my intention to flee these. It would be this night, but we fear to and thee alone into the jungle when El-Adrea is abroad, hunting." Tarzan smiled one of his rare smiles before remarking: "Thou knowest the jungle night has no terrors for Tarzan." Tomorrow," snapped the Sheik, and departed.

To the Arabs, the beast-cry that had shattered the night quiet had aroused only a vague unrest. Yet there was one, far off in the jungle who caught the call-faintly-and understood, a huge beast who raised his trunk and trumpeted loudly. A moment later he swung off through the forest at a rapid trot.

Slowly silence again fell upon the menzil. Through the darkness crept Tolloq, toward the hejra where his intended victim lay. Tarzan, with ear to the ground, heard him approaching. Far far off, Tarzan's keen ears heard also the onward rush of Tantor, the elephant, as the great beast trampled down all things in his path.

As Tolloq, groping in the dark, entered the tent, Tarzan sat erect. Again there smote upon the Bedouin's ear that same horrid cry. Tolloq halted, aghast. "What beast is there?" he cried. "Art thou being attacked, Nazranj?" From the jungle came the roar of a lion and the trumpeting of a bull elephant.

Councils and Taxes and Municipal Vigilanti of Past

W. S. MacDiarmid Lifts Curtain on Days Agone Showing How Taxpayers of Old Days Met Problems of Their Time

Ex-Mayor Wm. Panter has consistently been a champion of the down-trodden taxpayer. Economy was his favorite word and he was known all through his civic life as the guardian of the treasury. One would think after he saw the completion of Catherine Street sewer, the paving of Front Street and a part under the sewer for the services he would rest from his labors. Under a shady maple tree in Panter's Park by the river's brim he could take it easy. The world expression means nothing for the former mayor who was careful of his own finances as he was of the city that he served and the House of Refuge has no terrors for him.

In a recent copy of this great family journal comes the news that ex-Mayor Panter made an attempt to father a Protective Taxpayers' League. It is unfortunate that he was not successful. No matter how efficient the present city council may be there is always room for improvement. There are frugal people and there are spendthrifts. Some members of the council forget their pre-election promises and begin to draw on the taxpayers' money as soon as they are elected. It is necessary that the taxpayer should be protected from open-handed politicians.

Thirty years or more ago it was just this sort of condition that brought to the fore the Kilm Club. The club was formed of public-spirited citizens who rebelled at the wasteful expenditures of the town council. They met in the old Marble Hall which now is the site of the Deacon Shirt Factory. The most prominent members of the club later were dubbed the silver tongued orators of Marble Hall. The officers were:

President, E. Gus Porter; vice-president, Wm. Carney; secretary, Charles Delaney; treasurer, Hope McGinnis; executive committee, "Yankee" Curtis, W. H. Bennett, Tom Sullivan, Alderman Mackie, Louis Marlowe.

The meetings were held every Tuesday. This date was fixed so the speakers could find fault with the work of the city council which held their meetings on Monday night. There was no hydro electric to those days. Belleville got its electric power from a Toronto company which had its plant on the river just a mile north of the town of Trenton. There was little trouble in the good old summer time and Belleville was well lighted and had power to burn. When winter came the ice formed a problem. The city was frequently plunged into the blackest of darkness. The residents knew that it was no earthquake. They would exclaim, "There goes the fire over the dam."

The Marble Hall had no electric light fixtures. The light was furnished by bracket lamps attached to the walls and filled with kerosene from McGinnis' grocery. The hall was well lit and when the streets outside were dark the silver tongued orators did roast Mr. W. H. Pearson of Toronto, for charging the city for every light that did not give light.

"Banty" Bennett for some reason had a special dislike for the power company. He devoted all his eloquence to Mr. Pearson and Matt Thompson, the Belleville manager. He passed up the mayor and the council and roasted the power company. He proved to a large and delighted audience night after night that Belleville was paying more for power electric lights than any other city in Canada. And the funny part of it all when the new council came in power, elected by the Marble Hall orators the rates were reduced.

"Yankee" Curtis was a spell-binder. He was one of the best millwrights and engineers that ever lived in Belleville. He built the new Dam and put up the plant that furnished the first electricity for the city. He took an active part in city politics and was always advertising some improvement for the city where he made his home. He was always picking out good stations for the city council. The funny part of "Yankee's" make-up was that being born in America he refused to give up his citizenship. He believed, like Sir John MacDonald in that respect.

"Yankee" was a politician right up to election day and then he would stay home and wait for the evening papers. The next day "Yankee" was on the job again and said the election suited him just right and would tell you all his candidates were elected.

Tom Sullivan was another orator who gained fame in Marble Hall. He was not so fiery as others but he was full of enthusiasm. His pet hobby was an old age pension for Canadians. He lived long enough to see it on the statute books of the Dominion. He was of retiring disposition and it was hard to get him on the platform. When he started talking he forgot his shyness and he proved a convincing speaker.

The fame of Marble Hall is past history. On the platform at 8 p.m. applauded Harry Corby, W. H. Bennett, E. Gus Porter, Wm. Carney, new, J. W. Johnson, W. C. Mikel and others. It would be interesting to find the book that the Silver Levis kept the minutes of all those meetings. Charles was a college graduate and kept the records in parliamentary style. He would seldom read the minutes of the last meeting and they were always approved by a unanimous vote.

There may come another group of civic vigilants to watch the council men. It is safe to say, however, that they will be different. The orators of the old Marble Hall have gone where there are no taxpayers or taxes to be collected. From the way the taxpayer talks about the men who spend the taxes where they ought to go you would not be able to find any ice.

The council should have sympathy for the home owner who pays his taxes. The man who boasts of being a big taxpayer is only joking. He pays no taxes. "The man who rents his home pays the taxes. If the council could only fix it so the landlord would not have to pay anything it would be great. The only way it can be fixed is to invent some new kind, of arithmetic. Of course the big property owners could give their property away to their tenants and escape the taxes. From the writer's experience with landlords it don't look as though they will do it while this depression is on. They may do so when good times come around the corner. Yours for good times and no taxes or rents.

When you're HEALTHY you're HAPPY

Happy days are usually healthy days. Why not add to these sunshiny days!

Poor health and constipation go hand in hand. Get rid of common constipation by eating a delicious cereal.

Tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN is also twice as rich in iron as an equal weight of beef liver.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much better than taking pills and drugs—so often harmful.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

FATHER DEAD, SON IS BORN

Mingled Web of Life Seen in Family of Fireman

MONTREAL, July 17.—(CP) — Just two hours after Fireman Hector LaForest, 36, year old member of the Montreal Fire Brigade, was crushed to death when the fire truck on which he and his comrades were racing to answer a false alarm on Saturday night, his wife gave birth to a baby boy.

And while Le Forest's body lies in state, surrounded by flags and flowers, awaiting a civic funeral tomorrow, his widow does not seem able to understand that the father of her newborn babe is dead. Even today she does not comprehend what happened.

Meanwhile plans for the burial of the father and the christening of the child went forward today. The young boy will be baptized today by the same priest who will officiate at the special service, of the father tomorrow. The dead man will receive a civil funeral, and representatives of fire departments from nearby municipalities and cities will attend. Police are searching for the person responsible for the false alarm.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma and pop and my puppy Junior was taking a week before supper, and I had to keep Junior on his lease on account of him wanting to follow everybody, that went passed, and he's only high enough he'd "throw them something by running their ankles. Ma and pop said, Ha, ha, a likely story.

Meaning he didn't bleeve it, and I said, Well I do, because I seen the dog just a same. He's friendly to people only when he knows them, he knows the street is free for everybody, and that's where I got intelligent he is, because he'd soon show you what would happen if anybody tried to bust in our house, I said.

He'd probably hold the bergler's flashlite for him until he could have both hands free to attend to business, pop put in. Or else he'd bite him he would, he'd go just the opposite.

I'm going to get me a puppy some nite and open our front door a few cracks so a bergler can walk in, and you'll find out what Junior will do, I said.

Ye gods perish the thawt he'd properly chew the man to ribbons and make a perfect mess of our front hallway, and besides I hate to be awakened in the ded of nite by a bergler's screams for help, pop said. I'm perfectly convinced that your judgment of the dog is not substantiated in every particular and I dont need any further proof, now are yo satisfied? he said, and I said, Yes sir.

Proving I know how to win arguments.

NEW STERLING POLICY AS DOLLAR FALLS

European Currencies Steady, But U. S. Dollar Drops Further Today

New Level of Pound and French Franc is Being Sought

EXPERTS BUSY

British Pound Not Likely to be Allowed to Follow Dollar

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer).

London, July 19 (CP Cable)—A new policy for sterling entered the world picture today with the further fall of the United States dollar against the pound. The idea is that some new level should be sought between the French franc, leading gold currency, and the pound permitting a gradual rise of prices rather than that sterling should be allowed to follow the sliding dollar.

Experts today were arguing the problem from every angle, for and against. Behind the astounding scenes of the World Economic Conference soon to adjourn, it was assuming growing importance. Representatives of the United Kingdom and of the British countries are jointly discussing it.

Today's further fall in the U.S. dollar, putting the pound above its old gold parity in the United States, gave added impetus to the movement. At present sterling by agreement on the sterling exchange equalization fund is in effect tied to the French franc.

While the American dollar slides as against the European countries gold currencies vary little. The Dominions with sterling currencies —especially those with heavy obligations in London—would like to see the British pound at a lower level.

The proposal that the pound should be cut loose from the franc and correlated to other world values, however, finds little support. Such a course in the present unsettled state of American policy would, it is felt, be unwise.

Pound and Franc

Instead the idea is rather that some new level be sought between the franc and the pound which would stimulate a rise in prices more gradual than that which obtains in the United States, and would at the same time bring the United Kingdom into line again with her chief customers.

What degree of progress is being made with the proposals is impossible to describe accurately as the conversations proceed informally.

The Times today however editorially commented "the time seems opportune for reaching a clear understanding agreement on currency policy with the Dominions and India, and with other countries whose currency tends to follow sterling. Such an agreement would not only help bring about the desired rise in prices it might secure a useful stabilization of exchange—not indeed over the whole world, immovable under the present conditions—but over a very wide area responsible for a great volume of international trade."

THREE KILLED IN EXPLOSION

Canadian Industries Plant at Deloeil is Damaged

MONTREAL, July 19.—(CP)—Three men were killed this afternoon in an explosion at the Canadian Industries Ltd. plant at Beloeil.

While the explosion, which took place in the powder house, was not of large proportions, three men who were close to the scene were killed by it. Two of the victims were named O'Brien and Martel. The name of the third victim is not yet known.

PASSION PLAYHOUSE IN TYROL BURNED

Eri in Tyrol, Austria, July 19 —(AP)—The Passion Playhouse in this "Austrian Oberammergau" was destroyed by fire early this morning. Incendiarism was suspected by the authorities, who said the motive may have been political.

The annual passion play has been enacted by the residents for the last three centuries.

BULL CHARGES CLOTHES PILE

Swimmers at Cannifton See Bull Fight on River Bank

Although Harold Kelly of this city were in the nude, he did not hang his clothes on a hickory limb before he went near the water. And, thereby hangs the tail of a shirt, the tail of a bull, and the tale of how Harold escaped from the scene at the old swimming hole Tuesday evening.

After a hot day's work, Harold went for a cooling swim in the waters of the Moira at the bridge on Cannifton bridge. He piled his clothes neatly on the beach of the river hole, and laid the red blazer carefully across the top. His companions emerging from the woods in abbreviated bathing suits and trunks, Harold lolled in the comfort of the cool waters. He splashed and rose and dived in himself. Then a cause, red-hot by a bellow shifted, and Harold set out for the shore in retreat.

Gleaming ashore, Harold saw an earnest and determined-looking red bull pawing the ground, eyeing the pile of clothes on the river bank with a malevolent stare, and stalking stiff-legged toward the bather. The swimmer began his Australian crawl toward shore, observed salvage. But, he changed his mind.

With a snort, the bull charged the pile of clothes. He gored yet it with a erect bit and tossed it in the air. Then he returned to the fire in his eye, to rest atop the pile of clothing. Pawed clothing flew high. Tattered remnants clung to the sharp horns. Bull and blazer were one. He gored away at the scattered garments around him until the blazer was the last left. The hateful blazer destroyed. Sir Bull charged from the scene, and Harold made a fast fifty-yard dash toward mid channel. The spectacle of the swimmer churning water gave the bull pause. He was content to stand and paw the earth where the clothes were. Out in the water huddled and peeled three of four weary boys. On the shore lay a scattered and tattered pile of clothing. Finally with a snort of disgust, the bull took a chance at the shredded clothing Sir Bull backed off the scene and entered the woods from whence he had come, pausing only to shaking passion with heavy and threatening snorts.

And after a very long and shivering half hour or so three or four boys ventured back to summon enough courage to rescue their clothing. Finally the fastest limb yet recorded, and hike for quieter and calm swimming holes. Harold, with the assistance of his companions, managed to dress himself fairly presentably, but not exactly in sartorial elegance. But, after all, yesterday's paper has so much attention to a 12-year old boy's clothing when school's out.

Still-Born Child Buried Without Notice to Cemetery Authorities

Brockville Onl., July 19 (CP)— Registrar-General's Department at Toronto has been asked by Provincial authorities to decide what action if any should be taken in the case of a still-born child which was buried in the Prescott Roman Catholic cemetery without notice or ceremony or recording authorities.

The new grave was discovered by the caretaker who advised police. Exhumation disclosed the body was a still-born child which police said belonged to Mr. and Mrs. Fl. Keeley of Prescott. Police said the man confessed burying the body and the matter was referred to the department in Toronto.

TRANS-OCEAN AIR SERVICE IS PROJECTED

Under Secretary For Air, Sir P. Sassoon Announced

VIA NEWFOUNDLAND

British and Canadian Government Consider Plan

LONDON, July 19.—(CP Cable)—Conversations have been under way but no concrete scheme for regular trans-Atlantic Air Service between the United Kingdom and the North American continent, by way of Newfoundland, is under consideration at present, said Sir Philip Sassoon, under-secretary for Air, in the House of Commons today.

Sir Phillip, a distinguished aeronautical enthusiast, told questioners there was no thought at the moment of a visit of an International Commission to Newfoundland in regard to establishment of airports for such a service. This corrected an assumption by Geoffrey Le Mancheste, Liberal.

The British Government however, had been approached on the Canadian and Newfoundland representatives in the United Kingdom on certain general lines affecting the possible future organization of air services to and from Newfoundland, the secretary said guardedly.

He added however, he was not in a position to give more detailed information, although to prevent misunderstanding he would emphasize no concrete scheme for trans-Atlantic services was at present under discussion.

Cordova Mines Figuring in Court Action at Osgoode Hall

Toronto, July 19 (CP)—Mr. Justice Eric Armour ruled in weekly sitting at Osgoode Hall that an agreement of Luther E. Wood, Buffalo, dated January 30, 1933, to sell mining lands in the township of Belmont and Marmora, described in court as Cordova Mines, together with waterpower at the outlet of Crowe Lake, Hall of Toronto Toronto broker, had been effectively cancelled. Upon the basis of that ruling His Lordship said he would make an order directing the Canada Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co., of Canada, Ltd., to turn deeds in the event Wood's counsel had Bilon had not carried out terms of the agreement. Wood's payment for the property and after considerable correspondence and Wood the deal was given notice of cancellation of the agreement.

Wood then negotiated a sale of the property to Canada Consolidating and Smelting Co.

The latter company, C.C. contended Bilon's contract with Wood was still in force, and said an agent of Canada Consolidated had negotiated a sale of the property to consolidated Mining and Smelting Co.

British Museum Secures Priceless Manuscripts of Two Brontes and Browning

(By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, July 19 (C.P. Cable) — Manuscripts of some of the greatest masterpieces of Victorian literature have just come into the keeping of the British Museum. Included amongst them are Charlotte Bronte's "Jane Eyre," "Shirley" and "Villette," and a manuscript note book of poems by Emily Bronte in her own hand. So, also, is Anne's legible hand. There is also Robert Browning's "The Ring and the Book", and Thackeray's "The Wolves and the Lamb." This is the first substantial literary manuscript of Thackeray to come in the possession of the British Museum.

These literary treasures were bequeathed in September, 1914, to her five children by Mrs. George Smith, widow of the eminent London publisher whose firm handled the work of the Bronte sisters. To the death of the last surviving child the manuscripts were to go to the British Museum.

WHEAT VALUES TUMBLE DOWN

Torrent of Selling Carries Prices 6 3-4 to Seven Lower

Winnipeg, July 19.—(CP)—Wheat values, which had withstood heavy selling pressure for several days, crumbled and broke today beneath the weight of offerings on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. The torrent of selling carried prices 6 3-4 to seven cents lower.

Final quotation on July delivery wheat was 17 1-4, far below the day's peak of 83 1-2. October closed at 82 3-4, more than seven cents off its high of 97. December's last price was 91 1-2 to 3-4, and May 97 showed well below the dollar level. It attained last Saturday at 3-4.

Waves of selling by speculators anxious to cash in on profits created the rampant bull drive, uninterrupted for several weeks. Stubborn resistance was offered to the slump but it only served to bring values fractionally up from low points. The sharp selling was not in line with a severe break in Chicago prices but Liverpool worked into it from higher territory.

Cash grains remained quiet and coarse grains followed in wheat's footsteps.

Chicago, July 19.—(AP)— Wheat broke as much as 13 cents a bushel today after a downward rise from 43 cents to a top of 81.28. Corn and oats prices also dropped sharply.

The break came near the close of the session. The market had been weak most of the day, but losses were not severe. When the selling started it gathered momentum like a snowball and a few minutes before the close was as a terrific pace.

JUNE TRADE WITH EMPIRE IS UP 46 P.C.

Steady Climb Month by Month to Highest in June

7 MILLIONS UP

Twenty-two Empire Countries in Trade Report

OTTAWA, July 19.—(CP)—Canada's domestic exports to British Empire countries in June totalled $21,890,000 in value. This amount represents an increase of almost $7,000,000, or 46 per cent. over June last year, Exports for June to the United Kingdom alone totalled $17,977,000 an increase of more than $6,500,000 or 56 per cent.

"Some months ago," said Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce this morning in commenting on the increase in Empire trading, "I asked our people not to expect immediate results. I pointed out at the time that it would take a while for the Empire countries to adjust their commerce to the newly-created situation, and I do not expect much of an upward swing before the end of months. However, the increase in the countries have not yet been able to complete their arrangements now to make all the readjustments of their trade routine by the end of the year."

Words of New Year

"It is a matter of record that in December, 1932, the Empire trade month of trading under the Empire agreements, our exports showed a decreased slightly.

"But after the New Year came in our exports to the Empire began to swell, until we were able to show that we had increased by $9,000,000 or 41 per cent. The percentage increase was 41 per cent. and in June 46 per cent.

"The remarkable thing about it is that we began to make increases in our Empire trading when international trade was declining, when international buying was still further below normal than it had been.

"It is significant," said Mr. Stevens, "that June exports have increased to 22 British Empire countries."

STRAPPED AGAINST ADVICE OF DOCTOR

Judge Decrees Given Light Sentence On Account of Ill-Health

Kingston, Ont., July 19 (CP) — Convict Ernest Snell, first of a new group of prisoners to be sentenced following the riots at Kingston Penitentiary last October, was sentenced today by Judge G. E. Decrohe to an extra three months imprisonment.

Standing on his own behalf Snell told a long story of the treatment he said he had taken no part in the riots except to go to the prison dining hall "to see what going on." It would have been physically impossible, he said, to take part in the riots and be back to bar doors, witness said.

Dr. Platte, prison physician and surgeon, confirmed the convict's testimony regarding his illness. He said Snell had been subject to severe fits at varying periods and that medical attention inflicting lashes on the prisoner as provided by the prison sentence. During the doctor's absence, however, Snell was strapped.

Judge Deroche said he sympathized with the accused because of his physical condition and imposed what he called the lightest sentence he felt justifiable.

Leisure and Absences Menaces to Married Life Says Norma Shearer

New York, July 19 (CP) — Too much leisure and too many absences, says Norma Shearer, are menaces to married life.

The Montreal-born motion picture actress commented on the save of separation as she arrived here from a European trip with her husband, Irving Thalberg, and each their three-year-old son, Tuesday.

"For a couple to stay happily married," she said, "they must have some work which keeps them so busy and excited that they have no time to think of petty things. Also, there must not be unnecessary periods of separation. I believe couples believe they can get along without each other."

Lt-Col. Utton up with Leaders in First Stage of Classic King's Prize

Score of 100 Out of 105 Not Good Enough For Medal

300 TO QUALIFY

One Woman Assured of Place in Second Stage

Bisley Camp, England, July 19 (CP Cable)—Canada got to the top for the first time during the Empire meeting of the National Rifle Association today when Lt.-Col. C. W. Stone, of Hamilton, earned the right to shoot off with three Englishmen for the fabled Corporation of the City of London Cup.

Bisley Camp, England, July 19 (CP Cable)—Lt.-Col. Utton, of Toronto, with a fine total of 100 out of a possible 105 was early leader of the Canadians completing the first stage of the classic King's prize at Bisley today. This was not good enough however, to win the second round.

When Utton returned with his score, showing a 32, 34 and 32 for the three distances—200, 500 and 600 yards—there were only two hours of shooting before the first stage was complete. Nearly 100 marksmen were still to fire and deciding the 300 contrants for Friday's second stage.

Wins morning incentive

E. Johnson of Durham, South Africa, was leading the field with 101, Sergt. Henderson of the Scottish Borderers was second with 100 and Utton was in a temporary tie for third place with Squadron-Leader Richardson, of the R.A.F.

At least one of the five women entered in the competition proceed to the second stage, Miss M. Badcock of Bisley posting 98.

Lieut. D. O. White of Sackville, N.B., another Canadian scandded 97, returned with a 98 and Sgt. E. G. Stock of Toronto, with 97.

Utton was aboard further back when Q.M.S. Curcher of the Small Arms School and Capt. Parr of the Highland Light Infantry posted 101, while H. W. Trumper of Cambridge and Corp. Flower of Gloucester tied Utton's 100.

Miss Mary Rowcroft, only woman to ever win the King's prize, opened sure to qualify with a 94. Miss Friend of the Berkshire Red Cross was eliminated with 92.

Canadian's Standing

Including White, the Canadians turned in 4th and three others, including Stock, had 97s making with Utton a total of 397 men and 5 women into the second stage. Those who failed to qualify was uncertain.

Those getting 98 besides White were Capt. R. Bishop of Ottawa, Pte. A. G. Hutchinson of Fergus, Ont., scoring his first visit to Bisley and Sgt.-Mai. N. J. McLeod of Toronto. Those getting 97 besides Stock were the veteran C. M. Emslie of Toronto and W. C. Morrison of Ottawa.

Seemingly on the borderline were Sergt. Instructor Lieut. Commander R. B. Simmonds of Halifax, Sgt. Maj. A. Cameron of Calgary, J. T. Steel of Guelph. Three more had 95, Lt.-Col. W. C. Gibson of Hamilton, Lieut. Col. Sherwood Kirkland and Pte. G. A. Thompson of Toronto.

The remaining pair with 90 were sure of eliminations, Lieut. Col. C. of Saint John and Lieut. A. C. Molecey of Winnipeg, judging by the high scoring of others.

LARGE PARTY EATS MAMMOTH LUNGE

The maskinonge season is open. On Tuesday afternoon about four o'clock a large maskinonge in the Bay of Quinte took after a small boat, the occupants of which were enjoying themselves out on the bay with the result that a fish dinner was served by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Ostrom and family, Dr. R. S. Gibson and family, and Alderman W.-R. McCreary and family and some of their friends. The men in the party were having successfully defended themselves against the attacks of two other equally large fish. The lunge which provided the meal was a very beautiful specimen without blemish. It is whispered that Mr. W. R. McCreary was the successful angler.

WATER MAIN IS LAID ON GEDDES ST.

Chiefly for fire protection purposes, and as an added service to consumers along the route, waterworks department employees are busy this week installing a six-inch main on Geddes St. between College and Ewans Street. The fifty or more feet of main being laid will replace the smaller pipe line, which is being dug up.

FISHING GOOD AT BAPTISTE LAKE

Messrs John Tanner and William Morgan of this city have returned home after spending a week's fishing on Baptiste Lake, North Hastings. The latter is credited for landing some fine specimen of lake trout.

Details of Previous World's Fair Given

Dated 1893, some perfectly preserved copies of a Chicago paper, containing full details of the previous World's Fair at Chicago, are in the possession of Mr. E. W. Ostrom of this city. The papers are a souvenir of the trip made by Mr. Cherry to the previous fair in that year.

TOURISTS ARE NOW BETTER INFORMED

Some decline in numbers of tourists registering at the local chamber of Commerce has been noted during the past few weeks. In previous years, with the influx of visitors at this season of the year a daily average of a dozen or more separate parties could be depended upon to visit the office and sign the visitors' book. This year the decline has been marked. Better roads and direction signs and the fact that nearly all tourists carry their own maps and are aware of the district under tour is believed to be responsible for the drop. Northern resort owners in the county, however, report as many tourists as ever stopping at their camps.

DELEGATES LEAVE FOR GRAND LODGE

The Worshipful Masters of the three Masonic lodges of the city, Wm. J. Ford of Moira Lodge; Wm. Ashley of Quinte Lodge, and Arthur Hill of The Belleville Lodge, accompanied by Messrs J. W. Barlow, W. C. Mikel, K.C., and George Dawkins, left, the city Tuesday to attend the Masonic Grand Lodge which convenes at St. Catharines today.

It is anticipated that there will be a spirited contest for the office of District Deputy Grand Master of this district, with the likelihood of a Prince Edward County resident being chosen.

GARDENS ARE IN FINE CONDITION

Proof that the unemployed of the city are making an earnest attempt to better conditions for themselves was furnished his week with the completion of a survey by Central Relief officials of all garden plots in the city being tended by the out-of-work residents. Out of fifty or more gardens visited by an investigator, it was found that only one or two showed signs of neglect, all other plots were reported a credit to their owners. For most of the unemployed this is the initial attempt at gardening in their effort to raise their own vegetables for themselves and family for the coming cold months.

LIKES 20 YEAR AGO COLUMN

Times do change, but interest in one column does not part. That is the columns or twenty, thirty, forty and fifty years ago. This week the following note was received by the editor from Dallas, Texas: "One of the columns of interest to me in my Daily Ontario Intelligencer is the 20 years ago column. Every week nearly always some recollection is brought back and today I saw my own name, as taking part in a Madoc twenty years ago.—Mae Herity Wright."

10.3 HRS SUNSHINE DAILY DURING JULY

In an evident attempt to create an all-time summer record, the Old Sol blasting from clear, unclouded skies during the past 19 days of the month of July has given a daily average of 10.3 hours clear, strong sunshine, as recorded on the sun gauge at the Dominion Entomological Laboratory on Dundas Street. Every day without fail since the first day of July up to the present the sun has made its daily appearance. And for the month of June the same high average was noted. Daily average of sunshine received during June was marked at 10.2 hours per day. Records kept at the local bureau fail to reveal a similar period during which time as much sunshine had been received. Rainfall for the first 13 days of this month recorded at the bureau was set at only ¼-inch.

BIRTH CERTIFICATE REVEALS RIGHT AGE

Beaten Team Applies to Highest Court For Decision

It was a question of age that bothered the 12-year-old captain of the "Roaring Tigers", one of Belleville's leading juvenile baseball teams in the local grasshopper league. The team was composed of nineteen players ranging in age from 12 to 15 years, and the rules of the league are adhered to by the opposing teams. One of the strictest rules is the age limit. Players must be under 13 years.

Tuesday the "Roaring Tigers" met and were vanquished by a neighborhood nine. A bowl of protest rent the air. A protest was immediately lodged. The pitcher of the victorious team declared the beaten "Tigers" was over age. Much over age.

"Tish—I'm not," leered the accused pitcher.

"Try prove I'm over-age," he urged all and sundry.

So the dauntless skipper of the Tigers gathered his henchmen and marched en masse to the city hall. They sought the office of Alfred Holmes with a request for a certain boy's birthday. "And you let me write it down on paper for them?" Mr. Holmes asked.

This week the "Tigers" will again play the same team. Only this time the pitcher will be a new one, and the one that pitched the last game was really 35. So he's suspended.

KIWANIANS JOURNEY TO BOYS' CAMP

Rev. Mr. Koffend of Stirling, Speaks on Manchuria

Kiwanians of the local Kiwanis Club, accompanied by their wives, held an evening visit to the boys' camp at Moira Lake Tuesday evening where they were the guests of Mr. Jos. S. Shortt, under whose care the camp has been conducted. Kenneth Thompson, camp director and cook presided at dinner. The menu was a typical Eastern delicacy, boiled rice. Rev. J. Koffend, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Stirling, was guest speaker of the evening, choosing as his subject "Manchuria, a country of which practically every Kiwanian and sing in which he had resided for a number of years in his capacity as missionary." The highly entertaining talk was enlivened by specimens of Eastern children's manners, habits and customs of the people in that little known country.

CONTROVERSY MAY END IN PUNT RACE

Old Time Skippers Argue Over Merits of Punts

Some controversy has arisen as to the ability of old time fresh-water skippers to handle punts since the punts of present-day construction. A comment has waxed warm in the precincts of the Bay of Quinte Canoeing Society and several other naval haunts in town.

The argument has eventually brought forth a challenge from Skipper Ted Wilson to Skipper Wm. King Rogers to sail a set of races for any sum of money the latter cared preferable) or for the sport alone (preferable) over the Moira Lake vault. The challenger of Commodore George is that each sail a punt of the type used by the old sailing boats and go over the course again. Interest is centering in handling the craft to count, as well as the finish, time also to be taken into consideration.

Skipper George feels assured he can outpunt his ancient adversary and is trustful that Skipper Rogers will accept the challenge and that the date noteworthy even in the history of Belleville harbor may be determined without delay. Skipper George anxiously awaits the reply of Mr. Rogers.

BOYS REPRIMANDED FOR THROWING STONES

Promise Made Rowdyism Will Be Discontinued

Following a stone throwing episode during which Albert Hatfield of this city was struck in the mouth with a flying missile and two teeth knocked out on Monday afternoon, local police boys appeared in the juvenile court this morning. Owing to the fact that the boys were all under the age of 14 years, no charges were laid by the police.

Crown Attorney H. C. Donnan, K. C., lectured the lads at length pointing out the folly or throwing stones. The incident happened in the vicinity of Lazier's day on Monday afternoon when a number of stones were exposed, with stones as the ammunition. Mr. Donnan went further to state that numerous complaints relating to rowdism had been reported from the Lazier's day section and he received a promise from all seven boys concerned, they stating they would not throw stones again.

CONSTRUCTION JOBS HELP UNEMPLOYED

Work at O.S.D. Absorbs Some of Local Labor.

Construction activities throughout the district have been given a decided upswing during the past few weeks has been felt in the office of the Central Relief Bureau with the placing of many men on the lists of the employed. A slow but appreciable drop in numbers of those being cared for by the bureau has been noted lately. At the grounds of the Ontario School for the Deaf where the preliminary work of excavating for the dormitory buildings to be constructed some forty or forty-five local men have been given work. The list of employed on the grounds is expected to be increased of ninety per cent. local labor.

DRIVER STATES LOOSE GRAVEL IS CAUSE

Car Breaks Off Pole and Then Goes Into Ditch

Loose gravel is alleged by Wm. Badgley, Thurlow, to have been the cause of an automobile accident that happened just east of Tweed on Tuesday evening when his car left the highway, breaking off a telephone pole and damaging the car considerably. The occupants escaped unhurred.

Mr. Badgley, accompanied by W. Bradshaw and A. Bradshaw, neighbors, was driving west on Highway No. 37, about one mile east of Tweed when the wheels struck some loose gravel that had been washing onto the road by recent rains. The car apparently got out of control and Badgley lost control of it, almost before one sight fetch the windshield and glass in the front of the car were broken. None of the occupants were injured.

The accident was reported to the telephone company and the police on Wednesday by the owner of the car.

GARAGE AND BARN BURNS

Hay, Brood Sow And Pigs Destroyed in Blaze

Wooler, July 19 (Special) — On Monday afternoon the large barn and garage of Mr. Warren Preston was burned. Mr. Preston has finished cutting a field of grain and had put the binder in the barn and was driving the horses when another man said," the barn is on fire inside." The neighbors responded to the call of fire, but could not save the buildings. 55 loads of hay was destroyed and a mother pig with ten baby pigs were burned. The garage took fire but the car was taken out in safety. The cause of the fire is unknown, but is thought to have been spontaneous combustion. The insurance partly covers the loss. Watchmen were on guard all night as there are other buildings near by.

Mr. Preston's home is on Lot 12, 7th, concession of Murray township, known as the Tabernacle neighborhood.

OBITUARY

LATE NICHOLAS WHITE

Many friends and neighbors from throughout the countryside of Tyendinaga were, Tuesday morning, in attendance at the funeral of the late Nicholas White, to tender their last tribute of respect to the memory of an esteemed resident of that district who died at 9 a.m. the Rev. Father Shannon celebrated mass at St. Mary's Church, Marysville, and interment was made in the cemetery of the parish.

Acting as bearers were Messrs Andrew Howell, William Chalkhan, Jas. Hall, Thomas Currie, Joseph McCambridge and Timothy Drumney.

GEORGE MARTIN

Seventy years a resident of Belleville, George Martin passed away early this (Wednesday) morning at his residence, 55 Everett Street, following a lengthy illness. The deceased was born in the township in the province of Quebec and came to this city as a youth. For many years a highly valued employee of the Patterson Biscuit Company and for over fifty years a carting business here, of late years he had lived a retired life. Conscientious and faithful in the performance of his duties, George Martin was known and respected by a large business men of this city and hundreds of friends. A familiar figure was removed from the streets of Belleville when he retired from active business. The deceased was a member of St. Michael's Church.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Ounier, of Montana, and four sons, George in California; Henry and Leo in Toronto, and Arthur of this city.

Perhaps the best contribution a nation can make to world rehabilitation is to put its own house in order.—Bainbridge Colby.

DRY STATES OF "SOLID SOUTH" IN WET COLUMN

Notably Dry States of "Solid South" Join Wets for Prohibition Repeal

Arkansas And Alabama Favor Report of 18th Amendment

18 DECLARE

Thirty Six States Must Vote For Repeal to Get Decision

Washington, July 19 (CP)—Arkansas and Alabama, first states of the "solid south" to speak on the United States prohibition amendment, have voted for its repeal.

Approximate and incomplete figures showed today that Alabama favored repeal by about two to one. The vote for repeal in Arkansas was three to two.

Yesterday's vote brought the number of states on record for repeal to eighteen, with prohibitionists yet to score their first victory.

Tennessee voters will register their decision tomorrow, with Oregon following Friday. Thirty-six states must vote for repeal if the prohibition amendment is to be nullified.

In addition to Tennessee and Oregon, fifteen states have chosen definite dates before early November to vote on repeal.

States that have voted for repeal are:

Michigan, Wisconsin, Rhode Island, Wyoming, New Jersey, Delaware, Indiana, Massachusetts, New York, Illinois, Iowa, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Nevada, California, West Virginia, Alabama and Arkansas.

States voting next month are Arizona, Missouri, Texas and Washington.

In September six other states will give their verdict—Colorado, Maryland, Minnesota, Idaho and New Mexico; and in October, Pennsylvania.

On November 7 repeal will be passed upon in South Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania and South Carolina.

Although eight states have either voted or arranged to vote on repeal by November 7, action is pending in several others which may bring the total number voting to more than 36. It is on this possibility that repealists rest their hopes for victory before Christmas.

BALBO STARTS FASHION

CHICAGO, July 19—(AP)—When General Italo Balbo came to town from across the seas with his Italian flyers, he started something.

Long before reported Chicago residents were trying to grow beards like the one the General wears.

PLAN TO REDUCE U. S. WHEAT AREA

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace said today that he will propose, with plans for reducing the area of American wheat next year and the assumptions that the progressive increase in acreage with increase of this year's short crop are "short sighted and erroneous".

ODDITIES IN THE NEWS

NEW YORK, July 19.—(AP)—A grand jury herald Charles Chaplin behind the bars. Summoned to court for being $30 in arrears in his alimony, Chamberlain was not on yesterday.

As he left the room, he thumbed his nose at his wife.

The judge sent him back and ordered him to pay $80 bond. He couldn't so they took him to jail overnight.

San Francisco, July 19 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret K. Perdew charged in a divorce suit filed here that when she remonstrated with her husband, John, because he stayed away from home that he answered he was sorry there weren't 4 days in a week so he could stay away an extra day.

New York, July 19 (AP)—The police say Harold J. Rosse did more than get into the wrong bed; he got into the wrong church. The scene of St. Andrew's Church, Staten Island, was awakened by the bell tolling at midnight.

He called police, who said they found their man in the church of another church.) He was charged with burglary.

Woodbury, N.J., July 19 (AP)—Kumerdale, a cat, met a catfish but she has proved to be a bird of a cat at that.

The tuxi-colored feline picked out an aged maple tree and high above his decaying trunk built a nest. Now five kittens share the nest with Kumerdale.

Oklahoma City, July 19 (AP)—Fearful lest the "grapheg" odor from effervescing 3.2 beer might be misconstrued by some of his customers, the proprietor of a popular cafe here turns incense in his establishment.

POST FIGHTS TO MAKE TIME

Only Three Hours 24 Minutes Ahead Because of Bad Weather

Wiley Post, globe-encircling flier, streaked on across Siberia today, fighting to make up for time lost because of foul weather.

When the Oklahoma speedster left Irkutsk, Siberia, for Blagoveschensk at 11 p.m. eastern standard time, last night he was only 3 hours and 24 minutes up on the timetable he and Harold Gatty established on their round-the-world flight in 1931.

He had reached Irkutsk at 7:35 a.m. with a lead of 19 hours and 24 minutes, but heavy rain and fog stretched his stay there to 15 hours and 12 minutes. Another 10 hours and 15 minutes he remained there with Gatty in 1931.

New York put on its best welcoming smile to greet Gen. Italo Balbo who was to bring his 24 Italian seaplanes from Chicago to New York after covering plaudits at Century of Progress.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh found fog barring their way. At Cartwright, Labrador, for an aerial mapping expedition of Labrador and Greenland, they were still grounded, latest reports indicated.

Jimmie Mattern, reported investing in Soviet gasoline from Anadyr, Siberia, to Nome, Alaska, was so long overdue that Moscow radio began to feel the report, received by wireless, was premature. Mattern's plane was wrecked in Siberia on an attempted record flight around the world.

CANADA NEEDS BRAIN TRUST

Able Men with Broad Democratic Principles Needed Says Hepburn

DELTA, Ont., July 19.—(CP)—If the Liberal party is returned to office at the next Ontario election, Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P., will abolish "excessive" boards and commissions, wipe out some of the "party-minded" judges, and set up a department of health" do away entirely with the attorney-general's staff in Great Britain, and abolish the Provincial Secretary's department, he declared at a Liberal picnic here yesterday.

"I believe when the next general election comes around as I hope it will in the early fall or late next few weeks, there will be the greatest Liberal upsurge ever witnessed in the province of Ontario," he declared. His party would be one with a "right in the heart of Tory Toronto," said Mr. Hepburn, and expressed his sympathy with ex-Premier George S. Henry as "a man who lacks political sagacity" and one who would find the "bellies boxed with complaints against him".

He believed, he said, Canada needed a "brain trust" similar to that which assisted President Roosevelt in the United States. "We don't want any one-man government, but a lot of able men who will conduct government on broad, democratic principles."

GLOBE GIRDLING AVIATOR HOPS FOR BLAGOVESCHENSK

Lead Over 1931 Record Cut Sharply By Flying Conditions

Irkutsk, Siberia, July 19—(AP)—Wiley Post, globe girdling aviator, hopped off for Blagoveschensk, Siberia, 1,000 miles east of here at 5 a.m. today.

His lead over his 1931 record had been cut sharply to three hours and 24 minutes as he scanned out of here towards Blagoveschensk, nearly 1,000 miles eastward, on the sixth leg of his round flight.

The airman hopped off after remaining here since 9:35 p.m. (7:35 a.m. E.S.T.) while his advantage over the time recorded by him and Harold Gatty two years ago was whittled to a slim margin.

Bad weather, which caused him to lose precious hours on the jaunt from Moscow to Novosibirsk again dogged him and forced him to stay here, longer than he wanted to.

He still had unfavorable conditions before him, however, but he expressed his sympathy with ex-Premier George S. Henry as "a man who lacks political sagacity" and one who would find the "bellies boxed with complaints against him".

He believed, he said, Canada needed a "brain trust" similar to that which assisted President Roosevelt in the United States. "We don't want any one-man government, but a lot of able men who will conduct government on broad, democratic principles."

SAFE AFTER ROUGH TRIP

Accomplished Treacherous Journey Through Ice Floes

Churchill, July 19 (CP)—Safe in harbor after a treacherous journey through ice floes on Hudson Bay which delayed her passage from the mouth of the Nelson River, the northern schooner Port Severn was scheduled to leave here today. The schooner will carry a cargo of supplies for far north trading posts of the Hudson's Bay Company.

Unreported for five days, with grave fears for her safety felt by ship men here, the Port Severn docked Tuesday, after battling drifting floes all the way from the river mouth to Churchill, a distance of 160 miles.

The schooner, however, was undamaged and Captain D. O. Morris reported his crew "all well".

HARRIMAN IS BEHIND BARS

Question as to Whether Bail Will be Collected or to be Decided

New York, July 19 (AP) — Bars continued Joseph E. Harriman today while a judge considered whether to discharge the former banker $25,000 for his latest journey to nowhere.

Harriman, awaiting trial on a charge of falsifying the accounts of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company, turned up late yesterday after a second disappearance from a nursing home.

He appeared a few hours after federal Judge Caffey had ordered $25,000 bail forfeited. The judge committed him to a Bellevue hospital ward and Harriman scurried and windows, for mental observation. Then the judge agreed to hear new arguments about the bail today.

ARITHMETIC AND WRITING NO CLUES

London, July 19—Good handwriting is no guide to ability, according to Dr. Terry Thomas, headmaster of Lord Aldenham School. Many people, he declared, were prone to judge a man's ability by his handwriting and his capacity for arithmetic. These were false standards, for most able people wrote a bad hand, and pure arithmetic denoted nothing but mechanical skill developed by practice.

"Tact means the instinctive perception of the feelings of others, and king considerations for them," Emily Post.

Medals of Two Brothers Killed in War Sufficient Credentials to Sign Name

TORONTO, July 19.— (CP) — Thoroughly wrapped and crated, the drum the Prince of Wales beat at Belfast when he opened Ulster's new parliament Buildings today had started its homeward journey, minus its drumsticks but bearing 600 signatures—those of 300 Orangemen and Ulstermen and one Roman Catholic woman.

The drum was brought here by the W. H. G. Armstrong Memorial Lodge, to be used in the July 12th parade. It was the morning of the 12th, according to Worshipful Master Tom Armstrong, that a woman approached him as he stood by the side of the drum, and asked if she be allowed to add her name to the others.

It was her "whole hobby" to sign her name on the Prince of Wales' side of the Lodge members.

AIR ARMADA ON FIRST LEG HOMEWARD

Fleet Leaves Chicago Before Seven O'clock For New York

ALL IN AIR

May Undertake Ocean Crossing More Ambitious Than Last

Chicago, July 19 (AP)—Italy's armada of 24 seaplanes began taking the air at 6:42 a.m. (Central Standard Time) today en route to New York, on the first leg of their long journey to their homeland by way of Shediac, N.B., and Newfoundland.

The weather was clear as the first of the two-motored craft, each piloted by General Italo Balbo, lifted itself from the waters of Lake Michigan and headed a course due east in the general direction of South Bend, Ind. Two others left almost at the same time.

The route, as planned by General Balbo, lay across the northern end of Lake Michigan, and thence over Toledo, Akron and Cleveland, Ohio, Erie, Pa.; Dunkirk, Buffalo, Oswego, Batavia and Albany, N.Y., to Newark, N.J., for a landing in Jamaica Bay, off Floyd Bennett Field, N.Y.

Prior to his departure from Chicago, General Balbo announced that weather conditions are favorable, he would undertake a trans-Atlantic journey sometime later than the east to west crossing. The proposed route would be via Shediac, N.B. to Newfoundland and thence to Ireland and would keep the flyers over water a little less than 2,000 miles.

NEW SYSTEM IS OUTLINED

Miss Macphail is Chief Speaker at C. C. F. Rally

Regina, July 19 (CP)—Immediate steps which should be taken by the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation in its bid to give Canada a new social and economic system have been outlined today by Miss Agnes Macphail, M.P., at a C.C.F. rally here.

Speaking at a public meeting here last night with Mrs. John Paton of London, Eng., M. J. Scott, president of the United Farmers of Ontario and S. E. Woodsworth, Winnipeg Labor leader and provincial president of the Manitoba group in the immediate program as well as a future program.

She suggested elimination of the Canadian Senate or else placing it under control of the House of Commons. In the economic field she proposed raising prices and stabilization to provide a better standard of living; increase in purchasing power of the people; a managed currency and heavy inheritance and income taxes. Government, she said, works to provide employment for the industries when a depression hits, the financiers to be by issuing non-interest bearing notes.

APPROVES DOCUMENT

Madrid, July 19 (AP)—Reports were current today that the Spanish government has approved a document recognizing Soviet Russia.

More people over the world today are working for less than in any period of the world's history. —Bruce Barton.

PEARCE TURNS PRO

BOBBY PEARCE

One of the greatest scullers the world has ever known, Diamond sculls winner and Olympic champion Bobby Pearce, Australian oarsman, now of Hamilton, Ontario, is here seen signing away his amateur status for a match against Ted Phelps, famous English professional. The match is scheduled for Toronto late in August.

AIR ARMADA ON FIRST LEG HOMEWARD

QUEEN OF YUKON WEDS AGAIN

A romance which began in the honkytonks of Dawson City, Yukon territory, during the Alaska gold rush, resulted in the marriage at Vancouver recently of "Klondyke Kate" Rockwell, once the toast of the Yukon and Joan Matson, Alaskan gold miner. Matson fell in love with her in 1902, but was too retiring to press his suit. Fortune separated them until recently he learned she lived in Bend, Ore., and sought her out.

Woodsworth Advocates Economic and Social Change in Whole World

Gives Presidential Address at Opening of C.C.F. Convention

MAY BE MISTAKES

Peaceful And Orderly Methods to Effect Change Advocated

(By Sam G. Ross)

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

REGINA, July 19.—(CP)—Emphasizing necessity for complete economic and social change not merely in the dominion but throughout the world, J. S. Woodsworth, Labor M.P., in Winnipeg today opened the First National Convention of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation with his Presidential address.

The Labor-minded Labor Leader in the House of Commons swept from the basis of the economic Movement in Calgary a year ago, through to the struggles immediately underway and pointed toward a goal— a Canadian type of socialism "which includes a great opportunity. May we be equal to the task," were his closing words.

"I believe world problems cannot be solved without nationalization," he declared. "We do not advocate 'economic nationalism.' Indeed this is possible, means lower standards of living, possibly a reversal to barbarism. It is essentially a retrograde movement. But we must safeguard the existing national set-up.

"What we propose as far as may be possible to set our own house in order. We advocate nationalism, be declared, must be founded on cooperation and mutuality.

Basis of Protest

Mr. Woodsworth found the C.C.F. movement "not a movement born of protest and discontent of present conditions, but a rational grasp at the inefficiency of the old parties and the inadequacy of the old methods.

"It must be recognized, however," he said, "that a merely negative policy will not achieve a lasting position would achieve nothing.

"Developing a constructive programme, the organization faced its gravest difficulty. We are passing through hitherto unravelled land. We may make mistakes. We must go forward, given the general direction, we must guard against them, but less by the method of trial and error." Mr. Woodsworth said.

"The co-operative commonwealth should benefit by the experience of other countries but the President believed Canadians must develop their own salvation in their work out their problem had so many of the elements of Russian and German type and the Russian type —why not a Canadian type," he asked.

"Perhaps it is because I am a Canadian of several generations and have inherited the individualism common to all born on the American continent, yet with political and social ideals produced by influenced by British traditions and so-called British idealism—in any case I am convinced we may develop in Canada a distinctive type of Socialism," he declared.

"I refuse to follow slavishly the British model or the American model or the Russian model. We in Canada will solve our problems along our own lines. We have a lovely heritage, not only in natural resources but in pioneer traditions and social equipment. If we have the spirit of our fathers we can overcome the difficulties, even of our complex modern world."

Advocates Peaceful Methods

The C.C.F. advocated peaceful and orderly methods. In this it was distinguished sharply from the Communist Party which envisaged the new order as being ushered in by violent upheaval and the establishment of a dictatorship.

"The decision as to how capitalism will be overthrown may, of course not lie in our hands," he pointed out. "Continued bungling and revolution, callous disregard of the needs and suffering of the people, the spread of reckless violence by unrest may bring either a collapse; or revolts, or both. But in Canada we believe it possible to avoid chaos and bloodshed.

"Despite the fast growth of the C.C.F. movement, we have had only begun, he said, with the eight-point constitution as adopted at Calgary. It was properly sketchy and had merely defined its purpose. "While we may now be in a position to elaborate further I am of the opinion," he declared.

JAPAN SAYS DRIVE BACKED BY SOVIET

Men And Munitions Reported Sent by Soviet to Manchukuo

AID CAMPAIGN

Japanese Force is Despatched to Retake Conquered City

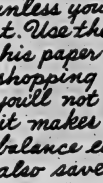
PEIPIN, July 19.—Chinese military headquarters issued a statement today, saying reliable information had been received that the Japanese military command in Manchukuo was sending 20,000 Manchukuan troops and the main part of the Japanese Eighth Division to retake Tolunoerh, in Chahar Province, they had across the border from Soviet.

Despatches from Shanghai last Friday said General Feng Yu-hsiang engaged in a campaign to regain Jehol had captured Tolunoerh after a battle with Manchukuan frontier guards. Chinese despatches which reported the engagement said the Manchukuans fled across the border.

Although opposed to the activities of Feng, the Nanjin National Government has indicated that no force will be used to persuade him to desist.

Reds Alleged Helping

TOKIO, July 19.—A Rengo (Japanese News Agency despatch from Hsinking, Manchukuo, said that Japanese authorities declared Soviet airplanes were transporting the menace of the campaign of General Feng Yu-hsiang against him. Chief of Staff Frontier Manchukuo, and that Japanese military leaders were considering reports from Kalgan concerning the situation.



Despatches reports from Kalgan, in Chahar Province, said Feng has received money and munitions from Russian authorities at Urga (Ulan Bator Khoto), in Outer Mongolia, following the recapture of Tolunoerh, Chahar, last week.

It was reported that a score of Russians and 200 Chinese Communists had arrived at Kalgan to help Feng establish a Socialized government in Outer Mongolia.

"that we should set forth general principles and policies rather than attempt to prepare a blueprint of our prospective programme."

Following the three months' session of the Dominion Executive held during the year, a report was sent out much of the work had to be carried on by correspondence. In the case of emergencies it was felt that it was necessary to call and given 200 addresses. The work had been heavy, he said.

"Yet we are confident we are in the line of progress. If our movement is to be successful it must be democratic in that it does—something for a better future."

THE GO-BETWEEN

Canadians, of course, cannot quite understand the status of the go-between who has figured in so many investigations into kidnappers in the United States. As the papers would indicate this type of man has access to the inner circles of the criminal world and authority to start negotiations leading to the delivery of the kidnapped person on the payment of ransom.

Go-betweens have no standing in Canada. There are only two sides to a crime investigation in this country, the police as the agents of justice and the criminals.

A Buffalo newspaper says that the United States should start an inquiry to find out just who and what the go-between is and investigate his character and history.

CONCEALED WEAPONS

Severest restrictions upon the carrying of a pistol or any firearm which may be concealed in the clothing have gone into force. Now in Canada no one may carry a concealed weapon unless he has a permit and can show that his life or property is in danger. Penalty ranges from one to five years for infraction of the new regulations of the law.

The new rules which went into force on Saturday are very effective. They limit the possession of concealed weapons. It is approaching the state of abolition of the use of firearms.

Canada will do know what the knife and stiletto have meant to other lands and the revolver to the United States are, happy that here no such abuses may be allowed.

NEW CODES OF INDUSTRY

"The code" to many people means a book to be consulted when crimes a man may commit if he is a bad man. Or it may mean a form of writing to keep the contents of a menace secret.

But there is another code, the Roosevelian code which deals with the regulation of, U. S. industry, under the Industrial Recovery Act.

President Roosevelt has started something, so new in the form of government control that in normal times there would be a distinct element of shock. But in these tumultuous days almost anything will be agreed to however advanced it be, if it offers a possibility of recovery and revival.

The new code, the first of a series, relates to cotton industry and naturally stirs interest. It establishes the 40 hour week for workers and for the office staffs as against the old hours which ran as high as fifty-three and fifty-four hours a week in other days. With the shorter wage, an increase of course, but not sufficient, says Roosevelt, except in these days when the traffic cannot stand any more. The code wipes out child labor and the competition which child labor has brought into industry. Cut-throat competition is accordingly eliminated. Cotton sons and the parents of children will earn highe- wages. Child labor has been one of the great crimes of the world. Children have been forced to work to add to the pittance a parent earns, that parent receiving less than ample for his work, it is claimed, and the child's labor goes into the grinding system to increase profits of industry and to aid in the competitive war. The abolition of this labor as shown in the cotton textile factories is a short step.

Roosevelt points out that the consumer will pay for the higher wages, shorter hours and cost of control. But that he adds that the consumer will probably be employed in an industry with similar codes and so will be really better off and everybody will be better off.

The tariff is to be used as a weapon by U. S. cotton mills if they, with the higher wage bills and shorter hours, find outside competition underselling them.

The system is to be tried out and Roosevelt has almost four years to make good if he can.

GADGETS

He is a fortunate man who manages to find a new contrivance which becomes so popular that it is incorporated in modern industry as in the motorcar before the need of such an invention is passed. There is no doubt that many devices never see the light of day because they are pigeonholed. Before they are given a chance to develop into an industry their values have lost as they are superseded.

In the realm of new things there was the miniature golf course in which many owners lost money. Somehow it came at the wrong time and was fleeting in its popularity. It is the type of many schemes which "do not take."

Now a gadget which was taking hold of some people was the frame for the motor licence. Now a different one and many people wanted their cars to look just a little different, though the frame did not increase the value or even the appearance of the motorcar in any way. The neat little frame, so innocent looking, is an offender, says the Highway Department, it tends to obscure the figures on the plate and like other offenders must be put away.

O, for a season of popularity for one of these little devices which will attract a huge sale and make a man rich, the inventors of manufacturing might cry.

HIS PICTURE

This is the picture I would paint,
Neither-a-worlding nor a saint,
Not one of those who are labeled "quee"
Because he was always sincere,
A fetish, this, with him from youth,
To tell no more nor less than truth.

He wore no hint of sprouting wings,
Yet he was kind to weaker things:
The old, the feeble and the child
And all earth's little creatures wild.
The tiny things with silken fur
Of fragile, painted wings astir.

A man whom all the change and chance,
The whirling wheel of circumstance,
Could not make coward with fright
Could never stir if he were right.
This is his picture I would paint,
Neither a worlding nor a saint.

"RUGGED BIRDS" was the title of an address given before Belleville Rotary Club on Monday by Rev. R. R. Nicholson, of Tweed. The ceaseless war between man and destructive insect life was depicted by the speaker, who showed what benefit birds are in destroying the insects which otherwise would multiply so fast as to threaten the existence of vegetation itself. Monday press despatches brought word of great damage being done by invading armies of termites (ants), in the United States. Such insects are destroying everything edible in their path and much that would hardly be counted edible. Even books and shoes have been eaten, blocks of wood in the path in which they have done every where. Pictures were shown in this G. F.J. showing the damage the termites did to a pair of shoes which were left in a cellar. CORDOVA MINES are being pumped out and indications are that operations will be resumed at once. It is said to be determined after extensive drilling and assays of the result of test holes, says the Marmora Herald, which seem indications of a healthy revival of interest in the mines and minerals of Hastings County.

This was to be expected following the general revival of public interest in mining stocks and the rise in the price of silver and prospective legislation by the leading nations of the world which will appreciate the value of silver as a recognized money unit. Possibility of a world control of copper production and other commercially used metals has also had a good effect and the attention to the metals with a healthy reaction upon active operations in all mining areas. Cordova mine has not been worked for some years and a force of forty-five men are employed now repairing the buildings and operating the pumping machinery. Already much of the mine has been dewatered and the work is progressing very satisfactorily.

BELLEVILLIANS WHO WATCHED part of the Italian armada of the air flying over this city Saturday at 12.30, were able, thanks to modern science, to hear the roar of the motors of the same airships as they triumphantly swooped over Chicago, their immediate destination, shortly after five o'clock the same afternoon (E.S.T.), the first three planes of the armada, or the first triad as General Balbo calls the sections, making successful landing on the water of Chicago harbor at six o'clock, our time. There are still thrills for the most bored of sophisticates in this wonderful age of scientific progress.

A little man was ushered into the witness box. After the usual preliminaries, the magistrate told him to tell the court what happened.

The man began a rambling narrative, and finally ended up with:

"And then my wife hit me on the head with an oak leaf."

"Well, that couldn't have hurt you, surely," said the magistrate.

"Oh, couldn't it!" replied the little man, with feeling. "It was the oak leaf from the centre of the dining room table."

HEADS WHICH ARE SMALL OR ARE LARGE

Nothing Can be Done For Abnormality of Conditions

Belleville Authority on Health and Embalmer.

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The normal average circumference of the head at birth is 13½ inches, Boy babies have slightly larger heads than girls. At the age of one the head does not grow very much as compared to the body in general.

In a condition, known as Hydrocephalus, however, the head circumferences grows to as much as 30 to 35 inches. In an opposite disorder, called Microcephalus, the infant's and even the adults head, is less than normal by several inches.

Hydrocephalus is also known as "water on the brain." Nor is this designation fanciful. Cebro-spinal fluid sometimes increases between the membranes and cavities of the brain proper until the brain mass is a soggy consistency. The result of this abnormal increase of fluid is naturally related development of brain cells, and the result is a state of feeble-mindedness.

It does not follow, however, that the larger the head the greater the degree of mental defect. Although the pressure from fluid increases the head, the great increase in cases where the mentality is not marked, or affected, although there are exceptional. A few cases have been recorded where no appreciable intelligence defect existed at all. To be sure, the head was not unusually large in these instances.

Although the head tends to grow larger and larger in this condition, plus cases as the infant grows older, spontaneous arrest of the head increase can often be hoped for. The fontanel, which is the soft spot found in all hydrocephalics do not close by the end of the second year as they normally do. Sometimes they close.

Due to pressure on the structures involved eyesight and hearing are usually poor. In severe cases this defect may result. Convulsions are sometimes present. Occasionally idiocy or complete paralysis of the legs is to be found.

Microcephalics often present a curious appearance after reaching adulthood inasmuch as the structure of the body may be average, from five to six feet, while the head remains so very small. For this reason these individuals are frequently to be found billed as "freaks" in the side-shows of circuses.

In microcephalics, this may be an idiocy, and imbecility or a moron. Most cases are, however, of middle grade, namely of the imbecile class.

Since in hydrocephalic cases the fontanel is close later than normal, in microcephalics the closure of both interior and posterior fontanelle occurs prematurely.

Mothers often are afraid to touch these fontanels for fear of pressure under the skin. Gentle pressure, however, will not cause injury. Should they close before the end of the first year, or remain open beyond the end of the second, a specialist in nerve disease should be consulted.

In disposition hydrocephalics are usually good, affectionate and quiet. Microcephalics likewise are good-natured. Especially are they affectionate and always have they a faculty for mimicry. They are amusing because of their aptness at "making faces" or imitating some form of behavior that is familiar to them.

Unfortunately, nothing can be done for the correction of these abnormal conditions. Institution care is usually indicated.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

Persons who suffer from poor teeth, a tendency to acidity and gas after eating, should help themselves whether they are not perhaps, eating too much bread. To vary the diet with rye bread. Well toasted and pumpernickel will be found desirable, as they are more nourishing and more filling. And what applies to bread also is true of other white flour products such as rolls, biscuits, etc.

NOT ADVERSE TO ACCEPTING A TOW

New York Girl on Solo Voyage from N.Y. to Chicago

Peterboro, Ont., July 19 (CP)—On a solo voyage by canoe from New York City to the Chicago World Fair, Miss Olivia Ortmayer brought her small craft through here yesterday. The course she is following brings her up the Trent waterway system to the long water route. She hopes to reach the Windy City some time during the last week in August.

Miss Ortmayer's 17 foot canvas covered canoe is equipped with an outboard motor and provisions for camping out en route. She is not making the trip as a "stunt" she claims and is not adverse to accepting a tow when she can get one.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking and thinking last night and I shud think he ought to look in her sewing beakh, saying. There's a whole pile of your socks that need darning. they've been creeping up on me like the tides and I'm at the end of my way to keep them from accumulating and I'm going to put a stop complete end to them by getting them darned at the factory.

A corporation lawyer couldn't of thawt that out any cleerer, good and any Jeriker-more an going to darn every last one of them here and now this evening, before you start asking me for any more socks.

And I'm going to sit here and you can sit with them and sing encouraging glances, pop said. And as the socks diminish my spirits will rise and you can even sing you gay little snatches of song to lighten the labor and the smile from my special 20 cent cigar will be reflected in the smiling face like blue incense mounting to the throne of bliss to patient wifely devotion, he said.

That's a very sweet thawt, Willum, I said, and I'm sure how glad I am you mentioned incense, ma always burns it in the house and it is the last nite of Lovey Darling's piano picture, Pyramid Interview, and I wouldn't miss it for weirds and it's just around at the Harcourt and I want you to take me and I wont take no for an answer, she said.

Then I'll save mental wear and tear by reluctantly steering Yes, but by golles that's the last flowing darning I'll ever make on an unflowery subjeck, and from now on my motto is going to be, silence is golden and non-committal understatement, pop said.

Then I was quick to get the Narcissus with ma still feeling against it, him and pop around at the Harcourt and Lovey Darling's pictures verse than ever.

RATTLESNAKE CALLED FRIEND OF FARMER

Poisonous But Without Record of Ever Biting Human Being

Ontario rattlesnakes of the same species as that killed on a farm of West Huntingdon this week, have yet to account for a fatality according to Mr. R. B. S. Logier of the zoology department of the Royal Ontario Museum.

"Certainly they are poisonous," declared Mr. Logier when questioned. "But, their fangs are small, and I have never heard of a single case where an Ontario rattlesnake has bitten anyone."

According to Mr. Logier the Ontario rattlesnake (massasauga) was once found all over the province but is now most common in the Bruce peninsula.

"We are asking people not to kill our Ontario rattlesnake," stated Mr. Logier. "They are the farmers' best friend, killing daily a tremendous number of field mice, grasshoppers and other crop destroyers."

MAJOR GLADSTONE MURRAY

By HUGO SPECK

Central Press Canadian Writer

London, July 19.—When it comes to radio broadcasting, the United States has it all over the British.

Such is the admission of Major Gladstone Murray, the British Broadcasting Company director of overseas relations, who has just returned from a visit to Canada and the U.S.A. to study broadcasting.

"Where I think we can profit from the American methods is to get rid of their cheerfulness and snap into our broadcasts.

"I have a number of suggestions to make to the authorities which I may mean more pep in our programs.

"Perhaps the Americans rather overdo snappiness. Their items are of 15 to 30 minutes long, seldom longer, and the constant changing around may be inclined to be wearying to English people.

"But their cheerfulness and spirit of co-operation are what we should do well to emulate them to some extent in that direction."

Besides picking up pointers, Major Murray made arrangements for exchanges of programs between the two countries while in the U.S.A. He said:

"I was able to make a new working arrangement between the American and Canadians for an exchange of programs. I believe there will be a development in the near future for the extended exchange between the North American continent and ourselves.

"Over there they are tremendously keen about our National events, such as the trooping of the Colour and the Cenotaph ceremony, and any piece of pageantry which can be described over the radio.

"I heard the Derby broadcast in New York, and the Americans were as excited about it as I was. I think English listeners would appreciate, say, a good Kentucky program. They are like that over there.

"I am certainly in favor of the exchange of programs for I believe, more international good will can be developed in this way than by all the calculated propaganda in the world."

Win One in Season

The R.C.A.P. softball team finished their last game of the season in the Trenton Softball League last evening and were defeated by the C. P. R. 16-7. The Airmen have taken only one game of their twelve, but have always been on hand and went down fighting. Their good sportsmanship has been duly shown by their many supporters on the sidelines.

In the game last night many error by the Airmen caused their defeat, combined with Pafford's steady hurling. "Larry" Wray made some costly errors but his long hit and triple made him the heavy hitter of the evening. J. Webb, substituted backstop also connected for a circuit clout. Frank Bowler hammered into the box for two bases on the right field ground rule. Both teams were short many of their regular players. Jessie Bowler was back in the C.P.R. box, pitching his best this season.

The line-up:

C.P.R.—Bohan, Bernard, Johnson, Ridd, Foley, F. Bowler, Wess, E. Bowler, O'Dell.

R.C.A.F.—Gibbs, Celifit, Fellows, Gould, Wray, Marriah, Devins, Mc-Kee, Roth, Pafford.

Score by innings:

C.P.R.	. . . . .	3	1	8	0	1	3	—	16
R.C.A.F.	. . . . .	1	0	0	0	0	6	—	7

Hits, C.P.R. 15; R.C.A.F. 10; Errors, C.P.R. 3; R.C.A.F. 10. Struck out by Pafford 8, by Bowler 5. Walks, off Pafford 6; off Bowler 2. Batteries, Lewis at plate; Chambers, base.

JUMPS FROM MILK WAGON TO STAGE AND MADE GOOD

A girl who has achieved success entirely through her own unaided efforts and courage is Ethel Barrymore who plays a leading part in "Rasputin My Uncle", the British Internationa's al picture directed by Lupino Lane. A "rill-of-all-trades", Illinois born, had more experience of the world, its jobs, its troubles and joys, than any other girl of her age.

Brought up near Sevenoaks, Kent, she worked as a farm hand from childhood, hoeing "turnasia," harvesting, milking cows, chumming—in other romantic but not so savoury jobs. A particular gift for handling horses caused her promotion to the milk float which she drove on delivery rounds. She was inspired with a passion to become a "star", but the transference of her destiny to Longdon led to the abandonment of the idea. On arrival in the city Binnie got employment with a big dairy farm in North London, and owing to the male shortage in war-time, the able youngster was given control of a milk-round. Evelyn Laye, Hughney and Hampstead, ye little know who brought your milk home in the early days.

A passion for midwifery next selled Binnie from the hemiplegic person and she entered the Great Northern Hospital as a probationer. Six months of floor-scrubbing cured her and she gave up nursing to embark on the stage.

Seeing an advertisement for dancers, Binnie practised her one terpsichorean accomplishment — a high kick. Stiffened by practise, she applied for a job and secured the brilliant kick with the one leg she could move and was engaged by Fred Karno Troupe in Berlin. On her arrival, it was of course discovered that she could not dance at all and she was transferred to the chorus.

On her return to London, she got an engagement as ballroom dancer and was there spotted by Hy Mayer, the known variety star, Tex McLeod, the impresario, and she became his stage partner. She practised singing and lariat spinning until she could swing a rope and cast with the lasso like any cowboy.

Her ascendancy from up the stage ladder were made as cabaret entertainer at the Trocky where she was discovered by Andre Charlot and put under a two years' contract in a Charlot Revue. Her part in "The Silver Taste" under C. B. Cochran's management and marriage with the leading part in "Little Tommy Tucker."

Tall, dark and handsome, with flashing eyes and a slim figure, Binnie is an attractive personality. After making preliminary film appearances in short features, she was chosen to play opposite Stanley Lupino in "That's My Uncle."

The Why.

We have devoted this column to Binnie Barnes rather than to "That's My Uncle" because we do not wish to spoil the treat in store by revealing anything of this magnificently funny follow-up opening today at the Capitol Theatre.

The Fight.

At all performances today until Sunday the full picture of the fight March declares them the best yet of the Canadian-Germany fight will be included in the program at the Capitol.

These pictures were only secured by the management at a great expense, and it is hoped the appreciation of Belleville will be materially shown by the splendid attendance being enjoyed by the downtown theatre despite outdoor attractions.

WATER HEMLOCK IN FULL BLOOM NOW

Farmers Warned of Poisonous Plant Growing Near Swamps

In a letter issued by A. H. Martin of the Crops and Markets Branch Parliament Buildings, Toronto, director in charge of the administration of the Ontario Weed Control Act, to the weed inspectors of Ontario, a warning is thrown out to be on the lookout this year for a dangerous perennial plant known as the Water Hemlock, sometimes called Spotted Cowbane, Musquash and Beaver Poison.

This plant, usually found near pools on swampy land and in waterways, is now in full bloom. The plant looks like caraway, sides bush and wild carrot. It grows from three to six feet in height, and has little roots that look like small Winter radish.

The roots, which seem attractive to stock, contain a poison called cicutoxin. Any considerable part of this plant should not be fed to livestock.

A whole family was poisoned in the province of Quebec last year when children ate it and 10 died within 10 minutes of each other in Western Canada last year. Cattle were with their father seeding and wandered away to a pool where they were attracted by the tempting odor of the roots of Water Hemlock. A boy died in Guelph the year and one Waterloo County farmer lost five valuable cattle from eating the roots early this spring.

ANNOUNCES DECISION

LONDON, July 19.—(CP Cable) The Army Council announced an increase in the rates of pay for officers territorials enlisting after October 1st. They will be liable in future only to serve either with regular or territorial units.

This has the effect of withdrawing the pledge hitherto given to territorial recruits that in the event of war they would serve overseas only with their own units.

PULITZER PRIZE PLAY AND IRENE DUNN COMING TO BELLE

The Kansas City Star, in reviewing Sidney Howard's Pulitzer prize winning play, "The Silver Cord" coming to the Belle Theatre (Thursday) and Friday, matinee daily, speaks of this outstanding picture in the following glowing terms:

Christina Phelps ... Irene Dunne
David Phelps ... ... Joel McCrea
Robert Phelps ... ... Eric Linden
Mrs. Phelps ... Laura Hope Crews
Hester ... Helen Chandler
Delia ... ... Helen Cromwell

Here is a great play brought to the screen with great sincerity and power.

If one were able to state what constituted a great play in a single sentence the answer might be "A great play is one that helps people solve some lasting human problem."

"The Silver Chord" does that. It throws a glaring, sometimes pitiless light upon the weaknesses of mothers and mothers-in-law. It is a modern play, modern in every sense, yet it has been put into the proportions or mem started succeeding each other and it will be true as long as marriage remains a human institution.

But the stage Laura Hope Crews scored a notable success in this vehicle. Miss Hope Crews gave her climax in obtaining this actress, who has made a microscopic study of the character, and who is the self-centered mother to play that role in the theatre.

"The Silver Cord" is a woman's picture. Its brightest figure is a mother. Its villainess is a mother-in-law. It is a daring picture in that it dares indict the most admirable dazzling shrine of motherhood Western Civil ation has erected and prove that it is sometimes a shrine of selfishness. Some mothers may resent it, but many wives will undoubtedly feel sympathetic. Many sons, after witnessing its high drama, will look upon their mothers with new eyes and with them with sadder, more sensible eyes.

The narrative is that of a Mrs. Phelps, who has made the love of her sons a selfish religion. She knows willingly to sacrifice for them, perhaps more than they want her to. She has exacted from her debt without apprising them of the indebtedness. She has bound their love and their control. Nothing is too good for them. Her wealth has been lavished for years upon them. She will give them everything they want except the most important thing in life, the right to live normal, emotional lives; the right to make their own decisi love for women of their own ages and to marry them.

Any woman in which one of the sons shows an interest is looked upon by the mother as a rival. In a thousand insidious ways she makes this rivalry unbearable.

Although her attitude constantly is that of "your dear old mother who has given up all for you," she really warps the characters of her children. Deprived of a normal emotional outlet, one does not wonder that young Robert falls into his habit of drinking with men. Obliged to wiggle out of every difficulty, one wonders that his heart leads him, it is not surprising that he develops at the height of his career.

The other son, David, away from his mother's grasp, does not have every qualification for the ideal wife. Intelligent, sympathetic and loving, he is allowed to encourage him to self-reliance and a career. She is prepared to free her husband's mother, but she soon finds there is no loving this woman.

Insanely jealous, the mother seeks to alienate her son from his wife with one petty device after another. She cannot bear the thought that he should escape the same room. In order to dominate him she seeks to wean him from the career on which he has laid a giglo life of dependence on her bounty.

Usually the mother has her way through her ability to wear down the nervous system of her antagonist. She drives Robert's fiancee, Hester, to the verge of suicide. The two sons capitulate before her tremendous emotionalism. It remains for David's wife, Christina, to do battle her coolly and logically. It is Christina who analyzes the mother character before the family, describing to the mother, with relentless accuracy, the character she has become.

Christina refuses to live in such an atmosphere. She takes Robert's hapless sweetheart, Hester, and goes away with her. Robert and make their own decisions. David remains behind with his wife and goes to her. Robert remains at home, forever throttled by his mother's nervous strength.

Of course the picture painted by "The Silver Cord" is not that of the average mother, for which we all can thank heaven. But in every family there is a poignant crisis when a woman must hand the destiny of her child over to the keeping of his selection. Various women may, and do, react in various ways and in their meeting it there is an eternity of tragedy, nobility and pathos.

The cast of "The Silver Cord" could not be improved upon. Miss Crews portrays Mrs. Phelps with all the subtleties that are acquired by the actress after she has lived a part through many performances. Irene Dunne exhibits unusual temperamental and heroic as the wife who fights for a healthy family life. Joel McCrea reminds the scouts as one in this role as she did in "Cimarron." Helen Chandler and Eric Linden are also splendid in the work she does as the unfortunate Hester, and Joel McCrea and Eric Linden act the part of the sons with fine understanding.

Beauty . . . .

Walking Toward The Beauty Goal

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

"More onions! More potatoes! More onions! More everything!" laughed the Jolly Cook at the luncheon party. "I clipped off five pens miles before I came here and I'm as hungry as a wolf. Why don't some of you loafers try it? All I thought about every step was how gorgeous life is. Every fiber in me was cutting up and laughing."

"I should think they would laugh," scoffed the Heavyweight. "You must have strong feet and a strong will. I'd be bored to ragged-ness."

"I do it to keep from being bored. Stick around the house all the time a person gets very set for but mil-dew-ed, brain all gone and feathers blowing the wrong way. I'm a home gal until the housework is done and then I'm a tramp."

What do you do with your leisure hours, Miss Beauty Student? There is no more profitable way of investing them than getting out of doors each day, stretching your muscles, slugging fresh air into your lungs. Outdoor life is essential to health, like food and sleep. Lack of it leads to depression. It is the one glorious remedy for a nervous person that is on a rampage, giving its victim not a moment's rest. Exercise has cosmetic values; it touches the cheek and lips with color, makes the countenance more vivid and beautiful.

Sauntering isn't much good though it is better than no exercise at all since it forces the respiratory action to do double time, which is something—gives the lungs an air cleaning surprise. Walk at an orthodox pace and the respiratory action is four times more active than when you have your nose in the detective story and your feet propped up over the davenport.

When you speed up to five miles an hour which you won't do unless you are an enthusiastic Mrs. Walker you are making work many muscles and fibers that ordinarily soldier on the job.

Even the skin is stimulated. It becomes warm and glowing, and looks a condition that is helpful toward a state of well being. Exercise is highly recommended for young people who suffer from acne because it makes the skin function better pores are lined with their own walking posture.

The slow walker suffers more fatigue than the brisk pacer for the reason that waste products in the blood are not carried away fast enough. It is like a prolonged period of standing which is tiring.

No need of keeping at a gallop; when fatigue appears, take a five minute rest.

Women and girls who have had no interest in exercise must go at the business slowly, increase the walking distance gradually.

Be mindful of posture, the right attitude makes walking easier and more pleasurable. Chest high, head erect, tummy in—same old formula I've handed you so many times.

How Could Any Man Love a Crepe Hanger?

(By Beatrice Fairfax)

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Now that it's all over, I know that it was true. It was giving way to being downhearted and worrying—having a good time being miserable.

I inherited this vice from my family. They're all crepe-hangers who worry over everything—losing jobs, health, savings, home, death of relatives.

When my second engagement was broken, I went to the man's mother and asked why her son had got tired of me. She said: "My dear, you were such a gloomster and crepe-hanger that Nick couldn't face life with you."

Then I saw it all, when it was too late. I had taken the family weakness of enjoying our miseries. I'm sure now, but I'm glad there's no further happiness in store for me.

Mattie

The above is the gist of a correspondent's letter too long to print in full. But when Mattie writes me she's doubtful about her future. I'm afraid she doesn't realize the cause of unhappiness even yet.

And at the risk of posing as a Pollyanna—a heroine I've never had any patience with—I must call to mind certain glaring truths.

Happiness is a state of mind, rather than a handout from the gods. You can make a business of being happy and radiate cheer like an open fire in winter, if you can only persuade yourself to forego the luxury of being wretched. That's a form of self-indulgence, like being sorry for yourself or blaming your misfortunes on the other fellow.

The favorite indoor sport of whole families is being thoroughly wretched—and be-moaning this and that by-gone; imagining the luck and joy that would have overtaken them if only they'd done thus and so.

And while they're holding wakes over dead and gone opportunities, fresh chances knock at the door, only to find nobody home.

Evidently Mattie's family belong to this class; they enjoy holding post-mortems over what has been, and fear-fests over what might be. And Mattie, absorbing their worries and miseries, tried to pass them on to Nick, who would have no more of it.

Good cheer is to be pursued at the fashion shops of nullility, just as misery must be dodged.

But to return to Mattie, and all the gloomsters who own their lovers and husbands because they are convinced they're unlucky and why don't they try to learn the art of successfully baking lucky pies on the chin; squeezing a laugh out of situations over which a "gloomster" would shed a bucket of tears?

Don't make a bad situation worse by dwelling on it, and don't try to hand it on to someone else.

Mattie might try to see her exfiance and tell him that incidentally, she'd turn over a new leaf.

Business is fundamentally better because of a fundamental improvement in fundamental conditions—Roger W. Babson.

The average young man is better off for desks in college than he would be elsewhere. — William Lyon Phelps.

Weddings

FRISE—McCLUNG

An interesting wedding took place on Saturday at 4.30 o'clock at the home of Mr. David McClung, Caledonia, when his youngest daughter, Audrey Ina, was united in marriage to Mr. Robert Alan Frise, of Brighton. The wedding ceremony was solemnized by Rev. C. O. Parr, M.A., of Cayuga, and the witnesses were Mr. Roger D. Frise of Brighton, brother of the groom, and Miss Jessie Dunlop, of Toronto.

The bride was gowned in a powder blue ensemble with matching hat and grey accessories. After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served to fifteen guests, some of whom were: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Magel of Cayuga; the Misses Margaret and Myrtle Parker, of Port Rowan and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hutchinson, Miss Marion Hutchinson of Simcoe.

The bride and groom left on a short honeymoon to the summer resorts at Brighton Beach, Lake Ontario, and on their return will reside at Belleville, where Mr. Frise is a member of the staff of the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School.

SOO—COOPER

The marriage took place quietly on Tuesday, July the 18th at three o'clock p.m. at 272 George Street, Belleville, by the Rev. C. S. Mc-Mullen of Dundas Street United Church, of Mr. Wm. Soo, of Coleman, street, Belleville, to Miss Mary Elizabeth Cooper of 122 South John street, Belleville.

Correct Manners

(By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman)
(Copyright, 1933 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WRONG INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Will you please give me your own idea as to the wording of wedding invitations under the present circumstances:

The young lady who is to be married does not live with her oldest brother, and she has no mother or father.

She lives with her married sister and she has an older brother who is not married—and those three live together. What is the right way to word the invitation? Here is our idea:

Mr. Albert Brown and Miss Bertha Brown
request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their sister Mary

Is it necessary to have two names, or should just one person sponsor the invitation?

2. We are planning to invite just the family to the breakfast after the ceremony. Is it necessary to have two different kinds of invitations—one for the church ceremony and one for inside the breakfast after or is just one kind enough?

Jim

1. I'd like best the plan of having the bride's oldest brother issue the invitations. If there isn't any reason against this you might do anything about this brother why not plan to do this? I think that it would be particularly appropriate since his sisters live together, and it would give the wording and the invitations a "family background."

If the brother is married, the invitations would be issued in the name of his wife and himself. Like this:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alan Brown request the honour of your presence at the marriage of their sister Mary Jane
to etc.

(The fact that the bride-to-be does not live with her brother and his wife does not make any difference.

If the brother is not married, the invitations could quite well be issued in his name only:

Mr. Henry Alan Brown request the honour of your presence at the marriage of his sister
Mary Jane

2. If only the members of the families are to be invited to the wedding breakfast it is not necessary or appropriate to have two invitations. The breakfast guests could be invited by word of mouth, or by telephone or by a note.

AN INAPPROPRIATE GIFT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please inform me whether it is appropriate or necessary for a secretary to give a gift to her employer when she is about to be married? If so, what is an appropriate gift?

The secretary has been connected with the concern for about five years.

E.

It certainly isn't a bit "necessary" and to my taste it isn't a bit appropriate for a secretary to give a wedding present to the bride-to-be of her employer. If the gift is given, it must, you know, be sent to the bride-to-be, at her home; and this is true whether or not you know her.

You seem not very enthusiastic about sending the gift and so, if I were you, I wouldn't send it.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on Good Manners submitted by readers.)

This might be just the ideal time to stop a war, for nobody has anything to fight one with.—Will Rogers.

MARY PRESENTS HER NIECE

Gwynne Pickford, 17-year-old niece of Mary Pickford and ward of Mary's late mother, has grown up. Emerging from the shelter of "Pickfair" where she has lived in considerable seclusion, she sailed on the liner Lurline for a month's trip to Hawaii. Gwynne (LEFT), is shown with Mary just before the ship sailed.

Joyous Childhood Spends Glorious Hours at Play

Hundreds of Youngsters Glad in Summer Freedom in Playgrounds Gain Strength, Instruction And Discipline

Joyous, care-free, bubbling childhood whooping away the golden hours of sunshine and daylight in regulated play through the generosity of a city aware to the responsibility it owes its juvenile residents.

Three hundred and more children a day, of all ages and sizes, gather to ed off traffic-crowded streets and liberated in two large municipal playgrounds replete with all manner of tempting devices made to keep them amused and active.

Supervisors constantly in attendance to warn of danger, to guard against accident, and to minister first aid to the minor cuts and bruises so necessary a part of play.

In the West Belleville playgrounds the creak of swings and the shuffle of tiny feet on the toboggan slides, mingles with the happy, joyous shouts of care-free youth. Class rooms, books left behind them, forgotten for the joys of play by weeks of play that stretch ahead.

Here a group of very small children gathered around the "Ocean Wave." In a steady tilt they climb the tall ladder, zeal themselves on the slippery slide and scream lustily as they whizz down the long incline to the ground below. Supervisors of the playgrounds look on the dangerous-like slide with little fear. "It's one of the most dangerous amusements we have in the park," declared one of them.

"But, naturally enough, it is the one in greatest demand. They become closely near the slide to guard young and old alike against the danger of tripping on the tall ladder leading to the top of the device, and to give assistance at sudden bumps at the bottom.

Here a golden-haired little girl scrapes her knee on the ground as she lands from the slide. A supervisor takes her by the hand and leads her to the first aid kit where the cut is attended. Back again at play as if nothing had happened.

New amusements have been added to the West Belleville playgrounds this year. At one end of the grounds a large merry-go-round on a tall pole circles continuously with its happy freight of noisy youngsters who spend the device up as fast as they may. Several swings in a row, each describes its arc to and fro as the occupants attempt to raid their own particular swing higher than its companion. Miss Florence Supervisor of the West Belleville playgrounds points a warning as the swings mount higher and higher. Reluctantly the youthful high fliers slow their speed to a safer limit. In one corner a smaller group of children wrestle with a large playball. Others use the smaller slides to the accompaniment of whoops of glee. Tiny toddlers with sand pails and small shovels build sand castles which they populate with all manner of fairy creatures. Their fingers are less trouble than all the rest of the children put together," declare the supervisors, pointing at the kindergarten class, who nevertheless are as much joy out of the day in their larger and more active companions.

On the East Belleville playgrounds the same buzz and hum of activity and joyous play prevails with ringing shouts play goes steadily on in the shady grove which has been set aside by a wise city as an official playground. Here and there a motherly lady father may be seen sitting reading or doing fancy work while the children romp beneath the cooling wind and limb. Wednesday is the biggest day of all according to numbers, but every day at the playgrounds sees an average of well over one hundred or more children enter the grounds for the day.

Books and classrooms forgotten as young Belleville turns out to play, strenuously, happily and vigorously, under the watchful eyes of appointed supervisors.

Out of the Beauty Box

(By Helen Follett)

What matters how much the frilly frock costs, how beautifully it smocks, how well over the smile shape, if its wearer slumps in her chair, walks with shoulders drooping, stands awkwardly? Not much.

You guess now that we're back to that old subject, good posture, harping once more on the old string. Quite so. The modern girl does not carry herself gracefully; her mamma even her grandma makes a better job of it. Years ago there was interest in physical culture and, without question, the straight front corset inspired a woman to keep her chest lifted tummy flat, hips held toward the back where they belong.

Posture is necessary for health as well as good looks. The erect pose strengthens the muscles of abdomen, back and chest imparts an appearance of health and vitality. Worth pondering about.

Snow white tresses should be shampooed with only the blandest soap, and every bit should be rinsed away thoroughly with the aid of a hair spray and a strong current of water.

If silvery locks are inclined to take on a yellow cast, substitute whites of eggs for soap. Half a dozen are necessary if the hatch is heavy. Don't beat the egg whites. Give them a light whipping with a fork add a tablespoon of cold water. Beauty shops sell special preparations that contain mild bleaching properties designed to give white hair a lovely frost-like glitter.

Good looks will power, resistance and disposition all depend upon health to a certain extent. Every girls don't care to be told about health and hygiene but they'd rather be concerned with factory blushes and the elegant coiffure. But in imparting to you a sense of well being, to look at tip top best, unless the body is perfectly fed, properly exercised, gets sufficient sleep.

Fashion Flashes

WE ARE MIXING fabrics and colors cleverly this season. For instance, a charming little evening frock in white and red polka dotted organdie is worn with a brief jacket in deep blue taffeta.

A NEAT NOTE is the dress of grey or navy chiffon with white polka dots of white. An especially attractive model in this combination has red tassels lacing the white pique collar at the neckline and large red buttons trimming the short sleeves which have wide points at the shoulder line.

BE CRISP by wearing a taffeta suit. One very fashionable leader wears a daytime suit of navy taffeta; the jacket ... waistline length and double breasted, with blue enamel and rhinestone buttons. The shoulders are very wide and the neckline rounded by white mousseline de soie ruffles.

A NICE CONTRAST can be obtained by wearing a simple skirt and elaborate blouse. A tunic suit of dull black satin has a perfectly simple line straight and slim, with a short slit on either side. The white mousseline de soie blouse has a mass of tiny frills and ruffles, that ripple over the shoulders, edge the short sleeves and form a little peplum.

EASY GOING frocks this look well for any occasion during the day are always liked. Such a frock is done in pale blue sheer crepe. It is a wide, neat, self girdle that gives a high waistline, and a modified dolman treatment for shoulders and sleeves. The square neckline is marked by a mass of pink chiffon flowers.

Light Luxury is demonstrated effectively by a frock of luxurious gauzy lame done in a light, airy style. The lame is of gold and black in a plaid crossbar pattern. The shoulders have wide net ruffles also in black and gold.

There is no royal road to lower taxes. The only way to really lower taxes is to spend less money.—Albert C. Ritchie.

Profit Taking Breezes Tends to Cool Recently Heated Arder of Most Markets—Distillery Issues Slumped From Three to 17 Points in Avalanche of Selling—Oil Stocks Last to Surrender to Sell off—Mining Board Weakens in Sympathy With New York

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, July 19—(CP)—Unloading of the distillery issues started a sever break in these and other recent favorites on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. At mid-afternoon a downward trend was in full flush with prices off as much from fractions to 20 points but the market steadied in the last half hour and quotations began to firm.

Walkers Common closed at 45 for a loss of 13 points. Industrial Alcohol closed at 22, down 13 from the day's best price. Distillers Seagram closed at 29 for a net loss of 16 points.

Base shares suffered almost as heavily. Canada Bud plumbing to 11 and recovering up 12 for a 2 point loss.

Influence of the bear drive in New York was felt by the interlisted group elsewhere. First of Canada dropped 2 points, Nickel about 2 fractions 3 points, Brazilian a half and C.P.R. a point.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, July 19—(AP)— A drastic sell-off in the alcohol stocks today shook the share market from its recently firm foundation. With "wet" equities such as American Commercial Alcohol, National Distillers, United States Industrial Alcohol, Owens Bott and Commercial Solvents off seven to around 25 points, other groups dropped sharply under heavy profit taking pressure. Issues down three to seven or more included Case, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, United Aircraft, Cerro De Pasco, United States Smelting, Alaska Juneau, United States Steel, American Telephone and Union Pacific. Transfers approximated 7,000,000 shares.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, July 19—Stocks and staples hesitated today as profit taking brokers tended to cool the recently heated ardor of most of the markets.

Sharp trading, especially recorded a jolt when leading distillery issues slumped from around 17 points on an avalanche of selling which apparently followed the old rule of realising "on the good news." Bonds continued to plod upward.

The heaviness of some of the Canadian stocks was attributed largely to realizing. Some Mines lost two points and McIntyre Porcupine sagged about 1¼. Canadian Pacific shares were fairly steady, but International Nickel sagged around ¾ of a cent. The Dominion Government bonds were a trifle easier. The Canadian dollar was slightly stronger at 96¾ cents.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto July 19 (CP)—The break on the industrial boards knocked the pins from under some of the Standard Mining Exchange leaders today and substantial losses were chalked up for Nickel, Noranda, Dome, McIntyre, Pioneer and Hollinger.

The market, however closed with a moderately firm tone.

Noranda and Nickel each took losses of $1.50 to $2.00, after showing gains of more than $1, in the first part of the session. Noranda closed at $35, off $1.60 and Nickel at 30.75.

In the senior golds Dome wilted from a morning top of $39.75 to close at $37 for a net loss of $2.00. Lake Shore lost ½ cents to $48.25. Hollinger about 25 cents, Pioneer 50 cents, Wright Hargreaves and Teck-Hughes about 30 cents each.

Eldorado continued its recession, closing about 75 cents down at $4.75.

Livestock

Toronto, July 19 (CP)—Trading on the Toronto Livestock market opened dull today with not enough sales recorded up to 11 o'clock to make a market. There were 800 head of cattle left over from Tuesday. Calves were slow, hogs unsettled, sheep and lambs steady.

Receipts as reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were, Cattle 830; calves 300; hogs 740; sheep and lambs 770.

The cattle market opened slow with a few choice calves selling at $3 to $3.50, no bids were received on commons.

Hogs were unsettled with packers bidding $4.10 f.o.b. for selects, $4.25 off truck and $4.50 off car.

Lambs were steady at $6.50 for good ewes and wethers, $6.50 for bucks and culls quoted at $5.00. Sheep remained unchanged at $2.00 to $2.50 per cwt. for good light ewes.

BOY BRISTERS SAVE COMPANION

Foxmill, Ont., July 19 (CP) Quick action on the part of Nelson Trudel, nine and his brother Herbert, 11, saved 5-year-old Douglas Casselman from drowning in the lake here.

Besides, with his brother Delvin and Gerald Trudel boys were fishing at a deep hole by the shore when Douglas accidentally fell into the water. As he came to the surface the second time Nelson rushed out into the water, dragging onto the shore line and pulled his companion to safety.

In the meantime Herbert went for assistance and help arrived shortly after Douglas had been rescued.

8-POUND BLACK BASS IS CAUGHT BY 16 YEAR LAD

Sturgeon Falls, Ont., July 19 (CP) —While fishing in North West Bay, Lake Nipissing, yesterday, Albert Lesage caught a black bass that tipped the scales at 8 pounds.

The catch was made near Lesage's home where the 16 year old lad is in camp. He was canoeing at the time but, after getting a strike on the line decided to take the boat to shore before he attempted to land the big fish.

LAST CALL FOR NEW DOG TAGS

Promptly by the slowness with which dog owners in the city have responded to the call to secure new tags for their animals for the year a systematic check-up of dog-owning residents is now being made by pound-keeper Thomas Thorne. Those harboring unlicensed dogs are being warned that new tags must be secured before their pets are impounded.

COOL BREEZES WITH A BRIGHT SUN

Cool breezes again on Wednesday held temperatures down low here despite the fact, that a blazing sun brought discomfort to residents out in the open. Wednesday's highest recorded temperature, at 82 above was just three points higher than the highest mark of Tuesday. Low on mark during the early morning was registered at 53 above, contrasting with a low of 61 on Tuesday. Swimmers in the Bay of Quinte found that in a water temperature of seventy-five.

YANKEES ARE NOW PERCHED ON TOP RUNG

Hang up Longest Winning Streak of Year to Displace Senators

LEADERS WIN

National League Standing Not Effected by Game Results

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr. Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York Yankees have regained the top of the American League standing very much in the manner of a team which is merely asserting its right as world champions.

By defeating Chicago White Sox yesterday, the Yanks stretched their winning streak to nine games, the longest in the major leagues so far. But in winning these nine, they have made a difficult task look easy. Far behind they started a little over a week ago, the Yanks have done everything just right, while they whittled down Washington's lead and finally stepped a game ahead of the Senators as yesterday's triumph coincided with Washington's 4-3 defeat at the hands of the St. Louis Browns.

The Senators made ten hits off George Blaeholder and Sam Gray—as many as they made in two previous games against the Browns, but a couple of errors in the first inning gave St. Louis a head start of three runs and Washington never succeeded in cutting it down.

Detroit Tigers backed Vic Sorrell's six-hit pitching with home runs and stepped a game closer to the first division with a 5-1 victory over Philadelphia Athletics. Circuit drives by John Stone and Ervin Fox produced the winning runs in the eighth. Homers also played an important part in the tense pitching duel between Monte Pearson and Lloyd Brown as Cleveland Indians scored their second victory over the fast-going Red Sox. Sinead Jolley hit one for the Sox and O'Neil Hale for the Indians, then Pearson scored the winning run himself in the eighth.

National League

The four first division clubs of the National League held their upward hand and the race remained unchanged. The first-place New York Giants rolled up their biggest score of the season in beating Cincinnati 14-1. Starting when Johnny Vergez walloped a homer with the bases full in the first inning, they piled up 19 hits.

Chicago's Cubs remained 3½ games behind as they bunched their blows effectively to beat the Boston Braves 4-1 in a struggle between Lon Warneke and Ben Cantwell in which each pitcher gave 9 hits. Pittsburgh Pirates, nicking Hollis Thurston for the last four of their 17 hits and three runs in the eighth inning defeated Brooklyn Dodgers 11-8 after spotting their rivals an 8-2 lead.

Chuck Klein's 18th. homer was one of the few effective blows the Phillies could get off Dizzy Dean and St. Louis Cardinals romped in with a 9-3 victory, pounding out Johnny Jackson to cover in six innings.

First to Hit 100

Chick Fullis

Chick Fullis, Philadelphia Nationals' slugger, looks happy—and no wonder. He is the first major league player to garner 100 hits this season though two of his teammates, Virgil Davis and Chuck Klein have had higher batting averages.

CURRENT SPORT

Knocks and Boosts

According to gross dispatches coming out of Toronto apparently the West Toronto League is about washed up and ready to sell it a day. President Richard (The Great) Mansell handed in his resignation at a special meeting stating that the various clubs had failed to cooperate and had also failed to meet their payments for ben trips. Vice-President A. J. (Sunny) Morgan-see, who also acts as umpire-in-chief in the loop is also stepping down from under the load.

Perhaps the above dispatches will mean that the future interlocking games between the C.O.B.L. and West Toronto loop season will be discontinued. When the West Toronto loop first opened its doors last season it was no secret, that the Oshawa club were literally carrying the other three clubs as far as finances were concerned. The "take" this season in the Mercer City seems to been "no bet" to date will the result that the Toronto clubs have been squawking to a fare-the-well of late. Perhaps the present situation will have a tendency to assure the return of the Oshawa "Dukes" to the C.O.B.L. in 1934. (Here's hoping!).

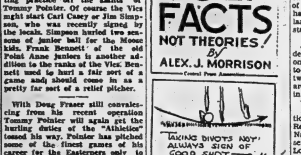
This afternoon the season's big intermediate game of this district is scheduled for Gibbard Memorial Park, Napanee when B. A. Fanning's local Victorias battle Ernie Gilyard's charges. Following last night's wetbout Coach Chauncy Grover stated that "Red" Wilkins, his stocky little right hander, would undoubtedly get the pitching assignment of the day. Coach Grove is not for using Ralph Dey or Earl Marsden if he can at all evade it as the Gibbards get most of their batting practice off the slants of Tommy Pointer. Of course the Vics might start Carl Casey or Jim Simpson, who was recently signed by the local. Simpson hurled two seasons of ball for the Belleville Intermediate Kids. Frank Bennett of the old Point Anne juniors is another addition to the ranks of the Vics. Bennett used to hurl a fine brand of game and should come in as a pretty fair sort of a relief pitcher.

With Doug Fraser still convalescing from his recent operation Tommy Pointer will again get the hurling duties of the Athletics' issued his way. Pointer has pitched some of the finest games of his career in the Easterners only to have his solar gardners let him down on his support. Pointer is general fall to collect enough run to win. The Napanee aggregation have been somewhat of a dismal failure thus far this season but may snap out of their present trance most any day now.

If the Victorias come down in front this afternoon they will have climbed back into first place in the Bay of Quinte loop, a tie with the now league leading Picton team. If Napanee win however, they will be but one full game behind Picton and but a half game behind the locals, so close is the league race.

Yesterday we intimated that there was a possibility of Napanee intesting last Saturday's win of the Picton club following a decision made by Umpire Craft. Since then; however, we have been assured by Ernie Gibbard that his club would not protest under the prevailing conditions. We have plenty of other discrepancies to present the league relating to the Picton Club" stated Mr. Gibbard.

Chris Holmes, the genial manager of the Capitol Theatre invited us down to witness the first showing of the Carnera-Sharkey fight picture today. We were sorry but can't call us to Napanee but, we expect to see those fight films before the week ends. Any time Les Marsh, of the Toronto Daily Star sends something along the lines of sport, Manager Lou and Chief Ed Bell are the best fight pictures he ever sees.



What a race the local Men's Senior softball loop is staging these days. Luckily the Delaney Bearcats did an early season jump on Griffs' and the South End clubs. The "South Enders" now lead the "Mr-chanics" one full game with the College Hill Cubs another game behind the Griffs.

The Belleville Nationals who by the way are in the wilderness so far as the C.O.B.L. play-offs are concerned, are idle until next Wednesday when they journey to Kingston. It's understood that the Millmanaged crew will use at least two pitchers for their remaining games of the season. "It's too bad they did not think of that idea some time ago."

Today's question:

With the score tieg and the bases loaded in the last half of the ninth inning, the batter is tossed a base on balls. Is he compelled to go to first base? Does the runner on third base have to touch home plate in order to score the winning run.

Batter must go to first base and the runner on third has to touch home plate in order to score the winning run.

ALEX MORRISON says:

I've had a great many players remark about how seldom I take a divot when playing an iron shot from the fairway.

The other day I asked one of the gallery why he happened to notice this and he told me that he had always understood a divot to indicate the proper contact between the clubface and the ball.

On the contrary, the opposite is generally true. The player who is always digging up the turf is trying to straighten out the doubtful position of his clubface as it lands on the ball.

A perfectly clean hit can be made without striking even a fraction of an inch below the level on which the bottom of the ball rests.

Give all your attention to the contact of your club with the ball and not with the ground and you'll hit better shots.

Next: Auto driving as golf aid.

I am sorry if I offend. No one can live according to someone else's idea or what is proper. — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

DON BRENNAM TOO GOOD FOR MAPLE LEAFS

Shut Out 11-0 Registered And Hurler Allows Only Four Hits

Toronto Loses Ground by Defeat to Rochester Redwings

(By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer)

Newark Bears and Rochester Redwings, holding the top positions in the International League race, have drawn a little further away from the rest of the field with a pair of shutout victories.

Newark maintained its three-game lead over the Redwings by beating Toronto Maple Leafs yesterday, 11-0, as Don Brennan pitched four-hit ball, while Rochester was turning back Jersey City, 1-0, behind steady five pitching by Ed. Chapman.

Brennan, making his second start for Newark since his release by the New York Yankees, returned to the form that gave him his victories in the International loop last year. He fanned nine men and Toronto never seriously threatened to score. Ralph Birkofer went the route for Toronto, although he gave seven bases on balls and was walloped for 12 hits. He was fairly effective however, until the ninth when the Bears put together seven hits and an error by Birkofer for the runs.

The only edge Chapman gained over Joe Cascella of Jersey City was a home run Art Shires drove over the right field fence in the second inning. Cascarella allowed only four other hits and himself collected two of the four safeties Chapman allowed. Rochester's victory enabled the Wings to widen their lead over third place Buffalo Bisons by three games.

Fourth place Baltimore also lost ground to the two leaders, the Orioles taking a terrific 12-4 beating from the Buffalo Bisons. Batting gleady pitching from John Wilson, recruited by battering Gerald Claset, Earl Mattingly and John Prehoanos for 16 hits, four going to Jack Smith. Julius Solters hit his 19th. homer for Baltimore in the eighth.

Montreal inaugurated night baseball before a crowd of 13,000 and eked out a 7-6 decision over Albany's Senators. Mike Kreevich's muff of a long fly would have been filled in the ninth enabled the Royals to win and draw to within two games of Baltimore. Lou Finney drove out a double and triple for the winners, while Pryor Thompson and Stanley Hack clouted homers to keep the Senators in the game.

50 YEARS OF PROVEN QUALITY

Spying on Sports

BY

William Ritt

Central Press Canadian

FOR THE FIFTH time in Davis cup history victory or defeat in the challenge round may depend this year—provided the United States meets the defending French team—on the outcome of the doubles match.

The doubles matches are not as exciting as the singles combats to the spectators and public. A battle of one man against another always has a higher element of drama. However, four times in Davis cup history possession of the highly prized crystal bowl hinged on the outcome of the tussle between the two best teams.

There is some doubt that William Tilden can come back the desperate French in his singles matches. Ellsworth Vines should win both his tests. Fred Perry is the shores after a six-year lapse appears to rest squarely upon the shoulders of the veteran George Lott and John Van Ryn.

THE FOUR YEARS in which the doubles match proved most important in Davis cup play were 1900, 1913, 1914, and 1931.

In 1900 the American star, Beals C. Wright licked that great duo Anthony Wilding and Norman Brookes in his singles tests. The famed Australasian pair got revenge by beating Fred Alexander in the other two singles tests. And then, in the doubles match Brookes and Wilding defeated Wright and Alexander in a terrific five-set struggle—and the big point remained "down under" for another year.

In 1913 the United States turned the tables, Maurice Mc Loughlin and Harold Hackett won a gruelling five-set doubles match and the Davis cup.

In 1914 Norman Brookes again took his two matches from the Americans only to have Bill Larned's Williams II lose his. Dishartened, the Americans lost the deciding matches and title to the trophy.

FOR SEVENTEEN years after that heartbreaking defeat of the Yankees, the cup fell to Reds by triumphed in the singles.

Came 1931 and one of the greatest surprises in tennis annals. A cocky American team, fairly confident of sweeping through preliminary matches which were to be crowned by a grand crushing of the French met a tartar in the British. England's two pet knights— Fred Perry and Bunny Austin —upset the high and mighty Americans and it was Great Britain and not the United States which met the French in the Roland Garros stadium.

Henri Cochet, French ace, was unbeatable, scoring two singles wins but Jean Borotra fell before Perry and Austin. However, Cochet combined with Jacques Brugnon to turn back the British doubles team—George Hughes and Charles Kingsley—and the Gallic sway over international tennis remained unshaken for another year.

x x x

THERE ARE those who believe Allison would have won over Jean Borotra last year and thus brought the Davis cup back across the Atlantic if he had not been forced to play his pair in the doubles matches, the day previous.

The United States won the doubles match but Allison's two singles defeats coupled with Vines one loss cost America the cup once more. Perhaps, the assumption that the doubles victory tired Allison so he lost his Borotra match is correct. However, without Allison in the doubles match last year, the United States might not have won that test.

It is also interesting that the United States meets England, and not Australia in the inter-zone final—because England's doubles team beat the Australian duo.

B.A.A.A. STILL HAVE CHANCE

Defeats Moose in Junior Tilt 5-4 at Alemite Grounds

Limiting the Moose juniors to four safe hits "Bud" Roseberry hurled in B.A.A.A. juniors to a 5 to 4 win over the "Lodge Lads" at the Alemite Field last evening thus keeping last years champions in the local junior race of the Hastings County loop. Hits were rather scarce throughout with Harris on the hillop for the Moose kids, allowing but six safe blows.

Three runs down in the last frame the Moose kids with defeat staring them in the face, staged a belated rally, that came within a single run of tying the count. The final out came when Jack Kidd was called out at the plate on a close play, he trying to score on Keller's single, after Bennett had crossed the plate.

Roseberry hurled consistent ball to win, when he made the Moose hitters continually pop the ball to the waiting outfielders. With a fast breaking curve he was a-Point a-Minute ace and his team mates in the running. Harris, on the other hand, was in rare form striking out seven to Roseberry's six.

Bartrage, Roseberry and Bennett all hit for three bases, while Kidd cracked out a double, also the last stang made by the Moose kids. Dimmie with three singles led the hitters of the day, however. The features of the game were supplied by the outfielders of both teams when they made sensational catches to pull their pitchers out of rather embarrassing positions at times. Four runners were thrown out at the plate trying to score, two by each team.

FRUIT TEAM IN FIRST PLACE

Finish Season With The Loss of Only One Game

In a rather one-sided game the Belleville Fruit lassies downed Harold Lloyd's Lloyd Manor Girls in Victoria Park diamond by the score of 25 to 6 last evening.

The game was a rather free hitting affair as far as the league leading Fruit team was concerned, singles, doubles, triples and home runs were plentiful.

Coach Barrett started his veteran hurler, Molly Gray on the mound here; ejected Vera Herr in the game on the hilltop to give as many players as possible a workout. A Halsey hurled the entire game for the lockican Lads.

The batting player of the winning team stood out as they all apparently inspired against their rather weaker adversaries. The win assures the Belleville Fruit team of first place in the local city loop with five wins and but a single loss during the schedule, which is finished as far as the champions are concerned. The Lads sing the song and place South End Club meet on Friday night.

The line-ups—

Belleville Fruit—Kelleher, Tuttle, Morgan, Thrasher, Smith, Bland; Scott; Rowbotham; Canning; Dey and Gray.

Maple Leafs—Mooderille; Martin; Young; Hacker; Halsey; Hamilton; Gray; Innings.

TIGER

Sterling North

By Russ Westover

Peter had purchased two very good revolvers and a quantity of ammunition. The one he chose for himself was a Colt automatic .45 very flat blue and nickled. He had purchased for Jerry a little pearl-handled .32 six-shooter with such an easy action that he was sure her little hand would manage it nicely.

"Not that we will ever have to use 'em," Peter said, "but just in case..."

Jerry felt herself getting more and more excited as they rode southward on the South Shore Expressway. She took a last look at the Midway as they shot by, and then it was all the tall bustle of Saturday shoppers and its screeching L.

Now they had passed the South Shore Country Club and were speeding on toward Jerry knew not what.

Pullman, with its great car works, the first of the steel mills scattered along the lake. Ugly, industrial, painted factories on marshy flats which were the final word in shacktation. Blue flicks like Fourth of July fireworks in a rusty glow of light. Chess boxes, smokestacks like black exclamation marks. Boxcmer converters shooting off their geysers of fireworks in a muddy glow of light.

And now they were so far out that Jerry did not know the towns they came by name. She had leaned through them on her way to the Dunes but she had been very carefully never to leave the train at any of these stops.

And so Peter became her guide.

She did not recognize the station at which they left the train and she never would have been able to find her way through the torturous streets which led between countless rows of company-owned houses down to the uninviting waterfront.

Here was depression that really was depression. Jerry did not realize that there could be so many thousand-and half-starved children. Hollow-eyed Mexican children, tired-eyed mothers, disconsolate men sitting on steps everywhere, talking, talking.

That's what it meant when the steel mills shut down or were only running a fraction of capacity. What could these people do? Where could they go? Why in the name of decency weren't they taken care of in some manner?

Jerry's heart went out to these people, but she was afraid of them, too. She was afraid that because she and Peter were well dressed they might be held up almost anywhere.

"You see" Peter explained, "when I was taking my technical courses in mining engineering we were often brought down to the steel mills. I learned to know these towns pretty well."

"And you think that you know which mill it was from my description?"

"I've got a pretty good idea," Peter said, "but of course I may be wrong."

They were walking along an illlighted street bordering mill property kept street bordering mill property kept street bordering mill property kept

THROWN FROM BUGGY, STIRLING WOMAN INJURED

Cars Driven by S. K. Jones And John Green Collide

STIRLING—Mrs. John Osborne, who resides about one mile west of Stirling on the Old Shannonville Road, suffered a painful accident on Saturday night, when she was forcefully thrown from the buggy in which she was riding. Mrs. Osborne was proceeding up Front street, when a car, darting out in front of the horse, which she was driving, frightened the horse, which started, jerking the buggy and causing its occupant to be hurled to the pavement. Medical aid was summoned and it was found that no serious injury had been sustained although Mrs. Osborne suffered many painful bruises. She was taken to her home.

Another minor accident also occurred on Front street, Stirling, on Saturday night, when two motor cars collided at the intersection of the Marmora Belleville Highway and Main street. The car driven by Mr. S. E. Jones of Campbellford was proceeding along the Belleville Highway westward towards Campbellford when a car owned and operated by Mr. John Green of Rawdon pulled out from in front of the Dominion Store to strike the Jones' car broadside. Because of the moderate rate of speed of both cars, the force of the impact was not great enough to cause any grievous bodily harm to the occupants but both cars were badly damaged. Constable Harry Wickett was on the scene and is investigating the accident. Both cars were removed to Green's Garage for overhauling and repairs.

Mr. Allen Mehlkjohn M.A., who is attending the summer school, which is being conducted at the University of Toronto, spent the week end at his home here.

Mrs. Leslie Vandervaar of Toronto was a week end guest of Mrs. Pitman, Edwald Street.

Mr. Tom McGee has returned to Stirling, after an extended visit to the Canadian West.

Mr. Frank Sprentall has returned to Kingston General Hospital, where he has been a patient for the past two weeks.

Decoration Day in Stirling was observed on Tuesday when a large number of Oddfellows from Stirling Springbrook, Havelock, Frankford, Campbellford, marched in a body to the cemetery where they decorated the graves of their departed brethren buried there. The procession which was headed by the two marshals, Brothers W. Sarles and Brother Ernest Carlisle, left the lodgerooms at 2 o'clock and marched down Main St. to music played by the Frankford Band. At the Cenotaph the parade was called to a halt while Bros. J. G. Butler and F. T. Hulin respectfully placed flowers on the monument in memory of those who had "Gone West". The band likewise played "Onward Christian Soldiers" after which the procession reformed and marching until the cemetery was reached. Approximately seventy graves were decorated by the brethren. Apart from these some thirty departed brethren have been buried elsewhere.

The tennis tournament held in Stirling on Saturday afternoon was a lively event. Although the tourney resulted in the honours going to Tweed, Stirling made a very good showing considering that this is their first venture of the kind. Mrs. Pedlay and Mr. Wm. Jones won their set while Mr. Dobbie and Dr. Pedley tied theirs. Outside of Lunch two events, Tweed carried off the honours.

Rev. J. A. Koffend motored to Kingston on Monday to take Mr. Geo. Whitehead to the hospital. He was accompanied by Mrs. R. W. Mehlkjohn.

Mr. Clifford Hallon of Toronto, motored to Stirling on Saturday to spend the week end with Mr. A. Hallon and Mr. L. Mehlkjohn.

The Maple Leaf softball team is coming to town on Friday evening in what is a tilt with one of the local girls. A good turnout of fans is expected.

Baseball—Born at Stirling, on Sunday, July 16th., 1933, to Mr. and Mrs. C. Robert Easterbrook, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Gibson of Toronto, are vacationing with Mr. Gibson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Gibson, Rawdon.

Miss Marie Fitzpatrick returned home on Saturday after vacationing with Miss Margaret Eggleton at Sandy Lake.

Mr. John Hawkins of Toronto, spent the week end in town.

Obituary

It has been heard with regret of the serious illness of Mr. Joseph Whitehead, Joe who was in seemingly good health, was taken suddenly ill on Friday and is in a critical condition at present. HALLOWAY L.O.B.A. MARKS BIRTHDAY

On Thursday evening the members of the L.O.B.A. met Halloway and their immediate families met in observance of the 12th anniversary of their lodge at the hall at Halloway. After an exchange of greetings and social chat about 60 of the members and their guests sat down to a well laden table of eats and ice cream. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion. The centre attraction was a large birthday cake prettily decorated and on which were five candles all lighted. The cake was presented by the W.M. and contained many jokes, which was relished by all.

After a few brief but well chosen remarks for the good and welfare of the lodge, everyone returned to their homes feeling they had spent a very enjoyable evening.

YOUNGEST CONTRACT ACTOR OF FILMS CRIES AT WILL

Many a silken siren of the motion picture world would give her artificial eyelashes to be able to weep as convincingly as Baby Le Roy, the one-year-old film players who can turn on a flood of tears at will. Hollywood's youngest contract actor recently won a long-term ticket for his work with Maurice Chevalier. Here he illustrates the four stages of crying business.

EMPIRE NATIONS WILL HOLD PARLEYS

Imperial Parley Pacts to be Studied in London Voluntary Pacts Likely Series of Meetings Will Follow Adjourning of World Parley

U. S. EFFORTS

Measures to Increase Demand For Wheat Adopted

London, July 20 (C.P. Cable) United Kingdom and Dominion Governments representatives will hold a series of meetings after the World Economic Conference adjourns July 27 to discuss the working out or the various Imperial Economic Conference agreements.

"This decision was announced today, despite the fact the arrangements have not been working entirely smoothly. The United Kingdom and various Empire delegations to the World Economic Conference will take part in the Imperial Economic Conference.

It is anticipated that voluntary agreements may be reached which will considerably facilitate the implementation of the agreements and remove the many complaints recently made.

(By Claude A. Jagger)

London, July 20 (AP)— Cordell Hull, American Secretary of State, was described in high United Kingdom circles today as having a vigorous fight behind the scenes of the World Economic Conference to preserve the general principles of the truce on tariff changes.

Shrewd opposition was said to have been encountered in British and American quarters, but Hull's reservations whereby for such advances in tariff schedules as may be necessary under the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, were accepted.

The monetary sub-commission completed their work with unanimous acceptance of a resolution on international indebtedness, and a report that all countries, save the United States, had accepted a resolution on central bank co-operation.

It was explained that the Federal Reserve Bank found consideration of this resolution to be "premature," but expressed willingness to co-operate at some future time if such action does not interfere with national policies. Reports are to be made to the session of the full monetary commission on Saturday.

(By George Hutchison, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, July 20—After a long conference the great wheat producing nations and the principal wheat importing countries of the world today reached provisional agreement on measures to increase the demand for wheat, thereby restoring the price of that staple, particularly commodity.

It is understood, however, that so far the offers of the big importers are not sufficient to enable the great exporters Canada, the United States, Australia and the Argentine—to agree to the crop restriction proposal to which they have provisionally agreed.

Nevertheless a drafting committee of six members was appointed to prepare a joint resolution for consideration.

ODDITIES IN THE NEWS

Ridgeville, Ont., July 20 (CP) —Another oddity in the oddity list peppies owned by Jack Chambers of Ridgeville is being swallowed by a hen.

"Shirley took a strong liking to the pups, when they were born last spring. She only allowed the mother hound enough time to feed them. Soon the pups will be weaned. Their yelp was answered by her maidens plaint.

ALBANY, July 20 —(AP)— "You are accused of shooting 91 year sun-in-law," Police Judge Wanger informed Mrs. Mary F. Cooley, 58.

"He ought to be shot, Your Honor," said Mrs Cooley.

"Your daughter also has filed a complaint against you."

"Well, she ought to be shot, too."

Mrs. Cooley was held for a hearing.

Satisfied to Return After Seeing Circus

DETROIT, July 20—(AP)—Kenneth Neely, 18-year-old fugitive from Victoria Industrial School at Mimico, Ont., has seen a circus and now he's going back.

He gave himself up at the Central Police Station yesterday, explaining to the Lieutenant in charge, "I ran away from the Reform School to see the circus. I'm ready to go back now."

The school of his story had to do with his longing to see a circus during the five years he has spent in the school for children as far as Niagara Falls, Ont., particularly when he would see the parade passes from the school windows.

"A couple of weeks ago they let me out of the school to look for a guy that ran away," he continued, "and the first thing I run up against is another of those posters. So he took a freight train to Windsor, borrowed $2 from a friend to come to Detroit and saw the circus.

"And say," he concluded "it was swell".

NAZI CHURCH PLAN HALTED

League of Nations Rules People Must Be Free Religiously

Saarbrucken, Saar Basin Territory, July 20 (AP)—Organization of Chancellor Hitler's Nazi church in the official Saar territory by the Saar territory today by the League of Nations governing commission.

The Nazi church law was declared inapplicable to the people of the territory, but the people must be religiously and politically free until 1935 when a plebiscite is held to determine whether the Saar will be attached to France or Germany.

PRESIDENT WATCHES MARKETS CLOSELY

Washington, July 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt is watching anxiously and closely the ups and downs of the security and commodity exchanges. If the present plans are endangered, his supporters, believe he will not hesitate to take any necessary, and feasible, action.

But there was no indication today from him today whether he thought exchange prices were high or low at present levels, yesterday's big slumps would be considered particularly bothersome.

ITALIAN GIRL GREETS BALBO IN NEW YORK

After Armada Anchors Girl Swims to Buoy

WELCOMED

Fleet Complement to Spend Four Days in Metropolis

New York, July 20— General Italo Balbo's big string of seaplanes into the dock at Floyd Bennett Field Wednesday afternoon, completing the first leg of their homeward flight from Chicago to Italy via Shediac, N.B., and Newfoundland.

In groups of three, they came sliding into Jamaica Bay, starting at 2.56 p.m., without through a thick shower of spray and sailed up their buoys within a cordon formed by Coast Guard vessels.

Last the silvery Macon, United States dirigible, dipped in graceful greeting and loosed a little parachute plane to salute the squadron with a scooting power dive.

Ashore a crowd of 30,000, some of whom had been waiting all day, set up cheer after cheer. Sirens boomed and a band played.

Then ashore stepped the bald by the bearded young commander himself was the first to alight. Twenty-Three years later the last of the 24 machines was down, and the fliers stepped ashore for three days of welcomes and receptions. It took the squadron just seven hours, the time the General had calculated, to make the flight from Chicago where they had been since Saturday.

In all the tumult of greeting which roared out to the Italian leader, one incident of touch, which seems to afford him most pleasure. A young Italian girl had come to a stop and the General had been transferred to the official launch. She paused, clad only in a flaming scarlet bathing suit, plunged from a pier and swam with sure strokes toward the barge.

The girl, a dark-eyed Brooklyn miss named Orsolina Lanzetti, reached the barge, pulled herself aboard, and cried: "Avanti Italia! Viva Balbo!

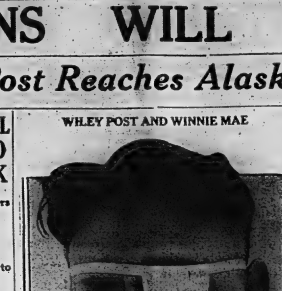
PREMIER HINTS ONTARIO ELECTION DAY DRAWS NEAR

Some Time in Comparatively Near Future Says Mr. Henry

Toronto, July 0.—"Some time in the comparatively near future," said Hon. George S. Henry as he spoke from the box of the grandstand at Fort Dalhousie Wednesday afternoon, during the opening address at Ward 4, Toronto, who were holding their annual picnic at lakeside Park, according to the belief of an early election in the Premier's remarks.

"I appeal to you to stand behind us," said Premier Henry, "and we need all the support we can get when, on a day which is not too far distant, the people will have an opportunity of passing judgment on the administration, on the various problems that have been before our problems and put us on the road to progress and development once more. The people will be called upon to pass judgment on the administration and what it stands for and what it has been doing for the people of the province."



"Judgment also will be passed," he went on, "on one Mitchell Hepburn, Liberal Leader, who stands for unlimited license of expression and not the way of promises. He has not shown himself as a leader but rather one who has been willing to follow those who have been there as leaders before him. It is your responsibility to follow him in his speeches and promises and suggestions for the future conditions in this country and I have no doubt that if you read them carefully you will be behind the Conservative party stronger than ever before, and I am sure, will give us the support we need in the election which will come in the comparatively near future."

In Days of Old.

The Conservative, he said, had always formed the party of progress and sanity, and in times of crisis the Conservatives had always been called to them for help. Tracing the political history since the time of Sir John Macdonald, he, in particular, alluded to the war regime of Sir Robert Borden as a case in instance. In provincial politics, the Premier declared that even during the Ferguy Administration the minority had been a dominating factor. He mentioned the formation of the Ferguson Government, the downfall of the Government at the elections of '26 and '29 as further proof of the fact.

On the other hand, Mr. Hepburn, he said, stood for unlimited license of expression, but had never shown himself to be a leader. Rather, he was one who has been willing to follow those who have been there as leaders before him. On the voter rests the responsibility of studying Hepburn's speeches, promises and suggestions and when they are considered that such study would result in a Conservative ballot at a day not in the very far future."

Wide-Open Wheat Break Turns Marts Downward, Early Rally is Upset

"Wet" Stocks in New York Flop as Much as $12 a Share

WHEAT UNDER $1

Twenty-Five Cent Break in Wheat in Chicago Pit

Winnipeg, July 20 (CP)—Stampeded by a rush of selling into a chaotic plunge downward, the Winnipeg grain pit today experienced a mad session which saw values sweep helter-skelter down for losses of 8½ to 9¾ cents. Helpless to withstand the terrific selling pressure, July option broke to 78¼, October to 81, December to 82 and May to 87½ bid.

New York, July 20 (AP)—A wide-open break in wheat, which sold July 81 a bushel, sent stocks downward here today after a promising rally.

Gains of $1 to $3 during the morning were turned into losses when a flood of selling struck the share market early this afternoon. Whisky and distillery issues which had been narrowly irregular slumped severely again and the general list weakened.

National Distillers Products, producer of Old Taylor, fell $12 on top of Wednesday's $25.50 loss. American Commercial Alcohol also dropped around $12 to $57, while other "wet" stocks broke five or six dollars. Metal issues, which had led the earlier advance, lost most of their gains.

Chicago, July 20 (CP)—A storm of selling hit the wheat pit shortly before noon which carried prices well below a dollar a bushel on all deliveries except May. September wheat dropped to 99 1-2 cents, a decline of almost 25 cents a bushel from yesterday's peak at 81 3-8 and almost 13 cents from the close of 81.07.

A partial recovery from the extreme lows was recorded later with the September delivery crawling back to 99 cents.

SOCIALISTS AROUSED BY BALBO WELCOME

"Affront to Democracy" by 100 Well-owned Fascists, They Say

New York, July 20—(AP)— The Socialist Party of New York issued a statement today denouncing the reception accorded General Italo Balbo and the Italian fliers as "an affront to American democracy."

"American democracy is profoundly justified admiration for magnificence of Balbo's air flight to think them to the political significance of the visit of 100 Fascist propagandists to this country," the statement said.

Six-Leaved Clover Found

Four-leafed clover, luckier than the proverbial three-leafed variety, is the object of concerted search by local wooers of Lady Luck, following its discovery on Wednesday with the discovery by Mr. Dan Trotter, Foreman employee, of a clump of clover on Victoria Park with several of the four-leafed variety in perfect state of growth. Besides the six leaves carried on some of the clover others carried four, five and seven leaves. Although regularly patrolled by the park work for some years, it is the first time, according to Mr. Trotter that he had ever seen a six-leafed clover.

Crisis Nearing, Purchasing Power Must be on Par with Price Rise

Washington, July 20—(AP)— Warning to all United States manufacturers that a crisis is fated within the next 30 to 60 days in bringing the country's purchasing power to a parity with rising prices was issued today by Hugh S. Johnson, industrial recovery administrator, in an appeal to employers to sign a code proposed for the women's coat and suit industry.

Transpacific Hop from Khabarovsk to Alaska Begun by Wiley Post

Now 15 Hrs. and 16 Mins. Ahead Due to Short Stay

VERY TIRED

At One Time Lead Over 1931 Flight Was only 42 Minutes

Seattle, Wash., July 20 (AP) Wiley Post, Oklahoma round the world flyer passed over Nome, Alaska at 7.30 a.m. (Nome time) (1.30 p.m. E.S.T.) in the United States Coast Signal Corps was advised by its station there.

(By Stanley F. Richardson, Associated Press Staff Correspondent)

Nome, July 20 (AP)—Wiley Post, globe girdling aviator, took off from Khabarovsk, Siberia, for the North American continent today with a lead of 30 hours and 16 minutes over the record he and Harold Gatty set in 1931.

Fairbanks, Alaska, July 20—(AP) —Flying the treacherous air trail from Khabarovsk to Fairbanks which he and Harold Gatty blazed two years ago, Wiley Post faced unfavorable weather today.

Moscow, July 20 (AP)—Wiley Post began the long and arduous transcontinental hop of his world flight today when, 30 hours and 16 minutes ahead of the record he wants and to beat, he hopped off from Khabarovsk for the Alaska-Canada wilderness.

The stocky, darkly Oklahoman arrived at the Eastern Siberia town at 8.46 a.m. today, Moscow time (7.46 p.m., Wednesday, E.S.T.) from Ruhkhovo, 700 miles away, and was off again at 10.58 a.m. (2.58 p.m. E.S.T.) taking just two hours and 12 minutes for refueling his plane, the Winnie Mae.

His hasty eclipsed the speed of communication facilities, and for several hours news of his takeoff from Ruhkhovo and arrival at the Khabarovsk; Post came and he clipped time at that point of only 113 hours, 48 minutes.

Post had seen his advantage whittled down to 42 minutes because of rain and fog that he encountered in the first flight from Moscow to Novosibirsk, Siberia, and later from Irkutsk to Ruhkhovo, but he increased it in the fast flight to Khabarovsk and the fact he stayed there an hour and a half while he and Gatty were grounded at Khabarovsk about a day.

The first 1,400 miles west of Khabarovsk, at 7 a.m., Moscow time, and arrived at Ruhkhovo at 2.22 p.m. Wednesday, Moscow time (6.22 a.m. E.S.T.) Wednesday. Post had him down there—he had planned to continue to Blagoveschensk—because of a heavy fog and by damage before he arrived there.

He left Ruhkhovo at 11.25 p.m. Wednesday, Moscow time (3.25 p.m. E.S.T.) and landed at Khabarovsk at 8.45 a.m. today, Moscow time (1.45 p.m. Wednesday, E.S.T.).

Reports from Fairbanks said that his objective. His next stop will probably be at Edmonton, Alta.

Shortly before reaching Ruhkhovo the Winnie Mae brushed treetree tops, because Post wanted him to fly close to the ground, but nevertheless he made a perfect landing despite the danger. He was very tired on arrival there, but he decided to forget as much needed rest in favor of gaining time.

Post took a newspaper correspondent at Khabarovsk that he expected to complete the world flight in one day over the 1931 record if all went well.

News Flashes

Lisbon, Portugal July 19 (AP) — A violent earthquake lasting one minute shook Oporto today and the people were panic-stricken.

No casualties were reported, however, and the property damage was slight. The quake came after two days of excessive heat.

London, July 20 (AP)—Thousands of Jews declared a holiday today and congregated in Whitechapel and adjacent districts, chanting the words in Hyde Park as a mass protest against the treatment of the Jews in Germany. 50,000 are expected in line.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Ont., July 20 (CP) — Pressure is comparatively high from the St. Lawrence Valley southward over the Atlantic coast and from Dakota westward to the Pacific, with a trough or low extending from the west coast of Hudson Bay southward across the Rainy River district and Minnesota. PULP MILL IS WORKING FULL TIME

Another indication of an advance toward the return of more normal and prosperous times, is the word which comes from Campbellford. There the pulp mill is again running at full strength, with the brightest of prospects for its continuance for a long time in the future.

This renewed activity has been greatly due to the persistent and untiring efforts of Mr. Stu Brunelle, manager of the plant.

ANOTHER BAND CONCERT FRIDAY

Under the direction of Reg Hinchey another band concert will be given by the Belleville Citizens Band on Friday, the Court House lawn being selected owing to its adaptability and splendid surroundings. The citizens in general have than appreciated the concert of a week ago and no doubt will be out in full force again to enjoy the programme. An entirely new programme has been arranged by the bandmaster, with all the popular classical and popular numbers as well as favorite band marches. The concert will open at eight o'clock.

SWELTERING HEAT CAUSES BREAKS

Sweltering heat of the past few weeks has given department of public works employees another unlooked-for job repairing the pavement. Throughout the residential sections concrete sidewalks have been heaving and swelling caused by the expansion of the concrete due to the month rays. Solid portions of the walks have been lifted inches in the air in some sections. Yesterday a small crew of concrete workers were put on the job by the department replacing the broken sections with new concrete.

WATER SHIPPING IS OUTLINED

In an effort to promote greater interest among local manufacturers in the export trade to the British Empire and South America, Mr. G. C. Kernahan, travelling representative of the Great Lakes Inter-coastal Line, Hamilton, Ont., and Mr. R. G. Paterson, traffic superintendent of the Moore Forwarding Company, Limited, Toronto visited several factories in the city on Thursday afternoon, the possibilities and methods of water shipping.

RAINFALL HEAVIER IN NORTH PARTS

Thunder rolled north of the city late last evening, while sizzag streaks of lightning split the dark skies. Rain is believed to have fallen heavily over many of the northern townships in the county. In the city only a gentle patter of rain fell, or brief duration, and not of sufficient quantity to do other than refresh wilted garden crops, burned by the heat of the past two weeks.

IS CLIPPED BY FENDER OF AUTO

Clipped by the fender of a fast-moving motor car as he walked across the street on North Front St. early last evening, James Fenton, 8, of Bartlett Street, was thrown to the side of the road by the force of the glancing blow, but escaped other injuries except a few bruises to hands and arms when he struck the concrete sidewalk. It appeared unaware that he had struck the boy the driver of the machine did not stop. The number of the car was not secured.

ONLY ONE CASE IN POLICE COURT

Owing to the absence of His Worship, Magistrate Millard, Alderman McCreary and Hill occupied the bench during Thursday morning's police court proceedings. His Worship is at present attending the Masonic Grand Lodge convention at St. Catharines.

George McDuffy pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and was given ten days "on the hill". McDuffy was arrested early last evening in the vicinity of the C.P.R. freight sheds by Constables Arnott and Taylor. McDuffy admitted being intoxicated at the time and a portion of a bottle of rubbing alcohol was found on his person.

Release 30 Pairs of Hungarian Partridge

Game and fisheries Inspector I. Lyons of this district released 30 pairs of Hungarian partridge along the sixth concession of Sidney yesterday. The birds had been shipped to Belleville in two large crates from the Ontario Government's bird farm at Normandale. When liberated the birds at once took to the nearby bush. Other liberations of a similar nature will be released in the immediate vicinity in the near future.

BREAKS JAW IN ACCIDENT

Car Hits Boulder And Comes to Rest on Side Near Fence

Alton Sine, 27, of Sidney Township, was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital about two a.m. this morning suffering from a broken jaw and head injuries following a motor car accident, which happened on the sixth concession of Sidney last night.

Sine had been driving his automobile westward on the concession road when he apparently lost control of the wheel momentarily. The car left the road, striking a large boulder later coming to rest on its side against a fence.

The car was also badly damaged. The entire frame was bent when the vehicle struck the boulder while all four fenders were crumpled and the radiator also being damaged.

Mr. Sine reported the accident to the police through his father. The damage to the car will amount to at least $200.00.

CAR IS STOLEN FROM GARAGE

Ben Anderson, Ameliasburg twp., reported to the Provincial Police the theft of his automobile from his garage early this morning. The car was locked in the garage before Mr. Anderson retired on Wednesday but was gone when he went to get it Thursday morning.

The car is a Ford, Model A, 1929, copper colored bearing the license plates, O-7117. The serial number of the car is 122029. The police stated that a portion of an old Shriner's emblem was displayed on the windshield.

Harbor Commission to Deal With Matter Says Mr. Ostrom

Choked with weeds, the growth of which has been heavier this year than for many years past, the waterfront of the upper harbor and sections of the Bay of Quinte adjacent to the city have become almost unnavigable for even smaller boats. In front of the boat houses are seen from the park on the west side of the harbor the condition has become so bad, that boat owners have been forced to wade their gasoline parking spots. Assailing the boards of visitors to the park, complaints of these and also, it is said, a nauseating odor blown from the channel is directed to the garbage dump, and the decaying weed beds west of the bridge.

"The Commission has been informed of the condition of the harbor," declared Mr. Geo. P. Ostrom, chairman of the Harbor Commission, today when questioned. "We intend to take the matter up and see what can be done about it."

RASPBERRIES DOWN TO 12c

Fruit And Vegetables Principal Offerings on Market

With the raspberry season at its heighth the local mid-week market held on Thursday morning had the finest berries of the season offered for sale.

A slight decline in the price of raspberries was noted, however, from the red variety of from 12 and 15c a box with the blue ones bringing 15c a box. Currants were 10c for a large basket, while huckleberries sold for 25c a quart.

Freshly grown tomatoes picked from vines in the Hastings County district were offered at 30c per berry basket full. Shelled peas remained at 20c a quart, while new potatoes sold for 50c a peck. Other seasonable vegetables such as beets, carrots and raddishes were also displayed at the season's prevailing prices.

Every Year for 18 Years

Sales records of 1933—and of every other year for the past 18 years—prove that the majority of motorists do not purchase tires on the basis of indefinite and bewildering claims.

IN THOSE LEAN-YEARS

—when motorists had to seek the utmost for their money—a higher percentage bought GOODYEAR TIRES than ever before.

After 4 years of distress selling of other tires Goodyear has a larger share of the tire business in Canada than was the case in 'boom' years! The majority of motorists—perplexed by vague generalities and confusing claims—have stuck to the one safe, sure guide—a fact as true today as it has been for 18 years—

THE STARLING

The starling has in his short occupation of this continent won for himself all but universal hatred and detestation. For he is not only ungainly-looking bird with none of the lines and grace which please the human being in the ordinary birds, he is an unwelcome in his song as in his appearance, and in his habits he is detestable.

It is his uselessness and his cruelty which have armed people against him. His filthiness and his savage brutality with other birds have disgusted the people. His greed is evidenced on every hand and he is warlike, he steals fruit and grain. In short he is a black sheep of the bird flock.

Some claim is made that he possesses one good point, that he is an eater of insects in large numbers. Whether this be true has to be proven, but the consensus of opinion is absolutely against him.

GOLD

The Times, London, of June 20 last, included a Gold Number, which was all-embracing. It dealt with the precious metal from every aspect and from earliest times up to the present. Considerable space, naturally, was devoted to the goldfields of Canada, some of which are world-famous. From a financial point of view, perhaps the most interesting feature was the leading editorial on "Gold," which summarized the world situation today. It pointed out that the gradual evolution of the gold standard pari passu with the development of banking has facilitated the production and exchange of commodities in a way which would have been quite impossible had metallic gold (or silver) remained the only means of payment. In all economically advanced countries the vast majority of such payments are made, not in coin or bullion, but in credit instruments such as cheques, bills of exchange and bank notes, "the value of which depends in fact not upon being covered by metallic assets but on their security." Then it is stated that were all this to be world destroyed there is no intrinsic reason why currencies should lose their value. But, as the value of the credit instruments is ultimately based upon the security, "it has been found convenient to limit their production by basing it on som relation to existing stocks of the precious metal." Hence the gold standard, which is universally acceptable in the settlement of international balances and which enables business to be done between countries without disturbing the parity of exchange between the different national currencies. The convenience of gold reserves as a technical instrument of exchange regulation is so great, continues The Times, that the world is not likely to dispense with them.

During the post-war period the system was upset, "with grave consequences to every country." The fault, however, lies not in the gold standard as such, but rather in the "economic missuse to which it has been subjected on account of reparations, war debt payments, prohibitive tariffs, and ill-judged and spasmodic capital movements." These abuses must be arrested in order to restore stability to the monetary standard, and that is the task that confronts statesmen as well as bankers. There is plenty of gold today to support a much higher price level than the present, and developments in the international field have served to extract the hidden hoards of India and to stimulate fresh production. In the latter respect, Canada is playing a considerable part, a fact which the articles in The Times Gold Number show.—Montreal Gazette.

SIDELIGHTS
GRAVE and GAY

"AFTERNOON HOT AND DRY, used the hose four hours. Can't see any harm in it and no one is the wiser. Everything suffering for want of rain." Sounds like a roast for the water department, but it is a reprint from a diary of July 16, 1893, printed in a newspaper in a nearby town. Seems as if this matter of water scarcity has been with us for many moons and may always be with us. Threats to install water meters have been heard ever since public waterworks systems were installed. Perish the thought, we do not want every mouthful of water to be measured and rationed just as if we were on some desert expedition. Folks thought when the beautiful esplanade project was sidetracked so as to give a hundred thousand dollars, or so, more or less, to the improvement of the waterworks system, there never would be any question of scarcity of water again in Belleville. Lest we forget is it not true that the citizens own the waterworks system, and water users paid for the filtration system—as a matter of fact overpaid for water services for years in order to build up a large surplus for some such purpose? The hot weather lasts but a very short time, and would it not be good business just to let the owners of the waterworks system have a little leeway when the water is most needed—take a chance with our excellent fire department—and if a little extra water is used, well, what the heck! To treat the owners of the waterworks system as criminals, shorten the hours during which water may be used on the lawns in the evening—seems just a bit thick and if we know the temper of the owners there will be something doing of an unpleasant nature. By the way did you get your summons to pay the semi-annual assessment for the use of water—and no reduction—the same yesterday, today and tomorrow, apparently. Reduction in electric light and everything else, why not a revision and reduction of water rates—a department which always declares a substantial surplus might occasionally give the patrons a surprise bonus in the form of a reduction in rates—all in favor say aye—the eyes have it.

"SIGHTS AND SOUNDS FROM A MOTOR CAR WINDOW" might be the title of an amusing story if some observant motorist, not given to speeding, would chronicle highway impressions. Some motorists go so fast that the landscape is but a blur, and the quaint villages and settlements en route are but a jumble of houses and wisps of smoke, or nothing at all when the highway contemptuously spurns them, as it does at Shannonville, and Deseronto, and other places. The leisurely motorist takes great pleasure in lingering along the road where the scenery entices and spends many pleasant hours in the small places where humanity is big and unworried by stock flurries or heavy taxes, of business reverses; where "life flows like a song," as the poet says, and fellowship is a reality. All this is preamble to a picture of a small town in New York State as presented by Chris Holmes, the observant manager of the Capitol Theatre, who made a motor car trip over the week-end in Uncle Sam's domain:

"During my recent trip to the States I stopped at a small town named Wolcott and I thought that depression must surely be over there. Why? Because EVERY STORE, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, HAD ASSUMED A COAT OF FRESH, ATTRACTIVE PAINT. It not only gave the town the appearance of being a thriving community but it made you feel that you would be almost committing a crime if you did not spend a little, at least, with the Wolcott merchants. The Merchants' Association must surely have been unanimous in their intentions of getting together and making their town a source of pride to inhabitants and visitors alike. I would have liked to bring home a moving picture of this town in natural colors. Such a film could have been aptly titled 'PAINT DISPELLS DEPRESSION'."

One morning a boy approached his schoolmaster's desk and asked for a new pen-nib. Given it, he threw the old nib on the floor. "Why," he was asked, the master enquired: "Is it instinct, Jones, that makes you throw your nutshells on the bottom of your cage?"

The next day the schoolroom blind became wedged, and after one of the boys had failed to ease it the master climbed on to the radiator, and gripping the waterpipe, settled the blind easily. As he dusted his hands his eye met that of Jones, who remarked brightly: "I see you can still climb all right, sir!"

RESULTS OF UNTREATED EPILEPSY

Progressive Mental Deterioration May Follow Neglect

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D. Former Authority on Health and Psychology.

Although epilepsy is often held to be an incurable condition—especially the severe forms of the disease —it should be set down as an invariable rule that every epileptic, no matter how sick he may be, should receive whatever medical treatment is possible in his individual case.

Even if medical supervision and care do not stop the convulsions completely, they can at least reduce their severity and often their frequency. What is even more important, the epileptic needs treatment because, otherwise, his condition is likely to produce disastrous mental results.

The mental effects of epilepsy might be summarized as mental deterioration. For instance, the general thinking of the patient usually becomes slow and sluggish as the disease runs. The mind seems to get hazy, and ideas are not as clear-cut as formerly. His attention often wanders and the patient finds it difficult to concentrate on any particular task. The field of interest is narrowed and the epileptic gradually shuts himself away from the rest of the world.

When the convulsions have persisted over a period of years the epileptic may become quarrelsome, all in one key and without the usual reflex inflections and show other changes. A dulling of the imagination may also take place. Ambition is lost and general enthusiasm for life is markedly diminished. Cleanliness and slowness of movement have also been noted.

On the higher mental faculties, such as reasoning and judgment, the epileptic finds himself seriously handicapped. He seems somehow to lose his ability to correlate and make use of what have been termed the "powers of inference."

That failing memory has a lot to do with this there can be no question. For if we cannot retain our ideas and make them part of our previous thinking there is, comparatively speaking, little to draw upon for logical judgment.

In fact, failing memory should be watched very closely. Usually the more severe the effect of the convulsions, the worse the memory becomes.

In the emotional field as well as in the intellectual one, changes take place. Thus one finds general indifference, irritability, explosiveness, marked irritability, sentimentalism and the like. Self-pity often is indulged in. Often, too, definite feelings of hate may be present, projected upon some particular person or upon the world in general. Indeed, epilepsy may be safely said to affect every one of the mental faculties if such are really carefully examined. In marked cases there may occur what is technically known as "epileptic frenzy," and during such a state the patient may actually be homicidal.

It is particularly because of such possible disastrous effects that the epileptic should receive whatever treatment is available. And let it be particularly emphasized that yet two cases are alike. The problem is always one of individual attention.

Opinions vary as to the best type of treatment for the confirmed epileptic. The use of the "endocrine glands" together with some thorough psychological procedure, such as psycho-analysis, is the best, especially in the beginning cases. Besides, the general health of the patient must be looked into most carefully. A proper diet, free from salt and with little protein, is desirable. It is also highly important not to allow the epileptic to feel hopeless about his future, and to try to develop in him a spirit of tolerance and cooperation.

It is unwise to allow an epileptic patient, particularly if subject to convulsive seizures, to go out alone or to work in any occupation where there are physical hazards. For many patients do not know when an attack is about to occur, and many have been injured and even killed because they were not properly safeguarded.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Health Hint

When an individual secures a pair of spectacles that seems to fit his eyes, he must remember that they will not continue to be adequate for his particular condition for years. Having the eyes examined every year and perhaps having the lenses changed at the same time must always be considered.

No More Piles

How to End Painful Piles Without Salves or Cutting

It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt's prescription HEM-ROID to prove how easy it is to end itching, bleeding or protruding piles. This internal remedy acts quickly even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and restores the affected parts and drives out the thick impure blood in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and suppositories fail. J. S. Leonhardt and druggists everywhere sell HEM-ROID Tablets with guarantee of money back if they do not end all Pile misery.

Birds have a body temperature of 100 to 113 degrees, mammals 96 to 100 degrees and reptiles only about 40 degrees.

ST. ANDREWS HOLD PICNIC

Congregational Picnic Instead of Usual Sunday School

Instead of the usual Sunday School picnic, St. Andrews Presbyterian Church held a congregational picnic on Wednesday afternoon to proceed to Point on the Murray Canal and which included the children of the Sunday School and also older members of the congregation. Buses and private cars transported the picnickers to the Point and shortly after dinner the sports programme, which included a swim in the canal, races for the youngsters and grown ups and peanut scramble with a score of ice cream tubes to look place after which a social half hour was spent. The tables were then laid and all joined in the basket picnic and the tables fairly groaned with all the good things to eat.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

After Sharp Relapse Markets Try to Steady But Little Progress Made—Some Issues Rally One to Three Points But Turn Heavy After Noon—Losses Extending up to $7 Recorded in Liquor Group. El-dorado Definitely Weak But Recovers Some Lost Ground—Sledding Heavy in Mining Issues.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, July 20—(CP)—Toronto Stock Exchange listings trailed the Wall Street market by new depths today at unstable holdings caved in or traders rushed to get out. Following a fair show of strength during the morning the market turned definitely weak soon after noon and prices slumped with hardly a break.

Liquor shares took a severe drubbing, the leaders losing as much as 10 points. Walkers common rolled at 82, off 11 1-2 from the previous close and distillers Seagram slipped 6 to its new 1933 low. Canadian Industrial Alcohol lost 7 to 15 1-3.

All the Interlined leaders dropped 1 to 2 points. Standard Steel lost 2 1-2 to 17. Steel of Can 2 to 34. Brazilian 2 to 18. Nickel 1 to 70 and Ford of Canada 2 to 16. Smelters lost 8 to 131.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, July 20—(AP)— The stock market followed Wall Street another sharp nose dive today after an early attempt to rally had failed to carry through. Losses in the wide group ran as high as 18 points for American Commercial Alcohol while National Distillers lost nearly as much. Electric Power & Light specialist ran two to seven points or more. American Telephone kept within a few shades of four points or more included United States Steel, Case, New York Central, Allied Chemical, Western Union and Union Pacific. Transfers approximated 4,300,000 shares.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, July 20—(AP)— Financial authorities in the United States tried to steady today after the sharp relapse in stocks and the nervous tongues added considerable uncertainty to the attempted convalescence.

Bay of Quinte Will Profit by Widening of Markets Abroad

Mr. W. E. Schuster Predicts Navigation on Bay Will Grow

HARBOR FACILITIES

"The crusade being carried on for wider markets in England for Ontario farm products and extended markets in the Bay of Quinte district for British coal has now resulted in direct conversations with large interests in South Wales and Sydney, Nova Scotia," said W. E. Schuster to a reporter in discussing the trade outlook.

"The cargoes of British coal will be brought direct to the Bay of Quinte, probably Belleville, Trenton, Deseronto, Napanee and Picton is absolutely certain. Cargo boats will return with apples, canned goods and other Ontario farm products.

"We need better and more balanced ocean. Therefore, with this situation, reciprocity in trade is now accomplished. Great Britain imports 60 per cent. of her food supply.

"Canada imports 85 per cent of all her exceeding and industrial fuel. The British miners need more work. British ships need more tonnage and the Welland Canal needs a wider market for its produce.

"Conservation of our natural wealth and I believe will bring action out of all these conferences that will mean over a period of two years.

"Additional dredging which Mr. W. E. Schuster, M.P., proposes, will step the whole proposition along quickly."

KING ON WAY TO THE WEST

Speaking Tour of Five Weeks Arranged For Liberal Leader

Ottawa, July 20—With a heavy program of picnics and meetings in which he will speak, Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Dominion Liberal Leader, left Wednesday upon a summer swing through the three Prairie Provinces. He will be away five weeks. His itinerary, complete only until August 5th as yet, was announced by Prime Albert on Wednesday July 26, calls for a stop in Winnipeg on Sunday.

On Saturday morning Mr. King will leave for Regina and then by motor, there to address an evening meeting. From Regina Mr. Bennett will stop at Carman, Winkler, Morden and Dardanelle. He will spend the night at Rocklake, and on Sunday afternoon leave for Brandon by automobile. On the way he will stop and address meetings at Minnedosa and Neepawa.

Brandon on Monday afternoon, July 24, and motor to Portage la Prairie, and speak at a picnic returning afterward to Brandon. On Tuesday Leader will leave by motor for Carman for Regina. He will spend the greater part of Wednesday in Regina where he will attend the Western Grain Exchange Conference.

From Regina Mr. King will go direct to Prince Albert. It is expected that he will spend two weeks in that district, which, everything indicates that eight or nine picnics at which he will be expected to appear and speak to his constituents will be held. From there he will also go to the constituency of Mackenzie where a by-election to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of Million Campbell to the Senate will shortly be held. No announcement has been made as to the place where Mr. King Liberal Leader will speak in Mackenzie.

The itinerary which Mr. King will follow after his visit to Prince Albert has not been announced but it is understood that definite arrangements are yet to be made. He will however, visit Alberta before returning East.

CITIZENS GIVEN CHOICE

Blackwell, Okla., July 20 (AP)— Blackwell citizens today had their choice of 3.2 percent beer or 2.75 city water. The 3.2 is the kind which contains 10 grains per gallon of water.

200 TICKERS ACTIVE

The recent activity in the gold and silver stocks has been reflecting in the increased business done by the Toronto Stock Exchange, the Canadian National Telegraphs. Since the installation of the new fast ticker service in the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange four months ago more than 200 tickers using the standard tickers have been installed in various brokerage offices between Quebec City and Vancouver, making the total number of Canadian National tickers now in use throughout Canada more than 200. Although Tuesday's trading was the most the heaviest in the history of the Mining Exchange, more than 1,220,000 shares being dealt in, the high-speed tickers were able to cope to be "on top" of the market every minute.

"THE SILVER CORD" WITH IRENE DUNN NOW AT THE BELLE

Irene Dunne, stars in the Sidney Howard's Pulitzer Prize winning play, "The Silver Cord" features attraction at the Belle, today and Friday. Continuous daily from 2 p.m. reported by an excellent cast including Joel McCrea, Laura Hope Crews, Eric Linden and Frances Dee.

"The Silver Cord", is an outstanding drama of love between a mother....her son....and his wife. It is based on the normal love of a daughter-in-law's affection for her husband and the rival love in the mother's heart for his affections.

When Christina (Irene Dunne) and her son Jr. Dr. David (Joel Mccrea) unsuccessfully conceived Mrs. Phelps Cowan's jealousy of her children. The mother-in-law developed a possessive love for her son and "other woman" in their unique triangle. Promptly Christina pitted her will against Mrs. Cowan's conniving, endeavoring to wrest her husband's affections from his mother's enslaving regard.

Eventually, David makes a move to leave for New York, rather than endure the mother-daughter-in-law feud. The dramatic climax at this point results in a heartbreaking decision by Christina as she realizes that she has come to say more as to how she accomplishes her end. The story is well directed by the splendid cast in the picture.

Arranged for exhibition with the above feature picture, is an excellent Paramount Sound News "Grantley's Ride" also a novelty sing song cartoon "Barnyard Battle" with Soldier and we promise this to be a real treat in entertainment. Don't forget, tonight is Bank Night on every-where will also be presented.

FIRST NIGHT IN FILMLAND

Deliciously Absurd Situations Abound in Rockaby, Pat Pleased With Pictures

From one deliciously absurd situation to another moves "That's My Uncle" led Capitol Theatre-goers a merry chase at the opening last evening. Skillfully handled Lupino and a supporting cast par excellent the film moves at a pace replete with hilarious repartee, the audience hardly recovering from one quip in time to catch the next. Pat is Lupino as his most farcial "That's My Uncle" comes to the local screen.

Stanley Lupino who will be remembered in "Sleepless Nights" here a few years ago as tourist (Jerry Walker) in Spain desiring to get his divorce from Dorothy Dix, has returned with a stronger cast. He engages, however, to enter the bull ring by mistake and also to entertain a group of Spanish senoritas, whereon he is known as Lord Let-Go." Jerry returns to England for the wedding of his chum Holy Rider (Jack Hobbs) to his fiancee Joyce (Dorothy Bond), but the wedding celebration is brought to a sad stop on the arrival from Australia of Rolly's misogynist uncle who hates matrimony. Follow the Bass Lake Camp instructors. Good music. J. W. Rudell Steenburg, P.O., Ont. 120-31.

PORK PRODUCTS UP AS HOG PRICES MOVE

Several Cent Rise Noted in Some Local Shops

Pork products were dearer in the city this week, selling in some cases a few cents per pound over prices asked as recently as two weeks ago. Local butchers, explaining the rise, attribute it to the fact that the price of animals on the hoof has advanced considerably during the past few weeks, warranting the extra price per pound over the counter.

HIDE PRICES MOVE UPWARD

Appreciation in Prices Means Advantage to Farmers

Optimism prevails among the farmers of the district who are heartened by the recent rise in hide prices during the past few weeks. Today the following prices were being offered by one local man for skins and hides. Sheep skins found a ready sale at 2c per pound; Veal hides were selling steady at 3 cents per pound. Horse hides, scarce generally were being quoted at from one dollar to one dollar and fifty cents per hide, according to condition. Cowhides were quoted at 4 cents per pound and Deacon skins in good condition, showing the greatest advance of any skin during the past month, were being sold at 30 cents per pound. According to the dealer, many farmers who have held their hides and skins are still reluctant to offer them to purchasers, content to wait in the expectation of higher prices within the next few weeks.

Local dealers are confident that there may be a further slow, but steady advance.

Flagrant Base Running and Poor Outfielding Results in Defeat for Napanee 6-4

Victorias Earn Tie For First With Picton by Win

HURLERS BLASTED

Neither Doug Fraser Nor Bud Wilkins Go The Route

Steaming a tide of hits in the seventh inning, Ralph Trey once again assumed the hero role for the Belleville Victorias when he stepped into the pitcher's box with the bases full and halted Ernie Gilbard's team on their only batting rampage of the day, when the Belleville Victorias downed the Napanee Gilbards 6 to 4 at the new Memorial Baseball Park, in Napanee yesterday afternoon. The win sends the Vics into a tie for first place with the Picton team and one contested game ahead of the Napanee club.

For six innings "Bud" Wilkins baffled the hard hitting Gerrowmen, calling, only to waver in the seventh and that gave way to Trey, whose left-handed shoots stopped the home team.

Doug Fraser, right hander, was sent in to pitch for Napanee, hurling his second game in two days and was an easy mark for the Belleville boys, lasting less than three innings. Jack Pointer relieved, and fared much better, blanking the Vics for the remainder of the first inning.

The Vics opened the scoring in the first frame, scoring three runs on triples by Blaker and Haslett, and a single by Darrah. In the second three more counters were pushed over on Darrah's and Crewe's triples, aided by Palmer and Darrah. The Napanee team scored one run in the third, added another in the sixth and threatened to take the game in the seventh when Hawkett and Pointer singled, and Card and Bentley walking to force in a run, but they stopped there and then. Poor base running had much to do with the defeat of the furniture town team.

ALEX MORRISON says:

The left or weaker of the two hands must always be favored if you are to make a truly successful swing.

Favoring this hand doesn't mean that you must make it just as strong as your right hand. Simply take advantage of the positions and movements which bring about a favorable result with the left hand to act powerfully and smoothly.

When turned over so that you can see only the back of it, the left hand is able to produce even more than the right.

An easy way to cultivate this position and the proper action of this hand is by holding the steering wheel of your car as illustrated above.

PACA OBJECTS

Windsor, Ont., July 20—(CP)—It's not polite to point, especially at a South American Paca, six-year-old Donald Reid learned when he visited Belle Isle zoo.

Donald evidently wanted to draw someone's attention to the little animal and pointed at it through the bars of the cage. The animal resented this and showed its indignation by taking a sharp nip at the lad's finger. Donald was taken to hospital where his wound was treated.

CURRENT SPORT

Knocks and Boosts

Don't let anyone tell you that F. A. Fanning has not got an up-to-standing brand of intermediate ballsters.

When the local Victorias stopped into Napanee and downed Ernie Gilbard's pets by the score of 6 to 4 yesterday they did a real man's sized job.

Extra base hits spelled the downfall of the Napanee boys when the Vics counted no less than four, three base blows.

Who ever was responsible for the starting of Doug Fraser on the hillcop for the Gilbardsite, surely pulled the well known boner. Fraser was an easy mark for Mr. Fanning's kiddies. It took them no less than three innings to blast him from the hillop.

Foolish base running wrought havoc among the ranks of the Napanee crew. No less than three base runners were caught napping at first, while Ken Card tried a three Warner" and was called out at third, when he tried to pilfer that bag with Wilkins standing watching him.

Despite the fact, that the fans did not take any too well to Umpire Ebby's decisions at first base, Ernie Gilbard's hit in the seventh frame was game but they been passed away by the outfield.

After watching the Gilbard kids run the apple around yesterday we pass our humble opinion to Coach Wallie Gerow. How any manager or coach can stand by and let his win, when they play the calibre of ball displayed by Mr. Gilbard's charges is more than we can fathom mystery to all concerned.

We do not want to detract any of the glory or honor from the local Vics as they played heads up ball but there is no denying the fact, that the Gilbardites to play better ball than they displayed yesterday.

"Knotty" Lee stepped in town last evening long enough to tell us that he did not take any too well with the decisions meted out to his club on bases yesterday, when the Peales downed the Peter in the score of 3 to 2 in Kingston last night. The wily long leg by Ott Peale he did not occupy a base inasmuch as the fore-out terminated his leasing?

All batters who hit into a force-out for the third out neither meet nor are they retired, therefore they are "left on base."

Yesterday President Charlie Meagher announced that the Napanee lad let Jim Matthews hit at the O.S.D. return bouts. Matthews has been with the Nationals practically all season but could no longer play at the school as the buildings and dormatories have been closed. Matthews started with the Nats as a pitcher but finished in the outfield. The lad from the O.S.D. opened the season quite auspiciously but faded somewhat as the season progressed. Much credit was attributed to Matthews' downfall as a hitter. On the other hand he was somewhat unfortunate, when it came to accidents. First he received his shoulder badly shifted back into third mass about three weeks ago. Then he injured his hip and later was hit on the head with a flying softball bat, that had been thrown by a team mate. The very next day he sustained a black eye in the identical same manner. Matthews has just passed his 21st birthday and should be an asset to the Nationals in 1934.

President Meagher also intimated that the Toronto Terrier-Belleville Nationals game at Civic Holiday would likely be cancelled. It seems that the Terriers have not the ability to relinquish the rights to the game while the Terriers who are in the financial straits also, are not anxious to relinquish the rights. Meagher is all probability either juniors will be given a trial with the Nationals during the remaining part of August. Rigby of the local Cyrsalne juniors and the two allsted games will not be allowed to enter the junior ranks as he can be kept playing with senior company and again compete with the Cyrsalne club this season. There are other juniors equally as good as Rigby in town and they should be given a trial with senior company before the next season gets started.

Down at the South End A.C. the members are planning a monster "sports day" for some further date, perhaps August 7th. The plans call for girls' and men's softball games, basketball, swimming and road races and other sports to be arranged. Should be a monster boxing bout in the evening.

Today's question: Batters who hit into a force-out for the third out in the 9th inning are retarded to be "left on base" total in the summary. How can a player be left on base when he did not occupy a base inasmuch as the fore-out terminated his leasing?

All batters who hit into a force-out for the third out neither meet nor are they retired, therefore they are "left on base."

MATTERN, POST TO RACE HOME

Mattern Prepares to Leave Anadyr in Borrowed Plane

MOSCOW, July 20. — (AP)— There was a possibility today that Wiley Post and Harold Gatty might race from Alaska to New York by way of Edmonton, Alta., in a climax to their world flights.

Post took off from Khabarovsk, Siberia, for North America today in his plane, the Winnie Mae, and Mattern prepared to leave Anadyr, Siberia—where he was lost June 14, after taking off for Fairbanks, Alaska, tonight.

He was very near exhaustion when he left.

No word had been received here this noon as to whether Mattern actually had left Anadyr, although dispatches yesterday said the Soviet Pilot Levanevsky intended to hop off with him today for Nome.

At that place Mattern hopes to get a new plane to replace the one destroyed when he was forced down on Anadyr Peninsula, Northern Siberia. In it he probably will exert every effort to beat Post into New York.

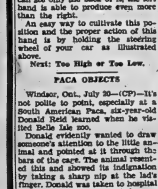
A Russian seaplane which left Savastopol, Russia, on July 10 for scientific work on Davidoff Island and was later ordered to stop at Anadyr to help Mattern, crashed in the Volga River near the city of Volsk two days later, it was learned today.

Chief Pilot Buchgeidz and two assistants were killed. Two other members of the crew of five were seriously injured.

DR. BENSON IS INJURED

Thrown From Sulky When Exercising Horse And Knocked Unconscious

Dr. D. R. Benson met with a painful accident on Friday, at the Napanee Driving Park, While exercising a horse, the sulky overturned. Elizabeth Volo, he was thrown from the sulky and rendered unconscious. When found he was lying on the inner track, when it is thought the horse ran in, lunged and ran into the fence. The horse got away and ran into the baseball field. The doctor, in falling, struck his shoulder and head, and when Tom Powell ran to his assistance found he was unconscious.



Dr. Willoughby was called and is about an hour's time the injured man regained consciousness.

No serious results are expected, except a severe shaking up and painful bruises.

POLICE HOLD MAN

Vancouver, July 20—(CP)—Vancouver police are holding a man for questioning in connection with an alleged stock manipulation scheme by which a Stratford, Ont., resident is said to have been defrauded of several thousand dollars. The police, however, refuse to divulge the prisoner's identity or any particulars of the case.

Dustless air can be found only in laboratories.

NEW CHAMPION IS CROWNED

Joka Owned by Ralph Boulter Wins Class A in Record Time

A new champion in A Class racing pigeons was crowned on Wednesday afternoon, when the large pumpkin Joka, owned by Ralph Boulter after holding a comfortable lead during the greater part of the race romped home to the front and clocked in the fastest time yet recorded, 1 hour 16 minutes and 07 seconds. The After Yee II owned by Callaghan and the Volunteer, owned by Seamark's finished second and third respectively.

In B Class the Mary Lou, Finkle owned, finished first in the time of 1 hour, 43 minutes and 30 seconds. Scrapper, Keller owned, and the Bonna, owned by Carwell, finished second and third.

In the Class Certainty Days, owned by Carr was awarded first on a protest made against the Toots owned by Pepper, which was owned by Carruthers was placed second.

Class Coach Wallace owned by Salter finished first in time of 1 hour and 15 minutes and 3 seconds. The Bobby O, Smith owned and the Isabel, owned by Dafoe were second and third respectively.

The Wessler

Perfect sailing weather, the graceful boats were enabled to keep up the fastest time so far this season. A stiff breeze from the west enabled the youthful navigators to display their complete bag of tricks necessary in handling the craft. The regatta will be held the weekly Wednesday afternoon races and also on the Civic Holiday, when numbers show a considerable gain each week. On that day standing room was at a premium as the interested spectators gathered to watch the spirited races.

On Sunday, following the weekly custom originated by the South End Athletic Club a basket and picnic lunch at some nearby spot for the day, sailing punt owners and owners of motor boats who care to join go along, are asked to meet at the boat house at 10 o'clock in the morning. From here a trip will be made to Massassaga where the day will be spent in games and water sports. Lunch will be served and the public is invited to accompany the Club members on the trip.

CORRECT CLOTHING FOR MEN

Spying on Sports

BY

William Ritt

Central Press Canadian

Irene Dunne, Joel McCrea and Laura Hope Crews, in a scene from "The Silver Cord" now playing at the Belle Theatre.

ACROSS THE great green swell which is known as the Atlantic and which separates us from it, bowling a boatload of bad news for American sport followers.

This ill omen menace does not consist of a group of biscuit-eared wrestlers, cauliflower-eared Rugby mooed grapplers or athletic youths with cheeks like a baboon's rear. It brings (thank heaven, there is but one Jack Lovelock) the news that the best of the foregoing thick particular boatload of bad news consisted of a group of representatives of personable young ladies who are known by the sport pages as the British Wightman cup team.

There was a time when American tennis enthusiasts were prone to regard British Wightman cup teams with a jaundiced eye. Not that the British did not win their share of international matches, but they lacked that much prized trophy. Not at all. The American athletes had nothing personal against the losing to the British Wightman team meant nothing for—whether the United States won or lost, this continent was still the home of the greatest female tennis player in the world—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody—and no one could possibly beat her.

BUT NOW—well, you never can tell.

One of those British Wightman cup players a young lady named Betty by the name of Miss Dorothy Round. That's a rather unusual name for tennis players in American tennis circles, for it was Dorothy who won the Wimbledon tennis tournament, astounded the sport world by smacking out Helen Wills and leading a set from the tennis queen, the first time since 1927 any player had done so and got petrified.

Mrs. Moody, of course, won the match but for a time that crown of hers seemed in danger of falling right off the Helen Moody's queenly head.

Miss Round is pretty certain of appearing in the national championship tournament. Perhaps Miss Round is not the only threat to the American girls' approach.

Miss Round is not the only item of strength in the British lineup. Another player is Miss Betty Nuthall, a round-faced young lady who several years ago, cleaned up in the absence of Mrs. Moody in the national championship meet.

And then there is little Mary Heeley and several others who are far from appearing as just space filling partners for their American rivals.

WINS PRINCE OF WALES PRIZE

Bisley Camp, England, July 20—(CP Cable)—Lieut-Commander D. S. Swanston of the Royal Navy today won the Prince of Wales prize of £500, one of the richest individual events of the imperial meeting of the National Rifle Association. He posted a score of 99 out of 70 ads ranging 20,103 cwtt. as against under difficult shooting conditions. 12,939 in 1931.

BODY RECOVERED

Welland, Ont., July 20—(CP) — The body of Foy Wong, Welland Chinese, drowned while swimming in the canal here Sunday afternoon, was recovered early today. It was taken from the water near the end of Aqueduct Street about 500 yards from where Wong was drowned.

The ancient Egyptians wove linen so beautifully even in ancient that modern manufacturers marvel at it.

Supplies of plums from Empire sources to the United Kingdom in 1932 reached a new high level, Canada sending 20,102 cwtt. as against under difficult shooting conditions. 12,939 in 1931.

The Old Church, the Ridge, In Wollaston Township

Compiled by Maria Nugent, Widow of the Late James Henderson

The first minister I remember in North Hastings were Mr. Gardner and Rev. David Wishart. Mr. Gardner was sent from England as missionary by the Church of England. He and his family lived for a while on the ridge. Like his brother, he was one who went about "doing good". He was father to the late Joseph Gandier of Newburgh and grandfather of the late beloved Principal Gandier of Emanuel College, Toronto.

Mr. Wishart of Madoc had oversight of all the Presbyterian Churches along the Hastings Road. The beautiful stone church in Madoc is a monument to this Apostle of the North.

The history of Presbyterian ministration dates back to 1878, when Rev. Mr. Stuart of Thanet held service in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James McGregor. In fact services up to 1878 were held in this home.

The first students were Mr. Russell, 1872, William Gray, 1874 and George McKay, 1875.

Mr. Russell came from McGill College. He was young and full of zeal for the Kingdom of God. His field was L'Amable, Thanet and The Ridge. The Sunday School conducted by Mr. McGregor reserved great help from Mr. Russell and the young attended. The spirit of God was felt to be at work. That year I first saw the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper dispensed on The Ridge. The elders were James McGregor for The Ridge and Benjamin McKillop for Thanet. It was in the year 1873 that I came to live on The Ridge.

William Gray came in 1874, also from McGill. He was a fine Christian man and was much loved by all. I have not been able to trace his after career. That year at Christmas with The Presbyterian Church and took my first communion in Mr. McKillop's home at Thanet. The minister was Rev. Burton of Belleville and the elders mentioned above assisted in the administration.

George D. McKay of McGill came in 1875. He was the first to board on The Ridge and in our house. He saw the growing need and called a meeting to consider building a church.

The response was immediate. The following were present: George D. McKay, Missionary, in the chair; James McGregor, Elder; James and John Henderson; James Gardiner; Thomas Nugent; David Caldwell; James Thomas; Parh Heard; John Thompson; William Hollingshead; Moses Peters; W. N. McLeod and W. J. Daly. The last named was appointed secretary. Motions were duly made, first, that a Church be built, second, that the offer of James McGregor be accepted granting one quarter acre for church and burying ground, third, that the Church be in connection with the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

George Pattison was named chairman of the Building Committee and James Henderson, Sec. Treas. The building was twenty four by thirty. Each man agreed to furnish two pieces of pine timber, ten feet in the top, material to be on the ground by the first of April 1875. The first service in church was raised on the twenty fifth of April, Rev. Norman of the Junction Methodist for the raising and all contributed something for the dinner at the home of James McGregor. Mr. McKay had collected twenty dollars from the Village of Tank Hill Zerra. Mrs. D. Henderson collected seven dollars.

In this interval we had Mr. Armstrong from Belleville. He was a strong Christian man of age and his field extended from Carlow in the north to Thanet in the south and west to The Ridge, yet in face of a solid winter I have no recollection of his failing to make his appointments. He opened the gospel without making the long stretches during the week. It was on his request that the church was called Knox.

The student in 1876 was Charles Gilmour of Cobourg. He was also an earnest man and started family worship in every home that did not have it. Material things he left to the people with the consequence that little was done in way of building.

John Munroe came in 1877 and urged the people to finish the Church. The church was still unpainted. Mr. Henry Bird hewed the logs smooth and prepared boards to do so. Later Mr. McGregor built the seats which were in use till 1922. Mr. Munroe was the first to preach in the Church. Prayer meeting was conducted in the school where he gave talks on Foreign Missions. At this time student's board, washing, Thanet and The Ridge. Steps taken to build a school.

D. A. Hamilton in 1881 kept up prayer meeting at James Maitland's home and Sunday School in church. Those following were appointed each in years mentioned: C. K. Gallop of Queen's in 1882; J. N. Bell in 1883; R. H. Hunter of Queen's in 1884; W. T. R. Gronlie 1885 remained a year and a half. Services in Church made and larger pieces added. He had sixty members at end of 1885. Deed registered, G. Taylor, 1886: Chimney built, James Anderson, Belleville, sang Aug. 8th, 1886. He had sibly filled the office of A. B. Greenwood, when Miss Liddle was appointed in his place. Mr. Greenwood remained another year, D. Maitland and D. Henderson, Jr. were appointed members of the board. Class (Bible) organized inside and out. Lamps and chairs were provided.

J. A. Donnell and Colin McGregor were appointed in 1890 to the Board of Managers. A new generation coming into the place of the fathers. Alex Pattison was added in 1901 to Board. Fence and gates were put up. M. A. Lindsay was missionary a 1902. Mr. George Pringle in 1903. Managers in 1904 were Thomas Watt, W. M. McKillican, Dan Henderson, John Bird, John McKenzie, Lillies (about ten years ago I went to me.) J. T. Caswell from Queen's was here in 1905 and 1906. left for the West. When I came back in 1917 all the old names were gone and only Dan Henderson and Daniel Maitland remained on the Board. Of those present at the meeting all I can say is that we had splendid young men from Montreal and Toronto and from Kingston. The people also had a mind to work. There were no beggles or cars in those days. The students went on horseback.

The original Trustees were all gone in 1917, and, so far as I know none had been then appointed in their place. In 1918, the united congregation took ill and Dr. Gracey laboured here. Mr. Sutherland of Scotland preached in 1920 when a vote was taken to enter into cooperation with the Methodist Mission at Coe Hill. This Union of 1925 effected. Personal further references to the people here.

I have prepared the above in order that the facts may be placed to the time of Unions may be preserved. My personal attitude now at this time of union, I set forth herewith:

In entering the United Church of Canada, I, conscious of my sinfulness and realizing the love of God for me, confess Christ as mine, and, engage in faithful duty to all Christian duties, as far as I may be able, and in the use of my life to honor of Christ, the good of my fellow disciples, and the salvation of the world.

Signed, 31st May, 1925.

Maria Henderson.

Ordinary Cleansers

This is a magnified drawing of a gritty particle such as is present in ordinary cleansers. Obviously, such cleansers are destructive because the jagged, rough material scratches the surface with its sharp, hard points; wasteful because it does not contact the surface completely and thus cleans inefficiently.

Can't Clean—

This is a magnified drawing of a particle of Old Dutch—the only cleanser made of pure "salmonite, the safest, most efficient and most economical cleaning material. You can see that these particles are flaky and flat-shaped. They clean quickly without scratching, cover more surface, and go farther. That's why Old Dutch costs less to use.

Like Old Dutch

Old Dutch does more square yards of cleaning per penny of cost than anything else you can buy. It offers an extra saving because it cleans so many things perfectly. It's the only cleanser you need in your home. Old Dutch cleans quicker, is kind to the hands, doesn't clog drains, is odorless and removes odors. No wonder Canadian housewives prefer it to anything else. Its quality cannot be imitated or its economy equalled.

TIGER

As last they heard the siren begin at the far end of the line or furnaces and come their way, searching each open hearth.

Jerry's heart began to beat like a triphammer and she drew her little gun from her belt and cocked the hammer gwalnst. Peter noticed her back into the farthest and most protected corner, but, instead of heeding his command she drew a little closer to where he was lying and, noticing the way he lay with his gun aimed over his other arm, she took exactly the same position.

"Good girl," Peter said.

"Good old Peter," Jerry whispered.

The next moment the light shone in their faces.

CHAPTER 23

"Don't shoot, Miss Hartford," said a gruff voice from behind the blinding flashlight that shone in their faces. "This ain't a bumpoff, this just a invitation from Con Big boss, and he don't want any rough stuff."

"We've got you covered," Peter said evenly, "and if this is a trick ....."

"A trick," said the gruff voice with a hurt and surprised intonation. "You don't think we would be pulling no tricks, do you, when the boss said no rough stuff?"

"I don't know what you would be pulling," Peter said. "Who are you?"

"Who are we? Gee, that's a good one. Why, we're just the little messenger boys sent to bring you an invitation. Ain't you going to come out of there, or do I have to get bossman's knee talking to you through this hole all night?"

"I wish you'd turn off that light," Jerry said. "It's hurting my eyes."

"Why certainly," said the voice. "Anything to please mllady. And are youse coming out or aren't youse?"

"We're coming out," said Jerry.

As Jerry and Peter scrambled out of the furnace they found themselves surrounded by perhaps a dozen of the toughest characters Jerry had ever seen.

For the most part they were natlty attired in expensive-looking suits with silk handkerchiefs peeking from their vest pockets, and light fedora gracing their ill-shaped heads at rakish angles. They all wore spats, patent leather shoes, and loud neckties.

But their faces were a study for a caricaturist. They might have been small-time petse-fight promoters or second-rate politicians or bookies, or con men. What they were, of course ,was the Tiger's every lllce of gat kittens.

Peter still had his hand on his gun which he had slipped into his side pocket. He stood with his arm across Jerry's shoulder, looking disdainfully at the many pack and thinking what fun it would be to empty the magazine of his Colt into the ratty-looking bunch and watch them scatter. Every one of them ing from the nip was one of Peter's Apecialties, and he hated them. Jerry or any of this hleary-eyed , gang could hit a man at twenty paces.

There was Jerry to consider, however, and Peter decided for this was no place or time for a gun fight.

"Well, out with it," Peter said. "What do you want? Let's get this over with."

We just want to escort you to the big boss," said the gruff voice with a mincing affection which made his little gunfaw,s out in that jalopp over there and we'll lan.

So Joe had known of their movements all the while. He had even been in touch with Jerry's old steel mill. Jerry realized the only sensible thing to do was to accompany these men to Joe's Lake Geneva estate. She felt certain she could handle Joe herself, but whether she nor Peter would have a chance with this savage, tour mob.

She was afraid that from the hard look of determination on Peter's face he might be planning to resist, and so she whispered to him quickly:

"Come along quietly, Peter. ean handle Joe once we get there. And if it comes to that can ....."

Then she said aloud to the men. "But if you think I'm going to ride all the way to Lake Geneva in that truck you are very badly mistaken."

"Oh, sure it wouldn't think of taking youse in a truck," said the leader. "What sort of a week-end party do youse think this is? We got a swell-looking jalopp for youse and the boy friend just outside the door."

Once in the big sedan and speeding northward, Jerry and Peter had a chance to speak openly again. They were being covered it was true, by a man who sat in the front seat next to the driver, and the car in which they rode was preceded by another full of gangsters, and followed by a third.

The three cars moved in close formation and both Jerry and Peter knew that it would be sheer suicide to attempt an escape, particularly as now that their guns had been taken from them.

But the worst part in which they were riding was closed off by glass from the front seat, and they were alone in the back, so they felt free to talk.

"I wanted to shoot up the entire mob while I still had my gun," Peter said, "but I knew that would been dangerous and not very conclusive."

"That's exactly the point," Jerry said. "We have to settle this matter with Joe himself."

"All that I ask ..... is a chance to settle with him personally," Peter said, and there was no bluff, no braggadacio in his voice.

The cars went arrowlike through the cool autumnal night under a sky studded with stars. Peter recognized Half Day and Libertyville as they sped through. Everywhere the leaves were drifting in the windy night, and the characteristic smell of burning leaves and lush apple orchards and pungent earth drifted in to them.

Peter was the sort of person who wears well, Jerry thought. He wasn't forever attempting to impress his personality and his wit upon you, although he had plenty of both. He was almost too quiet about his adventures, although Jerry realized he had material for a thrilling book in the experiences he had and crammed his young life.

Jerry looked at his silhouette, which stood out crystal clear against profile ("and yet it was stronger than classic), the chin, thing and firm jaw line and now finely chiseled as if from bronze, the deep-set eyes which Jerry knew to be gray-blue, and the high, intelligent forehead.

But Jerry thought of Peter only as a comrade or an older brother, and never once had he shown anything but the friendship a fellow often has for his kid sister. Peter had never thought of Jerry as a woman.

They were passing now through the Illinois lake region, through little towns and colonies of cottages, half deserted because the summer resort season was over. It made Jerry feel the loneliness of their position, and glancing up to notice the hard eyes watching them from the front seat, she was afraid again.

"You don't think they will—think they will kill us, do you?" Jerry asked.

"I don't know, Jerry. I don't know what this fellow might do."

"He's a terrible creature, really," Jerry said. "He can be so smooth and cultured one minute and so desperately hard the next. He can seem to be the most harmless man in the world, and then if you cross him a little ....."

"And Peter, there have been moments in which I thought I almost loved the men. He has a terrifically effective way with women—his lovely lies, his romantic tales, the gracious way he pays careful,—though—not—ostentatious, but in return.

"I know the type," Peter said. "And, worst of all" Jerry said, "he's really a tiger, Peter. He has grown Joe's zest in certain fights and talks with a sort of silent powerful contempt that leaves you cold."

"You aren't in love with him, are you, Jerry?"

"I'm not in love at all." Jerry said.

"Are even with me?"

"Oh, of course, I'm in love with you, Peter, and all that. I've been in love with you ever since I was 13. But that's a different sort of love."

As they reached Lake Geneva the moon came up, turning to gold the lake set between wooded hills. Far across the lake they saw the lights of Williams bay and the domes of Yerkes observatory, where quite unaware that on their very lake a kidnapping was being effected, and a murderous plot was being hatched against Joe Middleton, passionless slave,

Jerry wondered if human beings weren't perhaps happier that way, engrossed in some study, governed by eons or by millions of hidden years from the turmoil of everyday life, from passion and from hate and from all the other gross emotions. But she would not trade places with any one of them. She would not trade all their high-minded aloofness for her daily allotment of work and home life and moments with the children.

She would not trade any of it for the friendship of Peter, for all their uncertain moment, when she did not know whether she would ever see another sunrise, she was glad she was and where she was.

Nobody could say that Jerry had refused to live fully and dangerously and bravely—or that she had ever refused to take any chance her conscience would let her take.

But now they had plunged into a gloomy wood, through which they scarcely shone at all and the damp earth smells were strong in their nostrils. A screech owl screamed, calling its weird, lonesome, almost human cry, and then silence again.

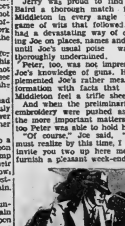
They crossed a little creek running swiftly with autumn rain swirling driftwood and leaves upon its dark surface, carrying them no one knew where through the heavy woods.

Anything could happen here and no one would know the difference. They might shoot aloud and no one would hear. How did they know that these men would really take them to Joe at all. Maybe they would stop the cars and order them out in one of these dark spots.

But now they were driving up to a wide-flung house of stone, set on a lawn which in the moonlight looked almost like a velvet golf green. And here was Joe Middleton, himself, coming down the walk to greet them.



"Why, what a pleasant surprise," he said. "This is indeed a pleasure."

CHAPTER 24

Jerry was proud to find Peter had a thorough match for Joe Middleton in every angle of the game of wits that followed. Peter had a devastating way of correcting Joe on places, names and events until Joe's usual poise was very thoroughly undermined.

Peter, too, was not impressed by Joe's knowledge of guns. He supplemented Joe's rather meager information with facts that made Middleton feel a trifle sheepish.

And when the preliminaries and embroidery were pushed aside for the more important matters, there too Peter was able to hold his own. "Of course," Joe said, "as you must realize by this time, I did not invite you two up here merely to furnish a pleasant week-end."

"Well, set with it," Peter said.

"We weren't so innocent as to you committed."

"And if you think I am afraid to testify to the kidnapping of Anetti or the hijacking of the liquor cargo you are greatly mistaken," Jerry said.

"We are also in possession of knowledge concerning your stores of. liquor," Peter said, "which would be of some interest to the federal authorities."

COUNTY NEWS

FRIENDS HONOR MR. AND MRS. GEORGE KEMP

Carrying Place,—July 30.— The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Wannamaker was the scene of a very pleasant event last Thursday evening when a reception was given to Mr. and Mrs. George Kemp married the day before. The large rooms were beautifully lighted and decorated for the occasion, and many friends assembled early to await the return of the bride and groom from Trenton. The earlier part of the evening was spent playing games and attempting contests of various kinds. Shortly after the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Kemp, a prettily decorated basket of gifts was set before them, and the accompanying address was read by

Dear Velma and George—It is with much pleasure that we have gathered here this evening to greet you and to wish you much joy. You have launched your boats on the sea of matrimony, and it is our wish that the voyage may be of the smoothest.

To you, Velma, we extend the welcome of the community. We feel sure that you will be gladly added to our circle of young people; and we shall be glad to have you in all our social and other activities.

To you, George, we extend our sympathy, and wish you much joy of the rolling-pin.

As tokens of the friendship which we feel for you, and of the good wishes we are extending to you, we ask you to accept these gifts and our congratulations.

Signed on behalf of your many friends in this community.

Following the reading of this address Mr. and Mrs. Kemp opened the various gifts and displayed them. In replying to the address Mr. Kemp thanked all for their good wishes and extended the freedom of his home to the friends, cake, and candy were then served to conclude a very pleasant evening.

The steady roar of motors brought with it an unexpected visitor to Carrying Place on Saturday when three ships of General Italo Balbo's air armada passed over the west end of the community on their way to the world's fair at Chicago. Accompanied to the sound of motors after hearing the R.C.A.F. plane manoeuvring each morning for several days, residents found something new and something which brought a thrill to the deep, powerful drone of the engines of the three huge flying boats. Looking at them, one recalled the term "Century of Progress," and realized again the wonders of the same structures of metal and wood which two scores ago were resting placidly on Lake Orbetello in Italy. The three Italian ships were spaced at for a short distance by two of the R.C.A.F. ships, while the main part of the fleet was flying in a group over the Kawartha Lakes to escape a storm over Lake Ontario.

Mr. J. M. Hamilton, Miss Allen Hamilton, Mr. Clifford Hamilton, Mr. Bill Hamilton motored to Cox Hill on Saturday, returning again on Sunday and bringing with them Mr. Gordon Hamilton who has been spending a week there.

Mr. and Mrs. Ormond Gilmaster, and Master Bobby of Montreal are enjoying a several weeks' holiday at the home of Mrs. Gilmaster's mother, Mrs. J. G. Thompson and Mr. Dunebury. They arrived on Friday last, being unable to find Montreal has been very hot and oppressive for several weeks.

The Lodge picnic attended the Orange walk and celebration held at Brighton, Ont., on Saturday. In the parade, but most arrived later in the day to see the sports and to listen to the music.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dempsey and several friends motored to Toronto early on Friday and enjoyed a cruise in Mr. George Hardy's launch, "Mary Ellen," which was filled up early this spring with a new engine, has been tried out at the road bridge over the canal for some time, and has created much curiosity as to its possible considerable speed, and with a new coat of varnish looks very smart.

Miss Elsie Pilchett was a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Westfall on the north side of the Carrying Place road on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Norrington are soon to move into the house opposite Mr. Buchanan's, while Mr. and Mrs. George Kemp will occupy the house where Mr. and Mrs. Norrington now live.

Congratulations to Miss Rosie Brown of Young's School who passed the entrance after adopting the junior fourth class entirely. Credit is due to Miss Pilchett, her teacher, who worked tirelessly to help her, and to Rosie herself who resolved to be a credit to her school.

Mr. C. M. Westfall, after an illness extending over a period of about two years, is now in good health again, the best he has enjoyed since he was first stricken. The many friends and acquaintances are very glad to see him once more able to take an interest in the happenings of the community. He has attended several of the ball games recently, and takes considerable pleasure from them.

Rev. A. R. Tavener and Mrs. Tavener are preparing to leave as soon as they can get their new duties in Sydenham parish, about August 1st, and after spending two weeks holidays here visiting Mr. Richard Tebbs and Mr. Hamilton returned to the county recently. Mr. Tebbs is a Sam Slick-er of repute, he added another name from these trips without a large catch to show; but his on this occasion he was disappointed as the fishing was very poor indeed. Hardly a single fish was caught which could be considered a good catch, and so few were taken that the trip was highly disappointing. Mr. Tebbs and son stay with Messrs. Jim and Jack Hendricks while here.

There was great joy in this community when the local softballers took the Consecon nine into camp on their own diamond there on Saturday evening. The locals had only two wins to their credit until then, and now, with two wins in a row, there is more real enthusiasm among the players and fans alike than has been seen this season. The puts Carrying Place in first at present, with Consecon and it they can win from Redneckville in the next game they may advance to the playoffs.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Johnson and Mr. Henry Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. John Quackenbush and Arthur and Miss Margaret enjoyed a day's outing and picnic at Presqu'ile Point on Sunday.

Two fairly heavy showers which have come to us recently have encouraged the raspberry growers to some extent. The continued dry weather has damaged the crop beyond repair, but these showers may make some of the berries larger and may bring on some of them a little later. Numbers of pickers were working Monday in the patches of Messrs. Bill Fitzgerald, A. A. Wannamaker, J. C. Dusenberry, and others.

Service was held in the Anglican Church here on Sunday morning.

A number from here attended the ball game at Cardenville last Friday evening when the Imperial Oilers of Trenton defeated the home team of Brighton.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix Courneya and family of Peterboro spent Sunday and Monday with Mr. and Mrs. A. Norrington.

Master Billy Gibson of Toronto is spending his vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Greig and family.

Many farmers attended the carnival at Trenton on Sunday evening and during the week.

On Tuesday evening of this week the local softball team are planning a trip by boat to Brighton to play the Dusty Rend nine there. They will travel by the Murray Canal-bush's boat up the canal and plan to leave about 5:30 in the afternoon. If the trip will, no doubt, be very pleasant.

COME ON . . . GET IN THE SWIM WITH YOUTH!

"LET'S GO!" says Youth. And whether it's play—or work—you're ready if you feel young. Simple enough if you know your process; carbohydrates, minerals and vitamins. All these vital elements, with Nature's own measure of bran, are in Shredded Wheat. It's whole wheat with nothing added, nothing taken away. It's ready cooked, ready to serve with milk or cream and the fruit you like best. Try a bowlful tomorrow. Keep it up for ten days. Then you'll know what a big difference this VITALLY DIFFERENT food can make in the way you feel.

Vitally different!

"Most food for least money." 12 big biscuits in every box.

REPEAL SEEN BY DECEMBER

Jousett Shouse Speaks of Verdict of U. S. People

New York, July 19 (AP)—Repeal of the 18th amendment before the end of 1933 was held today to be certain by Jouett Shouse, President of the National Association against prohibition.

"The verdict of the U.S. people is just as certain, is just as well known and is just as commanding now as it will be when the last detail has been completed," Shouse said in a statement commenting on the repeal elections yesterday in Arkansas and Alabama.

"It is now highly probable," the statement continued, "that not merely the necessary 33 States will ratify the pending proposed 21st amendment to the Federal constitution but that it will be ratified by all the 48 States of the Union."

Rev. and Mrs. Clarke spent the week-end with friends in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Davis were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Burnside, Madoc.

Mrs. B. Simpkins and daughter have returned to their home in Detroit after a holiday with Mr. and Mrs. R. Simpkins.

The W.C.T.U. held their meeting at the home of the Misses McLaren on Monday evening.

A large number from here attended the Orange celebration at Hamilton.

Rain is very badly needed in this locality.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Simpkins accompanied by Mrs. R. Simpkins and little daughter were Monday guests of Mr. J. Symington, Napanee.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Badgley were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. Badgley, Malone.

The chairman, Rev. W. T. Keough in the absence of the church called the assembly to order for the presentation of the programme. Excellent music was provided by the Baxter Orchestra of Point Anne, who have always so willingly given of their talent and assisted Front Road in their entertaining efforts.

Miss Bernice Robinson of the 4th of Thurlow, delighted the audience with well rendered piano solos, while Mr. Merle Robinson with comic vocal solos, brought peals of laughter from his hearers. Miss Marjory Hall of Belleville is a favorite with the people of the community, pleased her audience with her sweet voice and splendid selections. Last but not least were guitar solos by Mr. Melvin Mallory, one of the community's own promising young musicians. Nearly every number was heartily encored so well received were they by the audience.

After the National Anthem the ladies served a bountiful lunch consisting of sandwiches, cake and coffee.

The booth under the capable management of Mrs. S. Snider, Mrs. N. Brown and Miss Doris Reid did a thriving business during the evening which would materially assist in swelling the gate receipts of the Aid.

ENJOY GARDEN PARTY HELD BY FRONT ROAD LADIES

An enjoyable garden party was held on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Leavens on Tuesday evening, July the 18th, under the auspices of Front Road Ladies' Aid.

The evening was all that could be desired and the grounds brilliantly lighted for the event when a good crowd availed themselves of the opportunity for a pleasant outing.

IS STRICKEN WITH SEVERE STROKE

Plainfield, July 19—A large number from here attended the Orange sermon given by Rev. Merrick at Camilton.

On Monday evening the ladies played a softball game with Tweed team and result was 15 to 18 in favor of visiting team, and on Friday evening the junior boys had a game with Milbrook, the local team winning.

On Saturday evening the Seniors played hard ball with Melrose the score was in favor of the visiting team.

Mr. Walter Hall who has been in Belleville hospital for some time is expected home this week. The community is pleased to hear of his recovery after his serious illness.

Mrs. Margaret Hoard'swas stricken on Thursday morning while in bed with a severe stroke and has never spoken since. Dr. Morgan of Belleville was called and an ambulance and arrived and conveyed her to Belleville hospital the same day and her condition remains about the same.

Her two daughters and two sons and sister of Rochester motored here on Friday to see her and are staying at their mother's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Black and daughter Miss Allen spent a few days here visiting friends and spent Thursday night at Mr. and Mrs. John Rollins and on Friday at Mr. and Mrs. W. Elliott's for dinner, also Miss Annie Hamilton, Mrs. M. Hibel and Mrs. Walter Hall.

Mr. Ronald Calley of Queensboro visited friends here on Sunday.

Rev. J. Everson preached to a fairly good attendance on Sunday evening.

NEWLYWEDS ARE PRESENTED WITH GIFTS BY FRIENDS

Bonarlaw, July 19—On Saturday evening last a large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. S. Stiles and gave a miscellaneous shower to their youngest daughter Olive recently married to Reginald I. Cross of Toronto.

An address was read wishing the bride and groom much joy, and expressing the respect and esteem in which they are held by one and all. Mr. Baker who read the address mentioned the fact that although Mr. Cross was not very well known to the people of this vicinity he was himself well acquainted with his father Mr. S. Cross of Toronto, who has been a dear friend of his for the past 25 years, a man of sterling character and one whom anyone should be proud to claim as his friend. "If his son Reginald is half as fine a man as his father," said Mr. Baker, "we need have no worry about the future for he and Olive."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Cross replied, thanking the guests for the many gifts and serving all to come and see them at any time. After the parcels had all been opened and the cards read, Mr. Cross eloquently addressed the guests again, expressing his surprise at the large number of beautiful and useful presents and thanking them again for the same.

All sang "For they are Jolly Good Fellows" and gave them three hearty cheers and a tiger.

The ladies served a bountiful lunch of sandwiches, cake, coffee and lemonade.

Mrs. Samuel Cross of Toronto, mother of the groom was present.

Bonarlaw, Ont., July 15th, 1933.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald I. Cross:

We have gathered here this evening for the purpose of saying that we wish you much joy and in order to show in some way the esteem in which you are held by one and all.

Nearly all of us know you Olive, all your life, and we have nothing but good things to say. We are sorry that you will not be living here but we feel sure that you have found a friend to all and always ready to help in any way possible in every good cause, and you will be greatly missed in this work. Reginald, you had fully recovered from the illness which so unfortunately interrupted your following the nursing profession, you would again find it a good one. We believe that a good wife to a lonely man is even more noble a profession, and we will not say we are sorry.

We join you in congratulations, Mr. Cross, on your choice. You are no doubt already aware that you are taking one of our finest girls. We have not been fortunate enough to have known you very long but the opinion we have formed is good and you have the respect of all. Even though you were entirely unknown to us the fact that Olive has selected you from among the hundreds of other young men would be all the recommendation needed.

But as action speaks louder than words, we not only tell you of our feeling towards you, but as a tangible mark of our respect and esteem, we ask you both to accept these various gifts.

May your married life be long and happy, and may you be blessed with an abundant measure of good prosperity.

2 DIE IN PLANE CRASH

St. Louis, July 19 (AP)— Two men, tentatively identified as Irvin Koening and Russell Tuemler, both of St. Louis, were killed today in the crash of their aeroplane during a forced landing nine miles north of St. Charles, Mo., a suburb.

RESCUE HORSE AND CALF

Cayuga, Ont., July 19—(CP)—In rescuing a horse and calf from the burning barn on his father's farm four miles west of here Arthur Reichfeld suffered painful burns on the face and arms yesterday.

The barn was completely destroyed together with 20 loads of hay which were stored there and four calves.

STOCK MARKETS BREAK OPEN, THEN FIRM

Shares Thrown on Mart Prices Crumble Before Powerful Raid of Bears

Break in New York Exchange Strikes Interlisted Stocks Here

LIQUORS DOWN

International Nickle Loses Five Dollars in Noon Drive

TORONTO, July 21.—(CP)—Toronto markets broke wide open in the last hour and half this afternoon and stocks dropped $1 to $3 a share in a few minutes on both the Toronto and the Standard Exchange.

The selling was started by a new bear drive in Wall Street and the interlisted shares were the first to feel the effect of the price collapse. International Nickel flopped from $20 to $15, and all the liquor leaders including Walker's common, Distillers Seagram and Canadian Industrial Alcohol shot down $3 to $6 each. All the senior Gold issues followed, losing $2 to $4 for Dom McIntyre, and Lake Shore and Teck and Wright Hargreaves slipped about $3 each. Bidding was crashed to 4.25 down 1.40 for the day and about half its price earlier in the week.

FIRMS LITTLE AT CLOSE

WINNIPEG, July 21—Firm in the face of closed gain futures markets in the United States and heavy selling by scared speculators, when fishing reports from the shipping Grain Exchange took heart from the heaviest export business in Canadian wheat for more than two weeks and showed remarkable staying power. Values standard in the last few minutes of trading and closed fractionally higher than one cent lower, July 44 7-8; October at 30 1-4; December at 32 and May at 34.

Trading volume was appreciable but did not approach yesterday's bulk session. Sentiment was noticeable steadier, with shorts not held within a narrow range after some uncertainty in the first hour.

Export business was estimated at 2,000,000 bushels, Liverpool was stronger than had been expected and weather and crop news added their steadying influence.

GREAT BRITAIN TO IMPORT MORE TOBACCO

Montreal, July 21 (CP)— Good news for Ontario farmers was brought back to Canada today by Hon. T. L. Kennedy Minister of Agriculture in the Ontario Government, who has returned from a rapid trip to Great Britain and the continent.

"There will be a very material increase in the importation of Canadian tobacco into Great Britain this year," the Minister told newspapermen who met him when the Empress of Britain docked here. Another encouraging importation that has practically doubled itself every year.

ODDITIES IN THE NEWS

Sharon, Pa., July 21 (AP) — Next to satisfy that irresistible American urge, a Sharon druggist has placed a big dash of paint at the door with a sign on his freshly-beautified store front.

The sign said: "If you must scratch the dog, scratch here."

Westerville, O., July 21 (AP)— Today was the 106th anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Hanby, author of "Darling Nellie Gray" and two Ohio towns still can't decide where he was born.

Westerville claims "Darling Nellie Gray" was written when Hanby was a sophomore student at Otterbein College. Rochester maintains it was composed when Hanby was teaching there after graduation.

New York, July 21 (AP) — Manhattan's first forgery—run on the banks basis is keeping the police busy proving a success. More than 150 under-privileged children of the lower east side are on hand for the privilege of borrowing toys. The demand exceeds the supply.

Columbus, O., July 21 (AP)— That man who robbed Eugene Cody of $36 couldn't let him go home broke.

Cody said the robber stopped him as he walked toward home. "How much money have you got?" he asked.

"Seven now," Cody replied.

"Well," the robber said, "I never let a man go broke," here's $2."

MUST HAVE READ COMMAND INCORRECTLY

Lord Chamberlain Was Commanded to Invite Them

London, July 21—(CP Cable)— Aftermath of yesterday's Royal Garden Party at Buckingham Palace, the social eclipse of several London newspapers today were filled with announcements (at so much a line) intimating:

Mr. and Mrs. so and so regret they were unavoidably prevented from obeying their Majesties' command to attend the garden party."

Those who inserted them must have read the summons to the function carelessly or they would have seen they were not themselves commanded to attend. Their Majesties Britain was commanded to invite them.

In any event the powers of the social world snickered at the idea of advertising the lack of neglect to obey a Royal command, even if one had really been issued.

CYCLONE HITS POINT EDWARD

One Man Killed as Mile Long Sheds Struck

Point Edward, Ont., July 21 (CP)—At least one man was killed and several others injured when a cyclonic storm struck the freight sheds of the Northern Navigation Company here late today and levelled the mile-long structure.

The full extent of the damage is not yet known. According to Captain Ball of the Company, two twisters met just above the sheds and smashed them to splinters. The sheds, situated about one and one-half miles south of Sarnia on the banks of the St. Clair River, are long low structures in which vessels of the line load and unload cargoes. Some years ago, part of one shed was swept by fire.

Less Very Heavy

The loss is expected to be very heavy, since the warehouses were heavily loaded with freight awaiting to be trans-shipped from boat to rail and vice-versa.

The man killed was identified as Ernest Main of Sarnia. Several unruly there are several hundred men engaged in trucking and unloading freight. Also injured were Canadian National Railway-had a number of freight cars on the docks cars to the very side of the sheds. The cars would be run down the dock at the far southern end of the sheds, which are of frame construction, simply dissolved in a mass of flying timbers and splinters when the storm struck them.

SEVEN FOREST FIRES RAGING

Two Hundred And Fifty Men Battle For Control

Port Arthur, Ont., July 21 (CP) Seven forest fires are battling to gain control over seven forest fires raging in Port Arthur district headlands. It was announced at the Ontario Forestry Branch today. Dense smoke hangs over Nipigon district, made it impossible from the air to establish whether any have been swept by the fires.

The two most serious blazes, Foresters said, have been burning several days. Both are reported to be rapid and roaring rivers and in the district of Kashlabiog Lake, about 50 miles north of the north shore of Lake Nipigon. The territories were accessible only by aeroplane at present rushing in men, supplies and fire fighting equipment.

Muskie Made Sport of Two Anglers by Spitting Bait and Hook Into Boat

Peterboro, Ont., July 21 (CP) — Things like this would break the heart of any Izaak Walton.

Albert Curtis and Chris Hughes had just pulled in a 15 pound muskie into their boat and were casting for more. A sudden tightening of the line, a rush, and the fish was gradually hauled into the boat side. Then, the fishermen noticed another muskie stuck his head out of the water, spit bait and hook into the boat and with a flip of his tail disappeared.

Now Chris and Albert are showing another 15 pound muskie, and are casting 39 inches, as the one who defied them the first time but apparently succumbed to temptation of a healthy worm.

UNITED STATES TENNIS TEAM PUT TO ROUT

British Scores Two Sensational Straight Set Single Victories

DECIDED UPSET

Sates Must Win Remaining Three Matches to Qualify

Roland Garros Stadium, Auteuil, France, July 21—(AP)—The British Davis Cup tennis forces put their American rivals to rout today in the inter-zone finals with two spectacular straight-set singles victories.

Fred Perry, British No. 1 conquered Wilmer Allison, 6-1, 7-5, 6-4, after Henry D. (Bunny) Austin smashed Ellsworth Vines, sprine a sensational upset in trounced the American Davis Cup record's champion, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.

The double setback came as a shocking blow to the American team, virtually crushing their high hopes of bringing the Davis Cup back to America for the first time in 10 years.

With the doubles scheduled tomorrow and two concluding singles matches Sunday, the British lead only one more victory to gain the challenge round, whereas the United States must improve their straight to capture the series.

Austin duplicated his "giant" killing" role role of 1931 by taking Vines into camp with such ridiculous ease that the American camp was stunned. Allison put up much better resistance to Perry, but Perry got squarely upon him, but he was outplayed as the critical moments by Perry, especially in the last two sets.

The Americans had entered the inter-zone finals as 6-5 favorites, supposedly with a comfortable lead but they quickly became the victims of a startling upset and saw their Davis cup chances crash with a resounding echo in the boiling hot stadium.

AUSTRALIA IS NOT TO SIGN

Wheat Restriction Plan Not Favored Says Bruce

London, July 21 (AP)—Stanley M. Bruce, Australian delegate to the World Economic Conference today that his country could not be associated with any scheme for the restriction of production as the Wallace Farm Relief Bill proposes.

"Australia Has not at this moment subscribed to any such scheme," Mr. Bruce declared.

This declaration appeared to make the chances for conclusion of an agreement for restriction of wheat production and the big loan sought by representatives of Canada, the United States, Argentina and Australia very slim.

Mr. Bruce was making an address upon the plan of projects for restricting production of commodities but what he said appeared particularly applicable to wheat control or which negotiations had been going on day by day for two days.

The Australian spokesman was considered in some quarters to have left the door open for further treating of the wheat question, however, when he said that he recognized that in some cases because of extraordinary surpluses and other conditions, limitation as a remedy might improve conditions.

CONVICT STILL AT LARGE

Kingston, Ont., July 21.—(CP) Thorough search by police in Cataraqui district has failed to disclose any trace of David Bush, escaped penitentiary farm convict, believed hiding in this territory. Police said today they had received no clues without tangible results.

TWO OF BRITAIN'S OLDEST FAMILIES UNITED IN MARRIAGE

The young Earl of Warwick seventh holder of that title, which dates back to 1759, and then becomes Baron Brooke back as far as 1621, as he appeared with his pretty bride, the former Rose Bingham, daughter of Lady Rosabelle Brand, and herself of a distinguished family. The young couple are shown just after their marriage at the Village of Glynde, where the bride spent many of her childhood days. The ancestral estate of the bridegroom, Warwick castle in Warwickshire, is a favorite shrine of tourists. The picture shows a general view outside village church of Glynde, near Lewes, England, as the earl emerged with his bride on his arm. Thousands of the townsfolk were on hand to congratulate the young peer and his bride, who is his second cousin.

NINETY-TWO DEGREES FOR HOTTEST DAY

One Degree Warmer Than Previous Highest in Temperature

SLIGHT BREEZE

Humidity Not so Marked as on Thursday Afternoon

A brassy sun blazed from a glazed blue sky on Friday. Hardly a breath of air stirred the parched and wilted leaves of trees in the city. Grass and garden crops in the outlying areas about the city turned a deeper shade of brown. Downtown pedestrians left a shallow imprint of visible footsteps on the melting asphalt of city streets as heat waves danced from the surface. And all the while the standing mercury continued its steady advance during the day, reaching 92 noon on Friday a high 92 above. It was Belleville's hottest day of the present summer. It was a day of heat, perspiration and a clammy oppressiveness following a sweltering night of close, stifling heat. Even the cooling hours of morning, registering a high mark of 90 above graced the day, while the lowest point reached was set at 63 above. Local thunderstorms loom in the offing, according to weather predictions, but even these are welcome—is the prayer of a perspiring city.

HAS TILL SUNDAY TO BREAK RECORD

Expect Post Will Arrive in N.Y. on Saturday

New York, July 21 (AP) — Wiley Post has until Sunday to break the existing round-the-world record which he and Gatty set in 1931.

But Lee Trebom, his flight representative, said today he looked for him back at Floyd Bennett Field, Brooklyn, by late Saturday afternoon, providing repairs are made quickly on his damaged ship at Point Barrow, Alaska.

Trebom figured that Post could make the 2,300 miles in 36 hours flying time, with about five hours more for stop-overs.

13-YEAR OLD BOY IS CHARGED WITH ARSON

Said To Have Confessed to Firing Two Buildings

TORONTO, July 21.—(CP)— A 13-year-old boy whom police say has confessed to having set fire to two buildings here yesterday, is being charged with arson.

The lad is said to have told police that he started first in four places in the home of E. Klinsman and to a Mattress Warehouse on Queen Street. Both fires were checked before they had a chance to do serious damage.

LINDBERGHS CONTINUE HOP

Start From Cartwright For Greenland To-day

ST. John's, Nfld., July 21.—(CP) Bound for Greenland, the flying Lindberghs, Charles and Anne, hopped off from Cartwright, Labrador at 11.43 Newfoundland time today.

The Lindberghs arrived at Cartwright, a week ago from St. John's where they made an overnight stop on their journey from New York by way of North Haven, Maine, and Halifax.

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP)—The the cheers of an enthusiastic throng described by police as the greatest since the welcome to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, six years ago. New York's Italian day gave its official reception to General Italo Balbo and his 96 gallant, Italian flyers.

HALLIDAY CONVICTED CASHING CHEQUES

Found Guilty at Quebec; Gave Address as Belleville

QUEBEC, July 21.—(CP)—Graham Halliday, 25, giving his address as Belleville, Ont., was convicted in court of sessions today on a charge of cashing two worthless cheques for $75 each, and also to a charge of securing by false pretences food and lodging to the amount of $35 from a local hotel. Judge Louis Demers will pass sentence on Thursday next.

YOUNG BRIDE IS STRANGLED

Montreal Husband Finds Evidence of Murder For Money

Montreal, July 21 (CP)— Mrs. Isidore Guerin, 26, a bride of three months, was found dead by strangulation today when her husband returned home from working all night. A bed sheet was wound around her neck and thrust into her mouth. A sum of money was missing and a search by investigation by police indicated she had been murdered by a robber.

At about 3 a.m. according to neighbors, a taxicab stopped at the Guerin home. A preliminary examination of the woman's body showed she probably died about that time.

Guerin is employed by a baggage transfer company as an automobile washer. He told police he reached his home about 6.15 a.m., went into her room and found her dead. Yesterday he had given his wife $18 and this had disappeared.

THREE VIOLENT DEATHS REPORTED IN QUEBEC

Drowning and Automobile Accident Takes Toll

Quebec, July 21.—(CP)— Three persons are dead in Quebec and district today, two as a result of drownings and one from injuries incurred in an automobile accident.

Robert Demers, 5, was drowned while swimming in the Beauvirage River. While two companions by a swam across, the river to a rock but on reaching it slipped off and was drowned in 10 feet of water.

Mr. Casgrain, 55, of Cap Chat succumbed, to injuries received when the car in which he was riding left the road and turned over four times.

Ottawa and Upper St. Lawrence Valley—Moderate winds; partly cloudy tonight and Saturday with local thunderstorms. Not much change in temperature.

Maritime and Gulf—Moderate to fresh west to northwest winds; mostly fair with stationary or a little higher temperature.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, July 21 (CP)— The disturbance of atmospheric pressure has changed but little since yesterday with moderately high pressure on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and a deep low area over Hudson Bay, and a shallow trough extending southward across Lake Superior to the Mississippi Valley. Except for local showers in some northern districts the weather in the western provinces has been fair and comparatively cool. Fair weather prevails over the Great Lakes and westward except in southwestern Ontario where it has been very warm with local thunderstorms.

Northern Ontario—Partly cloudy and warm with thunderstorms tonight and Saturday.

Markdale, Ont., July 21 (CP) — A large drift of snow and ice, three feet high, has been melting on the farm of W. J. Boles today. The drift was left on the farm when a severe hail storm hit this village Sunday. The hail storm hit with such force on the Boles farm that the stones falling from the barn roof formed the large drift.

NORMAN BLOCK IN CALGARY DESTROYED

Contained Some of Finest Stores

Calgary, July 21 (CP)—Threatened with destruction by fire many times since it was erected 40 years ago, the Norman Block today was in ruins. Firemen still stood guard after an all-night struggle to prevent spread of the flames.

Origin of the blaze was not known and according to early estimates damage will amount to $200,000. Built by the late Senator Lougheed, Calgarian of the early days, the large business establishment contained a number of the city's leading stores.

CHINESE GENERAL DEFIES GOVERNMENT

Will Fight Till End for Recovery of Manchuria

Peiping, China, July 21 (AP) — General Feng Yu-Hsiang again defies the Central Government today in a telegram saying her would fight for the recovery of Manchuria "although one breath is left in my body."

General Feng, so-called "man of mystery" and "China's Christian General" whose independent campaigns in North China led the Nanking regime to send 60,000 troops against him, caused apprehensions for a Sino-Japanese truce, sent the message to Chiang Kai-Shek, Central Government generalissimo.

REMOVED FROM ENTRIES

Sault Ste Marie, Ont., July 21— (CP)—The garden of E. Coubert was today removed from the entry list of those contending for prizes offered for the best unemployed man's garden by the owner.

There was but one garden to compete. Yesterday a bear, wandering along Pinelina Avenue in search of food, found the garden. The young vegetables appealed to him—and the garden disappeared.

NEIGHBORS HEARING QUARREL CALL PRIEST WHO MAKES DISCOVERY

RIFLE' USED

Interior of Cottage on Allumette Island Scene of Horror

Pembroke, Ont., July 21 (CP) — Four persons were slain in a family altercation at Demers Centre, Allumette Island, early today. They were all members of one family and Tom Bradley, aged 45 years, was believed to have fled to the bush. He first was reported to be hiding in the barn near the family residence with a loading rifle. Police rushed from Chapiesu, Que., to arrest him.

When Rev. Father D. J. Harrington of Calumet, was called by neighbors to investigate a disturbance they had heard in the Bradley home nine miles distant, he found three bodies. They were Joseph Bradley, aged 81 years; Tom Bradley's son, Mary Bradley, 68 years, his mother, and Johanne, 38 years, his sister. Later the body of John Bradley, an uncle, who lived with them was found in an outhouse. All had been slain, evidently by rifle bullets.

Priest is Informed

The neighbors summoned the priest following a noisy disturbance which had kept the neighborhood awake between five and six o'clock this morning.

Rev. Father Harrigton arriving at the house found the bodies of the dead mother, sister and father lying on the floor. They had been shot down in the confines of their own living room. The bodies lay about the floor, and the interior of the house was confusion. The body of the uncle, John Bradley, was found about an hour later in an old shed in the rear of the house.

Father Harrington is stated, rushed through the house to the rear and after a short search noticed Tom Bradley apparently trying to conceal himself in the barn. He carried a rifle he rushed to send word to Sheriff Sloan, of Pembroke, and Provincial Constable St. Germain and Dr. A. M. Renaud, coroner at Chapleau.

Search Steers Fourth Body

While the authorities were speeding to the spot the sought for man fled, evidently into the bush near the house in the little community. It was the search for him that brought to light the body of one more who lived with the family.

A large search party was organized to comb the woods but orders to proceed carefully were given as it was believed the fugitive was thought to be the family hunting dog and which carried a cartridge magazine of seven shot.

Tom Bradley is said to grasped Demers Centre and the whole island children have been recalled from the woods. Armed hunting parties are taking to the woods. Women and children have barricaded indoors, fearful of tragedy.

Man Mentally Defective

Thomas Bradley who is being sought by officers over the skyline is said by residents of Demers Centre and the surrounding district to be mentally defective although as far as is known he has never been violent or given to harm for care. He is about 45 years of age and has been living with the family recently. The bodies of the father, mother and sister were found on their beds. The three victims are originally from Shenebora, Que., and they moved seven years ago to the island of Demers Centre on Allumette Island.

More Tax Money Coming in Interpreted as Good Sign

A few note of cheerfulness according to Tax Collector Mr. Fevident at the office of the tax collector in the city hall. During the past two weeks tax payments on city and small properties in the city have been lining up at the polished counter in the downstairs office. From pocketbooks and bulkiest purses have come the little piles of bills and silver necessary to pay their debt to the city. Always a gloomy business this paying of taxes, except the smaller the year a new enthusiasm has been noted by the collector. And, as-Ketcheson the collection so far taken in this year have been noticeably higher than the same period last year. How much higher is not known yet. It is believed, however, that the gain is a "healthy" one.

Also there is less grumbling, less confusion in paying over the money. Smiles have replaced the frowns of last year, and years previous. Perhaps the smaller amount of money owners the change for the better has been noticeable.

A short stop will also be made at Picton where the passengers will also be allowed ashore.

FISH GUIDES NOT BUSY THIS YEAR

Tourists from south of the border are not so plentiful in local waters this year, according to licensed guides of the district who have in past year reaped a tidy profit by piloting the anglers to bass feed beds in the Bay or Quinte. Although bass are now biting freely, and larger catches of good-sized fish are being made, less fishing is being carried on in the bay. Smaller catches are not difficult to obtain this year, and many of the bass are running to six pounds.

Dormitory Building at O.S.D. Now in Course of Erection

Expect to Pour Cement For Foundation in Few Days

The western portion of the grounds of the Ontario School for the Deaf is the scene of marked activity these days. Thursday last, the contractors, Messrs. Miller and Edgar, Kingson, started operations there on the preliminary work in the erection of the new dormitory building. This structure is to be built in the field just to the front of the grounds proper and a little to the northward of the present new dormitory building.

The new building is to consist of two stories and basement. On a cement basis, cut Queenston lime-stone will furnish the foundation structure from the grade line and the two storeys will be of brick. The building faces the west and will house 100 pupils. It will be 152 feet 6 inches in length by 62 feet 6 inches in width with two small wings at the rear 12 feet 4 inches long.

Rapid Progress

This (Thursday) morning 70 laborers and 14 teams were at work on the excavation for the building, the digging or trenches and levelling work. Mr. Miller of the contractors and Edgar is in charge of the work while Mr. Madley of the Ontario Department of Public Works is acting as inspector for his department. Should rain hold off today or tomorrow will see the completion of the excavation for the building and in this work the top soil has been saved to surface the levelling operations which is under way to the west or the side of the new building. Several hundred feet of sewer trenching for sewers, storm sewers and tile drainage have already been finished in a week's time.

A 7-foot wide trench is now being dug from the road to the building, clear to the site of the new structure. This will carry steam lines for heating and water, in it will be four lines of pipe.

The temporary wooden buildings for housing the contractors' and engineers' offices and supplies have also been erected.

Local men are and will be employed as far as possible while the wages paid are to those specified by the Ontario Department or Public Works.

Skiffs, Nets Destroyed When Trenton Boathouse Burns

Fire of Unknown Origin And Building Burns Quickly

Trenton, July 21 (Special)—Fire of an unknown origin early this morning destroyed a boat house owned—by Clayton Pero of Trenton and situated at the mouth of the Trent—the bay shore near the airport. Two skiffs and many nets, worth a few nets fell prey to the flames.

Many boys from the Legion went to the blaze thinking it was the station on the west side of the city and they were amazed where possible but the fire had gained much headway before the boys reached the College Grads Eliminated.

Three teams are now definitely out of the running in the local softball league, having failed to defeat the College Grads, who dropped a hard battle by 5-4 last night to the Murter lads, leading Riverside Dairy. An extra innings had to be played before the winning run could be declared. Montrose Dairy and the R.C.A.F. are also listed for the season as far as a play-off is concerned but the remaining four will be almost any place yet. The Foreign Legion have the toughest road because they must beat the Woolen Leafs twice to gain a third place set with Riverside Dairy. The Woolen Leafs will tell-the-tale as the Legion and Leafs meet tonight.

The Ross Burtt coached Grads gave Harry Smith and his Riverside Dairy team a merry battle. Derra in the Grads box started by filling the bases and when the smoke died down two runs had been recorded. The Grads tallied once in the second and one in the fourth. Mackie put the dairymen two up again when he drove in a run with Derra and Roy Smith on. The last of the sixth opened with Jones driving one back of the batsman for a homer. Lamore up next duplicated the feat by even the count. Coughlin replaced Langdon in the Dairymen's box and kept the Grads off the score sheet while Chase crossed the plate after Derra got on a long caught fly from Chambers' bat. Ken Chambers was in rare form at the bat for the Grads and Jack Murter for the Grads being in the right place for many of the home boys' hits. Both teams had perfect fielding.

Lineups:

Grads—Baker, Roberts, Mitchell, Jones, Lamore, Anderson, Dadswell, McMurter and Derry.

Riverside Dairy—E. Chambers, Alexander, Scarlett, Smith, McCue, Mackie, Smiley, Chase, Langdon 5 1-2, and Coughlin 2 2-3.

Score by innings:

Riversides ..... 200 020 01—5
Grads ..... 010 012 00—4

Hits, Grads 5; Riversides 7. Errors Grads 5; Riversides 2. Struck out by Derry 4, by Langdon 3, by Coughlin 3, Walks off Derry 2, Langdon 3, Coughlin 3. Home runs McCue, Jones, Lamore. Umpires—Pate, J. Kidd, basen, H. Deng.

Letters to The Editor

To the Editor of The Ontario Intelligencer:

Dear Sir:

Just a word on the water situation. I understand that the waterworks department is levying fines of one dollar upon water users without benefit of law or charge. If the fine is not paid presumably the water will be turned off. How comes this high and mighty dictatorship, which was cut off an hour of water using in the evening with no yes, I or no, break the contract entered into with the consumers, at a moment's notice. The evening is the best time to water lawns and gardens as watering in the heat of the day when the sun is shining is more of an injury than a benefit to the grass and flowers—an hour less in the day time would not have mattered.

Where does the water department of ours get such dictatorial powers, and by what right have they to fine any citizen, who turns on the water a few minutes ahead of time stipulated, or leaves it on a short time longer?

And why not treat all alike. How about the hose that pours unlimited streams of water at the Fair Grounds at all hours of the day and night—particularly in 24-hour service?

How about the bowling green where water is used regardless of any time limits, day and night.

How about the hosing the boulevards on Murney Hill get night and day regardless of the hours in which the ordinary citizen is limited.

Who owns the waterworks system, the officials or the citizens?

How come, we are short of water?

After all the money that has been spent on the plant.

—Citizen.

PRESIDENT OF CLUB WELCOMED IN CITY

T's Men Hold Banquet in Honor of Visitor

As a signal honor and to welcome their first International President to Belleville the T's Men's Club held a special luncheon meeting at Dinty Moore's last evening when Paul W. Alexander of Toledo, Ohio, the founder and first President of the T's Men's Club was the guest of the evening.

Mr. Alexander who is touring across Canada from British Columbia to Nova Scotia was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Thompson during his stay in Belleville. Mr. Thompson is a past president of the International clubs.

Mr. Alexander addressed the club at length explaining to them more fully the fundamentals of the organization. He referred them to their foreign clubs which are growing in number annually.

President Cody Miller occupied the chair and the speaker was introduced by Mr. Thompson.

Wreckers Discover Heavy Floor Not Mahogany, Juice-Soaked Pine

Good Old Days at Carman Opera House is Recalled

The demolishers of the old opera house, in the course of their work a day or two ago, discovered for a time, they had found a treasure trove, a find that would, alone, recompense them for what they had paid for the building, and leave the sale of all other materials as clear profit. In wrecking the gallery of the Belleville institution, dedicated to comedy, drama, and the terpsichorean art, workmen on the removal of the worn top flooring found below it what they thought to be a fine large specimen of mahogany. The appearance and weight of the lumber gave every evidence that the discovery was this valuable wood—but:

Back went the parts backward, oh, time in your flight.

Make me a boy again just for tonight."

You of the graying locks and approaching forties, can recall in your recollection of the nights spent in tremor or laughter in the "gods" of the old Carman Opera House from 8 or fifteen cents admitted you there, and as shows since were just like or could thrill you like did the old opera house came to that place. You will recall, too, that no sign prohibiting the mastication of plug tobacco, desecrated the proscenium of the "gods" and the consequent necessity of over-abundance of this juicy nourishment was looked upon by the management as a friendly accessions of the patron's pleasure and enjoyment of their habitual pastime. With a melodrama of intensive interest and its hair raising situations, jaws would clamp with devoted earnestness as the plot developed. Or take a good old burlesque show like the "Black Crook," how the steams of dark amber juice would sprout forth and splatter as the bowline like or herculean skill damsels of the chorus kicked in unison, or rendered their quips or terpsichorean numbers individually or induo. My! My! how damp the old gods' would become, when a busy day (and there were many) came to town.

In those days have the scent of the mahogany flooring these workers of demolishment discovered. Good, sturdy Canadian white pine, by years of constant saturation in spilled liquor, of hundreds of the "god's" patrons of the old opera house changed to rich mahogany.

"GOOD COMPANIONS" ARE COMING TO BELLEVILLE

TORONTO PRESS ENTHUSES OVER "THE GOOD COMPANIONS"

"The best British picture shown in Toronto since "Smashing Smile" and much superior to that popular film. It should share with "Cavalcade" the honors of the present season."
Editorial, Toronto Star

"Convincingly real — cast well chosen — they become real people in the minds of the audience."
Mail and Empire

"The best that has crossed the ocean. It looks as if all Toronto will be following Their Majesties' example. It lasts nearly two hours, but last night's audience would gladly have watched it for two more."
Toronto Telegram.

"This is a picture no one will want to miss. The whole thing is delightful."
Toronto Telegram.

"The Good Companions" bids fair to run up a new popularity record. This film is the first one ever attended by Their Majesties the King and Queen and you are strongly advised to follow Their Majesties' example. "The Good Companions" is one picture that you'll want to see again and then perhaps once more. We've seen it twice ourselves."
Toronto Telegram

"I shall be very surprised if Canadian moviegoers do not take "The Good Companions" to their hearts. The Good Companions are better companions than they ever were before.
Even more romantic and refreshing . . . the best talkie he had ever attended . . . moving and inspiring."
Mail and Empire Editorial

"No more humanly appealing story has ever been screened . . . will permanently enrich every spectator's memory. The final curtain brings a burst of cheering and applause. Don't miss it."
Toronto Globe.

Scalps were Cheap when Canada was Young

PONTIAC, warrior Chief of the Six Nations, who captured Detroit in the early and strenuous days when the white man, seeking to obtain a foothold on this continent, was not content to fight the Red Man alone, but also the White Man, his blood brother, for the spoils of conquest.

Thus French and English fought each other, while the Red Man looked on amazed, and later the Yankee fought the British and Canadians, with the Red Man lining up on either side.

Pontiac was a great chief, but whether he was a GOOD COMPANION, is another story.

However, let me tell you of another PONTIAC. A still greater chief, not of the Six Nations, but of the mighty EIGHTS OF AUTOMOBILDOM, and a mighty GOOD COMPANION, as I have proved by thousands of miles of necessarily fast travelling.

Last week a short but extensive tour of New York State proved the PONTIAC to be PEERLESS. I gained 20 MILES TO THE GALLON on the whole trip, added NO OIL, stopped for NO REPAIRS, and like the PONTIAC felt RARING TO GO when I got back to the desk.

Another thing worthy of note—I was practically never out of sight of a General Motors service depot during the entire trip—and when I say Service I mean Service with a Big S and a Big Smile, and no hold-up either.

Mr. J. B. BOYCE did me a distinct favour when he sold me a PONTIAC seven months ago because no one could wish for a BETTER COMPANION than a trustworthy car.

Another great J. B. is J. B. Priestley, author of "THE GOOD COMPANIONS," and I invite all the readers of this page to attend the showing of this outstanding BRITISH MASTERPIECE to-morrow, and to get acquainted with that laughable, likeable, care-free company of wandering entertainers, each of a loveable, laughable type.

Cars and Celluloid must be alike in one all-important factor, QUALITY, and PONTIACS like BRITISH FILMS bear the hall-mark of SUPREME SATISFACTION.

THE JOY OF LIFE ON THE OPEN ROAD

If you have never known the joy of life on the open road or have always lived a life of sheltered ease but are young enough and bold enough to hear and heed the call of romance and adventure, then revel in the happy-go-lucky atmosphere of "The Good Companions" opening at the Capitol Theatre on Saturday.

The picture is based upon J. B. Priestley's world-famed novel in which a group of entertainers gathered from various parts of England are joined together by the common bond of understanding and fellowship. Combined with the troupe of entertainers known as "The Dinky Doos" and later as "The Good Companions" are a few ordinary folks, who were unhappy at home, and setting out in search of adventure meet and join with these gay companions.

The story of how this group of people, from various parts of England and different social strata, meet by chance in a little English town and their trials and triumphs in search of success is one of the most fascinating that has ever been told. Few of us are brave enough to heed the call of the open road and leave home and family in search of romantic adventure, but in "The Good Companions" we have an opportunity of sharing the trials and triumphs of those brave enough to make their dreams come true.

The total cast of "The Good Companions" is in excess of a thousand and is headed by such notable players as Jessie Matthews and Edmund Gwenn, in addition to many other leading English stage and screen Stars. The picture had the honour of being the first publicly attended by Their Majesties King George and Queen Mary and is being acclaimed throughout the world as the most human entertainment that the screen has offered. The musical numbers introduced in "The Good Companions" include "Let Me Give My Happiness To You" which is already being heard on the radio. The local engagement of "The Good Companions" commences at the Capitol Theatre on Saturday and will continue until Tuesday.

The joy of life on the open road is in "THE GOOD COMPANIONS," adapted from J. B. Priestley's famous novel, and opening Saturday at the Capitol Theatre.

BEST TALKING PICTURE THE EDITOR EVER SAW

Fergus-News-Record (Editorial).

That night, we went to the theatre and saw "The Good Companions." Maybe you read the book and enjoyed it. Or perhaps you noticed by the newspapers that it was the first talking picture that King George and Queen Mary had seen. They will probably see another soon, but if they do, they are likely to be disappointed. There are not many pictures in the same class as "The Good Companions." If there are any, we never saw them. "The Good Companions" is by far the best talking picture we ever saw.

For those who have not read the book, the picture may not be so easy to follow. The scenes at first flash back and forth, from one part of England to another rapidly, and there may be other difficulties, particularly in the sudden ending. So take our advice. Read the book, "The Good Companions" first. It is well worth while for itself. Then if you get a chance, see the picture. It is a masterpiece.

And, by the way, the picture was made in England. It isn't the first English picture, but if the quality keeps on improving, Hollywood is going to feel the depression worse than ever some of these days.

IS IT A LESSON?

For a number of persons the sudden crash of the wheat stocks and with them wheat and industrial stocks in the boards of the world probably has been a lesson. Bankers and newspapers have published warnings about the prices being paid for liquor and other stocks estimated to be far above earnings in the immediate future and for that matter in the far distant future. Whatever the cause the index finger of the situation is inevitably correct in the way which it points for the sake of safety—to avoid carrying a burden of shares which cannot be borne in the event of a collapse.

No one expects a collapse in the present trend as it looks favorable but in the eagerness of folk to profit by the rise in prices there has been the great danger of risking everything by desire to grasp too much. The man who overreaches is in part to blame for any crash which takes place.

For happy days and peaceful nights everyone is warned away from what is known as pure speculation or gambling.

PROGRESS OF AIR TRAFFIC

Canadian Airways Limited has issued "The Bulletin" showing not only the history of the company but also providing statistical reports of all lines in 1933. The hours flown to the end of May totalled 5,364.24, the miles flown 490,912, mail, freight, etc., carried, 1,031,273 pounds, and passengers, 3,717.

Canadians probably fail to realize the growth of travel and commerce. The above figures show them something of the traffic on the air lines of this one company.

But the work of the airways has many interesting sidelights. On three days planes carried out to the frontier and civilization two persons, one a man needing medical attention badly, another an appendix case and the other an accident case, in which a man was thought to have broken his neck and had fractured his skull in a fall down a mine shaft. In the latter case the victim was carried 128 miles by plane from Lake to Lake in stretcher. Then just this month a plane saved a man and woman from drowning in Lake Osisko.

The bulletin presents to the Boards of Trade of Canada a list of the cities facts relating to the air transport of the Dominion. The plane is used in surveying the terrain, prospectors are transported. Nearly two millions of pounds of freight and express was transported by air last year, together with nearly 900,000 pounds of mail. Most of this freight was taken into an as yet undeveloped country and so the plane has proven itself of great economic value in the exploration and opening up of the country.

One of the enlightening things about the "Bulletin" is the timetable, which shows how regular the flying has become and how completely air traffic is fitting into the normal life of the people.

The location of the mainlines of both east and west lines is published, with their classification, the names of the pilots and engineers.

The Airways has radio operators at Fort Rae, Cameron Bay, McMurray, God's Lake, Middlechurch, and a relief operator.

ELECTION AHEAD?

The broad hint that an election is coming in Ontario will bring back to the people of this province one of the things they know how to carry on. It will seem like a return to old times, though the trend to prosperity has but begun.

Premier Henry has not yet come out and in so many words said there is to be an election in the near future, but he has said that the day is not far distant the supporters of the Conservative policy will have an opportunity to stand behind the government. This hint which he threw out on Wednesday at a picnic in Ward Fourth of Toronto, may be taken, however, as a pretty fair indication of the inner mind of the party.

For some time it has been felt that the time was fast approaching when the parties in Ontario would line up the people under their banners and the announcement does not come with great surprise.

FROM WINDOWS

When doors are tight with lock and key,
My windows still are kind to me;
They let me look upon the sky,
Where caravans of clouds go by,
And on the green hills raised afar,
Where little, twinkling flowers are.

One window opens to a tree;
Where it can bend and talk to me;
Another on the road to town,
Where I can see the carts go down
With loads of yellow straw a-stack,
And empty carts come bumping back.

The winds are friendly, and they blow
Their silver whistles as they go,
And always call me, as they pass,
By tapping on the window glass.
And, when I run, I see them there,
Pulling the bushes by their hair.

I like the window in my room
At twilight in the purple gloom,
For my blue curtains always are
Draped 'round a single, silver star;
And, when the moon is very thin,
I sometimes see it looking in.

"THE ROCK AND THE RIVER" is the title of Ralph Connor's new book, a story of old Quebec, historical and interesting. Gazing out of the office window we espied a large turtle calmly resting on the top of a large rock which the spring flood of the Moira had uncovered, and this brought to mind the book quoted above. That old turtle, or old Mammy Turtle resting in the sun for hours on end, contemplating, WHAT? if anything. Turtles have been credited with great wisdom by mythological writers, but they seem to us to have more food space than brain capacity. If reincarnation is true then we can vision some cold crusty grouch of an old Miss Dickonian Scrooge being reincarnated in the form of a hardshell snapping turtle. The turtle has even been revered as a kind of god in some parts of the world. The Red Indian tribes tell of the world being supported on the back of a giant turtle. Truth to tell the turtle has always been treated with marked respect down through the years until within the last century when someone discovered turtle soup—and the turtle has been in the soup ever since and has hardly been able to lift his head up above the big pot where all big turtles go eventually. So, gazing out of the office window at Old Man or Mammy Turtle sitting calm and placidly on the rock in the river Moira, thinking, mayhap of this thing and that, a flood of memories came surging into the sanctum, and many thoughts, sad and otherwise, the principal one being—why of a thought such a small turtle would make such a big paragraph—so excuse it please, and blame it on the heat or the humidity, or even the stupidity of the conversation during the hot days.

BUGS AND BIRDS, subject of a recent discussion between a lady and a gentleman present who wanted to know what a "mugwump" was. He was not answered, nor did he supply the information himself, but indeed he knew. A mugwump may be several things, but here's the latest definition germinated on demand: "A mugwump is a man who thinks both great political parties are crooked and should be exterminated and that a new party should be launched at once with himself at the head of it."

GRASSHOPPERS, DROUGHT AND LOW PRICES—Oh, my wheat, a triad of ominous, during the past few years has proved very discouraging for western farmers, and one family passed through Belleville on Monday en route to the Peace River District. Country, having given up the attempt to make a fortune in the wheat fields of the great prairie region. The drought was bad enough but fighting the rasshoppers was the last straw, and after battling the invading insect hordes with fire and poison, men and tractors, this family surrendered and left the field to the grasshoppers, with all their improvements and hard work. This country like a tale of the pioneer of long ago who fought drought and grasshoppers, in addition to Indians and various other discouragements in the days gone by. Missionaries in the south and north of the Red River, but the pioneers didn't quit. They licked the hoppers, the drought and the Indians and enjoyed their later prosperity all the more for having to work so hard for it.

TIDE TURNS IN RACKET

Kidnappers Failed, When Seeking Philadelphia Man Showed Fight

New York, July 20 (CP)—The tide appeared to be turning against the kidnapping racket in the United States today.

A complete failure in an apparent attempt at kidnapping was scored against abductors in Philadelphia, where the victim, Frank A. McClatchy, 36 year old member of a prominent real estate firm—dared to put up a fight.

McClatchy, hewer, was shot and seriously wounded when he was seized by two men, who tried to tie his hands behind him with a piece of rope, when they were about to step into a house they said they wished to buy. McClatchy jerked himself free and struck one of the men in the face and kicked the other.

One of the assailants drew a pistol and fired. McClatchy was shot in the chest. A passing motorist, who escaped on foot, originally had planned to kidnap McClatchy's wealthy brother, John H. McClatchy for ransom.

High hope for the safe return of 24 year old Jack Peddicord, Kidnapped National Guard lieutenant, of Bayonne, N.J., by abductors here, N.Y. They looked for his release by Friday morning. There were others reported missing in the air force recruitment officials, who expressed fear for the young flyer's safety.

His abductors demanded ransom of $250,000.

JAMES HENDERSON, D. D.

By The Rev. J. M. Fraser of Bancroft

The life of Rev. James Henderson, D.D., is a striking example of how only once did the orbit of our lives meet.

On Nov. eleventh, 1918, I heard him speak in St. James Methodist Church, Belleville, when he preached the Peace Thanksgiving Service. I have the following note concerning his sermon: "Grave, yet hopeful in the spirit of Calvary. To-night we are at the confluence of the centuries. There we believe is a cradle for a grave, a grave for the Czar's tyranny and old autocracies; the cradle of democracy. Fly abroad winged angel. Arise, shine for thy light is come." (Claps)

But while his star was setting (1918) and my ministerial journey was just begun, there were many points in the reading of his life where the ground was familiar and body ground. Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Quebec and the Eastern Townships together with Shannonville and Tamworth, where all are enshrined in the sobers of the mind.

James Henderson was born in Airdrie, Scotland on the first of March, 1848. His father was John Henderson, a man beloved by all. Motherwell and his mother was Barbara Orr, a woman beloved by certain in the Indian army.

One sister, Agnes, five years his senior died while he was beginning to go to school. This made an unspeakable vacuum in the home. The leaning over the stick one asked, "Annie, how are you?" and the gentle, simper, yet's gastn tag lose your Annie, I'm a-going to die." His often referred to her in his sermons.

His father taught him to read clearly. "Speak up", he would say, "Open your mouth and don't be lazy to pronounce every word clearly." If James dropped his voice at the end of a sentence, he had to read the passage again.

At the age of nine he worked in the iron mills. After an interval at school he was at fifteen working as puddler's assistant. The social atmosphere was broad. To-day all his brothers preserved their purity of speech, their courtesy of manner and refrained from smoking and drinking.

On New Year's Eve, 1860, a copy of Row Bells awakened him to the things that matter most, moved him to undertook to study Latin, mathematics, English grammar. When he worked on the night shift he would get a lesson from four to five in the morning. Then he would go and he would take his lesson from seven to eight in the evening. He had a last of the iron works and took a position as assistant at Airdrie Academy. Here his love for mathematics he became entitled to an exhibition at Glasgow University. New Monkland Parish at one hundred pounds a year.

He was greatly influenced by the preaching of Rev. R. Payson Hammond, a Methodist evangelist, in part in the revival meetings. His brother, Rev. Robert Henderson, and he qualified for a scholarship at Glasgow University.

On April 26, 1870 James Henderson and his brother-in-law, Charles Currie landed at the city of Quebec. Twenty days later they landed at Belleville. He had a letter of introduction to Rev. Dr. Sheraton, then working in Sidney Township on the farm of Mr. Edwin Reid, he was then engaged to be married by Mr. John Johnson, the local Methodist minister. This led to a position as supply teacher. Soon the Rev. Dr. Sheraton resigned and James accompanied them north to Belleville, seventy miles to Ameliasburgh where he was to be married. They secured a grant of five hundred acres of land locating where Mr. Matthew McLean now resides. The first work was making a clearing for their new home. The house was completed just in time for winter to close in.

The first sabbath the failter took James to Hillier, "I do not think I will fit into the" A chapter was read and the new home dedicated to Christian life in prayer.

The Henderson boys shanked the first winter by cutting cordwood for the Methodist minister was Rev. Arthur S. Haines and he soon discovered an able preacher in James Henderson. The Mission was visited by Rev. Dr. Wilson, Rev. Dr. Potts and James Henderson became assistant missionary, serving from Hillier to Marmora from Eagle Lake to the Madawaska.

A church was built at York River now Bancroft, both young ministers and Methodist laymen helping to raise trees for the building.

In 1872 Rev. Mr. Henderson was appointed to Shannonville and a year later to Sherbrooke and Lennoxville, Quebec. It was the purpose to go in details with the ministry of Rev. Dr. Henderson in that Quebec and Levis brought him into Methodist union. Rev. Dr. Bland who became his biographer as the two young men shared a room in the Methodist College on Drumlie St. Levis also brought him into association with a very able lady that became his wife. Christina Jane Bland was born and married man circuit. Huntington 1870-1882 brought him into touch with Rev. J. J. Maclaurin, D.D. of a little later proposed him for authorship of the A. A. Smith Professorship Queen Church, Montreal.

At Prescott, Ont., he met the descendants of Barbara Heck and Philip Embury. Before that he had the story of Lambeth and had witnessed a movement launched in world wide scope. He was a member of the branches of the Methodist Church, Canada. Mr. Henderson and Dr. Stewart (Presbyterian) had thrown a prophetic cable across the gulf between Presbyterianism and Methodism. Both preached a sermon on "The Historic Position of Protestantism in Canada" and followed it with an exchange of pulpits. The result was marked by a spirit of fraternity and goodwill.

Appointed Queen, Montreal 1882-1886 became a great centre for students and young people. It might be said that The Epworth League had its rise there and the following incident was productive of a great deepening of spiritual life in Lawson came to me and said, "My heart is full of love to Christ and I want to tell others about it." I said, and tell every young man and woman in the congregation what you have told me."

Sherbrooke St. 1886-1888 The church had been rented in 1877 when half the congregation had followed their pastor from the old church. There was a large debt. In 1934 Mr. Henderson wrote. The people started nobly. The classes became visiting groups. A great enthusiasm swept the Church, the floating debt was all removed and a large encumbrance cancelled. (Montreal, St. James Street), This was the Cathedral of Methodism. Appointed in 1888 Mr. Henderson was minister in the period of transition and building.

Carleton Street. Toronto had been the main church of the Primitive Methodists (1881-1884) and the new rooms the committee had met who prepared the Book of Order for the Methodist Union.

Bloor-Jarvis Street: Toronto, (1894 1896) On Easter Sunday he experienced a break down that became a prop. It is best to let him in his own words: "After the introduction, my mind became so full of thoughts on God for help and He did. Thoughts came to me from above and I had the time of my life. Never since have I preached a sermon in the public but as I prepared it in the study."

Methodist Secretary of Missions (1895-1907) Eleven years he made his home at 31 Sherbrooke Street, Toronto. During this time he travelled from Newfoundland to British Columbia, and through the Canadian west. Here with fervour and zeal and great ability was given in education to the branches of the Methodist Church, Canada. Mr. Henderson and Dr. Stewart (Presbyterian) had thrown a prophetic cable across the gulf between Presbyterianism and Methodism. Both preached a sermon on "The Historic Position of Protestantism in Canada" and followed it with an exchange of pulpits. The result was marked by a spirit of fraternity and goodwill.

Appointed Queen, Montreal 1882-1886 became a great centre for students and young people. It might be said that The Epworth League had its rise there and the following incident was productive of a great deepening of spiritual life in Lawson came to me and said, "My heart is full of love to Christ and I want to tell others about it." I said, and tell every young man and woman in the congregation

Dominion Church, Ottawa, (1907-1911) Dr. Henderson's ministry in Methodism he said, "Jesus Christ came to God man but to God man between man and man as well. A religion which could not bring men to live agre why here could not enable them to live harmoniously hereafter. Love was the only test of true christology. Organized labour was one of the worst tyrannies under the sun, with no conscience and not much heart.

Bancroft, (1911-1914) Dr. Henderson was appointed to preach in English pulpits and hear holed preachers. It was also to recuperate his health.

Timothy Eaton Memorial Church, Toronto (1914-1918). An instance shows the bearing an impression of the man. Dr. Henderson presented a meeting of the Board, all its members would rise to their feet. Dr. Chown, the general secretary has given a characterization "the music of his voice, the kindliness of his words, the poetry of his soul, and the truth of his heart."

St. James, Montreal (1918-1920) After twenty seven years Dr. Henderson returned to complete his ministry at St. James. The first Sunday he preached 11 a.m. "He preached into them Jesus". 7 p.m. "Following the Old Trail."

Her, Hamilton, Associate in these years. Dr. Henderson resigned in 1920. His last year was spent at 631 Grosvenor Ave, Westmount. Here the end came on Saturday the twenty first of November, 1924. Dr. R. P. Rose in his memorial address said of the last interview with his friend, "It was my privilege and my joy to spend several sunny hours before he left us. His trust in Christ as the one and sufficient Saviour was unfaltering. He is my hope he said as he quoted Whittier: "I have not dared to question his love and care." He joined heartily in the petitions I fervently offered at his bedside and then he began to speak of the wonderful love for men. His courage at the last was the courage of a hero; his spirit was that of a child falling asleep in his Father's strong arms of love. With no confidence he looked back with sweet trust in the Christ whom he loved, and he left behind a memory of his generation by the will of God."

Andrew Henderson belonged his brother and the ministry in the Barbara, the second sister married Rev. Dr. Bland and died when the early age of thirty six. Her remarkable family is still remembered. George Walker of Bancroft tell how that she thought her pretty that she called all her dolls after her. His father died at the old homestead in 1894. The mother survived for four years more. Dr. Bowman Tucker has said of her, The heart of the Henderson homestead was Mother Henderson. There were many strong personalities in that Mission but the most outstanding was the mother. She did her part in my encouragement in a most difficult and discouraging field."

WHEAT CRASH AND PARLEY

Break in Prices Nerves Delegates to Action

By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer.

London, July 21 (CP Cable) — More determined than ever, wheat exporters and importers resumed their conversations today to the echoing crash of prices. World trading in grain futures had been suspended on the Chicago and Kansas City markets struck like an avalanche.

The recent dramatic rise in American stock and commodity prices had seemed too good to last, but no one expected such a swift decline as occurred in the past two days. Prime Minister R. B. Bennett informally remarked to a friend that "If the United States wants to save the world, it will close Wall Street."

Extend of Cooperation

How far the exporters and importers of wheat can cooperate in restoring orderly marketing was the main point of today's wheat discussions in which Canada was represented by Prime Minister Bennett himself.

Any scheme of restricted exports that may be adopted by the leading exporters, including Canada, is contingent on the importing countries lending their cooperation. This they can give by reducing their present restrictions on wheat imports. In nearly all the leading importing countries, notably France.

The various subcommittees on coordination of production and marketing reported this afternoon to the main economic commission of the World Conference. The wheat negotiations are now within the framework of the conference.

On tariffs, "the debate on tariff policy," reports Carl Kroeman of Germany from the committee on commercial policy, "has shown that the various countries unanimously consider a lowering of excessive tariffs is absolutely indispensible. In all countries tariff disarmament is regarded a essential if international trade, which is contracting more and more, is to be revived.

"There are good grounds therefore for hoping that once the special circumstances, responsible for adjournment of part of the conference work, have disappeared it will be possible to successfully initiate on international lines a progressive lowering of the economic barriers which divide the peoples."

This adequately summarizes the results of the contracted World Conference.

FUN ON THE MIDWAY A MEDICINE SHOW AND BUSY BROADWAY

"Arizona to Broadway," featuring James Dunn, Joan Bennett and Herbert Mundin, is a comedy hit of scenes and laughs and girls and fun that carries you clear across the United States.

This excellent attraction will be shown at the Belle for two days, commencing tomorrow (Saturday) and on Monday, matinee daily.

James Dunn, cast in the leading masculine role, has a new leading lady playing opposite him. She is Joan Bennett who makes her return to the screen after a protracted absence of several months. Herbert Mundin, is co-featured with the two stars, in a role that is entirely new for him—the adventurous barker of a medicine show who becomes a big-city big-shot. Starting in the wilds of Arizona, the plot of the film moves east until it ends right in the heart of New York. From the adventuresome gambling of the midway it goes to the heart-less hijacking of the Great White Way.

It takes a small-time confidence man, portrayed by Jas. Dunn, and dumps him into the midst of big-time racketeering in the metropolis.

Dunn is out to do a little high class hijacking against a girl he accidentally meets at a carnival. He pretends to protect her interests at first. And indeed he does—with intentions of getting a larger swag for himself. His delays too long, however, and finds himself enmeshed in something to which he has never given as much as a thought—love. It does take a lot of warfare on the part of New York gangsters to convince him of it, but convinced he most certainly is.

A Taxi Boys comedy called "Bring 'Em Back a 'Wife,'" Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians, a Vaudeville Band of real merit in "Alma Mater," also a very interesting travel-talk picture called "Big Ditch of Panama" will be shown at each performance Saturday and Monday.

Ends Tonight

The Bell Theatre was filled to capacity last evening and that the audience thoroughly enjoyed the program was clearly seen.

Irene Dunne and Joe McCrea in "The Silver Cord" gave patrons one of the finest and most entertaining acted dramas ever presented in the theatre and with the variety of other subjects shown every one present enjoyed a real show. The same program will be repeated for last times tonight, first show at 7.10 and the last at 9.15. Do not miss it.

Mystery of the Other Sex is Love's Best Cement

(By Beatrice Fairfax)
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

(Copyright 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For three years I've been engaged to a wonderful girl and we expect to be married in two months, but feel as if I were marrying a stranger. Are all women mysterious, incomprehensible, secret—or is it only my luck.

I'm 29 years old, and have had almost too much worldly experience. Among fragments acquired, I've heard dozens of married men say: "My wife's a fine woman, but she's a mystery to me!" Are all the damsels riddles, and is that the reason the ancient Egyptians put a woman's head on the Sphynx— the unsolved riddle of the world?

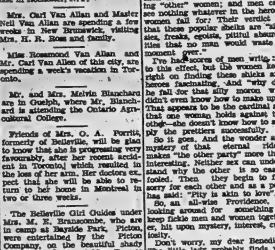
Future Benedict.

Don't worry! The blood and its wisdom, knowing the fickleness and changeableness of human nature, evolved a plan to keep men and women together. The plan is never-ending curiosity.

And while you're puzzling over the mystery of this girl, who will be your wife in two months, she's probably confiding to her best girl friend: "I adore Benedict, but I just don't understand him."

And the mystery, the never satisfied interest, the eternal unfathomableness that are your hold for the other, does more to keep men and women together than all the other prop to the ancient and honorable institution of marriage.

Benedict wonders why his wife, throwing a ten-horsepower tantrum, will break down in tears of devotion when he comes home at night. And the young wife, racking her brains to understand why Benedict, who was so downright stingy over the dress she really needs, should come with an expensive lavaliere pin unexpectedly.



As for the women men fail to love with—ask the men. Women regard as shells—can those unfathomable riddles ever be explained to either sex! All women feel that men park their brains when they go a-courting; and men feel that women, and men can see nothing whatever in the heroes women fall for. Their conclusion is that these popular sheiks are "sissies, freaks, and eternal riddles." Does that no man would waste a moment on them.

Then, scores of men write, not to this effect, but the women keep right on loving these sticks and heroes fascinating. And "why did he fall for that silly moron who didn't even know how to make up?" That appears to be the cardinal doubt one woman holds against the other—she doesn't know how to appeal to men successfully.

So it goes. And the wonder and mystery of that eternal riddle makes "the other party" more than interesting. Neither can understand why the other is so easily fooled. Then they begin to feel sorry for each other and as a poet has said: "Pity is akin to love".

So, as all-wise Providence, in looking around for something to bring men and women togrth.. er, his upon mystery, interest, curiosity.

Don't worry, my dear Benedict. The little lady probably finds you as incomprehensible as you find her—and that's the safety valve of the institution of matrimony.

Avoid Summer Foot Ailments

(By Helen Follett)

Do you get good footing out of your feet, Mrs. Walker? Do they travel comfortably and easily all day long? Or do they smart and twinge so that you wish you could walk on your hands and give your little dogs a rest? Summer is tough on human pedals.

Unless feet are properly shod, when room for spread, unless blood and tendons are strong and in healthy condition, they are capable of registering so much distress that the general health suffers. Sore muscles are under strain, the central nervous system suffers, the bony structure of the body is forced out of alignment. Headaches, abdominal pains and stomachs can often be traced directly to ill-fitting shoes.

Without foot health, a girl isn't inclined to take outdoor exercise, which is necessary for the well being of the circulatory system. So choose shoes with care, find the right last. And oh, please, do chuck the spiked heels.

Bright colored make-up doesn't make a hit when the frock is of that new string color, just off white. Better to have the complexion dark, unless one is a corn-silk blonde with a skin fairest of the fair.

Rachel powder is the right selection, especially now that you can has enticed the skin away from its clear creaminess. Medium tangerine is a good blush color. The lipstick can be slightly darker, but it also should be an orange red.

Pure white frocks, too, show up better when make-up is restrained.

When starting on the motor trip, take along a liquid oily skin cleanser. Use on the completion before washing off the dust of the road with soap and water. Don't overlook the need of a hand lotion and, if you are going to be out sight seeing you will need a dusting powder for the tired little dogs.

Protect the eyes from glare with glasses; if you don't, the glare of white roads will dig lines between your eyebrows. And keep the hair covered when dust is flying.

Swimming is of benefit to the girl who is thin and the girl who is fat; it is the ideal exercise. Nothing better for chest development, for good muscles of torso, arms and legs. More and more the girls are taking to the role of mermaid, and that's OK their credit, but let her not forget to use plenty of bleachy sunburn which destroys the delicate surface of the skin causes it to darken and thicken, puts it out of beauty form. Cold cream the face, neck and hands before going into the water. Do oiled cutaneous surface resists the sun's rays; a dry one succumbs.

GIRL CAMPERS RETURN AFTER FINE OUTING

The Junior members of the Sagonaquka Group of the Canadian Girls in Training of St. John's Mission with the W. A. Girls of St. Thomas' Church, returned home last evening, from their week in Barberry Camp, Northport, on the Bay of Quinte. Perfect camping weather made for an ideal week in camp.

This is the third week for some of the girls. They were fortunate in having Miss Nora Trai for their leader, Miss Diana D. Cleland of Toronto, was with them again at Camp Mosher, and Miss Jones as Camp Organizer, Mr. Heard and Kathleen Collins, superintended the diet and Miss Helen Deulke with Miss Dafoe assisted Miss Trai.

"The girls are grateful to all who assisted in making the camp a success in providing cars and trucks for transportation to the camp and those who supplied nice treats while there, also to Mr. and Mrs. Barber, who so kindly looked after their good need and to Rev. Rural Dean Winters of Picton for holding a beautiful three o'clock service at the camp ground. For his lesson subject he chose the world "Flowers."

Swimming was enjoyed by the girls at the Outlet and Wednesday evening camp was closed and wished for a permanent camp for 1934. The prize for the best all-round camp girl was awarded Frances Dorrington of Bellerville and Margaret Wallbridge of Marmora, and for the first year girls, Frances Ward of Bellerville and Mary Lou Laufer of Picton. Girls were present from Hurt's Island and Massassaga as well as Bellerville.

Fashion Flashes

(By Alice Alden)

A comforting thought is that one can wear simple costumes all day at the beach or on a cruise, with never a thought of dressing up until evening. A grand outfit consists of white colour slacks. Yachting navy will show the waist worn with a simple colored cotton shirt.

Shallow but deep in chic and charm are those large shallow hats that sit [illegible] on the head. A big, flat hat of rough white straw has an absurd low little crown trimmed with a wreath of field flowers in red, white and blue. Grand with pants of white outfits.

Try an apple print, it is lovely. A delightful frock is made of black crepe de Chine besprayed with delicious yellow apples in a soft, wide design. The shallow V neckline is marked by a bewitching collar.

Stripes for service as well as for smartness this season. For stripes add smartness to solid color or white. A most attractive evening frock of white organdie has a sash of Roman striped taffeta. This is knitted in back and the ends form a train. The coat with huge balloon sleeves is also of the stripped taffeta.

Out of the past is a charming suit of pale gray woolen with huge leg-o'-mutton sleeves. It is worn with a dark blue taffeta blouse with a high neckline ending in a huge bow. The hat is a flat Gibson girl sailor of dark blue straw with a blue taffeta bow.

Just a few friends in to dinner and you wearing the ideal frock. This is a hostess gown of ice rose chiffon folded softly about the figure and fastened at one side with two oblong pins. The shoulders are accented with a great double fichu shawl of the chiffon which extends into loose, long pastel sleeves.

Elliott Roosevelt to Marry Southern Belle is Report

Chicago, July 21 (AP)—The Chicago Herald and Examiner said today that Elliott Roosevelt, 22 year old son of the President, will marry Miss Ruth Googins of Fort Worth, Tex., tomorrow at the home of Miss Googins' uncle, George C. Sweller of Burlington, Iowa.

The newspaper's story, which was copyrighted, said that it was able to make the announcement "on the highest authority."

"Under the coupe's plans last night" the article said, "The wedding will take place in Burlington, Iowa, at the home of George C. Sweller, an uncle of Miss Googins.

"Miss Googins and her mother quietly left town yesterday afternoon bound for a destination which Elliott refused to reveal."

The newspaper added, however, that Elliott's sister, Mrs. Anna Dall told reporters

"I may have an important announcement to make tomorrow. A reservation, the Herald and Examiner said, was made by Elliott

Markets Plunge Downward in Wild Selling Rush Transforming Gains to Losses of 2 to 5 Points or More—Selling Cyclone Also Hits Toronto Boards But Closes in Comparative Calm—Holders Dump Stocks When Unable to Meet Margin Calls —Issues Down $2 to $7 a Share.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, July 21 (AP)— After losing ground to a rather peaceful day around noon, the stock market again plunged downward in a wild selling rush which transformed early gains of one to around three points into losses of four to twelve or more. The stampeding of the slump apparently could not be attributed to any special news. Principal issues including Allied Chemical, American Telephone, United States Steel, New York Central, General Motors, Radio Corporation, International Business Machines, Celanese, American Can, National Distillers and Westinghouse.

New York, July 21—(AP)—Stocks crashed downward today in the widest market price range recorded since generally ranged from $2 to more than $12 a share for shares of America's largest corporations.

Trading in many issues was delayed due to the absence of supporting orders. Prods included stocks in enormous volume and there was tremendous selling from speculative interests concerned that had collapsed.

Reports that the New York Stock Exchange planned to close were denied by the exchange, which also said that dealings had not been suspended in any issue, despite the chaotic condition of the market. The tape at one time fell half an hour behind floor transactions.

Indications were that the turnover would exceed 3,000,000 shares, as a whole, the usual closing hour, the tape was half an hour late.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, July 21.—(CP)— The Standard Mining Market crashed badly late today in the wake of another wide open break in New York. Losses of one to five points were rolled up for Dome, McIntyre, Lake Shore, Hollinger, Teck-Hughes Group and in the Base Metals Mining group and Standards. About 2 o'clock the way of a panicky nature with drops of 25 cents between sales. Holders dumped their stocks for what they would bring when unable to meet margin calls.

The price collapse was the most severe since the Bear movement started in the liquor shares on Tuesday.

Some dropped from a morning top of $35 to $26.25, Sherritt from $10 to $8.25, Sherritt from a top of $46 to $30.50, McIntyre from $51 to $31.50 and Pioneer was off about $3.50 to $13.50. Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves lost about 75 cents each and Braloorne the same.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, July 21 (CP)A selling cyclone hit the Toronto stock market this afternoon and the entire structure was badly broken, leading issues falling as much as $16. Declines were under the influence of the Wall Street market collapse, but thinly marketed holdings were dumped overboard.

Brazilian, Nickel, C.P.R., Standard Mining and Ford dropped $1, to $4, Smelters lost $18, Walker's common $2.50, Distillers $3 and Gypsum, Lime, Industrial Alcohol $6 from the top and Dominion Bridge $16. Base Metal firmly moderately after the worst of the selling had spent itself and was in a close to comparative calm.

Beer shares lost several points. Canadian Malting lost two points.

STREET MARKET
Ramblings . . .

Daily through the open doors of an uptown music shop comes the lilting tunes of old forgotten melodies. Busy Bee tripping and skipping down the key board of a piano occasionally reach out from the latest 'Tin Pan Alley Hotcha tunes to those of long ago when the 'Hit' was the best word in daring on the waxed hardwood floors of local dance halls, where on Friday a few pedestrians along Front St. stop for a moment only, for each that memory recalls so familiarly. They pause and go on. Bun in the shuffle or hesitant feet one figure stands out in marked fashion. Near the door of the shop he has taken his daily post. Patiently, within ear shot of the music he stands, feet in abstracted thought. Eyes are fixed unseeingly on the curb of the walk. Body sways slightly to the music. An unknowing, he appears above down-at-heel and ragged clothes, though he may be, nevertheless his sense of music is keen. Once he asked the player to play a tune that only the elect few would appreciate. After much debating in'music the piano player in the shop obliged. Following the playing of the piano the entranced listener disappeared. He has not shown up for several days. The owner of the music shop and the piano player both miss the attentive and keen audience. They wonder where he has gone. And who he was.

HAMPTY

Habit and changed conditions under which we live has left its mark on we who struggle to get along these days. Not long ago a local doctor had an opportunity to perform a minor operation on the right thumb of a local citizen. It became necessary for the medico to peel off some of the skin from the thumb in order to get at the wound, and this was a hard thing to do. A sharp scalpel struggled with an added layer of thick skin on the member. Enquiry by the doctor revealed the fact that the patient was a cigar maker owner. The lighter he possessed was one of those particularly troublesome ones. The kind that requires a certain amount of fire wheeling before it can be induced to burst into flames. Constant handling of the corrugated wheel twenty five or more times a day had created a callous on the thumb that even the doctor's scalpel found trouble peeling off. The doctor has noticed that calloused right hand thumb between Cigarette owner have the thickest calluses, he says.

STEP-INTO

A gentleman of the city walked into the uptown department store the other day and after browsing around some of the counters in deep Bonnie approached some of the sales ladies at a lingerie counter and in an apparently fabricated manner calmly requested to be shown some step-ins. Several delicate and fragile appearing pieces of silk were immediately hauled forth from the attractive display board by the cool sales lady and spread in filmy array on the counter. "Is it step-ins I wanted," declared the unabashed local gentleman blandly owlishly at the delicate tinted pieces that lay before him. "Yes sir step-ins" dryly agreed the modern saleslady. "These are step-ins." "No, no-o," want the kind you pull over your dress when you are working in the kitchen." The capable sales lady piloted the local gentleman to the next counter and made a sale on house aprons

HOMELESS

Fragile flutter dismally over the ruins of what was once the old "Opera House." Wreckers, with crow bar and sledge work unconcernedly at the havoc they are creating in the old house revered in song and romance of days long ago. From the stage are being pulled wide boards over which tender feet of the country once trod. Boards upon which Uncle Tom of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" sang times begged for his very life while Eliza (Mrs. Hopper Hits-and-so) plied a blackmake whip across the tawny back, and boodhounds bayed. Those who danced the spring suspended prop ice. Boards also which were braced and doubly supported for the full and complete joy which featured Tom Thumb's elephants. Tragedienne and comic alike once bathed in the applause of local audiences and the warmth of the scintillating footlights. But now has disappeared the gilded parquet and even the railings of the "diamond horse shoe" where the best citizens were wont to gather on every night. Gone is the sturdy roof and the supports of the upper sections of the building. Gone are the tiers where were scores of pigeons of the city made their home. Of late years residents of that section of the town, disturbed by the mid night cooing had visions of pigeon pie, but years ago populating the forlorn and empty building. Strange noises seemed to emanate from nowhere. But, in only, pigeons, they made their nests by the hundreds under the eaves where they made their home is gone. They flutter dismally over and above the ruined building seeking their former haunts. It should be so. But meanwhile the crowbar and the sledge wielders go steadily about their work.

KOLAPORE CUP TO ENGLAND

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 21 —(CP cable)— Only the narrow margin of seven points separated Private Ishah of Kolapore's Imperial Challenge Cup rifle team from victory in Canada's possession into that of the Mother Country.

The Mother Country's marksmen tallied 1,293 points out of a possible 1,200 in the big match to win the senior team trophy of the Imperial meeting. All new Enfield rifle Association Canada's team of eight would be said, finished with 1,286.

Earlier in the day five Canadian marksmen qualified to enter the final stage of the Bisley Classic, the King's prize, and two more Canadians qualified for places among the "King's Hundred" who will battle for the Queen's Prize tomorrow. These two had to shoot off with Lt. Fox for 21 remaining places.

The defeat in the Kolapore Cup was the second in Bisley's two greatest team shoots for the Canadians within the week. Yesterday they placed third in the MacKinnon Challenge Cup, captured by Scotland from England. The Kolapore Cup decision exactly reversed last year's result when the Canadians winning for the 14th time since 1917, took it from the Mother Country.

SKEETERS WIN IN SIXTEENTH FROM ORIOLES

Phelps Pitches One Frame And Credited With One

LEAFS LOSE

Hurlers of Dan Howley Suffering From Over Work

(By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer)

Two of Jersey City's latest additions, Joe Benes and Lorin Baker have ended Jersey City's seven-game losing streak in the International League.

Through 16 innings the Skeeters wagg an even duel with Baltimore Orioles yesterday and finally emerged the victor when Benes' single with one out in the 17th, drove Baker home with the run that broke a 4-4 tie.

Jim McCloskey pitched 15 innings for the Skeeters but finally had to be relieved by Babe Phelps in the 16th, with none out after he had given in that time walked ian men. Phelps blanked the visitors without a hit but two of the runs received credit for the victory.

Meanwhile Rochester and Newark's both won first place to one game by beating Toronto 6-2, while the league leaders were topped Albany in a night game 7-6. Because his pitching staff has been wrecked by illness and overwork, Dan Howley was forced to let Buck Marrow pitch the entire game although he as stagged for 13 hits.

Newark tallied their three runs in the eighth to tie albany but the Senators pushed over a run in the ninth to win, 7-6. Lieutenant Thompson's single scored Harry Taylor from third base and Bob Reid then scored the battle. Ray Prim went the route for Albany and was troubled by errors in the infield, second and eighth—when all of Newark's runs were scored.

Montreal Royals batted Ray Lucas out of the box in a five run first inning rally that was fated to beat the Buffalo Bisons in another night game. Lucas then pitched relieved Lucas with only one man out in the first and stopped the Royals with eight hits the rest of the way, fanning 13, but the Bisons never could quite catch up.

TWEED BEATEN BY HAVELOCK

Score 13-9 With Winners Scoring Seven in Second Innings

Tweed Special)—One bad inning, the second, spelled defeat for Tweed when Havelock, displaying their best last week's defeat, turned the tables to trim Tweed 13 to 9 on the latter grounds. Kallahan, Tweed pitcher, was wild, walking seven and hitting two batters. He was not entirely responsible for the loss, bad errors by Tweed behind Marcoux having several unearned runs. Kallahan retired the side in order on strikes in the first inning. Batting for Havelock, pitched nice ball all the way, being on top of the batters most of the time, after his team-mates had presented him with a nice lead. The visitors thought a rally in the ninth by Tweed, netting three runs, gave their supporters something to cheer over. Cordy's fielding and Cotton's base running featured. Jim Grace made two nice catches and the Havelock infield played bang-up ball. Marchen made a home run in the fourth. Simpson replaced at short and had perfects, including a triple in two tries. Perrin of Havelock and Currie of Tweed, officiated. Several close decisions by the latter did not help the home team's cause appreciably.

Havelock—Card, 3rd; J. Hooper, lf; G. Hooper, c; Campbell, 1st; L. Scriver, 2nd.; L. Hooper, cf; McLaughlin, ss; Sexsmith, p; McKenzie, rf.

Tweed—Grose, cf; D. Casey, c; Quinn, 1st; Cotton; 3rd; March, rf; Cordy, lf; Kallahan, p; P. Casey, 2nd., ss; Marchen, ss, 2nd.; Simpson, ss; Smith, rf.

CURRENT SPORT

Knocks and Boosts

While the local Victories were handing the Gilbard nine a nice shellacking 9-vsen. in Napanee on Wednesday Lionel Bolster, their lefty batting sacker, leaned all of his 180 odd pounds into one of Doug Fraser's slants and blasted a long fly to deep right centre field. That left field is the centre field each time it is estimated that the ball traveled fully 385 feet. Some feat! At first it looked as though the ball was going to sow well over the fence but it was a mighty fine help.

x x x

For seven innings Red Wilkins again proved a stumbling block to the Gilbard-managed crew but, the Shiloh fellow "folded" it was just too bad as he seemed to loose everything. Once again Ralph Iler was rushed to the hilltop and once again he successfully steamed the tide. They has been having considerable success the season as a relief horler. By virtue of their win the Vics are now enjoying the top ring in the Bay of Quinte loop ladder with the Picton club. If the Vics can win five of their remaining four games "they're in".

x x x

Apparently something has gone amiss down in Napanee. Taking into consideration previous years records the Gilbard club are a better baseball team than they have displayed this far this season. Numerous mishaps were made Wednesday but, the locals are now on the starting leg of Doug Fraser on the hilltop. Then the work of the outer gardners was nothing to write home about. As one remarked when Fraser was relieved in the third—"Spell the outfield with him". It must be hard disgusting for a coach to stand and have players either get nipped off the bags or thrown out trying to steal as did Card in the last third innings. How any ball player can expect to steal third base with the pitcher standing in the box, with the ball in his hand, watching him, is more than we can imagine.

x x x

It was a rather drastic day for the Gilbard crew as their "B" team were trimmed by Dorland 4 to 2. That defeat puts them out of the running in the Lennox County loop, while the defeat of the "A" team by the Vics practically spells "out" for them.

This evening the Belleville Fruit Ianies battle the S.E.A.C. with the Maple Leafs meeting the S.E.A.C. next Tuesday and the schedule ending next Friday when Lou Barrett's Vics will meet the Jones Union school enforcers arrangements are made and contests will be played on the Victoria Park diamond.

By the time the last week in July rolls around the majority of the baseball schedules are pretty well "washed up". By virtue of their win on Wednesday the Peaks secured themselves of first place in the C.O.B.L. As the situation now stands it looks like the Bellevilles Vics and the Picton intermediates for the intermediate title, while in the local junior loop Wellington look like potential leaders but have to meet either the Crystalsex or the Junior Maroon in the league playoffs. Quite a race is being staged in the local Mens' Senior Softball loop with the Delaney Bearcats leading at present. This league has three teams in the final play-off series and a real battle will prevail between Grills' and the S.E.A.C. will probably have the final decide game with the winner meeting Delaneys for the title. The local girls' loop has not been what one would call a howling success" this season.

"Sieb" Barrett's changeup ball ideas are far in the lead but there'll be a play-off between them and the S.E.A.C. girls.

Incidentally we understand that there is quite a possibility of the organized "old timers" Marshall game being played. At present the "old timers" have 12 players lined up ready to show their wares. We'll have more definite news on the matter tomorrow.

Stop us if you've heard this one—Cofer—"Not all the best drivers are on the roads!"

Caddie—"No some of them are on the golf courses."

Yesterday afternoon, we accepted Manager Chris Holmes' invitation to witness the showing of the Carnegie-Shirley head pictures at the Capitol Theatre, which incidentally are showing tonight. Undoubtedly as Lee E. Marsh stated "they are the clearest fight pictures ever made." The knock-out blow can be seen perfectly.

THREE HOMERS IN ONE GAME FOR HERMAN

Benched Last Saturday For His Failure to Hit

LEADERS LOSE

Yankees And Senators Both Taken by Lower Clubs

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

A prodigious burst of hitting by Babe Herman who was benched only last Saturday for his failure to swat any home runs, enabled him again has pointed out that Chicago Cubs are acting like the team the other four clubs in the National League pennant struggle will have to beat to win the flag.

Herman got his chance yesterday because Riggs Stephenson was laid up with a cold and he made good to the extent of smashing three home runs and a single and driving in eight Chicago runs in a 15-3 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds. Kiki Cuyler, whose return to action has brightened the Cubs' hopes considerably, contributed a triple, double and single, and Charley Root, who did some effective pitching in the pinches to become the 16th Chicago starting pitcher to go the route in the last 22 games.

The Cubs have won 17 of those 22 contests since June 28 and today they are only 2 1-2 games behind New York Giants, who dropped a 6-3 decision to Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday. Cincinnati, however, is only a half-game behind Chicago. With both teams idle today, however, the Bucs won out by launching three hits off relief pitcher Hod Lisenbee in the ninth and an error to score two runs in the eighth.

Boston Braves moved up to a spot only a game and a half behind the fourth place Cubs by virtue of beating the Cardinals 3-2 when a homer by Pinky Whitney and a triple by Rabbit Maranville accounted for the winning runs in the eighth. Boston is only 1-3 games behind the first place.

The American league duel between New York Yankees and Washington Senators remained stalemated as both clubs were dropped tough games to second division clubs which featured effective relief pitching. Mel Harder of Cleveland Indians, who came to the rescue of Willis Hudlin in the fifth inning to give the Indians a 3-1 triumph and Tommy Bridges of Detroit bested Lefty Grove of Washington in a 1-0 flinging duel as the teams got only four hits apiece.

Down in the lower regions of the National league Brooklyn Dodgers drew up a half-game behind Brooklyn and Philadelphia, virtually tied for sixth place by defeating the Dodgers 1-0 in a brilliant mound duel between Curry Hallett and Ownie Carroll. Benton gave only five hits while the Phils collected three of their sixth off Carroll for a ninth inning run.

More power hitting cropped up in the American League as the western Georgia Peaches, Columbus, White Sox to five blows while Boston Red Sox were 10 in clouting their six blows off Eddie Durham and Red Faber. Lefty Grove of Philadelphia Athletics, Miles of St. Louis yielded four runs apiece in the first frame, then settled down for a fine mound duel that ended in the 10th when Jimmy Dykes' homer and Pinky Higgins cracked a single that drove in Mickey Cochrane and gave the Athletics at 6-3 victory.

CRYSTALACS STAGE RALLY

Score Eleven Runs in Two Innings to Defeat B.A.A.A. Kids

After being 8 runs down with but two innings left to play the Crystalac Juniors staged a belated rally that netted 11 runs in the last half over the B.A.A.A. kids at the Fair Grounds last evening. By virtue of the win the Crystalacs keep pace with the leading Wellington team.

Heavy hitting by the East Enders in the pinches was responsible. Bill Hammett started on the mound for the winners but was replaced by Hal in the fourth, and returned to the hillock to finish on the mound for a better luck this time. Empson hurled for the B.A.A.A. and was going great gun until the eighth when they drove him to cover.

Right with three big fed the winning team at bat, while Ford and Binfield also hit well. Dominic Barrigae and Angell were the best offensively for the losing team. Hamffett struck out four and Empson two.

The line-up:

B.A.A.A.—Garlepy, cf; Diminic and Thompson, c; Barrigae and McCrea, 2nd; Blaker, 1st; Saunders, rf; Lickfold, 3rd; White, lf; Angell, ss; Empson, p.

Crystalacs—Gray, rf; Binfield, lf; Cole, 1st; Thompson, 1st; Sero, ss; Rigby, cf; Thomas, c; Ford, 3rd; Semark, 2nd; Hammett and Hall, p.

MEN'S SENIOR SOFT BALL

When the Delaney Bearcats defeated the College Hill Cubs by the score of 14 to 4 last night they assured themselves of first position in the local Men's Senior softball loop, while the Grills' Garage nine downed the Shell Six-Ed. 6-3 by the score of 11 to 9 to pull up even with the "Southenders," both teams being a tie for second with Quackenbush. BALL TEAM DUCKED WHEN BOAT FROM POINT GIVES WAY

Carrying Place, July 21 (CP) — Late on Tuesday afternoon a jolly party of about fifteen the local softball team included, embarked at the Twelve O'Clock Point dock to go to Gosport south of Brighton to engage the Derry Bend team there. Mr. Jim Quackenbush supplied the boat for the occasion and the trip up the canal and back again was a delightful one indeed. A number of local rooters accompanied the local boys to give them vocal encouragement and possibly as a result the locals played nice ball despite the fact their opponents by a 12-4 score. Gordon Herrington pitched a splendid game. A slight accident occurred at the dock where the team disembarked where unable to support so many, it gave way and dumped most of the players into several feet of water. However, while it may have dampened their clothing it did nothing to the spirits of the boys who have now won three games in a row. The Dusty Bend team are due to play a return game here next Wednesday.

Ameliasburg Pulls Surprise by Defeating Victorias 12-11

Mountain View, July 21—Going into the lead during the initial frame the Ameliasburg softballers handed the Victoria A.C. a surprise trimming at Ameliasburg last evening when they downed the league leaders by the score of 12 to 11.

Solid hitting by both clubs featured, when Bunny Victoria team hit a homer with the bases loaded. W. Crebar and C. Thompson were the other four hitters. Plenty of other extra base hits were also registered.

Fast fielding on the part of both clubs was also in evidence when the winners completed two fast double plays and the Vics had one two-ply killing to their credit. The entire proceeds in all the games turned over to player Ross Snider of the home club. Snider was injured during a recent Carrying Place-Ameliasburg game.

GOLF FACTS, NOT THEORIES!
By ALEX. J. MORRISON
IT'S BETTER TO MAKE THE BALL FLY TOO HIGH THAN TOO LOW

ALEX MORRISON says!!
When I pour - ball - files - lower than it should by whatever club you are using it's a sign that you are not swinging the club correctly.

Your body action is not free and easy, Most likely your wrists have tightened up. Most low flying shots are half mis-hit.

Make sure that your wrists and forearms are free from tension before you start your swing, and you'll get the ball up-higher.

Topping the ball up in the air is another way of missing the shot but this should not be considered as sending the ball too high.

See that you have plenty of left in all your shots and you'll soon get plenty of distance.

CURB IS PUT ON EXCESSIVE PIT DEALING

President of U. S. Steps in to Save Farm Relief Plan

KEEP TAB

All Holding Over 500,000 Bushels to be Reported

Washington, July 21—President Roosevelt stepped into the tensest commodity exchange crisis to save his farm relief plans from the depredations of bulls and bears. The President asked for reports in wheat speculative activities of grain pit traders.

Reporting to the Grain Futures Act of 1922, he directed Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to research the order requiring grain brokers to report daily on all commodity speculative holdings. The order applies to all grain exchanges and directs that all holdings of futures in wheat in excess of 500,000 bushels be reported.

The action was taken early in the day as grain and cotton prices gave further signs of crumbling. Announcement was withheld until after the market closed.

The move was interpreted as an attempt to put a balance wheel in trading to prevent not only additional collapses in values, which sheared profits from potential profits or farmers, but to prevent further sensational rises. Recent speculation, based on anticipation of inflation, and shortened wheat crops, has worried Administration leaders for weeks.

If today's restriction should not accomplish the desired result, it was indicated further, and more drastic steps were contemplated. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, who announced the move, studied other means were under consideration.

It was recalled that the agriculture adjustment administration could, if the need arises, resort to the licensing powers of the Farm Act, thus bringing under more stringent regulation those who deal in grains, cotton and other farm produce. This drastic action, it was indicated, still was only a remote possibility.

Fall Detrimental

If they felt that the sudden fall was detrimental to their broad aim of restoring commodity prices to pre-war parities, farm leaders declared some consolation from the fact that it would help their crop reduction program.

Wheat selling at $1.25 a bushel was considered by them as dangerous to their plan of marketing only 30 per cent. reduction in the 1934 and 1935 crop. Previous tendencies have been to increase acreages after short crop years with their consequent higher prices. Any complete cure for the troubled farmer, they believe, can only be obtained by a definite reduction in production.

Wallace, explaining his attitude toward the grain markets, said no definite reports of unusual foreign operations had been received from Chicago, centre or grain trading, but that doubt had been "the result of gossip." More drastic remedies would not be required, he said, until a thorough study of the situation had been made.

The market broke, Wallace believed was obviously due to prices shoved too high. He revealed that there had been talk of $1.50 wheat. The Chicago board of trade governors, he said, had called the attendees of the market position and noting that additional trading requirements had been demanded by grain brokers before the break.

Noting the spread between Liverpool and Chicago prices, Wallace said the domestic price level never could be maintained. A further rise or three or four cents would have permitted the importation of a large quantity of wheat, he said.

Adjustment to that issued today was in existence prior to October 1932, when President Hoover entered it realized. The action was accompanied by considerable criticism.

Grain Exchange Closing Falls Like Thunderbolt Upon Wheat Conference

Feeling is That Fall in Prices is Best For All

Agreement May be Reached Today at London

London, July 21 (AP)—News of the closing of the Chicago and Kansas City grain exchanges fell like a thunderbolt today in the midst of discussions on a proposed wheat restriction agreement, but was described as "intensifying the determination to reach an accord.

Manuel E. Malkwan and Thomas L. Le Breton of Argentina, read the news while announcing the suspension of trading and appeared worried. Then Senor Malkwan smiled and said "Buenos Noticias." ("Good news.")

One by one the negotiators came from the conference room and gathered around the huge bulletin board.

Comments were that while the fall of prices in the last few days was a serious break on trading it was the best thing for all concerned.

Some mystification was expressed as published reports that the fall in some measure was due to dispatches from London saying the wheat negotiations were not proceeding as well as had been hoped.

Close to Agreement

The truth is, it was stated, that the negotiators were close to an agreement and that its general form may be reached today.

Representatives of the producing and importing countries announced after a two-hour meeting late yesterday that "progress has been made" and that agreement was reached on a preamble expressing the sympathy of importers with the restriction acreage reduction project.

Agreement also was arrived at on the first article of a draft which provided that importing countries would not encourage cultivation of soven acreage, but a fight developed on the part of the proposal concerning tariffs.

Representatives of exporting countries finalized the article contain a specific promise or reductions in tariffs as soon as a minimum price was reached.

Argentine quarters expressing the opinion that acceptance probably was the best thing since they believed present price increases undoubtedly exceeded President Roosevelt's desires and a steady price rise is preferable to violent fluctuations.

PARENTS SAY THEY DETEST THEIR CHILD

DENVER, July 21.—(AP)— The young parents of a six-weeks- old golden haired boy told Judge Genevra Ley in Juvenile Court today that they detest the child, and, in their request, the baby was ordered committed to the Juvenile Home for dependent and neglected children.

Maynard Erkenbeck, construction laborer, said he and his wife "can't be bothered with a baby because we don't want him around." Mrs. Erkenbeck added: "I was one of 13 children and my husband was one of five and we've seen too much of kids to care for them."

In granting the parents' request to take the child, Judge Ley said he was acting to "save a baby from any contact with parents lacking in the most fundamental feeling —love of offspring—and to insure protection to its helplessness."

STREET RIOT BROKEN UP

Winnipeg Jobless Dispersed Although Two Policemen Injured

Winnipeg, July 21 — Tear-gas bombs, batons and bricks mingled Thursday as police and unemployed staged a sharp skirmish near Winnipeg's City Hall. Before the fray was ended, two policemen were injured, a score with minor injuries and six demonstrators were arrested.

Closing of the out-patients' department of the General Hospital and announcement of a new Relief Commission order, limiting transients' relief to two days, led to the demonstration which ended in conflict.

Chanting "We want medical aid" the unemployed marched toward the City Hall. A small squad of police shifted them to Main Street, one of the city's principal thoroughfares.

Traffic was tied up, and, when police charged in an effort to disperse the crowd, trouble began.

A section of the mob rushed into a lane and assailed police with bricks and stones. Police reserves with tear-gas bombs were called out and the demonstrators were quickly thrown into disarray.

Police charged again, wielding batons, when the crowd attempted to rally in front of the police station. Constable A. Bond suffered a cut on the head from a brick and Constable A. Chapleau was removed from the melee partly overcome by tear gas. Quiet was restablished shortly after.

TENNESSEE IS IN WET RANKS

Repeal of 18th Amendment Favored by 9,500 Majority

Washington, July 21 —(CP)—Tennessee became today the 19th State to favor repeal of the Eighteenth States 18th Amendment as Oregon proceeded to ballot on the question.

The margin of victory for anti-prohibitionists in Tennessee was smaller than in any of the other States which have held popular elections on the proposed constitutional change.

As returns from yesterday's election neared completion today, the Repeal lead was approximately 9,500. Tennessee, the 36th Southern State to vote on and approve Repeal, was "dry" for 27 years. Its Legislature having passed a dry law in 1909. This year 3.2 beer was legalized.

In Oregon today, leaders of the Repeal movement predicted 2 to 1 victory. Dry leaders seemed agreed that they had lost more than a "fighting chance".

He was rushed here by aeroplane yesterday, shortly after the accident occurred.

MART FLURRY AHEAD OF TIDE SAYS PREMIER

Fears Residents Making Same Mistake as in 1929

NOT WELL FOUNDED

States Unemployment is a Most Serious Question

TORONTO, July 21.—Expressing a fear that stock market booms may be regarded by the majority of people as evidence that old-time prosperity was rapidly coming back, Premier Henry, speaking at the commercial travellers' dinner at the Royal York Hotel Thursday night, sounded a warning against repeating the mistakes of 1928 when the stock market boom crumpled almost overnight.

"I am fearful lest this flurry in the stock market is not well founded. I fear lest people will be deceived by themselves and that we are on the road to another delusion of prosperity again" said the Premier. "While I feel that the tide has turned and that from now on conditions will rapidly improve, we must not regard this upward trend as conclusive evidence of the upturn. If we are to ensure true, present conditions stronger and more virile, we must proceed, I believe, with caution."

Turning to provincial affairs, the Premier referred to the unemployment problem. "We have had one during his tenure of office. Not so much from the standpoint of cost," he said, was from the standpoint of morale. The unemployment situation was a serious one.

Generations of Idle

"I am fearful of a generation of boys and girls trained to do nothing and brought up in idleness," he said. "Such conditions are fatal to morale. The mind and body can no doubt work hard, continuously and strenuously. The bright side of this picture is that we have splendid schools which contain the boys and girls who are on the verge of stepping out into the world, are today being taught. There is an effort to meet the situation some schools are trying the experiment of staggering the hours of attendance so that a part of the pupils will be without increasing school costs.

It is a very encouraging sign to find so many boys and girls staying on at school to more adequately prepare themselves. While there is a danger of lower morale on the part of the industrial worker and farmer, due to unemployment ,the overwhelming majority are sound and loyal ary schools is a bright side of the picture."

Signs of Recovery

The Premier expressed the view that there were unmistakable signs of world recovery. The failure of the World Economic Conference, he said, disappointing to all, but he hopes that even, with the conference adjourning, something of world advantage would emerge from it before the end of the year. Touching on the agricultural wealth of Ontario and the Dominion, Premier Henry asserted that he had little faith in the man who dealt in figures in regard to the wheat carry-over.

No man could sum up and know the world supply of any market commodity, he emphasized. If the United States, he said, is determined to bring about economic recovery under President Roosevelt, the supreme democratic dictator the world has ever seen" bolstered the price of commodities above what the market would stand, it would result in the world's wheat carry-over.

"We all hope that President Roosevelt will succeed in his efforts," said the Premier. "The world is looking towards the President with anxious and interested eyes."

5-TO ENTER FINAL STAGE

109 Competitors Score 137 or Better To Qualify

Bisley Camp, England, July 21 (C. P. Cable)—All the five Canadians qualified today to enter tomorrow's final stage of His Majesty the King's Prize, the service rifle classic of the great Imperial meeting or the National Rifle Association.

Among the 300 marksmen who competed in today's second stage of the big match under ideal shooting conditions were eleven Canadians, the same number battling for the 100 places in the final stage.

When the smoke cleared away it was found 109 competitors had scored 137 or better out of a possible 150 points. Five of the Canadians were safely in the final stage. Two more scored 137, enabling them to shoot off with others in a further effort to join the "King's Hundred." The other four were eliminated outright.

The second stage called for 10 shots at 300, 500 and 600 yards, and the aggregate score posted today is added to the scores in tomorrow's final to determine the ultimate placings in the 70th. renewal of the Empire's classic.

World Girdling Flier Forced to Rest at Flat Through Damaged 'Prop'

Wiley Post Favors However to Break Record

NEARLY HOME

Only Light Load of Gas To Be Taken on at Flat

FLAT, Alaska, July 21.—(AP)— Refreshed by between five and six hours of sleep, Wiley Post, World girdling flier, was back at the Aluminum field at midnight to watch repairs being made on the damaged Winnie Mae, and said that if possible he wanted to get away by 1.30 a.m. Fairbanks Time (6.30 a.m. Eastern Standard Time) for Edmonton.

Post expressed the opinion he would still "break that record" of eight days, 15 hours and 51 minutes which he and Harold Gatty set in their 1931 globe-circling flight, if his ship was repaired sufficiently to allow him to get away this morning. He hopped off from New York at 4.34 a.m. (Eastern Standard Time) last Saturday, July 15.

Alaskan pilots supervising repairs to the ship said they expected to have it in flying condition by 5 o'clock local time. While Post was in a brief conference, he returned and circled the field several times, in landing, the cross wind and the short run upset the plane. On getting out of his damaged plane, Post appeared very blue and discouraged, with his face covered with oil. He said he had not picked up any of the directional radio signals, which Alaskan Stations had been sending out to aid him in keeping on his course.

Only 4,000 Miles From Goal.

The Oklahoman was only 4,000 miles from his goal," New York, when he landed after a 85-hour battle with the elements on his flight from Siberia. He was undismayed by his plane nosing over in a stiff cross wind, when he finally glided down to earth at the Airport here at 3.30 p.m. Fairbanks time (8.30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time) yesterday. The propeller was broken and the landing gear was damaged.

He was unhurt himself, although extremely nervous and exhausted.

The first flier to make a solo flight across the treacherous North Pacific, Post's elapsed time to Flat from New York was 136 hours 20 minutes, while he and Gatty did not reach Fairbanks, about, 375 miles further on, until 148 hours, 39 minutes had passed by.

For a long time after sighting land, he said, he had been "too following some river." Sighted first over Nome after hours spent mostly at 1.30 p.m. (Eastern Standard Time), he then headed in and soon twice over Ruby and as far east as Tanana, within 125 miles of Fairbanks.

Rain fell throughout the day over Central Alaska, however, and he became confused, fighting the heavy clouds. He finally landed here, on the Iditarod River in Western Alaska, about 300 miles southeast of Nome.

After flying over flat as a 4,000-foot elevation, he returned and circled the field several times. In landing, the cross wind and the short run upset the plane. On getting out of his damaged plane, Post appeared very blue and discouraged, with his face covered with oil. He said he had not picked up any of the directional radio signals, which Alaskan Stations had been sending out to aid him in keeping on his course.

BALBO AND OFFICERS VISIT THE PRESIDENT

Came Back to New York by Train to Get Rest

Washington, July 21 (AP)—General Italo Balbo and his doughty band of aerial voyagers went back to New York today, their hearts warmed by congratulations upon the United States capital for their flight to Chicago from Italy.

The cumulative effect of the greeting was such that General Balbo, speaking in Italian translated amid whooping cheers, remarked.

"From the enthusiasm we found in Chicago, New York and Washington, we had started to think we really had done something."

The Italians went to New York by early train, instead of flying, so they could get some needed rest.

Letter From India

Mrs. B. M. Miller who is visiting her son in India, has written another delightful and interesting letter. She says:

As I promised in my last letter, this letter is to tell you of our trip to Kashmir and what we have been doing since we arrived.

Kashmir is a state. The two principal places in the state (one would not call either of them a city) are Srrinagar, pronounced Sir-a-nig-a and is the lower place than Gulmarg. Both are summer places and semi-failed from May until October. A month ago it was decided we should leave the plains for Kashmir as the nearest railway, so everything was packed and we had to come by road. It was lovely as Peshawar and we loved to leave. The orange trees were in full bloom and with the roses and other flowers, the lawns were beautifully watered. The copper trees were also in blossom and one could smell it every time one came west near them. An enormous motor lorry left early one Sunday morning, loaded inside and on top with all sorts of things and, in addition to the driver, four of our servants were tucked in the odd corners. As the lorry was to come in Sunday morning, we waited until it came and then the family and the children's Ayah left in the big car, Miles driving. The kits car brought up the rear with the chauffeur, Abdul, and Abdul's best friend, Abdul. Kashmir does not have been forgotten to be put in the lorry. At Attock bridge we stopped and had lunch on the bank where the Indus and the Kabul river join, a beautiful spot. Attock is a very historic place, as the old fort and two ancient missions are the principal objects of interest. There is a very fine modern bungalow there and I'm hoping to stop there some time and see the sights. For the next fifty miles the road is not particularly interesting. After that the mountains begin and we go on climbing for miles. I forgot to say, it is not necessary to have an armed escort from Attock bridge on, as we are now in the Punjab. They let a good road all the way, but steep and at times very narrow, with miles and miles of hair-pin driving.

At Manshera we stopped at a Dak bungalow for dinner, the night, and breakfast. These Dak bungalows are just houses, owned by the Government, Indian I think and are inspected every month. They are all over India, about twenty-five miles apart. They vary in size. Some serve meals and others do not. There are very comfortable bedrooms that with a bath-room off it. This Dak was all up in the mountains with a wonderful view from the verandah of the Himalaya Mountains, deeply covered with snow. Soon after the next day we stopped at Chenari for lunch. Here also no meals were served. Fortunately we still had quite a bit of lunch in the basket, left from the day before. We were then informed that we would likely have to stay a day or two, as there had been a landslide about a mile further on, Chenari bungalow is on the outskirts of the Chenari Indian village I've seen, so we weren't really thrilled at the idea. We took the chauffeur and little car and went to see just what was the matter. He reported that we would be able to go on in about four hours. And so we were much to our relief. We had to walk over the part of the road that had crumbled and the cars had to go over light.

We then drove along the Jhelum river away in the valley below us. The natives through this part of the country are most industrious, making use of every foot of ground. Like the Chinese, they plant very symetrically, that on the mountain side being done in terrace effect.

Being detained it was decided we should stop, overnight, at another Dak. This one was at Uri (Coorie) and was A-1 in every way. Good rooms, good meals and electric light. This village is as clean as Chenari was dirty. We enjoyed going through it. The native houses though we didn't find anything we wanted to buy.

We reached Srrinagar at noon the next day. The streets in the native part are very narrow and the ruts extremely difficult to navigate with the big car. At one critical moment a big Indian gluck his head in the car and said: "Please Memsahib, I am suffering Moses, please cease and see my slop."

With a few words in Hindustani from the chauffeur, we drove on. We stayed with Madge and Hilda Hadow for two days. Can you imagine a family of five, an Ayah and seven servants, two cars and a lorry landing down on one. The servants, of course, do not sleep in the servants' compound, it does, seem a caravan!

Aeroplanes And Armed Messengers Transfer Stocks to N. Y.

Toronto, July 20—Aeroplane and armed messengers by-trail, carry hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth or securities, played a part in the story of Wednesday's hectic day in finance in Toronto. Liquor stocks had slumped badly in the week end with big parcels, and on previous selling was for New York. Two Toronto brokers with New York connections were notified they had to make clearing of their stocks in two New York shares by 3.10 yesterday afternoon. It was apparent that New York thought there was a large short interest here, and there would be difficulty in making good delivery in a technical sense.

There was a tremendous scramble for securities to keep the bargain, for prices had gone down heavily and New York buyers might seek to escape compliance at the report high price. When the securities

BRINGING UP FATHER

"Well, you have laid your cards very quickly upon the board," Joe said, "and it is only fair that I show my hand as well. Let us admit for the moment, that you possess information which would be embarrassing to me in any court of law.

"Which we do possess," Peter said, "I, too, have a few trump cards. I suppose you mean my job," Jerry said with anger. "I think you have had dismissal enough by now until the threat is a little thread-worn.

"No, my dear, your job is a very small card indeed in the game we're playing. We won't even mention it."

"You can't believe I am still interested in the house," Jerry said, but even as she said it her heart was rent again by the beautiful place she had offered about the open shore.

"No the house does not matter greatly either, though I will keep it in mind as one game possession."

"Then speak up," Peter said, "if you are going to lay your cards on the board, lay them there."

"I would advise you not to be too impatient," Joe said. "I'm running this game, not you."

"Only for the moment", Peter said. "Our time will come."

"You have to pose, do you not?" Jerry said, "You love to sit there with your eyes half closed, feeling very much the master of the situation."

"And do you think I am not?"

"I think that you are never what you pretend to be," Jerry said. "I think that when you come as a gentlemen you never are quite a gentleman. I think when you pretend to be a lover your clenched ring is trifle false and your manner is a bit theatrical. I think that when your eyes flash green and you believe yourself to be a tiger——"

"Then I am a tiger," Joe said, and there was something so terribly real about the voice that Jerry knew he was at last telling the truth.

"That is all very good melodrama to frighten girls who are still in their teens," Peter said, "but somehow you do not frighten me. Mr. Viper I think you are a very tame tiger and will probably sit up on your rear and waltz barrel when I crack my whip."

"We shall see about that." Joe said "Everything in its time. Meanwhile we were talking cards to see who gets the jackpot. One of mine is the scandal which inevitably will be attached to Miss ——— Jerry, what's name if I am ever dragged into court and this so-called fiancee is sued."

"Do you think I couldn't clear myself when it came to my turn to testify" Jerry said. "Do you think anything that you might insinuate——"

"But you don't know what I might insinuate." Joe said. "I might insinuate things which you would have a very difficult time disproving. I am sure that a front page layout of the house I built for you, the dresses I bought for you —which are still in my possession, where they could easily be photographed —and a check made out to your name and bearing my signature would be the sort of insinuations you could not very easily live down."

"You are not a tiger," Peter said, "you're a rat."

"You——you couldn't do a thing like that," Jerry whispered hoarsely. "There must be things that are even beneath a man like you."

"I doubt it," Joe said. "I have made a rather thorough introspective examination of my own character and I feel that I can speak with authority when I say that I have no morals whatever. I am not so weak as to let mere human conventions come between me and my goal."

"And what is your goal?" Peter asked.

"My own complete happiness" Joe said.

TARZAN, LORD OF THE JUNGLE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"And you still believe I do not hold the winning hand?" Joe asked, smiling with his lips, but not with his eyes, "Did it ever occur to either of you that your two children, Kitten and Jackie, I believe you call them, are at this very moment sleeping unprotected in an apartment on Blackstone avenue, guarded only by their grandmother."

"My God," Peter said, "you wouldn't touch them, would you? I'll kill you before you can move this room."

"Just a moment," Jerry," Peter said, "he's only threatening. Even he wouldn't harm an innocent child."

"To protect myself? I certainly would," Joe said, "I would do anything I should happen to think of rather than let my young meddlers send me over the road."

"You mean that the children will be safe if we do not try to bring you to justice," Jerry said.

"They will be safe if you accede carefully to all of my demands. Joe said, "I've been comparing our cards a moment ago, and there is still one card I have not laid upon the table. If you should think by any chance, that you still hold the whip hand over me, watch——"

He pressed the button on the arm of the chair in which he was sitting. Into the wide and beautifully appointed living room of Joe Middleton's country estate stepped twenty gunmen from as many hiding places.

"Let your hands fall silently into their hiding places.

CHAPTER 25

"And what are the demands with which you would have us comply?" Jerry asked. "First," said Joe, "I wanted you to realize that I was in a position to make demands. Now I can go ahead and tell you the terms by which you can buy your freedom from this house.

"Demand number one is that both of you forget, completely and for all time any evidence you have against me.

"Demand number two is that Peter Baird leave Chicago immediately for a long trip to distant parts of the world.

"Demand number three is that Jerry Hartford move into the house I have built for her not later than Monday evening."

"And have you the effrontery to imagine we will accept?" Peter asked.

"You have no choice," Joe said. "I can make you accept."

"I hate you, Joe Middleton," Jerry said. "I hate you from the bottom of my heart. I wish——I wish you could be tortured."

"Hating is very close to loving," Joe said with unruffled calm, "and now I am going to believe all revive. A good night's sleep may help to clear your heads on this matter. May I show you to your rooms?"

Sleep seemed to Jerry the most precious gift any one could give her. It was already Sunday morning, perhaps 2 o'clock, and Jerry had been in one continuous flurry of excitement since she had stepped from her bed nineteen hours before. Nineteen hours! It seemed like as many days. Was it only last evening that they had been exploring the deserted steel mill?

Joe was taken down a long hallway, broken by little casement windows through which the sound of a fountain could be heard in the moonlit courtyard, to a huge master bedroom on the first floor of the house. Peter's bedroom was only two doors away, and yet how far it seemed.

Jerry had half expected that Joe would try to force his way into the room, but only he had shown her to the door——are she would sleep he had shut the door behind her and——the key clicked. She realized that she was a prisoner.

Still, if she must be imprisoned this was the sort of prison she would have chosen.

The floor of pine knots buried in the fireplace, taking the chill from the autumn air which entered at the windows, looking out upon the lake.

The bed and vanity and other furniture were of waxed cherrywood, exquisite in their curves. Feminine to a degree. The small hooked rugs upon the floor, and the hand-blocked wallpaper of delicate pastel design, and the crisp organdie curtains at the windows were all of a pale but spirited green in perfect complement to the cherry wood.

The room glowed with welcome in the firelight and Jerry sank down upon the low bench before the fire almost too tired to undress. I wish Joe would undress me, she thought, and even while she thought it she said aloud in her exhaustion. A door which led to Jerry's bath and dressing room and brought Jerry out of her clothes with deft, experienced fingers.

SOURED ON THE WORLD?—THAT'S LIVER

Wake up your Liver Bile

—No Calomel necessary

Many people who feel sour, sluggish, and generally wretched make the mistake of taking calomel. Calomel is a mercury product. It causes griping pain, or nowhere when your nerves are on edge. Don't take calomel.

Get your health back in a way you'll like. Start your liver pouring the daily two pounds of bile into your bowels. Then your stomach and intestines working as they should, and you'll feel Like Live Wire Pills will soon fix you up. Purely vegetable. Safe. Sure. Quick. Ask for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c. at all druggists.

COMMUNISTS ARE FOILED

Try to Turn Christian Burial Service Into Communistic One

Port Colborne, July 21— Attempts by Port Colborne Communists to turn the funeral of John Stefan, West Colborne Hungarian, from a Christian service to a Communistic burial were frustrated yesterday by police.

The funeral of Mr. Stefan, who died following a heart attack suffered at Fenwick during the week-end, was held from the home of friends on Fraser Street, Rev. G. S. Horvath of Welland conducting the service.

Communists Take Charge

As the procession left the residence, local Communists, led by Hamilton leaders, took charge, and directed the undertaker, H. A. Miller, of Fenwick, to proceed to the Ukrainian Hall, Durham Street, where preparations had been made for the communistic funeral service. The remains were taken to the hall, but on complaint of Father Horvath, Port Colborne police arrived, and ordered that the body be taken to the cemetery, and the Communistic service carried out. The service at the hall was then discontinued, and the procession resumed to Memorial Park, Joseph Cemetery.

Police in Attendance

Constable A. E. McMichael and Provincial Constable Harry Peel of Welland followed the funeral procession to the cemetery to see that there was no further interference with the Christian service. Father Horvath, in an address at the cemetery, delivered in Hungarian, condemned the efforts of the Communists to take charge of the funeral and deny the deceased without the benefit of clergy. Such matters were in the hands of God, he said, and should not be interfered with by any political organization.

As Father Horvath concluded, a Hamilton organizer of Communistic demonstrations, attempted to speak but was stopped and ushered from the cemetery by police, with the advice to keep on driving until he was outside the limits of the town.

ALIMONY FOR ALL HUSBANDS

New Statute Placed on Books of Illinois State

Chicago, July 20 (AP) — Alimony for husbands will be legalized in many parts of the United States soon, the co-author of Illinois new statute which has already brought awards to two Chicago husbands, believes.

State Senator Richey V. Graham, who piloted the measure through the Legislature, had made known today that inquiries concerning the statute had come to him from lawyers, socialogists and legislators in virtually every state of the Republic.

"The new statute puts Illinois in the forefront in the matter of obtaining parity in divorce actions between wife and husband," said Graham. "Hitherto, the law which was adopted in 1877 and was as obsolete as that would indicate, gave all advantage to the wife."

Last week Illinois' so-called reciprocal alimony statute was invoked to require Mrs. Grace Kettel, employed, to pay $19 weekly to the extent of $1,042 to her jobless husband, Harold, and to compel Mrs. Rumdegunda Koska to give temporary alimony of $3.50 a week along with milk and eggs from their farm to her husband, Joseph.

SOLUTION OF CASE CLAIMED

Police Arrest Four in Connection With Kidnapping of Banker

St. Louis, July 21—(AP)—Solution of the kidnapping for ransom of August Lerr, 77-year-old Alton, Ill., banker, was claimed with the arrest of four men and two women.

Chief of Police Joseph Gerk said the case was "cleaned up" during a raid on the farm house, near Madison, Ill., of Michael and Anna Matiska, and following the admission of Percy Michael Fitzgerald, an ex-convict, that "I'm right for this job, you've got me." Police and department of justice men cooperated in the rounded clean up of the case.

Other persons, beside Mr. and Mrs. Matiska and Fitzgerald, known as the "Pine Bow Kid" are Randall Eugene Norvell, Granite City, Ill., bondsmen, and Miss Norma Vaughn, 26, and Frank Douglass, both of East St. Louis.

FLYING MOLLISONS ON WAY TO NEW YORK

Mollisons Take Off at Pendine Wales for 12000 Mile Aerial Adventure

Route to New York, Bagdad And Thence Back to England

SANDS DESERTED

Weather Will Not be Good For First 800 Miles

Belfast, Northern Ireland, July 23—(AP)—The plane in which Jim and Amy Mollison took off for New York today passed between Fastnet Rock and the Cork mainland at 1:30 p.m. G.M.T. today (8:30 a.m. E.S.T.)

Pendine, Wales, July 22 (AP) — Jim and Amy Mollison hopped off for New York today on the first lap of a 12,000 mile aerial adventure.

They circled the course for scheduled flying conditions at 11.00 a.m. G.M.T. (6.00 a.m. E.S.T.), and were expected to fly over Saint John, N.B.

Landing their large plane, the Seafarer, on the sands here this morning from Stag Lane Airdrome, where the two-motored ship had been parked while the famous aviators availed favorable weather reports, Sir James A. Mollison and Amy Johnson Mollison went to a hotel for a brief rest, while the machine was being fuelled.

Few persons had heard of their decision to take off from here today for the 12,000 mile venture, which will take them to Saint John, thence to Bagdad, and back to England.

Sands Almost Deserted

The Pendine sands were almost deserted. But villagers quickly began to gather as the news spread that the broad beaches, which proclaims the big plane, heavily loaded with gasoline, could not unusually long runway for a successful takeoff.

The Mollisons found a sharp contrast today to conditions prevailing three years ago, when their plane crashed in the takeoff.

Instead of angry seas and howling winds which have persisted for so long; they saw passive, blue water under a brilliant sun. There was scarcely any wind.

Capt. Mollison, who at 28, was revered junior aviation exploits to his credit, including the first east-to-west North Atlantic solo flight in 1932, was not particularly pleased with the weather prospects.

Weather Report

"The weather is reasonably, but not particularly good," he declared as he shook hands with friends.

"But they are good enough for us to take a chance. His lips were set grimly as he said it.

For the first 800 miles the weather will be foggy in patches, and there will be a certain amount of drizzle.

"But it's good to get the worst part over at first. After that we shall run into nice flying.

"If all goes well we expect to be in New York by 10 o'clock Sunday night. We are taking on 250 gallons of gasoline, which will give us a margin of something like 800 miles."

No luggage or any kind is being taken.

Amy will take only an indispensable tube of lipstick.

The initial salvo of the trip, which both have agreed will be the swan song of their dream-spun aerial careers.

"It would be great if this weather lasts while we are cruising," she said. She had with her what she calls her lucky compact.

ODDITIES IN THE NEWS

London, Ont., July 22 (CP)— They just wanted to see if Eleanor would forget off a bicycle plan window air London lads used years ago. Mrs. Fred Hall of Warner, when they appeared in Juvenile Court charged with damaging her bicycle. Pacific Railway property at Cranbrook. Among charges against a man charged they smashed four panes of glass. Parents of the lads paid $4 for the damage.

Amherstburg, Ont., July 22 — One more case is reported among farmers in this district now that the starling menace seems to have "faded." As was said in another item seven foot across the wings, is reported to be swooping down on farms and carrying away poultry.

Norwich, July 22 (CP) — There's nothing like exercise to keep a young man fit, in the opinion of G. W. Folden, 86 year old Norwich resident. Today he has been shingling putting a new roof on his home. A job that required considerable agility.

WOODIN SUCCESSOR?

Frank C. Walker, treasurer of the Democratic National committee and secretary of the newly formed "supercabinet" in the United States, is slated to succeed William G. Woodin as secretary of the treasury, according to Washington reports.

REV. A.L. GEEN 84 YEARS OLD

Celebrates Birthday By Arriving at Work Hour Earlier

"To some people the celebration of a birthday is an excuse for a holiday from work but Rev. A. L. Geen marked the occasion of his eighty-fourth birthday today, by arriving at business under early car. This outstanding Belleville citizen who has probably held more distinguished offices in religious, fraternal and business circles in his eighty-four years of life is still enjoying splendid health, appears daily at his place of business and is apparently as active as in middle life.

Born in Belleville on July 22nd, 1849, Albert L. Geen has lived there all his life. He has been an Oddfellow for nearly sixty years. Mason for nearly fifty and a member of the Presbyterian church for a long period. He has rendered valuable service as a member of the City Council and as a Board of Education. He is the senior of the Anglican clergy of this diocese while the organizations, local and province-wide, of which he is the oldest living member is legion.

But the heroic of his years seem to be a light one, so upright of carriage and jaunty of step is this well-known citizen, that he has seen Belleville grow to present proportions from a small beginning and whose friendships likewise with citizens have grown and strengthened with the passing years.

HOLD-UP MEN FACE HANGING

Capital Punishment Verdict in Louisiana For Attempt

Columbia, La., July 22 (AP)— Two men accused of attempting to hold up a bank face hanging for the crime.

Herman Hooks Turner and Harry Manterie were convicted of the attempted robbery and a verdict with capital punishment returned under a Louisiana law which prescribes the death penalty in cases of robbery with firearms.

Bruin Wanders from Northern Haunts to Luscious Berry Patch at Latta

Large straggly foot prints in the soft ground around the blackberry patch on the farm of Mr. Nelson Beattie, Latta, this week led to considerable wonder on the part of the owner. And when it was found that the berries on the bushes were steadily and rapidly disappearing, the wonder became still deeper. On Friday the thief was discovered. Standing erect in the patch, calmly stripping the berry bushes with his paws, a small black bear was discovered by a startled neighbor. This is the first record of an appearance of a black bear so close to this city. Tracks in the sections are stepping carefully in the wooded areas, even if the black bear is a small one.

HARDEST PART OF JOURNEY IS COMPLETED

Wiley Post Lands at Edmonton From Fairbanks Alaska

MAKES FAST TRIP

Still Ahead of 1931 Record And Makes Less Number of Stops

Hand clapped over his white eyepatch, Post sat in the cockpit for three minutes after he had taxied his plane up to the airport building. As deftly as a taxi-driver he had "parked" the Winnie Mae a few feet from waiting gasoline trucks. Then he clambered out of the cockpit and said he had a "splitting headache".

Still holding his head, Post fell into the arms of waiting officials and was guided through a cheering throng of 3,000 people. They clamored their approval when he said he was off for New York "in an hour".

Deafened From Roar.

While attendants scurried about filling up his plane and pouring 500 gallons of gasoline into its tanks, Post sat at a table in the airport building, deafened by the roar of his plane on the long drive over the Canadian mountains, and down through the Rockies foothills.

He appeared not to hear the questions of customs officials and Rev. Trinity United Church was held at the home of this president, Mr. S. Rutherford. The program was opened him with queries about his flight.

After checking over a budget of telegrams and cables from friends to officials of Alberta and Edmonton, who had greeted him, Post said he was not hungry, did not need sleep —"just want to get going."

Can't Stand It.

"I can stand it," he said when asked if he could expect to stand all the way on his attempted non-stop flight to New York, 3,100 miles. He hoped to be back in New York by midnight, E.S.T., four hours and 58 minutes under eight days for the hurry-up jaunt around the globe.

"I'm not certain I can make New York in one hop but that is sure my intention," he added.

Edmonton, July 22 (CP)—Completing the tenth leg of his record-making round-the-world flight, Captain Wiley Post brought down his white monoplane Winnie Mae at Blatchford Field at 8.57 a.m. E.S.T. He had flown the 1,450 miles from Fairbanks, Alaska, in 7 hours and 19 minutes. Post circled the field and landed in a driving rain.

Accompanying him on the trip from Fairbanks was Harold Gatty, navigator of the record he and Harold Gatty set in their 1931 circuit of the globe in which they flew in two-and-one-half days. He is the senior of the Anglican clergy of this diocese while the organizations, local and province-wide, of which he is the oldest living member is legion.

But the heroic of his years seem to be a light one, so upright of carriage and jaunty of step is this well-known citizen, that he has seen Belleville grow to present proportions from a small beginning and whose friendships likewise with citizens have grown and strengthened with the passing years.

70 MILES HOUR

Automobile is Torn Into Four Parts in Crash

Seaside Heights, N.J., July 23 (AP) —A gay party of five young people, returning from a dance in Asbury Park, met death early today when their automobile plunged through the open draw on bay bridge into Barnegat Bay.

All five bodies were recovered from the bay and Coroner Herbert Le Compte said that at least three of the bodies had probably all five had been killed in a crash preceding the plunge, and did not die by drowning.

The victims, all residents of Forked River, were:

Mary Aitkins, 17.
Mary Bantain, 17.
Leonard Nathan, 21.
Marcus Matthews, 20.
Joseph Parrell, an aviator.

The car in which the party was riding was torn into four parts as it tore through the heavy iron chain across the open back-drawn draw before the plunge. The top of the car was sheared off cleanly and fell on the bridge, the body of the car, broken into two parts, plummeted into the bay, while the chassis, with terrific momentum, hurtled a 30-foot gap under the rising draw and crashed against the concrete abutment on the land side of the bridge, without hitting the water.

John Irons, of Gulliver Park, the bridge tender, told state police, they announced, that the car roared to the bridge at a terrific rate of speed estimated by irons at 70 miles per hour.

CADET OFFICER WOODS IS WINNER OF KING'S PRIZE

Bisley Camp, England, July 22— (CP Cable)—Shooting in the final stage for the first time Cadet-Officer Woods of Nottingham University, C.O.T.C. today won His Majesty the King's Prize, greatest award for marksmanship in the Empire meeting of the National Rifle Association.

Woods scored a total of 387 points out of a possible 200 for both second and third stages to take the cash award of $1,250, the R.N.A. gold medal and the gold badge. Best of the six Canadians in the final proved to be Sergeant-Major F. J. McLeod of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders of Canada, who returned a score of 382.

The Canadians however (tripped)ed when McLeod was announced winner of the all-comers aggregate and won second place in the grand aggregate, Bisley's two most difficult tests of consistent marksmanship in a number of selected competitions.

McLeod's victory in the all-comers aggregate was gained by a score of 350 out of a possible 370 and he won a challenge cup valued at more than $1,200. In the grand, Lieut. E. Johnson of Durban, South Africa, was returned winner with 377 out of a possible 615, taking the Dominion of Canada challenge cup. McLeod after a shoot-off with Cadet Bowell of London University gained second place winning the silver cross. Both had scored 376.

Another consolation for the Canadians who lost the Kolapore Cup and failed in the Mackinnon Cup, was the three point handicap having a second stage score of 142 points, the 300 yard stage in the final he scored 73 out of 75, and at the long 1,000 yard distance notched at fine 73 out of 75 to win the prize. Lieut. D. G. White of Saint John 48th, winning 48.

WHEAT FALLS ON 'PEG BOARD

Futures Markedly Weak at Opening of Exchange

Winnipeg, July 22 (CP) — Wild panic broke with full force on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. With everybody frantically trying to sell wheat and nobody wanting to buy, prices opened 6 to 7¼ cents under the previous close, jumped for an instant and then collapsed, to stand 11¼ cents down at the bottom break. At mid-session the price was 6 cents down from last night.

Winnipeg, July 23—(CP)—Flinging spectacularly downward, wheat prices on the Winnipeg grain exchange opened 11-4 cents lower.

Caught in a maelstrom of selling, prices dropped almost perpendicularly. Prices opened as much as seven cents lower and subsequently crashed another four cents for a maximum loss of 11 1-4 cents.

Every option's opening price was 7¼, October 69 1-2, December 71 to 73 and May 84 1-2 to 76.

New York, July 22—(CP)—For the second successive day today futures trading in grains at the Chicago and Kansas City Boards was barred. The suspension action followed a spectacular decline on the New York Exchange in a 9,595,270 share day that brought back memories of 1929.

The decision to suspend trading for another day was reached by directors of the Chicago Board at a five-hour conference, Peter B. Carey, President, said it was requested by other exchanges to give general clearing opportunity to catch up with the huge volume of earlier in the week business.

The closing was followed with similar action and announcements of other suspensions were expected before the opening hour today.

Two-hour trading in cotton and securities was permitted in Chicago today and both there and Kansas City grain markets were closed outside for the holds of weekly privileges.

In New York the present high speed ticker machine fell as much as 43 minutes behind for a new late record yesterday and when it was all over a sales load of 67.48 a share was shown by the Associated Press standard statistics.

Just before the close a rally set in, whether too late to do much good in New York, but its price lifting results were felt in San Francisco.

CLOUDBURST AT OAK LAKE

Storm Out of Clear Sky Limited to Lake Area

A veritable cloudburst, accompanied by a miniature hurricane, swooped down unexpectedly out of a clear sky over the Oak Lake district on Friday afternoon drenched the district with one of the heaviest downfalls of rain ever known in this area, and swept off to the east shortly after. Campers along the lake caught unprepared by the suddenness of the storm left their tents homes during the driving shower which pelted ahead of the seething gale of wind. Fortunately the downpour was short and created little actual damage. Motorists from this city who were driving along the stirring road at the time reported that not one drop of rain had been received this side of Boardman's Hill.

NO BEER LICENCE TO SELL WHISKEY

"Baltimore, July 22 (CP)—In the first liquor case in State Courts here in many years, a jury today found guilty two sentences for selling whisky without a beer licence.

Although it was admitted the defendants did not sell beer, Judges Charles E. Stein ruled they should have secured a license to sell "any other beverage of alcoholic content."

Broadway Columnist Takes Punch on Head from "Mammy" Singer Jolson

Hollywood, Cal., July 22—(AP)— Al Jolson, "mammy" singer, actor and movie actor arose at the Hollywood Legion Stadium fights last night, went over to Walter Winchell Broadway columnist, and gave him a stiff punch on the head.

Other ringsiders at the fight joined ushers in putting a halt to the disturbance before much damage was done.

"He only hit me on the back of the neck", said Winchell when dust of the battle had settled.

Jolson made not statement, but his friends said he had taken exception to material in a syndicate Winchell, conductor of a gossip column on the show business, has written for a leading Hollywood film producer, which follows Jolson's own career on the stage.

Material is contained in the column, Jolson's friends stated, which the actor-singer considers detrimental to his wife Ruby Keeler, star of the stage and screen.

Entire Family of Five Wiped Out by Murderer Still to be Identified

Suspect Flees to Bush, Body of Uncle is Found

WAVE OF HORROR

Police Search For Killer And Try to Piece Motive

Detective Dalpe has searching the Bradley house on the Wabash road and also the bodies of the five victims and found no money. He thought some significance may attach to the discovery since the Bradleys were always known to have money.

The inquest will be held at Dennes Cedar, one mile from the Bradley home this afternoon. Dr. J. M. Rossell, assistant medico-legal expert for Quebec, will conduct an autopsy and examine some of the bullets which caused the death of the five Bradleys.

Many residents of Allumette Island spent a sleepless night with the killer still at large. During the night the roads were patrolled by armed men and likewise the Bradley home, where the bodies are still lying, was under heavy guard.

Pembroke, Ont., July 22—A wave of horror grips the whole Ottawa Valley today as piece by piece, the tragedy at Demers Centre, on Allumette Island, which snatched a toll of five lives, became known and it was definitely established that an entire family had been wiped out by some murderer still to be identified.

Joseph Bradley, 65; his wife, Mary Bradley, 58, and their two children, Gordon, 23, and Vera Ann, 16, are dead. Slain also is John Bradley, brother of Joseph, who lived with the family.

All five are the victims of some unknown killer, and all five met their death by shooting.

Terror grips the entire island. The doors of every home are locked, and behind them frightened women and children huddle, while their menfolk, armed with rifles, shotguns and pitchforks, are searching the bush and fields and for the presumably armed murderer.

The whole country surrounds the whole gruesome affair, made all more baffling by the fact that almost complete, reports that first issued from the scene of the tragedy.

Provincial police say that this small farming community on Allumette Island, which takes place in the Ottawa River opposite Pembroke, was disturbed around five o'clock Friday morning when a shot was heard sent quaver issuing from the Bradley home.

Neighbors declare that the disturbance was so prolonged and so loud that it was heard by many in the early hours of the morning. No one seemed to pay any time in par-

GASOLINE PRICE UP HALF CENT

Gasoline prices jumped slightly in the city today as an instance of a half cent per gallon was registered. The advance of a cent was explained seasonal one that had been expected by one service station owner as a for some time.

ANDERSON CAR IS RECOVERED

The car stolen from the garage of Dan. Anderson, Amelisburg, was found abandoned in a clump of bushes near Foxboro early Friday night. Apparently the one taking the Anderson car had driven off in another car for an automobile was reported stolen in that vicinity. The second car was found abandoned near Crafton.

GINGHAM GOWN PICNIC PARTY JOLLY AFFAIR

On the afternoon of Wednesday, July 19th at the home of Mrs. Everett Wood, Front street, the members of the Hare-Am-I Mission Circle gathered for an antique picnic party, as well as their usual monthly meeting. In the afternoon arrives the lawn and verandah were decorated gay with their colorful cotton gowns.

The early part of the afternoon was spent in preparing parcels to be sent in September to the Literature Secretary for use in the Christmas Sales. After these matters were in the lawn, picnic style, all repaired to the house for the usual programme.

Rachel Fee, pianist, played the opening hymn being "Come to the Saviour" followed by prayer and the reading of a short poem "The Always Faithful."

After the regular business meeting the hymn "Hark 'Tis the Shepherds Voice" was sung and a series of readings contributed as follows:

Missionary Boats, Joe Dougherty; Tabitha woo off Korea Delia Johnston; "I have an Engagement", Mrs. Lila Bailey.

The Devotional Period was based on the theme "Usefulness" Mrs. Flossie Wood reading the Scripture Lesson from the 5th and 9th Chapters of 11 Corinthians.

Mrs. (Rev.) J. S. McMullen and Mrs. Wood were heard in a duet with a duett "Beautiful Garden of Prayer". Mrs. McMullen accompanied all the musical selections with her harp, which was sincerely enjoyed and appreciated.

The Mispah Benediction closed the meeting.

BIG MARKET ON SATURDAY

One of the largest markets of the season was witnessed today every inch of space being utilized.

In the fruit line red raspberries sold for 12 and 13 cents a box with the blue variety selling for 10 cents. Long blackberries, making their first appearance of the season, sold for 10 cents a box. Red currants sold for 50 and 90 cents a box, while blackberries brought 20 cents a quart.

The price of eggs remained firm or slightly higher when many housewives asked 18c with the prevailing price being 16 cents per dozen. Butter sold at 23 to 25 cents a pound. Many fine looking broilers were observed for sale bringing from 50 cents a pair upwards. Other single milk-fed chickens of a larger size sold for from 50 to 75 cents each. Plenty of home cooking was offered to the thirsty house-wives at reasonable prices.

The vegetable line featured the market when dozens of vendors added to the beauty of the market by displaying fresh vegetables and beautiful flowers. Tomatoes sold for 20 cents a berry box while new potatoes remained firm at 50 cents a peck. Green corn sold for 5 cents a dozen while cauliflowers brought 5 and 10 cents each. Vegetable marrows sold for 5 cents each, while fine looking cucumbers sold at three for 10 cents. Shelled green peas were offered at 20 cents a quart with unshelled peas at 10 cents each. Sweet peppers at two for 5 cents. Other remaining vegetables such as carrots, beets, etc., sold at the prevailing prices.

On the south side of the market square fine looking porker pigs were offered at $4.50 each and upwards according to their size. The market was crowded shortly after 9 and the current season from a purchaser's or vendor's viewpoint.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer:

I wish to know by what right the Waterworks Department of the City of Belleville has allowed a certain fine anyone for using lawn hose out 24 hours without a permit to water oneself and what right the Waterworks Department has to act as court of law imposing fines. Is this British justice?

In the case I am referring to an old man, very dirty and ragged, called at a house for a drink of water and stated he was ill and wanted a drink of water. He was shaking and looked more like a tramp. The lady of the house asked him to sit down on a chair and she would also gave him something to eat. He sat down and had a drink and when she went out again the old man was gone. The chair was dirty and the lady called my son to this man. She drove to a dirty chamber on the lane and found the old infectant and proceeded to wash the chair. The disinfectant started to chamber on the lane and the hose on the lawn and turned the hose on it. The lady was disinfected to see that her chair would not be ruined. Apparently the agents for the Waterworks Department saw her and she received a statement reading, "Fine for using lawn hose out of hours". Would any British court have dealt with this case?

Yours truly,

WATER-USER.

Boost Industry Institute Theme

Miss B. Jones Urges Insistence on Canadian Fuel

The regular monthly meeting of the Quinte Institute of Trades was held Tuesday afternoon at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Hall of Thurlow. There was a good attendance of members and visitors to enjoy the program.

The president, Mrs. James Bunnett, presided, opening with the usual ode followed by the Lord's prayer in unison. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, also the minutes of the May meeting as many were not in attendance at the June "get-together meeting" at Mrs. Craig's. Several letters of appreciation were read for kindnesses during bereavement and illness. After some business discussions had been disposed of, Mrs. R. Bell, leader for July, capably took charge. The report of the district annual meeting at Plainfield was read by Mrs. W. C. Mitchell, but prepared by Mrs. Arnold Mitchell, district director, who was unable to be complimented on so full a report. The roll call, "Name a product that changed some useful hints for home canning," also "Is it clean, an ever helpful member, gave a most beneficial paper on "Canadian Industries and Why We Should Boost Them". She told of the many industries and their importance; and also urged that Canadians insist on Canadian fuel, stand loyal to our own country as we are the backbone and the backbone. Community singing was indulged in and family families' names were enjoyed including "My Old Kentucky Home" "Auld Brown Jug", and others. Miss Cleland of Toronto, a visitor and institute worker, also gave a most helpful talk on "Canadian Industries" and stressed that we raise the best standard of Canadian.

Other guests of the afternoon expressed their pleasure at being present, and left inspiring messages.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem and singing of grace, after a social hour. Mrs. Hall, assisted, Mrs. Reid, Miss Doris and the conveners served a dainty lunch.

T. D. RUSTON RE-ELECTED

At the annual meeting of the Belleville Motor Club held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last evening, Mr. T. D. Ruston was again unanimously re-elected president for the coming year. Mr. J. G. Belcher was named first vice-president, Mr. G. B. Smith, second vice-president, and Mr. J. O. Hertly was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Directors were elected as follows: Mr. P. B. Smith, W. H. Middleton, A. E. Fisher, Jos. T. Delaney, F. S. Douglas and A. F. Wesley. Considerable satisfaction existed the results of the carefully prepared financial report given by the secretary-treas. which showed the surplus of well over three hundred dollars remains for club purposes, to carry in the year. The report also that important additions had been made to the membership roll of the club owing to a recent canvass was carried with considerable enthusiasm. Plans were laid at the meeting for the club to continue the customary activity, relative attractivity to the work of supplying streamers and tourists to the city with all necessary information, extending courtesies to strangers, and assistance to the Chamber of Commerce in advertising the city. The local club is affiliated with the Ontario Motor League, with headquarters in Toronto.

AMERICAN CAR PLUNGES OVER EMBANKMENT

Occupants Injured in Peculiar Accident Near Stirling

STIRLING—A party of American tourists narrowly escaped a serious accident on Thursday afternoon about 2 p.m. when one of the cars in the party went over an embankment near Mr. Phillip Carr's residence on the Ridge Road. The car, an Oldsmobile sedan, was returning to Buffalo after a vacation spent as a summer camp and was proceeding along the Ridge Road when the leading car, a Cadillac coupe in the meantime and passing another car struck a culvert on the south side, overturned over a steep fifty foot embankment. The car which remained upright landed broadside on the embankment and travelled some two hundred feet before coming to a halt. The two occupants, a man and woman, were thrown through the driver being badly cut about the face and knees as well as suffering from shock and bruises to the upper steering-wheel.

The latter occupant suffered a fractured rib as well as lacerations and bruises, while the former suffered painful bruises. Dr. W. H. Pedley was summoned to the scene and after attending to their injuries the injured were removed to his office where they remained over night. Nurse Isabel Murray was called to assist Dr. Pedley. The car sustained only minor injuries, a broken bumper, mirror, tail light, steering wheel and windshield. The occupants of the remainder of the party spent the night at Mr. Phillip Carr's and on Friday morning, the three cars resumed their journey to Buffalo via Toronto.

Campbellford Mens' softball team defeated Stirling on Tuesday evening on Stirling park when they defeated the locals by a 10-1 score.

"At a well attended meeting of the Agricultural Society held on Tuesday evening in the agricultural rooms, all arrangements for the fall fair were brought up for discussion, when it was decided that there were in keeping with the present economic conditions, that Horse Races and a softball tournament will be added features of the fair which will be held September School Fair. It is expected that the Rev. Andrew Gallagher will address attractive this year in view of the splendid advancement which has been made in these lines at the local Public School during the past year.

Lloyd Rowland, son of Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Rowland was successful in winning the five dollar cash prize offered by Mrs. Harper Kerr, to the pupil from Stirling Public School attaining the highest standing in the recent entrance examinations. Mrs. Rollins is to be congratulated on her efforts to foster such a spirit of friendly competition and rivalry among the pupils.

Miss Mary Hertherton motored to Brighton on Wednesday and entered the mens' tournament held there. The rink composed of Fred Mallory, R. J. Hawthorne, E. O'Donnell and Walker Wright (skip) played three games, winning only one game.

A mixed rink of bowlers took part in the tournament held at Peterborough on Wednesday and were unsuccessful in both games which they played. The play was delayed for a time due to rain. The rink was made up of Mr. W. H. Meyers, John J. S. Morton, Mrs. W. J. Whitney and W. J. Whitby (skip).

Near Drowning

A serious fatality was narrowly averted on Tuesday, when the small son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Shore was rescued from drowning in the swimming pool at Memorial Park. The child had waded out into the depth and his playmates who were paying no attention to him, failed to notice his plight. Quick as a letter, Mr. Gordon Bailey of the local Hydro Staff was passing by and noticed the boy and effected the rescue just as he was going down for the third time. A number of residents hurried to the scene where resuscitation methods were employed and the little lad was speedily brought around. This incident should be a warning for all the children who bathe there to be more careful in the future.

The first game of the play-offs in the Bowling League between the Campbellford on Wednesday evening and on account of rain the game broke and Hoard's teams matched the game resulted in a tie. Public Bakers was on the ground for Springbrook and turned in a good game with Hoard's, both teams playing end, Senlis and Jeffs perfigured the duties for Hoards with the good old reliable Barney Eagleson referring Smith early in the play. This game gave a fair indication of what will take place when the two teams again engage in the play-offs on Monday.

OBITUARY

MRS. IDA Z. SMITH

Word was received in the city Friday morning of the death in N.Y. of Mrs. John A. Smith, a former most estimable resident of this city. Deceased had been ill for some years, illness.

Born on Queen Street, Belleville, the daughter, Ida Z., of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Gordon, the deceased was a lady of many of her womanhood. She was musically inclined and a member of the Bridge St. Methodist Church, sang in its choir, as a soprano for a number of years. She took a keen interest in the work of that church and in the Ladies' Aid and women's Christian organizations of this city. Many years ago she married John A. Smith, a prominent grain dealer of Rochester, N.Y. and had made that home since. Mr. Smith predeceased several years ago. Mrs. Smith had been a frequent visitor to Belleville, visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Spence Clarke, Bridge St. East. She was a guest there for several weeks.

Some 6 years ago Mrs. Smith presented to the Bridge Street United Church with the fine chimes at present in use, the organ at that place of worship.

No immediate relatives survive.

The funeral will take place Sunday morning and rest at the Tick-ner and Bogart Funeral Home, 386 Church Street, from whence the funeral will take place Monday afternoon.

MRS. M. A. HOARD

Following a short illness, the recipient of a stroke, Mrs. Margaret A. Hoard, wife of Mr. Hoard, died on Sunday evening in the Belleville General Hospital. The funeral of the deceased will appear in Monday's paper.

The remains are resting at the Belleville Burial Co. Funeral Home, 37 Campbell Street.

Clemence Dane, during her visit to Toronto last season, spoke of the play she was writing based on the tragic life of that family of poets and novelists, the Brontes. Written for Katharine Cornell whose interpretation of Elizabeth Barrett was so successful in "The Barretts of Wimpole St." the play "Will Shakespeare" revolves around Charlotte Bronte with her sisters Emily and Anne and her brother Branwell grouped around her. Among these central figures the men who were influenced Charlotte's life: her father, the Reverend Patrick Bronte, rector of Haworth Parsonage; Monsieur Heger, the schoolmaster of Brussels; and the literary critic Arthur Bell Nicholls curate at Haworth. Miss Dane's treatment of Emily's poetic "Remembrance" Charlotte's sister until only Charlotte is left of the group of visitors. She too, follows Emily's brief married life of one year to her father's curate, Miss Dane has introduced many other characters into her absorbing study of the Brontes, among them Thackeray, the novelist William Makepeace Thackeray, whose "Vanity Fair" created such a furore, with headquarters in the Pumpernickel Hotel, Brussels, frequently in their own words, the stories of five adventurers in her new book "Alaskans All". The five included are Father Bernard Hubbard, the Jesuit priest and geologist who explored the Alaskan mountains; Alaskan glaciers and volcanoes; Hudson Stuck, Archdeacon of Fairbanks Lane, champion ice-pilot of the Yukon; Allan Hunter, who first runs a hotel now but who began her career cooking for sixteen men in a tent and Will Rogers, humorous commentator on the Alaskan scene. Mr. Lanier's account, however, is not a travelogue, but a series of fascinating stories of adventure, told in the first person by the adventurers themselves. Mr. Lanier's own part in the book is limited to the introduction and to the connecting links between the stories. Mr. Lanier has written a book which will appeal to all who like adventure, and to those who like to read about it.

REPEATEDLY WE HAVE CALLED ATTENTION in this column to the fact that prices of commodities and service had reached rock bottom and every indication pointed to a rising scale. Prices are rising, the stock market is a startling example of that when industrials took a sudden notion to climb out of the doldrums, also mining securities listed on the market. Some rose so fast that they got dizzy and fell back some distance, but the occurrence demonstrated that business was getting out of the doldrums, that there is no scarcity of money, and that there is a widespread confidence in steadily improving conditions. Fortunes were made by those able to anticipate the market—but there are many choruses of "I could have bought it at—"

OUR NEIGHBORS to the South have taken the bull by the horns, so to speak, and are determined to force increased prices and better buying power. President Roosevelt's policy to put millions of men back to work is being enthusiastically carried out and despair has been banished from many homes in that country to be replaced by joy as the shadow of the Dole has been chased from the home and the wolf from the doorstep.

BUY NOW is a slogan which can well be adopted by all in Belleville and district, for it means real thrift, and real savings can be made in buying commodities, materials and service. Goods bought for fall delivery from wholesalers are all higher priced, an indication of what is going to happen all along the line.

"EARLY TO BED AND EARLY TO RISE"—you know the rest of it and if you go to bed regularly at an early hour and get up early in the morning you know if there is any truth in the assertion that it "makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise". Health, however, is more to be desired than wealth if one cannot have both and one should be careful to preserve it and if necessary go to bed early and get up early. When you sit down to your breakfast and ice cream on your cereal and in your coffee and your children have perfectly fresh and wholesome milk to drink, you naturally do not give a thought to the fact that an "early riser" has made it possible for you and your family to enjoy the "health giving" milk and cream, but such is the case as the drivers of Reid's milk delivery wagons are up and at work placing milk and cream bottles upon hundreds of door steps and porch shelves in this city at a very early hour. Reid's milk and cream are pasteurized and are famous for quality and purity. If you wish one of their "EARLY RISERS" to call 'phone number 2240.

THE PLUSH ALBUM

ODD, HOW TIMES CHANGE, many an attic now hides the old plush album which used to have the place of honor in the Front Parlor —remember the old parlor, darkened by the green blind being tightly closed and the curtains closed—opened only for weddings and funerals, or a very special occasion. Well the plush album with its pictures of uncles, aunts and the immediate family, taken at Ma and Pa at Niagara Falls on their honeymoon, has long since gone above, and the attics of the nation now hide the features of the "Hull Dang Family" as the hired man would say.

How would it be to have an Attic Resurrection Day when the old Plush Album and other relics of the past could be brought out and given the once over in honor of their former greatness.

TINKLING ICE IN A GLASS — What a pleasant sound it is when one is tired and thirsty and a refreshing drink is being enjoyed. Ice is undoubtedly a boon to humanity —it makes possible many of the joys of living and its value in preserving food is inestimable. Think of what ice has meant to you in the way of comfort and economy in your home during the present hot summer and then be thankful that the ice man fills your refrigerator regularly by arrangement, or in response to the sign "ICE" placed in a window. Large quantities of ice are used and Belleville does a very large proportion of it is GRAHAM SANITARY ICE which is made from filtered water thus ensuring PURITY. The service given by the Graham Ice Company is excellent in every way and a telephone message to number 374 will result in your ice requirements being attended to promptly. Let Graham Sanitary Ice TINKLE IN THE GLASS the next time you enjoy a refreshing drink.

Long distance trucking has become the accepted mode of moving these days, says E. LaPalm, Belleville's long distance mover, whose splendidly equipped furniture trucks are familiar on the highways of Canada and even the United States. Says Mr. LaPalm: "We take full charge, clear the house of furniture, carry it a mile or several hundred miles, place it in the new house, generally the same day, with no breakage, no crating, bother or fuss, and all covered by insurance en route for protection."

WOODSWORTH HEAD OF C.C.F.

Burden of Capitalism Should Not be Lessened Delegates Say

(By Same G. Ross, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Regina, July 22 (CP) — Their plans for a new social and economic regime in Canada outlined, delegates to the first national convention of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation today were finished with their convention labors.

Electing James S. Woodsworth, provisional president of the federation since its inception in Calgary a year ago, as their first national chairman, the delegates, worked all day yesterday until early this morning in finishing consideration of the long agenda. The veteran Winnipeg Labor chief will head the National Council, to which six of the Canadian Provinces represented at the convention each named three representatives. A public meeting to be addressed by C.C.F. leaders will be held tonight.

Among the resolutions tabled was a proposal for the establishment of a provincial bank in each province with the right of such banks to issue their own currency and with it all rights accorded private banks until such time as socialization of finance had been achieved.

The convention opposed all schemes "which seek to lessen the burden of capitalism by duping the unemployed back to the land' policies which cannot guarantee economic security to such workers and only serve to create sub-marginal competition with the farmers."

Educational matters within the federation were referred to the provincial councils for consideration and to the National Council for action. Delegates instructed the National Council to set up a standing committee or committees to assist in co-ordinating provincial programmes covering education, labor and agriculture.

SEVEN SCREEN STARS NEEDED T O PRODUCE ARTIST'S IDEAL BEAUTY

According to McClelland Barclay, noted illustrator, it's just about impossible to be beautiful all by yourself. It's his opinion that to be perfectly lovely a woman must be a composition of several outstanding members of her sex. There seven Hollywood stars have all contributed to Barclay's picture of the ideal beauty. You will observe that each is noted chiefly for one characteristic.

RESTRICTION OF WHEAT AREA NOT SOLUTION SAYS KING

Liberal Leader Starts Tour of Western Provinces

Winnipeg, July 22 (CP)—Changing from train to automobile, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King today took a journey of about 75 miles to Rock Lake for a night meeting. On the way he made brief stops at Carman, Winkler, Mordon and Darlingford, where his motor cavalcade was greeted by gatherings, which he addressed briefly. His speech at Rock Lake tonight will, it is expected, be one of the important addresses of the tour, which will carry him through the three Prairie Provinces.

Last night the Dominion Liberal Leader, in the course of an address to a dinner gathering here, took issue with the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation. He expressed strong opposition to the plan for state control of industry and finance, asked how it was proposed to bring about the end in view, and declared, that state control against state competition and the probable creation of force to compel individuals to obey the decisions of those in power.

Mr. King repelled strongly a suggestion Liberals believed in a policy of "laissez faire." "Liberalism aims to bring about conditions under which individuals can develop freely" he said But he added Liberals believed in leaving those things alone which it was unwise to interfere with. He did not think state control of industry and finance would be necessary, he said. It would, on the contrary, tend to destroy liberty.

The Liberal leader called upon Liberals to combat the false ideas which were being spread. He said certain wrong ideas could not be fought by standing aside and letting them breed and grow. Liberals must meet them by hard organization and effort. He did not think restriction of wheat acreage was a solution to the problems which were agitating the world today.

CANADA MAY LOSE TRADE

Fears Buyers May Turn to United States For Trade

New York, July 22—J. J. Outerbridge, executive secretary of the Bermuda Trade Development Board arrived here Friday en route to Toronto to prepare for Bermuda's participation in the forthcoming Canadian National Exhibition.

"Canadian exports will have to exert their utmost endeavours to hold the trade advantages which resulted from the Ottawa agreements of last year. Bermuda businessmen will likely be resuming their purchases in the United States markets owing to the recent great appreciation of sterling, and the renewed efforts of Americans exporters to recapture lost trade," said Mr. Outerbridge in an interview.

Recalling his visit to Canada of a year ago when the Imperial Conference was in session at Ottawa, Mr. Outerbridge stated the results and agreements had greatly stimulated Bermudian trade with the Dominion and other parts of the Empire. "Previous conferences blazed the trail for Imperial trade, but the Ottawa parley did the tracks along which that trade might flow. How to keep that trade flowing is the present problem confronting Canadian and Bermudian businessmen," in Mr. Outerbridge's opinion.

TWO KILLED AT CROSSING

Light Coupe Thrown 70 Feet When Hit by Freight Train

Kingsville, July 22—Bert Sirens, aged 21, and his 6-year-old niece, Mildred Sirens, were killed almost instantly Friday when the car in which they were riding was struck by a Pere Marquette freight train one mile east of here on a crossing on No. 18 Highway.

The light coupe was thrown about seventy feet and both occupants were dead when removed from the wreckage. It is presumed Sirens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sirens did not notice the approaching train. The little girl was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sirens.

KIDNAPPERS OF FACTOR KNOWN

Chicago, July 22—The kidnappers' rendezvous where John Factor was held captive for $50,000 ransom has been found by department of Justice agents.

Operatives of the Bureau of Investigation said they had found the hideout in the Smokey Valley marsh, near the right of way of the north shore interurban line. They began a search for a grocer they had learned had delivered provisions to the kidnappers, suspected to be the Touhy gang.

With Touhy and three members of his gang in jail Federal and city officials professed to be near a solution of the Factor abduction.

"We know positively who the men were who kidnaped John Factor," said 'G' certain witnesses stand up and identify them in a courtroom," said State's Attorney Courtney.

CLEARING OF OLD CEMETERIES

It is stated that there is every indication that in time every neglected cemetery in Ontario will have been cleared of brush and overgrowth which has been allowed to come up.

Many changes have been made and many remain to be made to bring the cemeteries of this province into a shape worthy the memory of those who have gone.

Institutes and other organizations have undertaken the task of improvement and renovation of cemeteries and the condition of the cemeteries for which they have worked, show how effectively they have labored.

DEFENCE OF NAZI KILLINGS

One of the strangest defences of murder for political reasons is given in the German Lawyers' Gazette by State Judge Dr. Dietrich Schmidt of Germany, who defends the Nazis for killing political opponents. His basis is the basis of warfare. He says:

"In order to achieve the national objective all sorts of activities may be necessary. Physical violence, deprivation of liberty, and homicide are the most drastic cases of the kind of tactics which we have to consider. No one has ever supposed that a soldier in the field who as a part of his military duty commits acts of physical violence, homicide, damage to property, and other acts that are normally criminal is liable to punishment. What applies in the case of war against a foreign enemy must also be made to apply to the enemy within our frontiers." Judge why has the courage to interpret the law freely can find a way, on these lines, to get over any difficulty."

This is a revival of the spirit of pagan days when tyrants and autocrats felt the duty of ridding themselves of political enemies. In their days there was not the moral stress and the incentive to depend upon law to bring a curse of conditions. The judge's defence does not even allow the pretext of war when a man was fought in the open.

Chivalry of old had a tragic side to it, with the code of honor and justice, but it was at least had some romance, and a code of honor. The Nazi killing is just private killing without a motive except political. How members of any organization can come to the stage when they can in cold blood kill a rival, is difficult for the modern man to understand.

If a Nazi has a right to kill a political enemy, his opponent must have the right to kill his Nazi. That is the view of civilization never before defended.

It somewhat resembles the bloody conscription which followed the death of Caesar when the chief leaders of Sunday in a bond of death and blood marked friends and enemies alike for slaughter at the wish of one or others of the triumvirate.

ENCOURAGING SIGNS

It is encouraging to Mayor Tice, the members of the city council and particularly to taxpayers to know that the tax payments in Belleville have been ahead of last year's. This is encouraging as it indicates a determination to pay as early as possible.

To accomplish what some have achieved only to have a receipt for the payment of their taxes is no small accomplishment. Others will never know what sacrifice many have put into the collecting of sufficient money to make this first payment.

That others who have means are paying in advance is also a cheerful sign.

There is the probability that the earlier payments may in part be due to a feeling that conditions are going to become better, that there are signs of the horizon that better days are ahead and not far ahead.

Taxpayers and those who are tenants and have been able to assist the taxpayers in the satisfactory payment of taxes levies have a great deal to be proud of and to be thankful for, because they have been able to bear their share of the municipal burden.

There is determination to see things through and to "carry on."

CHATTEL MORTGAGES IN ONTARIO

Almost one-third of all the chattle mortgages outstanding in Ontario at the end of 1932 were given by residents of York county. The amount, however, was only about one-fifth of the total for the province, Haliburton, with only 71 chattel mortgages, had the smallest total.

As an index of general conditions, the statistics show, first of all, that the general trend has been toward increased chattel mortgage indebtedness for three years now. The increase in 1931 was not conspicuous, but last year the amount covered was up 50 per cent. to $32,600,918. Insofar as it was possible to classify farmers separately, the statistics branch reports a similar increase of about 50 per cent to $14,966,786. Under this head there were 10,186 chattel mortgages undischarged at end of the year, but a slightly greater number did not give the occupations of the mortgagors.—Woodstock Sentinel Review.

THE PIRATE'S CHEST

What treasures lie in the pirate's chest
From high and low, from far and near,
From north and south, from east and west,
Each one a thing some heart held dear!
With these rare pearls the Orient
Has to the loot a splendor lent.

Gay figurines of ivory,
A Chinese talisman of jade.
The sapphires bluer than the sea
That once were prized by some fair maid;
Grim daggers and a sword whose hilt
Still shows the stain of life-blood spilt.

And . . . what a strangely alien thing! . . .
Amid the treasures jumbled there
A heavy, golden wedding ring
Some happy woman used to wear!
Rich treasure in the pirate's chest;
But this, of all, was once loved best!

—Aline Michaelis.

"STOCK MARKET TECHNIQUE" for ten cents. Cheap at half the price, but that's the name of a book and the price which tells you all about the Bulls and the Bears, the Wolves and the Lambs, how to play the market and when, but not why. Lots of folks paid a heap more than that for first lessons in Stock Market Technique, but whether it was worth the price —that's another story.

GENERAL ITALO BALBO, Commander of the Italian flying air armada, is a colorful, interesting figure. One of the intimate stories told of him concerns superstition, common to all sailors whether of the air or the water. General Balbo started smoking a cigarette before leaving Reykjavik, Iceland, for Cartwright, Labrador. He extinguished the cigarette as he settled in the cockpit of his plane, preserving the stub, which he relighted as he disembarked at Cartwright—completing the flight intact. Superstition, indeed, does that on each leg of the flight, it is said.

SCHOONER CAPTAIN H. DAVIS, one of the last of the old windjammers which for years freighted coal, lumber and other cargoes about the Great Lakes, and frequently docked at Belleville is doomed to destruction by fire to amuse a holiday crowd at Sunnyside, Toronto. This stunt has been arranged by Frank Grady, well known here, who keeps Sunnyside on the map by providing entertainment to draw the crowds to Toronto's Coney Island. The ships end will be celebrated on Sunday Beach and after night falls will be set on fire, artificial aids guaranteeing a blaze which will make short work of the brave old vessel. Some newspaper critics think that the last of our brave old lake windjammers deserves a better fate.

RADIO RECEPTION in and around New York City determines the desirability of residential sites, according to an enquiring scribe, who states that in some of the adjacent rural sections cottages go tenantless because the radio reception is bad, interference, natural and man-made, condemning entire sections as residential possibilities. Dick Liebert, organ soloist featured at the Radio City Music Hall, heard daily in an early morning broadcast, found a delightful cottage, near New York City, and would have taken it for the summer had he not discovered that radio reception was very bad, and the agent reluctantly admitted that mineral deposits in the neighboring mountains formed an impregnable barrier through which no broadcast could penetrate. The real estate agent admitted that this condition made it almost impossible to rent cottages or sell lots in the district affected.

JULY IS PRODUCING some real old-fashioned summer weather altogether unlike the cool summers we have been accustomed to of late years. Variety being the spice of life, as we have remarked before, Canada is certainly well spiced.

It was his first great speech, and he wanted it to be a success.

His oration was long and passionate, and he wished to end it with a warning.

He could have couched his warning in the old proverb about locking the stable door after the horse was stolen, but that was too commonplace. He wanted something original.

He thought of something better. Then he shouted: "Don't, I beg you — don't wait till the house takes fire before you summon the firemen."

Chief Justice Wallbridge will leave for Winnipeg on Monday. Barnum's circus train made a long stop here on Sunday, which en route westward. Many citizens went down to inspect the station.

Mr. James Potts, son of Mr. E. F. Potts, who is one of the third form boys at Trinity College School, Port Hope, obtained a highly creditable examination in the midsummer exams.

All the cottages on Davy's Island are now occupied. A tent near one of them was struck by lightning one night recently but the occupants escaped. One of the house fainted from fright.

The Prescott Messenger says: Mr. W. J. Shannon, of Belleville, has presented our local Oddfellows' Lodge with a beautiful flag of gaelic. They are made of maple, black walnut and cherry and are highly polished and turned. They are handsome articles.

The evening service at the Baptist Church will commence at 6.30 during the summer months.

Mr. Harry Beasley will leave this evening for Portage La Prairie, where he has secured a position with the Manitoba & North Western Railway. He will be gratefully missed on the Oks lacrosse team.

TESTING SELF BY OPPOSITES WORTH WHILE

Practice Improves Speed And Ability to Think in Opposites

By Lewis E. Theiss, M.D. Ph.D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

The Opposite Test is a test of intelligence, as well as of quickness of response, and it is really pleasant to perform.

The opposite of "glad," for instance, is "sad"; the opposite of "wet" is "dry"; for "outside" it is "inside," etc.

Now then, the purpose of practice, write or say to yourself the exact opposites of the following double lists, which might be designated as "easy opposites".

long	north
soft	sour
white	out
far	weak
up	good smooth	after early	above
dead	sick
hot	slow
asleep	large
fast	rich
wet	dark
high	front
dirty	love
east	tall
day	open
yes	summer
wrong	new empty	old
top	male

"Practice makes perfect," as the saying goes, in the opposites test. And now that you have "caught on" to the method, get a stack of paper and pencil in hand and proceed without hesitating for a moment through the following twenty words and write as many of their opposites as you can in two minutes.

best	reckless weary	join
cloudy	advance
patient	honest
careful	gay
stale	forget
tender	late ignorant	rare
doubtful	dim
serious	difficult

The two lists of easy opposites were prepared by R. S. Woodworth and F. L. Wells for the last and difficult opposites test is the combined work of W. H. Pyle. All lists are taken from the work of Guy Montrose Whipple, entitled "Manual of Mental and Physical Tests," Warwick & York, 1915.

In order to make a score you may count yourself 5 points for each correct opposite, the total points to your credit constituting a percentage.

It is interesting to note in connection with the opposites test that ability to think in terms of opposites, and the speed involved, both improve with the grow older. Besides, those of the female sex usually do better on the opposites test than the male; which is in harmony with the generally accepted notion that women are more quick-witted.

TO STOP MASS MANIPULATION

Roosevelt Ready to Take Hand in Control of Exchanges

Washington, July 21—(AP)—The Roosevelt administration is ready to take whatever action it can command, if that becomes necessary, to stop mass manipulation of United States stock and commodity markets by operators seeking profit only for themselves.

This was evident today as Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace moved to develop a definite programme to halt, if possible, widespread shifts in grain prices. Wallace also gave his approval to the suspension of futures trading for one day at Chicago and other points.

President Roosevelt himself is concentrating on his industrial recovery programme, confident his advisors believe, that this would accomplish more to restore better conditions than changes in quoted prices on the exchanges. Nevertheless, those close to him believe that if price fluctuations endanger his recovery plans, the President will act and act quickly.

Canada is a net importer of canned fruits, though this position varies from large imports of canned pineapples, which of course, are not produced in the Dominion.

Spying on Sports

BY

William Ritt

Central Press Canadian.

ASIDE FROM setting a glittering new world's record, one which is sure to do its share in making 1933 a memorable sport year, Jack Lovelock, New Zealand-born Oxford youth has done another service. His great display at Princeton's Palmer Stadium in bring back the mile run into its proper spot in the limelight of popular appeal.

Since Paavo Nurmi's heyday the sprints have claimed most of the headlines. And, when the papers weren't full of the doings of the Frank Wykoffs, Eddie Tolans and the other speed boys, the track fans were marveling at the feats of the strong-lunged marathon men.

The mile race is one of sport's most strenuous tests. It requires both speed and endurance and you is not a sprint or a marathon. A good miler must closely approach the stature of a great all-around runner.

SPORT FANS began getting a bit mile conscious last year when Jerry Cahill, a Chicago youngster in high school youth, began tripping the distance in remarkably fast time. Then added interest of Olympic trials and the Olympic games and the deeds of Nurmi and other ageful stars making the 100-yard dash and the big brother, the 100-meter event, biggest news.

This winter another miler sprung into prominence and we had some interesting duels between the fleet newcomer, Glenn Cunningham, and Venske, with Cunningham carrying off the Hon's share of honors.

However, Lovelock's world record run has really brought the mile back to its rightful place in popularity.

Isn't it exhilir?

POSSIBILITY that Cunningham and Lovelock may clash in Europe later this summer, holds forth the prospect of another highly interesting "race of the century." West Bill Bonthron, the Princeton flash who was several strides behind the fleet Overman at the end of his record dash, also in the race—it is possible that Lovelock's fatigued mark may vanish from the record books even before it is printed. Is them.

Lovelock's time, 4:07.6, may be the topmost limit of human possibility over the distance. However, no less an authority than Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union suggests the possibility that we may see the long-hoped-for "four-minute miler."

That seems fantastic. But it isn't any more fantastic than a 4:07.6 mile seemed when, in the not too distant past 4:15 was considered rad hot stuff.

CALIFORNIA SOIL LOOKS LIKE SITE FOR TITLE BOUT

Los Angeles Would Draw Greatest Crowd For Big Fight

1,000,000 GATE LIKELY

By DAMON RUNYON

Special to The Ontario Intelligencer

New York, July 22.—"There is the best spot for a title bout and I understand it."

Champion Primo Carnera is definitely out of ring action until first week in September.

Ex-champion Herr Max Schmeling is to meet some "worthy opponent," as Joe Humphreys would say, somewhere on the Atlantic ocean board 1st October or November, and then engage contender Max Baer in Germany, return match.

M'Information is that the crafty Mr. Jacob Pincus Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, has contender Baer bamboozled up in an agreement to this effect.

And the smartest suggestion that has leaked out from Europe in many a day. Nothing to say on the heavyweight championship scene from manager Jacobs when he suggests that the return match be pulled in California, preferably Los Angeles.

Possibly the reason I like this suggestion is because it coincides with views I have been telling for the last couple of years. I firmly believe that a first class heavyweight match would draw more Los Angeles dough than anywhere else in the United States, if only for the reason that it is the best territory for such a match.

A Carnera-Baer championship match out there might bring back the $1,000,000 gate, but since Carnera has a contract to box Madison Square Garden there is no use talking about that. The next best match would be Sharkey-Baer, perhaps, and then a Carnera-Baer for a return. Either of these matches would draw more than both the return matches that were held in the New York drew—that is to say, over the two.

I am assuming that it might be possible to pack 100,000 into the famous Los Angeles coliseum, which has a seating capacity of upwards of 105,000, for such a match with a pugilistic presentation. With that capacity and prices ranging from the scale at $1 and hold the "top" within $10 and make plenty of money.

A couple of years ago, I was trying to get the boys to stage the Schmeling-Walker match to Los Angeles. I was sure the Angelenos have drawn more than it finally did in the New York city. Walker was then red hot in California, and something of a local card. But while I was interested, and there was the adventure around, was willing, the boys couldn't get together under one tract, and would not release him even for that fight.

Now in Max Baer, for the first time in many years, California has a real contender. Also, to enjoy a certain stature of a native son. Schmeling and Sharkey have both been drawing Baer is under some sort of contract to Jack Dempsey, and Jack Dempsey is a free-lance promoter, very popular in California.

Baer is a California effort.

Sharkey is getting a guarantee of $25,000, a percentage of the gate, most of the receipts and four round-trip tickets from Boston to Chicago to fight Levinsky.

This fight is just as cheap as a battle with Baer. Even when Mr. Schmeling, for which, in either case Sharkey gets $25,000 before as much money.

Baer, unless he fights regularly is going to prove more of a liability than an asset to his handlers. He cannot win from Mr. Schmeling for the championship chance. His exhibitions, even with the mighty Dempsey as an added attraction hasn't settled his appeal. Indeed, in some spots the draw has been extremely disappointing.

Mr. Joseph Jacobs has an idea that a Schmeling-Sharkey, or Schmeling-Baer match might draw in Miami this winter. He may be happen to pull a crowd like it had last winter.

But the only place in Miami where is a big gate to be had is the Madison Square Garden Corporation's bowl, which probably let Mr. Baer out, as Dempsey apparently wants to promote Baer's battle himself. I would think the Schmeling-Sharkey fight would draw more indoors in New York city than anywhere else but California.

If Mr. Baer has the real level, I think he would have been out in the golden west long ago with a title championship production. Tex believed in moving on to new territory as soon as the gate was good where he was grazing. They told him a big fight would draw a big Philadelphia or Chicago, and he hung up records for gate receipts in those cities that still stand.

His well wishers thought he was foolish when he went to Florida with a non-championship bout. It was freely predicted that he would lose his shirt in Reno, and again in Toledo. But in each instance he managed to come out winner, and he himself the scenery. He would have hired that California opportunity, especially with the matches that are swirling like making by some promoter with a little gumption.

Have Too Much Excess Poundage So Cops Abandon One-Mile Event

Special to Ontario Intelligencer

Cleveland, O., July 22.—What can you run a mile?

Higher than risk an answer to that most question, the committee in charge of the program for the first police and firemen's field day struck the one-mile foot race from the list of events.

The committee's action, it was reported, was influenced by the reported excessive poundage and respiratory deficiencies of some policemen.

Safety Director E. E. Adams is ultra sensitive about the weight of some of his policemen. He instituted regular drills and workouts to cut down their waistline.

Whether he is accomplished,' he frowned on the one-mile race fearing the time limit for the field would be found who could complete the distance.

The same, it was said, applied to firemen, but then the 'smoke-eaters' aren't supposed to have fat on their stars.

By the same token, there will be no standing broad jump, running high jump, 9-pound hammer throw or the propulsion of the 56-pound weight for height.

Other regular track events have been included for the first meet of its kind in the city's history.

Child Who Respects Possessions of Others

(By Constance Cameron)

There has been a regular epidemic of lawns being torn motoring, worried and dismayed to find that their children are pilfering, taking things which are quickly missed by theirs. I wonder if it is because, in our recent need to conserve, we have omitted the habitual child's allowance, or if, in our efforts to save pills, we have omitted sufficient sweets, for most of the pilfering seems to have been for the purpose of buying ice cream and sweets.

To all these worried mothers I should say, first of all, give the child an allowance, no matter how small, but make it his very own. Maybe, in our concern for our own greater amounts of money we have neglected to think about the child's attitude toward it. It is time we considered this point, if we want honesty to be an integral part of every child's character.

If your child has never had money of his very own, he doesn't know how it feels to count his little savings and find five or ten cents midding. He does he know, on the other hand, the thrill of saving up to purchase coveted pencil or marble or a book and seeing that dream come true when the required amount has been saved. He doesn't know that the pennies and nickles in other purses are hers, designed to accomplish a set purpose, unless he, in his own way, respects (no matter how little) and planned to use it for some specific end.

The respect for other people's possessions never can come from having nothing. It only comes when one has owned a thing and cherished, for the memory of it, the rights of your child. Don't take his crayons, pencils anything of his without first asking permission. Never dip into his savings for change without asking. Then if you may borrow a few cents or a dime or a quarter, fully as great consideration for his money will be in trustworthy with yours or the money of anyone else.

Correct Manners

(By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman)

RESTAURANT DINING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please, Mrs. Beeckman, when a boy takes a girl to lie to dine and he can, should the couple walk right in and sit at the table they like or should they wait until the waiter shows them to a table?

2. When ordering the meal, should the boy say "Order what you want, Mary" and should she give her order to the waiter, or should he tell the boy only what she will have and then should he give both orders to the waiter, or what is the right way?

Reader

1.—They should wait until the waiter comes to show them to a table. The boy should, of course, suit with the headwaiter about the selection of the table, he may like, if possible, to have. But, since seating plans are the function of the headwaiter, the man courteously follows and respects this fact and cooperates with it.

2. The girl doesn't give her order to the boy to order. Since if she is with a man who doesn't know what she should order, she will give both orders to the waiter. If the orders vary, he is careful to name the order first. The man is the host, and giving the orders to the waiter is a subtle part of his gesture of hospitality.

There are many men who don't realize that the girl should not give her order to the waiter. But it is very easy for the girl to overstep this. She looks only at him as she gives her order to Mary have, she doesn't look at the waiter at all, and there is nothing for the man to do but to give her order as well as his to the waiter. And he'll like doing it. It is very flattering to being "masterful host", and man admires women who let them be just that.

If you were dining in a home, you would ask your hostess for anything you want.....you wouldn't ask the waitress, directly. The same thing applies to your hostess or host in a restaurant.

COURAGE

Dear Beeckman:

I am taking a young lady to a formal dance at a country club, and I would like to know if it would be fitting and proper to engage the young lady with a corsage? This is only a second date, but she treated me so nicely that I think she is deserving of a little token of friendship. I a twenty years of age and she is seventeen.

H

Yes, sir, by all means send this young lady a corsage to wear to this dance to which you are taking her. Not only is this friendly gesture fitting and proper but it would be more or less expected. Girls and women of all ages and sizes and types usually like and enjoy wearing a few garden flowers, say, if the gardenias are fairly large, only four or five if they are the very small gardenias. Or a corsage of those small, delicately-shaded pink sweetheart roses make a beautiful corsage for a girl of seventeen. Or, for summer evening, sweet peas of pink or some other delicate shade are appropriate and easy to wear.

Have any of these corsages made without feros os greenery of any kind....lending glory to smothering flowers with greenery. ...an ribbon, or all would be not much ribbon. Give the flowers a chance to show their own beauty, their own personality. Send them in the afternoon of the dance, and enclose your card, or write your name on a plain white card as the florist's.

Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on Good Manners submitted by readers.)

CARE KEEPS THE WAVE IN TRIM

(By Helen Follett)

Some women have a happy knack of getting the best possible results from a permanent. They can usually state it so skillfully that they can do without the waiter wave if occasion demands. Others, lacking the power of hair management, get nothing but fuzz and frizz, must receive professional attention if, they are to be of the least use.

Keeping the glorious crest beautiful these days requires not only time and energy, but patience and understanding. But what of it? Women in these days are displayed more youthful and becoming dress arrangements. Hair receives a great deal of attention, and the attentions bring rich rewards. The untidy mop, with brittle, straggling ends at the rear, has almost disappeared from the face of the earth, praise be!

Gray has been a popular color this season and, as it takes on the natural coloring of the complexion, there must sometimes be an adjustment of make-up.

When gray has a blue cast, rouge is quite out of question, tones are too congenial. A rosy gray is kinder to the skin, doesn't require any touch of lipstick and is a fairly bright, vivid tint. The most unbecoming and trying shade is the cool steel shade with which one should use rouge or a decided crimson. Here the color rule holds good for gray that bears a brown overtone.

Facial tissues that have started to sag can be toned up and erased to firm ness by patting in a tissue cream every night, lightly but with the fingers, smoothing the face upward with the fingers.

While the cream remains on, rub with an ice cube. Don't remove the cream with it, but let the flesh lap it up. In the morning bathe the face with cold water, the sponge on which hazel, tap lightly.

Diet deficiency may be responsible for falling hair. Make sure that you are getting enough healthy finger nails, provide nourishment for them and for your body by eating plenty of fresh fruits, down your orange juice every morning, a glass of milk, dried prunes, eat lettuce, cottage cheese and raw vegetables.

ILL TREATMENT OF BOY

Ottawa, Ill., July 22 (AP) — A deputy sheriff said he found in a barn at the home of Charles Shipwreath, 11 years old, that dead son, John, chained with a heavy dog chain, and that there were nine dogs in the barn with him. Shipwreath was arrested.

The boy said he had been fettered for 40 hours because he ran away.

VACATIONS and HEALTH

PLANNING YOUR VACATION

Vacations and holidays are magic words that conjure up in our minds all the pleasures of travel and change, all the excitements of new places and strange faces and all the rest and relaxation that come from temporary release from the drudgery and cares that are the lot of all of us on the way of earning a living.

But they should also be planned with an eye towards the future. They should be planned to build us up for the next year's work. Too often people work so hard having a good time that they come home all played out, needing the rest they should have had on their vacation.

Even worse is the idea that we must forget everything but fun and pleasure. Of course banishing business worries and spending your vacation in the proper mental attitude are among the first essentials to getting the most out of your holidays. But it is also wise to use a little forethought to prevent the accidents and illnesses that can so easily spoil a vacation and turn a good time into a tragedy.

Change and Moderation

In planning your vacation, remember that in many respects a change is as good as a rest. "Don't spend your holidays like the man who worked in the same office, in the same chair, in the same position, year after year, with the same routine of work and the same kind of food at the same restaurant at the same hour every day. But it is also wise to use moderation are the two essentials of a profitable vacation.

This is the first of a series of 12 articles on Vacations and Health, from which readers in Summer Months, will answer the questions:

1 How should the child's vacation be planned? 2 What precautions should be taken to prevent illness? 3 What should be done before children go to summer camps?

A Mother's Reward Lies in the Success of Her Efforts

(By Constance Cameron)

"People Say poor folks can at least be clean" observed the woman as she scrubbed the floor, "but that isn't always true. When it comes to taking your choice of a loaf of bread or a cake of soap for a nickel you're going to take the bread—if you're honest and kids are always hungry," she added.

The woman should know of what she spoke. She is the break-winner for four strapping, husky youngsters. Yet, even with bread or not so plentiful, she has struggled to keep them neat and clean, sometimes without a comb or trowler when all the rest of us have gone to bed, to accomplish this.

But this week she had her reward for her attempt to combine the need for both bread and soap.

A Happy Mother

The lad didn't tell her. But one of his schoolmates, a girl did. School was about to close, and there was much voting going on as to who was the most popular, the brightest, the best behaved, the most promising, etc. And finally, the class voted as to which boy had throughout the school year presented the neatest and cleanest appearance. And of that whole roomful of pupils, some from the richest homes, where there was every luxury, immaculate clothes to start the day with nice smelling bath salts for one's tub, the boy who got the vote was the boy from the other side of the woman who had, sometimes, to choose between bread and soap.

And all that planning and scrimping all those evenings of toil after the day's work, was worth more to other people been in vain? If you, too, doubt have seen the wonderful change she told of that vote, you would have known, that by the approbation of her children, a recognition of her efforts, was reward enough.

And the boy? Will he ever side with his mother? Will he grow careless and untidy as he becomes a man? I'm sure he won't. A mother's work and effort has accomplished something for him that he will never relinquish, something that will help him keep his self-respect. And literally, the clean voted as to which boy had throughout the school year presented the neatest and cleanest appearance. And of that whole roomful of pupils, some from the richest homes, where there was every luxury, immaculate clothes to start the day with nice smelling bath salts for one's tub, the boy who got the vote was the boy from the other side of the woman who had, sometimes, to choose between bread and soap.

And all that planning and scrimping all those evenings of toil after the day's work, was worth more to other people been in vain? If you

Orderly Liquidation of Weakly Held Stock Developed—Market Firms But Not to Friday's Close—Some Short Covering Seen in Mines—Prices Highly Irregular in New York.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, July 21.—(AP)—Orderly liquidation of weakly held stock developed on the Toronto Stock Exchange and prices sagged moderately under the pressure but firmed considerably before the close which, however, was still under the previous close. The market leaders including Brazilian, C.P.R. and Port of Canada, held their position fairly well and showed small gains but Nickel slipped for a time and Smelters fell 1 to 113. Nickel got back to close at 17.25, a gain of about 50 cents.

The distillery issues hopped ahead fractions to 2 points at the opening and in the absence of any selling Walker's common dropped to 35, and the preferred to 81. Both Hiram Walker's common gained to 18¼ and Industrial Alcohol to 10. The close was from 1 to 3 points above the low.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, July 22—The shifting out process continued on the Standard mining market after confidence had been partially restored by an inverted hairy higher opening. The market recovered before the close.

Some buying came along in the first half hour from traders who believed the slump was over for the present. There was also some short covering which disrupted the grin and closed at $35, off $1, Lake Shore held a small gain at 10.50, Hollinger at 9.50, Pioneer slumped $1, to 11.50 and McIntyre dropped about a dollar.

ENTIRE FAMILY

ter, regarding it as purely a family affair.

Around seven o'clock, however, the quarrel culminated in some rifle shots. From that point on, the threads of the story are obscured, veiled, with several versions of what ensued—all given by terrified and excited neighbors.

Priest Investigates

With only a few brief sighs the quarrelling ceased, and, fearing the worst, Antony Vilkowski accosted the priest, Father D. J. Harrington of Chapman, Que., who was passing at the time on his way to perform a banquet him to investigate. The priest proceeded to the Bradley home, and there discovered the results of the lengthy brawling.

On a chair, in an upright position, with a bullet-wound in the left temple, was Mrs. Bradley. She still clasped a toothbrush in her hand as if she had been surprised in the act of cleaning her teeth. The 36-year-old daughter, Johanne, lay on the floor, a bullet through her throat.

The throne was in the great, one disorder. Dashing upstairs, Father Harrington came across the body of Thomas Bradley, hanging on the floor. He was in his nightclothes, which indicated that the slayer had gone upstairs and surprised him in bed. Torn and pens and letters on the desk seen.

The horrified priest at once fled from this house of horror to telephone Sheriff Sloan of Campbell's Bay, Que., and to Provincial Authorities — Constable St. Germain and the coroner, Dr. A. M. Renaud, at Chapeau, Que.

Meanwhile search continued for the other members of the family. Within an hour a fourth body had been found, that of Mrs. Bradley's son Bradley. Shot in the abdomen, the aged farmer had been murdered in the stable while tending the stock.

Suspect Sighted

Meanwhile, the search can be gathered from the somewhat disjointed stories of the neighbors, an unidentified man was seen leaving after the shooting making his way into the thick bush in the vicinity or the Bradley home. A check-up of the household revealed that a pair of trousers—John Bradley, brother of the father, Joseph.

A hue and cry was at once raised and posses of villagers began to comb the bush into which the unknown man is said to have disappeared.

With the arrival of the sheriff and his assistants, guards were set over the premises, the coroner's inquest particularly at two points—Des Janitis Ferry and Chapeau Crossing.

Identification of the body of Mrs. Bradley, and the island was thoroughly searched. Police were allowed all thought or his being the slayer was dissipated late yesterday afternoon when the body was found in the barn, heaped over with hay. No gun was found near the body. Authorities now felt themselves faced with the problem of solving what and the is a quintuple murder.

Last night, the horror stricken village of Deseres Corners was contemplating the tragedy in its midst. All the forces of the law have been mobilized in order to conduct a complete investigation of the entire circumstances. Dr. Renaud, provincial medico-legal expert, will be on the scene today to conduct autopsies on the bodies.

Makes Globe in 13 Hops

If Post after pushing on from here parallels his Minnesota-New York flight of 1931, punctuated only at Cleveland, he will have made the globe girdling trip in hops as compared to 14 in the previous flight. By far he has stopped at Berlin and Koenigsberg, in Germany, Moscow, Novosibirsk, Irkutsk, Rukovo, and Khabarovsk in Russia, and Fairbanks in Alaska and Edmonton.

In his makeup race against time, the one-eyed pilot so far had played the iron man, and though he rests in his cabin during the hours of flight, he has been out of the plane more than seven days or flight time he left New York Saturday morning, he has been out of the air only 43 hours, 34 minutes, compared to 67 hours, 33 minutes on the 1931 flight as far as Edmonton. Only a few hours of the non-flying time was given over to sleep.

Had Headache

Post was suffering for a severe headache, but said he did not want medical attention.

He said he flew at an altitude of 10,000 feet for several hours during the night. His plane is being refueled with 500 gallons of gasoline and 50 gallons of oil, and Post intends to take off from Portage Avenue for Asia.

Post, clear from the machines dust and tired but looking fit, said he would leave in an hour for New York. The pilot was mainly busy he said as a crowd of radio announcers begared him for replies.

MAPLE LEAFS DRAW CLOSER TO LEADERS

Big Bat of Ike Boone and Fine Hurling by Hamlin Helps

LEADERS LOSE

Skeeters Uncover Starting Pitcher in Roger Hanlon

Mike Kelly has turned up another winning pitcher for Jersey City's Skeeters, International League cellar-dwellers, in the person of Roger Hanlon, rookie right hander.

Until mostly in relief roles, Hanlon broke out as a starting flinger yesterday and set Baltimore down with seven hits and Jersey City made it two in a row over the league leading Orioles, 8-3. While Hanlon was holding the visitors small, his cheer, Jersey City clouted Cliff Melton for three runs in the second inning and added single counters in the third and fifth to take a lead the Orioles never threatened.

There was no change in the relative standing of the leaders as the pace-setting Newark Bears and third place Rochester Redwings both lost, leaving Newark still a game in the good.

Ike Boone's timely hitting and fine pitching by Luke Hamlin gave Toronto a 3-0 victory over Rochester in a game ended by a heavy rain storm after six innings. Hamlin allowed only three hits, two each by Wally Gilbert. The Leafs, meanwhile, gave Pitcher Osborne all the opportune moments in the first and fifth, Boone singling home a run each time.

Albany easily turned back Newark in a night game, 8-1, as Charley Foreman pitched shutout ball until the ninth. Then A Shoey came in to stop a Newark rally that pounded the Bears' lone tally.

Phil Gallivan hung up his tenth victory as he pitched Buffalo Bisons to a 5-0 victory over Montreal in a night game. Gallivan allowed only four hits and fanned seven and was given all-right support in the field. John Pomoroski pitched well for the Royals but the visitors got the breaks on rallies in the fourth and eighth games.

MEN'S SENIOR SOFT BALL

Hurling his first game of the season Vic Wells set the S.E.A.C. softballers down in a re-played tie game last night, both rounds ended from second place into a tie with the College Hill Chevies for the "play-offs" downed the S.E.A.C. 6 to 4 at the College on Flaki diamond this evening. The win elevates the Grills aggregation into second place in the league where will await the result of winner of a sudden death game, to be played between the Bell Hill and College Hill, and enter the play-offs.

Consistantly hitting the ball in the pinches gave the "mechanics" their win over the "south enders". The veteran Cap Smith was on the hilltop for the losers and pitched his usual brand of ball despite the fact that his team mates have been seen at a disadvantage in the relatively previously this season. Jim Ekhler and Gilbert Barlow starred of the night when he blasted a mighty home run far into centre field while Barlow connected for a triple. Inability to hit in the pinches, however proved the undoing of the losers.

The game developed into a rather even battle until the Grills big guns opened in the fifth frame and they counted five of their six runs. Lachford, Matthews, Reid and Haley hit well for the Grills in their attack.

Grills' Cargo—Barriage, Haley, Boyle, Reid, Matthews, Latchford, Clarke, Wiltie, Thompson, Hall.

S.E.A.C.—Knott, Barriage, Sager, Palmer, Bilton, Faux, Cornell, Scrimshaw and Smith.

KI-Y SOFTBALL

Two juvenile and one midget play off games were completed in the local Ki-Y League last evening when the Maroons of the Midget group downed the "Y" Bruins by the score of 26 to 9 at Queen Alexandra School with Douglas and Rutten umpiring.

At the old Albert College grounds the Die Hards and the Athletics, in the junior series, battled to a 20-20 tie and arguments followed that added complications. The game stands of the date will be decided by the league executive today.

At Queen Victoria School grounds the Orioles eliminate the Monarchs by the score of 15 to 8. The semi-finals and finals in the Ki-Y league will be played next week.

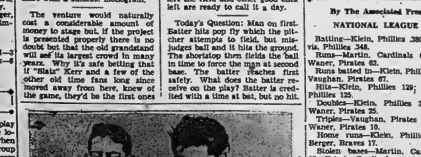
CURRENT SPORT

Knocks and Boosts

Apparently our suggestion of staging an "old timers" baseball game here on Civic Holiday is going to be realized. Harry Pringle, Billie Thomson and Allan Meagher have been doing a little missionary work along the lines of rounding up some of Belleville's past diamond performers. To date they tell us they have thirteen players who have signified their willingness to grace the local ball yard just once more. In passing over the "old guard" list week we forgot to mention Frank "Boots" Guyer and Allan "Dopey" Morden. Both of these boys will be on the job.

Communication has been set up between Harry Pringle and Freddie Guyer and something authentic along the lines of the proposed game will be issued early next week. Raymond Carr was appointed to get into immediate touch with the A.A.U. of Canada regarding the possibilities of allowing Jack "Chief" Williams a special dispensation for the game. Oh yes, Billie Thomson informs us that Johnnie "Crock" Williams will undoubtedly be here for the occasion. As Harry Pringle and Bill Thomson were connected with the management of the 1918 champion club, they were naturally asked to head the "old timers" team.



Now the question has been asked, "who should the old timers play against?" Some seem to think the present day Nationals while others think that an all-star team picked from the 1923 Nationals and the Victorias would be in order. It would be nice to see the "old timers" decked out in new uniforms. Maybe some local firm would donate a dozen cheap uniforms for such a game. The players would naturally keep and cherish them even afterwards. If the whole suit could not be worn the boys then perhaps a baseball shirt with a suitable monogram.

The venture would naturally cost a considerable amount of money to stage but, if the project is presented properly there is no doubt but that the old grandstand will see its largest crowd in many years. Why it's a safety betting that if "Stats" Kerr and a few of the other old time ball players are moved away from here, knew of the game, they'd be the first ones in the park. Such a game would bring before the fans the players of yester-year for perhaps the last time.

Recently we spoke of a possible protest being entered by the Napanee club against the league leading Picton Athletics relating to the playing of Bob Greer on June 3rd last. It seems Napanee claims that Greer was not properly released from the Wellington junkers. "Jake" Yanover, the big man of baseball in Picton these days, stopped us yesterday to informus that he had Greer's release and still has it. So much for that as the local Victorias still go merrily on their way towards the league honking. Today the Vics should pull up even with the league leading Picton club. The Vics are in Brighton this afternoon and a win will compensate them for the win of the Picton club over the Brightonites last, Wednesday.

Well, the Peterboro team have received a stomach full of the umpiring of home birds from Kingston, that the Belleville Nationals have put up with all summer. A finer band of burglars has never been seen in any league than those turned out of Kingston this year and it has probably given the league moguls just where their league is headed for. Home umpires are a thing of the past and the poor patronage around the circuit is not due to depression but to home umpires especially vicious from Kingston trying to chisel wins at the expense of the other clubs. It is a case of win at all costs with the Ponies, a neutral fan sat in at the Kingston game and saw the Peter chiselled out of three plays and possibly four, two of the calls figuring in scoring for the Peterites. And that we have seen of the umpiring of Pound, Hartley, Grey and Twigg makes us conclude that children in their teens could do as well. No wonder the good umpires have left the field and other good ones are reluctant to call it a day.

Today's Question: Man on first. Batter hits pop fly which the pitcher attempts to field, but misjudges ball and it hits the ground. The shortstop then fields the ball in time to force the man at second base. The batter reaches first safely. What has the batter received on the play? Batter is credited with a time at bat, but no hit.

FRUIT GIRLS WIN BY 13-5

Assured of First Place by Downing S. E. A. C. Girls

By handing the S.E.A.C. girls a 13 to 5 drubbing the Belleville Fruit lassies, champions of the local girls' softball league laid a spur assured themselves of first place in the present girls' league at the Victoria Park diamond last evening.

For the first four innings the "south enders" kept in the picture but faded badly before their conquerors later in the contest. "Babe" Lewis, the champion's elongated youthful hurler, was on the hilltop for the Fruit lassies and literally lashed the S.E.A.C. batters to the well known mast. But ten safe blows were registered from her deliveries, no more than two coming in any one inning. Lois Carter was on the mound for the S.E.A.C. and hurled good enough ball to win the average game, had she been afforded the support of her team mates in the field.

Madeline Kelleher led the hitters of the day when she counted five consecutive singles to her credit. Helen Smith handled a homer and counted a single for good measure. Vera Berry helped herself to a brace of hits. Pat Ekhler with a four base clout and Hilda Matichael were the best for the defeated club. Nellie McMichael returned to the pastime for an inning behind the bat in the ninth frame. The line-ups:

S.E.A.C.—H. McMichael, Graham, Thompson, Knott, Burley, Little, Ekhler, Morgan, Carter, Sills and N. McMichael.

Belleville Fruit—Tuttle, Kelleher, Lewsey, Smith, Hand, Tiery, Rombotham, Canning and Lewis.

GOLF FACTS

NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

ALEX MORRISON says:

The numerous lines and edges on the striking surface of a club very often confuse the golfer when he comes to lining up the clubface for a shot.

The average player makes the mistake of aiming with the top edge of the face. This edge does not always run true to the rest of the striking surface. Particularly with wood clubs.

If you go to place the clubface at right angles to the intended line of play, keep your eye on the bottom edge of the face and this will give you the most accurate position for your club.

Do this with all clubs.

Armouries Lawn For Soft Ball

Belleville district ladies softball teams have the privilege of playing their matches on the armouries lawn here, according to orders which have gone forward from the Department of National Defence to the officer commanding the Kingston Military District No. 3.

This information was conveyed to the Ontario Intelligencer today by Mr. W. E. Tummon, M.P., who has received a letter to this effect from the Department, to which Mr. Tummon had written recently asking that the lease be allowed the privilege of using the grounds about the armouries at Belleville. The letter which Mr. Tummon received made note of the fact that some objection had been raised that lessee by rounding the lawn had been interfered with and a portion broken.

The league appreciates the interest of Mr. Tummon which has secured the use of the ground for the purpose of softball matches.

BOSTON TEAMS IN LIME LIGHT WITH TWO WINS

Fans Wonder Why They Are Not Higher in Standing

GEHRIG HITS 18TH

First Circuit Blow in Months For Yankees First Sacker

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

When Boston's two ball clubs are leading games and they do do it rather frequently to the consternation of the higher ranking teams—they're the fans occasion to wonder why they aren't higher up in the standings.

They offered a couple of samples of what they can do when the Braves blanked St. Louis Cardinals 7-0 yesterday on the three-hit pitching of Huck Betts and the Red Sox whaled Chicago's white hose 12-3. But when the dust came to rest, the Nationals still were in fifth place, 9½ games behind the league front New York Giants and the Red Sox, in seventh, werenÿt even in the same ball park between Yankees and Washington for the Auertican League lead.

The Yankees and Senators continued their deadlock by sweeping twin bill decisions and the Giants increased their National league margin by trimming Cincinnati Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3, when Hank Leiber's pinch single, bases loaded brought in the tying and winning runs in the ninth.

Starting Dizzy Dean Gehrig's 18th homer, his first in a month, in the first inning, the Yankees pounded out a 10-1 victory over Cleveland Indians.

Earl Whitehill pitched steadily to give Washington a 5-1 victory over Detroit Tigers while Buddy Myer's triple with the bases full in the second started the Senators.

Cincinnati made a big gain in the National League, moving from eighth place to sixth with a last-minute 2-1 victory over Brooklyn Dodgers. For the second time in a row, the Reds won on a hit with two out in the ninth. Paul Derringer gaining the blow that won his own game. Phillies, idle in Chicago, retained a point behind Cincinnati.

St. Louis Browns went 13 innings to gain a 6-5 decision over Philadelphia Athletics when Bruce Campbell delivered a three-run relief to make his fourth hit after two were out. Max Bishop's homer brought in all the A's runs.

TORONTO MARKSMAN WINS AGGREGATE

One of the Most Difficult Prizes to Win

Bisley Camp, England, July 23.—Final of 7 of the great Imperial questing of the National Rifle Association, which decides right for Canadians today with announcement that Sgt. Major J. J. McLeod of Toronto, was the winner of the All-comers Aggregate, one of the two great aggregates that test Bisley's most difficult tests of consistent marksmanship.

McLeod's victory in the All-comers was gained by his tallying a total of 350 points out of a possible 370 points. It was the fourth Canadian victory in this event, established in 1894. The aggregate consisted of seven individual matches. The Corporation of the City of London, Times, Daily Telegraph, Duke of Cambridge, Daily Mail, Wimbledon Cup and Aggregate Cup events.

McLeod captured the Challenge Cup valued at more than $1,250, the N.R.A. Souvenir and a cash away of $25. Lt.-Col. C. W. Gibson of Hamilton with 347, placed second among all competitors getting 620. Sgt. J. Thompson of the Queen's Westminsters, London, was third.

Yesterdays Stars

Lou Gehrig, Yankees, clouted his eighteenth homer, triple and single against Indians.

Hugh Betts, Braves, blanked Cardinals with three hits.

Earl Whitehill, Senators, pitched steady ball and hit three singles to beat Tigers.

Joe Moore, Giants, rapped Pittsburgh pitching for triple and four singles.

Brudge Campbell, Browns, hit four singles against Athletics.

Paul Derringer, Reds, held Brooklyn to seven hits and knocked in winning run.

Dusty Rhodes, Red Sox, limited the White Sox to six hits and fanned six.

Mr. Picobac's beaming geniality, his intimate knowledge of men and affairs in Essex County, together with his credentials as the Burley Tobacco Ambassador from Sunny Southern Ontario, more than sufficed to win him a hearty welcome to the barber shop of The Chateau Laurier, Ottawa.

"Gentlemen," declared Mr. Picobac addressing the ceiling from the luxurious angle of the barber's chair, "a great nation is worthy of a great tobacco, and Picobac tobacco—"

At this point the barber stepped on a lever and Mr. Picobac assumed a more upright position. Contemplating the reflection of himself and certain of the Capitol's political and professional luminaries in the mirror, Mr. Picobac continued earnestly;

"As I was about to say, gentlemen—"

"Next," interjected the barber at this point.

TIGER

Sterling North

By Ross Westover.

"I shall be madam's maid at the new house on the north shore," the rather pretty, black-haired young woman said. "It will be a real pleasure to have a mistress so lovely as madam, name is Colette."

Jerry's bath was waiting and Jerry was brought a hot toddy as a nightcap. And Jerry stood for several minutes before a tall mirror and looked at her scarcely concealed body in the almost transparent black lace nightgown she had just brought her and helped her to slip into.

"Yes," Jerry realized, "I have a certain amount of beauty. But there are so many other women in the world more beautiful. I wonder why he chose me from all the others, Colette?"

"Because you are the most beautiful of them all," Colette replied.

"But I can never accept the things he wishes to give me, Colette. What would you do if you were in my place?"

"I would be very sensible, madam, and quickly accept his offer."

"I wish it were that simple," Jerry said. "But what of Peter?"

"Who is Peter?" Colette asked. "Is Peter your chief?"

"My dear friend, Colette, 'Not my sweetheart.'"

"He must be your sweetheart," Colette said, "that is what makes you hesitate."

"You think he is my sweetheart, Colette? What makes you think that?"

"Because you hesitate to accept the other, madam, and because you sigh when you speak this Peter's name."

"And would I be right if not accepting the other, Colette, if my heart was elsewhere?"

"Love is the only thing in the world that rules madams, madam. Let your heart decide."

After Colette had gone locking the door very carefully behind her, Jerry wandered about her bedroom touching the satin surfaced of the cherrywood furniture. Perhaps she would never leave this house alive. Perhaps Peter, for all his keen intelligence, could not get them away from this place of terror before meeting to meet the Tiger's demands.

But tonight Jerry had hungry hearts, hands, pretty feet. To-night she was for the hour what she must never be for the rest of her life, the pampered guest of a rich, cruel man.

That man! He knew how to break a woman's heart into a thousand little pieces and scatter all the pieces on the wind. This room for instance. Jerry had to confess at all that within the last week he had had it completely redecorated for her certain that some day she would sleep in it.

And just as said! That had been only another bit of strategy. She had been coached, of course, to tell Jerry how beautiful she was and how she, Colette, would be her maid in the new home on the north shore.

But Jerry wondered how any one could reconcile the cruelty she had seen in his that evening with the almost feminine delicacy he showed in his paper wit and deft touches which marked his mind. Who could design a room for a girl, choose a dress, or turn a phrase?

And yet that very evening he had threatened to blacken her name so thoroughly that she could never live down the scandal, to take her life and Peter's if they insisted upon crossing him, and even to harm the children.

Would she be right in accepting his house, she wondered? Would it not be better than to expose them all to further danger? It would even be enviable to drop the hateful burden of his crimes. But what of Peter? He would never forgive her if she threw him away. Away from the children he had just come home to and away from her?

There could be but one answer to this man's demands.

And then, as the flames in the fireplace burned low, Jerry noticed two of the tall casement windows, which were open, swing inward. There to a little balcony only a few feet above the lawn, she could see.

She threw a cherry-colored satin robe about her shoulders and stepped out on the balcony. Was it possible that Joe Middleton had accidentally left one of his doors open for escape?

Her mind raced with the possibilities. If she could slip out of those windows, jump from the balcony to the lawn, and run the deep woods which skirted the lawn she might escape. Then she could get help. The wild-eyed and to lovely dis-ray returning with men to overpower the place in the early dawn. They would capture Joe and free Peter.

Then Peter and she would go back safely to Sarah and the children and Joe would not have been able to make them agree to any of his unreasonable demands.

But as she stepped out onto the little balcony above the smooth green lawn, she saw a shadow disturbing the checkered placid moonlight. The shadow shifted. She saw the flare of a match against a horrid face and then the red points of light that marked the glowing tip of a freshly lighted cigarette.

No, Joe had not been so thoughtless as to let his guard relax. And Jerry realized that Peter's room would be even more closely guarded.

There was nothing for Jerry to do but to slip in between the sheets of her bed and get a few hours of much needed sleep before another strenuous day began. She could only wait for what the morning would bring and hope against hope that somehow it would not turn out to be a day of tragedy and disappointment.

And then, for one fleeting instant Jerry wished she could accept Joe Middleton's gifts, and live in a luxury house, and go to bed at night in such a bed as this, and have a maid like Colette to fix her hair and bring her a hot toddy and to undress her.

But she brushed the wicked, shining thought away and concentrated Peter, Sarah and the children. She was getting drowsy now and would drop off to sleep in a second. How sweet this Lake Geneva air after the dirty air of Chicago! She would sleep well tonight.

But just as she brushed over her she heard the lock of her door turn. A moment later, in the dim moonlight, she saw Joe Middleton standing in her room.

CHAPTER 36

"These walls are absolutely soundproof," were Joe Middleton's first words. "It will do you no good to scream."

Jerry could think of nothing to say. She was frightened and trembling. She pulled the robe from across the foot of the bed and threw it around her shoulders.

"You needn't be afraid," Joe said. "I only want a chance to talk to you alone."

Jerry was silent.

"I hope you like your room and that your visit has been a pleasant one" Joe went on. "We strive to please. The view of Lake Geneva from your window is one of the best. Being the host and will you take maple syrup or honey with your breakfast cereal?"

"Please don't be frivolous."

"Everybody I can't imagine myself being frivolous at a moment like this," Joe said. "Here I am, undoubtedly the villain of this little piece. I am in a villainous mood because of your absolutely insane stubbornness during the last few weeks. And you accuse me of being frivolous?"

He crossed the room and sat down on the edge of her bed.

"You are worse than frivolous," Jerry said. "You are insensitive to say one's emotions but your own."

"I learned very young," Joe said, "that when people hurt me I let them. I didn't hurt me. I'm naturally sorry that you are in such a hell mood because it makes you less pleasant to converse with. But as for feeling tragedy or sympathizing with your little heartaches——"

"Suppose you had children," Jerry said.

"I have never felt I could afford them," Joe explained.

"But suppose there was some one very dear to you, and that person was threatened with death——"

"I can't imagine anything like that," Joe said. "I have never been able really to care for any one during my forty years of life. As for something terrible happening to this mythical person. What is terrible? Is death terrible? I don't think so."

"I shouldn't think death would be terrible to you," Jerry said. "You don't believe in life after death."

"Not particularly. I don't think I would be terrible to you," Jerry said. "You don't believe in life after death. Do you know?"

"Not particularly. I don't think I would be terrible to you," Jerry said. "You don't believe in life after death. Do you know?"

"You're a pretty small-time Casanova, if you ask me."

"I'm a regular Attila the Hun if you want to know the truth about the matter."

"Listen, Attila Junior, I was suggesting a few moments ago that you wouldn't last ten minutes with me. You've you changed the subject."

"You'd be surprised," Joe said. "I could take that young upstart and break him like an ice-cream cone under the rear wheel of a ten-ton truck. He couldn't last with me long enough to shake hands. You aren't smart enough to do that to chance," Jerry flaunted.

"But why should I take chances?" Joe said. "I've proved to you that I am no coward in a fight. A matter of fact I see no reason for fighting the man. I have him where I want him right now."

"You're a coward, Jerry said with scorn. "You wouldn't dare to be here this minute if you thought Peter could reach you. You don't dare to send your thugs and gunmen back to Chicago and fight him like a man. You're as yellow as the cover of a dime novel."

"I am, am I?" Joe whispered, coming very close to Jerry's face. "Do you think I'm yellow, you little ..... ?"

At that moment Jerry slapped Joe Middleton with all the strength in her well-developed little arm.

TILLIE THE TOILER

BRINGING UP FATHER

By George McManus

JULY 22- MR. AND MRS- AN OLD DOG AND A NEW TRICK

TARZAN, LORD OF THE JUNGLE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

night she was for the hour what she must never be for the rest of her life, the pampered guest of a rich, cruel man.

That man! He knew how to break a woman's heart into a thousand little pieces and scatter all the pieces on the wind. This room for instance. Jerry had to confess at all that within the last week he had had it completely redecorated for her certain that some day she would sleep in it.

And just as said! That had been only another bit of strategy. She had been coached, of course, to tell Jerry how beautiful she was and how she, Colette, would be her maid in the new home on the north shore.

But Jerry wondered how any one could reconcile the cruelty she had seen in Joe that evening with the almost feminine delicacy he showed in his paper wit and deft touches which marked his mind. Who could design a room for a girl, choose a dress, or turn a phrase?

And yet that very evening he had threatened to blacken her name so thoroughly that she could never live down the scandal, to take her life and Peter's if they insisted upon crossing him, and even to harm the children.

Would she be right in accepting his house, she wondered? Would it not be better than to expose them all to further danger? It would even be enviable to drop the hateful burden of his crimes. But what of Peter? He would never forgive her if she threw him away. Away from the children he had just come home to and away from her?

There could be but one answer to this man's demands.

And then, as the flames in the fireplace burned low, Jerry noticed two of the tall casement windows, which were open, swing inward. There to a little balcony only a few feet above the lawn, she could see.

She threw a cherry-colored satin robe about her shoulders and stepped out on the balcony. Was it possible that Joe Middleton had accidentally left one of his doors open for escape?

Her mind raced with the possibilities. If she could slip out of those windows, jump from the balcony to the lawn, and run the deep woods which skirted the lawn she might escape. Then she could get help. The wild-eyed and to lovely dis-ray returning with men to overpower the place in the early dawn. They would capture Joe and free Peter.

Then Peter and she would go back safely to Sarah and the children and Joe would not have been able to make them agree to any of his unreasonable demands.

But as she stepped out onto the little balcony above the smooth green lawn, she saw a shadow disturbing the checkered placid moonlight. The shadow shifted. She saw the flare of a match against a horrid face and then the red points of light that marked the glowing tip of a freshly lighted cigarette.

No, Joe had not been so thoughtless as to let his guard relax. And Jerry realized that Peter's room would be even more closely guarded.

There was nothing for Jerry to do but to slip in between the sheets of her bed and get a few hours of much needed sleep before another strenuous day began. She could only wait for what the morning would bring and hope against hope that somehow it would not turn out to be a day of tragedy and disappointment.

And then, for one fleeting instant Jerry wished she could accept Joe Middleton's gifts, and live in a luxury house, and go to bed at night in such a bed as this, and have a maid like Colette to fix her hair and bring her a hot toddy and to undress her.

But she brushed the wicked, shining thought away and concentrated Peter, Sarah and the children. She was getting drowsy now and would drop off to sleep in a second. How sweet this Lake Geneva air after the dirty air of Chicago! She would sleep well tonight.

But just as she brushed over her she heard the lock of her door turn. A moment later, in the dim moonlight, she saw Joe Middleton standing in her room.

CHAPTER 36

"These walls are absolutely soundproof," were Joe Middleton's first words. "It will do you no good to scream."

Jerry could think of nothing to say. She was frightened and trembling. She pulled the robe from across the foot of the bed and threw it around her shoulders.

"You needn't be afraid," Joe said. "I only want a chance to talk to you alone."

Jerry was silent.

"I hope you like your room and that your visit has been a pleasant one" Joe went on. "We strive to please. The view of Lake Geneva from your window is one of the best. Being the host and will you take maple syrup or honey with your breakfast cereal?"

"Please don't be frivolous."

"Everybody I can't imagine myself being frivolous at a moment like this," Joe said. "Here I am, undoubtedly the villain of this little piece. I am in a villainous mood because of your absolutely insane stubbornness during the last few weeks. And you accuse me of being frivolous?"

He crossed the room and sat down on the edge of her bed.

"You are worse than frivolous," Jerry said. "You are insensitive to say one's emotions but your own."

"I learned very young," Joe said, "that when people hurt me I let them. I didn't hurt me. I'm naturally sorry that you are in such a hell mood because it makes you less pleasant to converse with. But as for feeling tragedy or sympathizing with your little heartaches——"

"Suppose you had children," Jerry said.

"I have never felt I could afford them," Joe explained.

"But suppose there was some one very dear to you, and that person was threatened with death——"

"I can't imagine anything like that," Joe said. "I have never been able really to care for any one during my forty years of life. As for something terrible happening to this mythical person. What is terrible? Is death terrible? I don't think so."

"I shouldn't think death would be terrible to you," Jerry said. "You don't believe in life after death. Do you know?"

"Not particularly. I don't think I would be terrible to you," Jerry said. "You don't believe in life after death. Do you know?"

"You're a pretty small-time Casanova, if you ask me."

"I'm a regular Attila the Hun if you want to know the truth about the matter."

"Listen, Attila Junior, I was suggesting a few moments ago that you wouldn't last ten minutes with me. You've you changed the subject."

"You'd be surprised," Joe said. "I could take that young upstart and break him like an ice-cream cone under the rear wheel of a ten-ton truck. He couldn't last with me long enough to shake hands. You aren't smart enough to do that to chance," Jerry flaunted.

"But why should I take chances?" Joe said. "I've proved to you that I am no coward in a fight. A matter of fact I see no reason for fighting the man. I have him where I want him right now."

"You're a coward, Jerry said with scorn. "You wouldn't dare to be here this minute if you thought Peter could reach you. You don't dare to send your thugs and gunmen back to Chicago and fight him like a man. You're as yellow as the cover of a dime novel."

"I am, am I?" Joe whispered, coming very close to Jerry's face. "Do you think I'm yellow, you little ..... ?"

At that moment Jerry slapped Joe Middleton with all the strength in her well-developed little arm.

Hospital Improvised on Scene—Loss Will be Heavy

POINT EDWARD, Ont., July 22 —(CP)—Russell Muir of Point Edward was instantly killed and 21 others were injured, several critically, when a spiral of wind dipped low this village Friday and left death and wreckage in its wake.

With a crushing roar the twister swept along the mile-long Northern Navigation Company's freight sheds and speed on Lake Huron, leaving only shattered remnants of the building behind. For a time more than 100 workmen in the shed were trapped in the wreckage, while others leaped into the St. Clair River alongside and swam to safety.

Pieces of the long frame building were carried for a quarter of a mile by the storm. As rescue workers are searching the debris, not sure whether all the men in the building are out.

List of Victims

The victims are:

Dead:

Russell Muir, Point Edward.

Injured:

John Hajladay, Thomas Costello, Theresa Shaw, Steve Kozinsky, Michael Kormas, Michael Cebryeski, P. Pascinder, Thomas Clark, Louis Smith, J. Pulford, Clifford Kennedy, Charles Clark, W. Florik, S. Shipe, Patrick Costo D. Buckley, W. Kinsmany, Pauline Abbey, Miss Margaret Reid.

Immediately after the shed collapsed, all available doctors and ambulances were dispatched to the scene. At the far north end of the long dock is a wide tunnel used as a turning place for automobiles and trucks. Here the injured victims of despair gather there. Today, however, the actual atmosphere was lacking as the apron suddenly was transformed into an emergency hospital.

Injured Extricated

Villagers who had seen the crash rushed to the scene and began hoisting the timbers and boards of the collapsed structure. Within a few minutes, a series, cries of panic-stricken workmen resounded.

In the river, on the west side, two or three men swam alarmingly close. Terrified, they had leaped into the St. Clair and, still terrified, they seemed to make no effort to head ashore. They were finally assisted on the bank. Meanwhile the shed or shed had turned until it was almost over on the dock apron.

Screaming in terrific heat, villagers had swarmed to the riverside. Just west of the wreckage is the nearby Lake Huron beaches. There was a constant rush of bathers as the dark clouds swirled up from the south and spread overhead.

In the sheds, shouts of the "straw bosses" mingled with the rumble of the trunk wheels as the clouds seemed to divide just below Sarnia Bay and then, as if regrouped, they travelled north to the sheds. They roared over the lowering coal dock at the south end of the long building, then merged in a terrific grind. Timbers and roofs seemed to hover slowly along the top of the building.

Building Collapses

Timbers cracked in warning, and then suddenly the entire structure collapsed like a house of cards. A half roar in a sickening, concerning motion, and then the heavy timbers seemed to narrow. The roof and sidewalls on the east side of the sheds stretches a "tube-like" motion. Somehow," where Point youngsters have played for many years, dangling and long, heavy splinters strewed the field for nearly its entire area. Tracks for the sheds were twisted and broke amid the wreckage. Somehow, amid all the wreckage, the 100 or more men in the building had reach outdoors in safety, but the collapse came too suddenly. Parts of the roof came down. The walls turned in. But for the fact there were large piles of four and freight on the floor of the shed, the casualty list would have been much larger. Immediately the floor did not break, too, for many would have been precipitated into the river below.

Most of the men inside were foreigners, with a sprinkling of villagers working today. No boat was due in until this afternoon and there were only a comparatively few "strikers" and the "peddlers" gang at work. The freight is usually removed from the docks to the wharf until the boats, usually running three times a week, arrive.

Nothing like Fruit-a-tives

"I made a very bad error with laxatives, too. My stomach became upset and I kept having headaches after breakfast. Soon frequently I had severe pains in my joints and muscles. My general ailment was very discouraging. Then, I felt so wretched that I was about to give up work. Today my health is excellent. I owe it entirely to Fruit-a-tives. Great praise is due to the part in Fruit-a-tives which they found in Fruit-a-tives."

ONE HUNDRED ENJOY PLAINFIELD S. S. OUTING

Plainfield, July 22 (Special) — About one hundred of the members of the Plainfield Sunday school and congregation attended the annual Sunday school picnic held at Birch Landing, Oak Lake, on Thursday, July 20. Mr. Trevor Gregory made two trips with his truck to convey those who had no touring car accommodation.

The star truck load left the church at nine o'clock. The forenoon was spent in bathing, swinging and other activities. Rev. J. F. Everson and Mr. Frank Hicks engaged Mr. J. W. Hamilton and Mr. Joseph Clow in a game of quoits, the result being a tie.

Dinner was served in picnic fashion on the tables in the grounds.

In the afternoon the married men's ball team composed of Messrs. Earl Denyes, pitcher, Frank Hicks, catcher, Clarence Hall, Almond Hall, Joseph Clow, Harry Cummings, Jack Hamilton, Wilbert Elliott and Rev. J. F. Everson, played soft ball with the young men's team. The game was warmly contended and each run was hard earned but the score ended in favor of the young men.

Races for women and old which had been arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Elliott were run off in the tennis court across from the booth.

The party started for home about 4:30 and several were heard to remark that it was one of the best picnics ever.

A very successful lawn social was held at the Bethel United Church grounds on Wednesday evening, July 19. The young men of Sidney Baptist church were present and ball with the young men of Bethel. The latter were defeated by the game could be finished but as the close the score stood in favor of the Sidney team.

Mr. George Rose of Hallowy had charge of the booth and did a good business, but was abruptly chased out about ten o'clock by a thunder storm. The program was given in the church and was much enjoyed. The pastor, the Rev. J. F. Everson, of Plainfield, acted as chairman. Music was supplied by three young men from Holloway who played the violin, banjo and saxophone. Miss Laura Robson gave several readings which were much enjoyed. A brief address with plenty of humor was given by Sgt. Duncan McNab of Sidney Baptist Church. Miss Olive Young, Mary Cummings and Jean Hamilton, Wilbert Elliott and Rev. J. F. Everson, played soft ball with the young men. The game was warmly contended and each run was hard earned but the score ended in

HIJACKERS AND CON MEN MAKE MERRY IN SCREEN COMEDY

James Dunn, Joan Bennett and Herbert Mundin the three stars in "Arizona to Broadway" the feature attraction today and Monday, Matinee Daily, at the Belle deserve a great deal of credit for the acting talent performances they give in this comedy hit.

James Dunn is seen as a confidence man operating as a western carnival, and who finally lands in New York to match wits and fists with the cream of big-time racketeers. What he goes and the way in which he does it makes one of the most entertaining pictures shown at the Belle in recent weeks.

The plot concerns the efforts of this young man to protect the interests of a lone and pretty girl against certain other confidence men who are after the little money she has. Lest his intentions be mistaken as honorable once, let it be stated here and now that all he wants to do is to preserve that money for himself. He succeeds in shielding her from the others, but ends up only to find that he himself has been working for love. The girl arouses a strange sort of feeling in him, and he decides that he doesn't want the money. It is romance he is now after.

There is a hilarious sequence in the picture that shows this western gambler pitted against the methods of New York hijackers. How he puts things gently but firmly over on them forms the unusual climax of the picture.

James Dunn's versatility as an actor goes up a lot of points through his performance in "Arizona To Broadway", he combines his unusual charm with a new element of abilities. Joan Bennett is the girl and she acquits herself beautifully. Herbert Mundin, in the role of proprietor of a medicine show, is by far the funniest part of his career. It gives him a grand opportunity to establish himself as a premier comedian of the screen.

Others in an excellent comedy cast are Samuel Cohen, Theodore Von Eltz, Merna Kennedy, Earle Foxe and Walter Catlett. It's a picture for the whole family to see. Do not miss it.

Added enjoyment on the program includes a Trail Boys' comedy "Firing 'Em Back a la Wolfe," Waring and his vaudeville band in "Alma Mariyy," and the beautiful scene of the Panama Zone, are presented.

'THE GOOD COMPANIONS' ARRIVED IN BELLEVILLE TODAY IN WEE TIN BOX

Were this 1903 instead of 1933 Chris Holmes would be up at the North Station welcoming "The Good Companions" to the Capitol Theatre and billboards in town would be heralding the coming of the famous troupe of entertainers whose performance would cost theatregoers anything in the region of three dollars a set!

Those were the good old days but were they?

When one realizes that by the remarkable progress of 30 years, amazing progress at that and progress which has almost arrived at our feet "The Good Companions" can all be packed in a wee tin box container and presented to the public in all the glory and glamour of Brampton, at prices ranging from prices of 25c and 30c a seat.

In 1903 movie owners will be talking or the good old days of 1933 when they could at least charge something for admission.

Well, "The Good Companions" arrives today at the Capitol Theatre and this human picture will put one more cog in the now established machinery of movie progress. - It is indeed a grand picture.

Here we are in the British Empire and only just realizing the true value of our own industry. Surely it is the depression which has caused us to think differently and in due course, by the rapid strides in the perfection of British films. However, the fact remains that Belleville at least, has received British talkies and talkies from the United States or affairs rather amazed almost the entire theatre world of the province, Toronto excepted. Those pictures, says Mr. Holmes, British films are sweeping the country and can be had anywhere, but they say "We told you so!"

"The Good Companions" beggars description and gives the lie direct to the old assertion that "if a picture receives more than advertising the quality is not up to standard."

In the case of "The Good Companions" there is no standard of quality because it is on a much higher plane of quality than is ever associated with motion pictures.

In conjunction with "The Good Companions"—we have very good news for the ladies!

Miniature Gowns

Many ladies have enquired whether they will be able late to encourage saving the Royal Princess Dinnerware now being given away each Monday and Tuesday at the Capitol Theatre.

To accommodate late starters the number of weeks has been extended so that ladies securing their article of dinnerware on Monday and Tuesday during the showing of "The Good Companions" will be able to secure the full 56-piece service by attending the theatre regularly each week.

"Such is the service of the Capitol Theatre," says Manager Holmes.

FIGHT IN CANOE CAUSES TRAGEDY

Five Children Orphans Result of Drowning of Parents

Sudbury, July 22 (CP)—Five Indian children, the oldest a girl of 14, are orphans as the result of a brawl near Collins Inlet which ended in the drowning of their parents, Louis Medawisiaj and his wife, Rose, as their canoe upset.

Andrew Winer, charged with having supplied Madawisah and his wife with liquor, was sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment on two charges, the two six-month terms to run consecutively.

According to the police, it appeared the couple, both intoxicated had started a fight in their frail craft as they paddled in the dark, and the canoe overturned.

Provincial police investigated declared Madawisah was bruised about the right eye and expressed the belief his wife struck him with a paddle and then plunged into the water.

Acting as coroner, Magistrate F. W. Major of Gore Bay proceeded by boat to the scene of the fatality. Evidence of the couple's intoxication was submitted which resulted in the charges against Winer, both of supplying liquor contrary to the Indian Act. He pleaded not guilty but was convicted.

Madawisah and his wife went to Winer's store on Skull Point, three miles from their home. Early she left with the Indian and his wife embarked for home. Later tourists found their overturned canoe and the bodies of the two were recovered.

The five children are being placed under the care of the Department of Indian Affairs. fill

CROPS HELPED BY SHOWERS

Temporary Benefit to Western Crops But More Rain Needed

Winnipeg, July 22—Showers have temporarily benefited crops in the Canadian Prairie Provinces, but more rain and cooler weather are needed to ensure an average yield says the weekly crop report of the Canadian National Railways.

Central and southern areas are in more serious condition than more northerly territory, says the report. Need of moisture appears to be the most important factor in the crop situation.

Grain is ripening fast in Portage la Prairie section of Manitoba, and threshing is expected to begin next week.

Grasshopper damage is reported at several points. In Dauphin area an excellent hay crop is being harvested. Grain prospects are esteemed.

Hot winds have dried up any moisture received in Regina region. Crops are ripe, or have begun, and a good yield is expected. More rain is still needed. In Prince Albert region crops need more moisture. Wheat is headed out.

In Southern Alberta wheat is heading out but straw is very short. Fall crops are badly in need of immediate moisture. Crops in Edmonton division are progressing well, although there, too, rain is wanted. Peace river reports warm, fine weather, with crops in good shape.

In the maple sugar industry of Canada, the application of The Maple Sugar Industry Act, administered by the Fruit Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, has proved effective and of benefit both to the producer and to the manufacturer.

DOCTORS MYSTIFIED

London, Ont., July 22 (CP)—Unconscious and seriously ill, Mrs. Mary Hands, 70-year-old resident of Byron today lay in Victoria hospital, while physicians worked to diagnose her case.

For two days the aged woman lay in a state of coma in her little home in Byron village before medical aid was summoned. Belief that she was merely asleep was given at the time, but the doctor had not been called. Yesterday, however, Dr. A. E. Hodgetts was notified and today will investigate.

Value for duty has been levied in imported fruit as follows: Plums and prunes 1 1-4 cent per lb. from July 20 to October 31; peaches 1 2-4 cent per lb. from July 20 to January 31, when excised under the intermediate or general tariff.

3 CHILDREN BURNED AS BOLT FIRES HOUSE

Trapped in Sleeping Room Three Perish After Bolt Strikes Dungannon House

Thomas Woodmore's Two Sons And Nephew Victims

ADULTS INJURED

Almost Unrecognizable, Bodies Are Found in Corner

Burned beyond human recognition three small charred bodies were all that was left to tell the tale of a tragedy, following a fire which destroyed the home of Thos. Woodmore Sunday night in Dungannon Township, which took for its toll his two sons, Ronald age 9, Donald age 8 and their cousin, a son of William Grant, MacArthur's Mills, age 8 years.

The house, which was of the log cabin type was hit by lightning about 10:30 o'clock Sunday night and before the adult members of the household could reach the rear room in which the boys were sleeping the entire inner part of the building was a mass of flames and it was only after being severely burned that Mr. Woodmore and two other adult relatives managed blindly to stumble from the inferno.

The log cabin was completely burned to the ground and only after many unsuccessful attempts had been made were the charred bodies finally discovered all huddled together in one corner of the room, where it is thought the boys had cowered before the fire flames. The bodies were practically burned beyond recognition and no inquest will be held, according to the information handed out by the provincial police this (Monday) morning.

The Woodmore family and their relatives had retired just previous to the breaking of a terrific electric storm from which the bolt of lightning followed. The lightning tore a large hole in the roof of the building and spread flames and fire as it struck in the floor near a partition.

The cabin and all its contents were a complete loss, the adult members only escaping in their night attire carrying with them what clothes they could snatch as they fought their way from the burning building to safety. All three adult members of the household sustained severe burns and injuries necessitating medical attention. Only a smouldering mass of embers showed at day peace of the awful tragedy this morning.

MOLLISON TO BORROW PLANE

Ocean-Crossers Will Fly on to New York

Bridgeport, Conn. July 24—(AP)—Captain Mollison announced at midnight he and his wife will fly to New York tonight leaving Stratford in a Sikorsky amphibian plane at five p.m. for Floyd Bennett Field.

In a talk from the hospital just before noon both expressed regret at the crackup which ended their transatlantic flight.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 24—(AP) —Jimmy and Amy Mollison awakened shortly before 9 a.m., E.S.T., today in their Bridgeport hospital beds.

Then they were pushed close together and Mollison's flying couple discussed their plans.

Vernon Stuart of New York City, friend of the air adventurers, said they would make a statement soon regarding their plans which were disrupted last night by their crackup in the marshes adjoining the Bridgeport airport, after a flight across the North Atlantic from Pendine, Wales.

London, July 24 (AP)—Amy Johnson, Mollison, Mrs. Mollison, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Johnson, spent anxious night waiting for news of the flight she and her husband, Captain James A. Mollison made to the United States. After the parents' relief with the first reports that the fliers were safe, the attention of the continent came the tidings of the crash at Bridgeport, Conn., and the subsequent uncertainty as to whether either their daughter or son-in-law had been seriously hurt.

At dawn they received news that Mr. Johnson could speak with long distance flights insofar as the famous flying Mollisons are concerned.

As Sea as Amy was seited in bed she telephoned last-night after their plane turned over in the marsh at the airport here she asked the person telephoning A nurse held the instrument as Mrs. Mollison put questions and to S. Johnson, the business manager in London.

"Are you all right Jim?" We're OK. Jim sends his best. Don't forget to call me in the morning."

Mr. Johnson telephoned secretary of state for air, called Mollison: "I much regret to hear of the unfortunate accident to yourself and Mrs. Mollison and am glad no damage to your machine when you already had accomplished so much."

ODDITIES IN THE NEWS

Manchester, In., July 24—(AP)—A few moments passed as slowly as Fred Ferguson, 19, James Haveen, farmer, as he swung unsupported head downward from a hay rope at a height of 50 feet, with only the tricky catch of a hay sling holding him 4½ Hfe.

His feet had become entangled in the rope as he sloed on a load of hay. His son failed to hear his cries and he was boisted up to the peak of the barn, unable, in through the open door, and bounced neatly onto a pile of hay unhurt.

Cocoa, Fla., July 24 (CP)—Two fishermen from City Point today told a story of a wild ride two miles out in the sea behind a 2,500-pound devil fish they harpooned from their boat off Canaveral. The pair, Charles and Cooper Williams, brothers, say they finally subdued the fish and hauled it ashore to find it measured 16 feet four inches across.

News Flashes

Chicago, July 24 (AP)—Edward A. Crawford, member of the Board of Trade was today suspended from all privileges on the exchange because of insolvency. Crawford is from New York.

Berlin, July 24 (AP)—Max Von Schillings, an outstanding figure in German music for nearly 40 years, died today of embolism. He was 65 years old.

Robot Pilot More Accurate Than Human Co-Pilot Says Post in Interview

New York, July 24—(AP)—Wiley Post has no illusions about the longevity of that robot pilot of his. Two hours and 49 minutes he set in his dash around the globe. He thinks some one will break it in the not too distant future.

Post has no comfort in an easy chair for the first time in more than a week. Post told yesterday of his experiences in the fog and the fog of many lands. Asked what the most interesting thing around the world would be, he chuckled and said:

"Oh, about 30 seconds, I guess. No one really knows, but they're going to go faster and faster."

The robot pilot that helped him around the globe made a big hit with Post, he disclosed, despite some mechanical difficulty. He said he'd rather have it than a human co-pilot because it is more accurate.

"Being a lazy man", he said, "I let the robot do the work as much as possible. I trusted the ship to the robot from Edmonton till I was over Newark airport. It flew ill pretty well for me. I took it back, too, until 30 minutes before I landed to let it land me.

Post is sure he could have made the trip in five days if he had "the breaks" in weather.

"I thought it was going to be a wonderful trip," he said, "and the weather made it turn out otherwise. But the robot worked pretty well, except for the time the old reed was broken.

"I was more than satisfied with the performance of the Winnie Mae, but just the same the journey had its tough spots. The toughest, I guess, was just before I came down out of the clouds and landed at Flat, in Alaska. I was so tired then that I couldn't tell whether or not I should have stopped at Nome, but I was too anxious to get on, I guess."

Fire Occurs on Indian Reserve Near Sarnia Early Today

ALL ONE FAMILY

Parents Awakened by Screams of Daughter And All Saved

Sarnia, Ont., July 22 (CP)—Five Indian children were burned to death early today in a fire that destroyed the two-storey frame dwelling of their father, Thomas White, resident of the Sarnia Indian Reserve about four miles southeast of this city.

The dead are: John 'Benjamin White, 12; Leroy, 10; Earl, 8; Reginold, 6; and Milton, 4.

White, 36, his wife, 33, and their 2-year-old daughter, Verlyn, escaped from the flames, but White and his wife were severely burned. Sarnia hospital officials said they would recover.

Lantern Overturns.

Cause of the fire which broke out in the second floor where the boys were sleeping was not learned definitely but it was believed a lantern, lighted and standing in front of a window, was overturned.

White and Mrs. White were awakened by screams of Verlyn. Mrs. White called to John who rushed downstairs and then returned in an attempt to rescue his brother. He was trapped with them and perished.

Mrs. White succeeded in dragging Reginold downstairs and carried him a quarter of a mile to the home of Amos White, his uncle. The boy died in her arms as she arrived.

Sarnia police, summoned by telephone, rushed to the scene, but were unable to help as the house was reduced to a heap of ashes by the time they arrived. They recovered the four bodies from the ruins.

Dr. W. B. Rutherford arrived at the same time as police and started investigating. He decided an inquest unnecessary.

The White home was in an isolated part of the reserve, a quarter of a mile from the nearest neighbor. No aid was summoned, the Indian Indians on the reserve as they were unaware the fire was in progress.

BAY OF QUINTE CLAIMS LIFE

Earl Richards of Murray Township Drowns at Trenton

Trenton, July 24—Earl Arnold Richards, 26, of Murray Twp., and Mrs. Peter Richards, Murray Township, was drowned in the Bay of Quinte, Sunday afternoon, at 5 o'clock.

Richards was employed on the relief project at the local air base and was celebrating a day off. Nearly fifty other swimmers were at the scene. It is believed he was seized with cramps and sank in about ten feet of water. Artificial respiration failed after nearly two hours. Coroner Dr. W. Crowe was notified and after investigation, decided an inquest was not necessary.

The ancient surgical operation of cutting a hole in the skull to relieve pressure on the brain is still practised in Algeria.

City Swelters in Hottest Day Under Relentless Skies

Ninety-Five Degrees on Sunday Marks Season's Warmest

NO PROSTRATIONS

Belleville and district sweltered on the hottest day of the season, Sunday, as a relentless sun, blazing from clear skies, steadily drove local thermometers to the highest mark yet recorded this year, reaching a high 95 above shortly after mid-day. Not even the saving grace of a cool breeze was evident to allay the distress felt so acutely by suffering citizens. Only during the late evening and early morning of Monday was relief to be found in the city. Rain fell during the early hours of Monday, breaking the heat wave, but leafing in its wake a clammy humidity which blanketed the district. One twenty-fifth of an inch of rain fell in the general downpour which was received as far north in the county as Madoc.

Although police and hospital attendants were prepared for emergencies on Sunday, no heat prostrations were reported throughout the day.

On Saturday evening while shoppers thronged the streets, thermometers in the downtown sections registered a high 87 above at nine o'clock.

Some relief from the heat was felt on Monday with a scattered sprinkling of showers which continued throughout the afternoon. Humidity content of the air was high, however, and the relief was not so noticeable, even if temperatures did fall.

Official temperatures given were: Sunday, high 95, low 67. Monday, high 73 above at 9:30 a.m. 76 early in the morning, and 74 above at noon. Low was set at 69 above following the early morning rain.

Relief from the heat wave is promised by the weatherman who holds out the sgurance of continued showers and cloudy weather.

NEW WAY TO REACH DETROIT NOT FOUND

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 24 (CP) —A lady tourist came to the bureau here for directions as to how to reach Detroit. That, in itself, wasn't difficult for the manager, Fred P. Folger; but the catch was, she wanted to get there without travelling through Canada or the United States. The manager explained that these were the only two countries in which you can travel to reach Detroit.

"Well, I guess I just have to figure it out for myself," the tourist seriously inform'd

CONFERENCE STEERING COM. IS PERMANENT

Important Decision is Insisted Upon by Mac-Donald

WHEAT CONSUL

Morgenthau Advocates Official Arbiter to Keep Check

London, July 24 (AP)—Far from dead, the World Economic Conference will resume many years as a result of today's decision by the steering committee to remain in permanent session here although the conference will take a recess on Thursday.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald insisted that this action be taken. Today's decision calls for the original members of the steering committee to attend meetings.

The nations whose delegates on the Steering Committee will not be in London will be represented by their ambassadors here.

London, July 24 (CP Cable) — Representatives of the big wheat importing countries were today drafting the concessions they are prepared to make in stimulating wheat consumption. When these have been framed out they will be laid before the "Big Four" exporters, who are understood to sign a pact among themselves for restricting production and regulating export unless the importers provide a considerable measure of co-operation. First, then from these exporters were not considered satisfactory.

The importers today held a long meeting and appointed a drafting committee consisting of representatives of France, the United Kingdom and Italy to report on tariff reductions, milling quotas and milling restrictions. The principal wheat importers will meet the exporters again tomorrow.

Henry Morgenthau, Sr., chief American delegate, said that in the event of an agreement some sort of "wheat consul" with a residence in London might be created to work with an advisory committee to keep check on how the record was being kept and how it was working out.

READY TO PAY ANY RANSOM

Companion Identifies One of Kidnappers in Rogue Gallery

Oklahoma City, July 24—(AP)— Ready to pay any ransom "within reason," the family of Charles Urschel, kidnapped oil millionaire, today awaited word from his captors.

Meanwhile, W. R. Jarrett, oil man abducted with Urschel but later released, was reported to have identified a rogue's gallery picture of that of one of the machine gunners who snatched the two men bound and blind-folded their wives in the palatial Urschel home early Friday.

Jarrett, who also was said to have gone on an investigation of the case, refused to make public the name of the man identified. It was learned at least three men, including the one identified, were involved.

Jarrett said the kidnappers treated their victims "like gentlemen," made no mention of ransom, but indicated that he was under the impression that the one later identified was Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, Oklahoma desperado.

Babe Reaches Safety in Stages, with Mother and Father Both Injured

Toronto, July 24 (CP) — Fearful that her seven-months-old daughter would be suffocated by smoke from a fire of unknown origin which swept through the lower floors of her home here, Mrs. Tillie Kunyk, 24, leaped from the second storey window to the roof of a back shed with the child clutched in her arms.

Losing her footing as the roof gave way, Mrs. Kunyk fell to the ground, but her husband Michael and fell ten feet to the ground. She was rushed to his assistance.

The father, with the baby in his arms, attempted to climb down a ladder to the ground but before his wife lay helpless when the fence collapsed and he was pitched to the ground. He lost his hold on the child and it fell, landing on top of him and escaping injury.

Propping his injured wife with one arm and holding his child in the other Mr. Kunyk made his wat to the street and there aboarded for help. Hundreds of people had gathered near the flaming house and ran to his assistance.

Newfoundland Will Lose Self-Governing Status to Restore Finance

Britain Will Endeavor to Put Island "on its Feet"

COMMISSION RULE

Big Reconstruction Loan Suggestion of Report

NEW YORK, July 24.—(CP)—A special despatch from London to the New York Times this morning says: Newfoundland may temporarily lose her status as a self-governing colony.

A report on the island's finances, which is now in the hands of Dominions Secretary Thomas, is understood to propose drastic action without precedent in recent British History, it recommends that the Island's finances be put under expert non-political control 'as a condition to arranging a big reconstruction loan.

The report goes still further in proposing that the whole administration of the Island should be handed over for a time to a nominated commission empowered to regain the machinery of the government, collect taxes and conduct the affairs of the colony by ministers.

This means in effect that Newfoundlanders would lose their self-governing institutions until the British were able to put the Island on its feet.

RIFLE FOUND IN COWSTABLE

Weapon Under Flooring Like That said to Have Been Stolen

Chapeau, Que., July 24 (CP) — A party of men under Detective F. Dalpe today dug up a .32 calibre rifle under the flooring of a cowstable on the late Bradley's farm, while conducting a search for the weapon with which his father-in-law, sister and brother and uncle were brutally slain at their home on the Centre Friday morning.

The weapon was located under the planked flooring, nine feet from the back door of stable and covered by a few inches of earth. The stable is about 80 feet from the house. Bradley's farm adjoins that of three outbuildings.

The weapon is the same make and caliber as that which Michael Bradley stole from him about ten days ago. It also has a 20-inch barrel as Bradley said his had when stolen from him on the Saturday evening.

The rifle was stored carefully and taken to Montreal by Detective J. A. Dalpe, of the Quebec Provincial Police, who also has with him some of the bullets which passed through the bodies of the members of the Bradley family when a killer ran amuck on Friday morning.

An examination will be made by Dr. Rosario Pomerleau, provincial criminologist, in the Montreal laboratory.

PASTOR REFERS TO DEATH OF MEMBER

At Sunday morning service in the Bridge St. United Church, the pastor, the Rev. J. Semple made feeling reference to the death of Mrs. Ida Z. Smith, a former member of the church and one of the most devoted workers from girlhood to womanhood. The organ, chimes which Mrs. Smith had presented to the church some six years ago, were played during the offertory and following the Benediction.

CANNED GOODS, CHEESE SHIPPED

Heavy loadings of canned goods and cheese on the Steamer Glen Allan for the trip to Montreal made up the greater part of the activity at the government dock today. The Steamship Peterin, Hamilton, carrying vacation excursionists on her regular weekly "mystery trip" is expected to make port at Belleville on Tuesday morning.

CAR COLLIDES WITH BICYCLE

A slight accident happened on the Foxboro Road late Sunday night, when an automobile driven by William Fox of Toronto, collided with a bicycle being driven by Nephin Clarke, Madoc Junction. The rider of the bicycle was knocked to the pavement and received minor cuts and bruises. Mr. Fox reported the accident to the police.

BARBER SHOP IS ENTERED

William Walmsley, a local barber carrying on business on Bridge St., reported to the desk sergeant at the police station regarding the breaking and entering of his shop some time early Saturday morning. Entrance had been gained through a rear door, which had been forced open. Nothing of value was reported missing.

SPANIEL BELIEVED OWNED IN U. S.

A lost spaniel believed to be owned by some United States tourist who now possesses a fine, well developed up in the downtown section of the city during the week end, and now anxiously awaits an owner at the city pound. The animal is a well bred one of the cocker type and complete with a United States dog tag.

TWO RESCUES ARE EFFECTED SUNDAY

His inability to swim after he had jumped from a floating raft into twelve feet of water some distance from the bathing city pump house, early Sunday evening, almost cost the life of an unidentified youth, Mr. Tom Herity, one of a number of witnesses, noticed that the youth struggling in the water after he had left the raft, managed to swim to his assistance, and after some difficulty was able to swim with him to shore. The rescued youth vacated the scene without giving his name. Another youthful girl swimmer, who started out in the swim from Zwick's Island up the pump house, found herself unable to continue and shouted about half way and was forced to cry for assistance. Walker swimmers assisted her to shore.

MOIRA RIVER IS AT LOWEST LEVEL

Although the water level of the bay and harbor remains comparatively high for this season of the year, the Moira River during the past week has descended to the lowest recorded level. In the upper section of the river only a meandering stream remains, the descended grasses of the past summer months is given as the cause.

GRASS FIRE IS EXTINGUISHED

A late afternoon alarm on Sunday sent members of the local fire department to the west to the eastern boundary of the city, where a grass fire had become ignited in the long grass near the old cemetery. The blaze was extinguished without damage to nearby buildings.

POLICE COURT.

Joseph Rodosaw, Serbian, residing at 156 James street, appeared before Magistrate Casement in the local police court Monday morning and was found guilty of a charge of keeping liquor for sale. Rodosaw was sentenced to serve two months in the common jail, his liquor stock and automobile confiscated.

Rodosaw was arrested by Sergeant Hamilton and Constable Ivey Sergeant Thompson of the provincial police, following a search of the Rodosaw residence late Saturday evening where a quantity of liquor in excess of native wine was found in his possession.

During the police court proceedings it was disclosed that Rodosaw had purchased 67 gallons of wine, 86 quarts of beer and 18 pints of beer from the liquor store since November 23rd last.

Rodosaw pleaded not guilty and assured the court that he never purchased the beverages for his own consumption. Three gallons of wine had been purchased by him last week.

Jack Crosby and Harry Smith, Italians, appeared in the dock charged with being found in a vacant house on North Park street. Provincial Constable Campbell arrested them as they were sleeping on Saturday night. The constable's suspended sentence was meted out to them by His Worship, providing they vacated the city. Both men beat a hasty retreat from the court room.

A fourth youth convicted of trespassing on the property of the Belleville golf links. A arrest of the youth followed numerous complaints relating to boys trespassing on the club's greens.

Other cases heard included two liquor and one VLTA charge. Magistrate Casement presided in the absence of Mayor Ellis, on civic business in Toronto.

MOOSE MEET AT PORT HOPE

Convention for Ontario to be Held From Aug. 4 to 7 Inclusive

Belleville members of the Loyal Order of Moose, who have completed arrangements to attend the Grand Lodge Convention for Ontario Moose, to be held in Port Hope on August 4, 5, 6 and 7. It is expected that dozens of members of the local Order will attend the four day convention, among those who will be present from Belleville are Mr. Thomas Wills, secretary, Jos. T. Delaney, treasurer, Thomas Gill, past grand, Albert Burk, vice-dictator, Clare Patterson, dictator, Belleville Order Ladies' Drill Team will also compete for the large silver cup, which is presented by the Ontario Moose Lodge for annual competition.

Although the number of 1500 or more are expected to be present in Port Hope for the four days, and accommodation to care for the large crowd will be taxed to the limits, all main streets of the town are being decorated with flags and bunting and the town has been opened for the influx of visitors.

On Saturday, August 5th at 10 a.m. the opening of the convention will be carried out, with W. J. Kerr, Grand Dictator in the chair. Addresses by the Past Supreme Dictator, Albert J. Ladner, Philadelphia, Pa., W. J. Stevenson, Toronto, Grand Dictator of the Grand Lodge of Great Britain; Sir John Dalton, Cardiff, Wales, and other prominent officials will be first on the program.

On Saturday a big Moose picnic will be given, which will be attended by scores of members of the Belleville lodge, and on Saturday evening a Moose Ball will be held. A street dance will also be held in the evening, at Port Hope. The Saturday evening arrangements will be arranged by the Moose degree team from Rochester, New York.

Citadel Band's Weekend Tour

The Salvation Army Citadel Band spent a very successful week-end in Picton, Bloomfield and Lakeland. Leaving the city's citadel at noon, the Bandsmen arrived in the peninsular town for a great open-air gathering at 3 p.m. The citadel party was received by Captain W. Hawkins, and Sergt.-Major Lockyer of Picton Corps.

On the beautiful armouries lawn a musical festival was rendered about 8.30 p.m., under the direction of Bandmaster Hardy. A choice variety of favourite music, old and new vocal and instrumental, comprised the programme. Several hundred people attended these latest performances of the class in this visit.

Saturday was a heavy day's schedule in the service of righteousness, commencing with knee drill at 8 a.m. that the Bandsmen serve without remuneration, the plans for the day were carried out with fervour but without stint or complaint.

Morning visiting the House of Refuge and General Hospital were arranged for, the Band accompanying with the officials in charge, and music, song and scripture reading dispensing the ark and dividing the hours.

Bloomfield and Lakeland were the scenes of open-air services during the afternoon, residents and vacationists alike sharing the pleasure of the music.

Morning and evening in Picton the Citadel regular Sunday services were conducted by Adjutant A. W. Martin of Belleville, who accompanied the Band. The Bible addresses made presentation of two well-known topics: Tuesday's visit in the morning and "The Penitent Thief" in the evening.

The final festival was rendered in the open-air meeting in the Regent Theatre, by kidness of the management.

A first-class programme of army music was rendered, which also included concert solos, with "Ave Maria", by soloists Jack Green and George Warwick. The male voice Choir also rendered several selections.

Major N. C. Kendall (R), was present and pronounced the benediction on the final festival.

The band arrived back in the city last night, and will continue with a deep satisfaction of something done for God and humanity. Two converts were secured at the Citadel Services during the day.

OBITUARY

MRS. CALVIN HOARD

Following a ten days' illness, Mrs. Margaret Ann Hoard of Latta, widow of Calvin Hoard, passed away Friday evening in the Belleville General Hospital. The deceased was born in Thurlow Township, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, and had resided in Latta the past several years; for a number of years previously she had made her home at Hoard's Station. Mrs. Hoard had been a practical nurse for many years. She was a member of the Plainfield United Church, she was a woman highly thought of by numerous friends and acquaintances throughout the southern townships of this county. Much sympathy is sincerely felt for those bereaved in her passing.

Immediately surviving are two sons, Blake and Murray of Rochester, N.Y., and four daughters, Mrs. Ethel M. Proctor and Mrs. Clara Probst also of Rochester, Mrs. Leura Campbell in San Francisco and Mrs. Clara McFadden of Calgary, Alta.; and two sisters, Mrs. B. Bolton of Rochester and Mrs. J. Sherman of Latta.

LAWRENCE FENDER

Fairgreton, July 24.—Lawrence Fender, well known resident, respected citizen of Palmerston, passed away at his residence, Cumberland Street, at 10.30 Friday morning in his seventy-fifth year. Mr. Fender had been in failing health for some time and spent the past winter in Florida, returning home two weeks ago. Mr. Fender was born in Mount Burgess, Middlesex County, in 1858, and has resided in Kenoka, Wingham and Palmerston. He was for a number of years section foreman on the Grand Trunk Railway and was appointed supervisor of tracks, which position he held until he retired on pension nine years ago. He is survived by his wife, one son, Stuart, of Belleville; daughters, Mrs. E. W. Jenks and Miss Florence Fender of Newton Lore Falls, Miss, and Mrs. J. McGillivray of Kincardine.

GEORGE H. HARRISON

HAROLD, July 24.—(Special)—After an illness of several months, borne with great fortitude and Christian fortitude, the death occurred on July 21st, 1933, of George H. Harrison of Schenectady, N.Y., formerly of Thomasburg and Ameliasburgh.

Mr. Harrison was born in Thomasburg, Ont., on April 23, 1864, and was the oldest child of the late William Harrison and Catherine Clare. For a number of years he followed the occupation of cheese making in Hungerford and Huntingdon Townships, and about 30 years ago removed to Schenectady, N.Y., where he has since made his home. For 28 years he was a valued employee of the General Electric Co., of Schenectady. He was a member of the Woodlawn Reformed Church.

He is survived by his widow (formerly Miss Bertha Booth), two children, Mrs. Mrs. W. J. Tanner, Harold, Ont., and Edward of West Seattle, U.S.A., also by two sisters, Mrs. I. Darling, Edmonton, Alta., and Mrs. J. C. Bleecker, Ideal Iowa, and also six grandchildren besides a large number of friends and relatives in this county.

The funeral took place today, (Monday) at 3 p.m. at the home, with interment in Scotia, New York, Cemetery.

"TOURIST GYPING" IS NOT PREVALENT HERE.

Traffic Officers Instructed to Check the Practice

In a communication received from the office of the Hon., W. H. Price, Attorney General of the Province, Mr. J. O. Herity, manager of the local Chamber of Commerce has been advised that instructions are being given traffic officers in the Department of Highways to investigate the matter of overcharge by restaurants and road side service stations to tourists. Although no reports of "tourist gyping" have been given the local Chamber, several complaints by tourists have been laid against western cities. This section of the Province is believed to be free of such practice. Nothing that the tourist trade is Canada's third greatest source of revenue, a strenuous attempt is being made by the heads of the Attorney General, to stamp out the objectionable over charges to visitors. A letter has also been received at the local Chamber from Mr. Andy Hurst, president of the Continental Optical Company of Indianapolis, Ind., complimenting Canadians on the energy displayed in the correction of such evils.

SOUTH END A. C. HOLD PICNIC AT MASSASSAGA

Fast Fleet Accompanies Fewer Boat Fleet Down

Favored by perfect weather nearly two hundred residents of the city journeyed to Massassaga Park on Sunday on the occasion of the regular picnic outing promoted by the South End Athletic Club. Scudding before a stiff breeze, which dissipated the heat on the hottest day of the year, 14 sailing punts towed by regular local navigators made the trip to the park in record time. The fast fleet of power boats each loaded with passengers followed in close on the trip. The day was given over to sports and after dinner was held on the park in the cool of the evening. During the afternoon several punts were taken for a trip in the bay by the punts over a perfect course. Not a case of upset or accident marred the day. Numbers of other residents journeyed by motor to the park to enjoy the outing. Leaving the park at 8 o'clock in the morning a return trip to the city was made at 4 o'clock.

CAR TURNS INTO DITCH WHEN TIRE BLOWS OUT

Driver is Rushed to Hospital By Doctor in Car

Allegedly losing control of his automobile following the blowing out of a front tire, Blake Johnson, 20, Foxboro, was severely injured when thrown from the car as it took to the ditch about two miles north of Foxboro early Saturday morning.

Johnson, accompanied by three others, was proceeding northward, when the tire blew out. The impact of the explosion forced the car to the right, where it later turned over in the ditch. Johnson was thrown from the wreckage, while the three other occupants sustained severe cuts and bruises.

Dr. Wm. Porter of Stirling, was summoned to the scene of the accident, and later conveyed Johnson to the Belleville General Hospital bearing serious internal injuries. Johnson remained in serious condition in the hospital.

Following the accident, which happened about 4 a.m. Sunday morning Johnson had been playing in an orchestra at a dance in Stirling and was returning home, when the tire blew. The car was completely wrecked.

TWELVE POUND TROUT CAPTURED

While fishing in Salmon Lake during the week-end, Mr. A. H. Ketchem landed a fine trout measuring 22¼ inches long and weighing 12 pounds. This is the second fine specimen of trout caught by Mr. Ketchem the present season, a month ago he caught one of like same finny family weighing fifteen pounds in the same waters.

MAN MAY HAVE BEEN STRUCK BY GRAB IRON

Fellow "Transients" Assist Injured Man

Believed to have been struck on the side of the head by a grab iron of a freight, he attempted unsuccessfully to board near the car bridge west of the city, a transient giving his name as Martin Stevens, Hamilton, was found wandering in a dazed condition by fellow transients along the tracks near the "jungle" at the bridge early Sunday evening. A deep cut, which was located on the side of the head of Stevens was treated by his fellow companions, who solicited bandages and first aid treatment from nearby residents. After rendering first aid to their companion the party immediately vacated the scene of accident, fearing the arrival of the local police.

KINGSTON MEMBERS ON VISIT TO THE CITY

Entertained by Belleville Daughters of England

On Monday evening last July 17th the members of Lodge Pride of Belleville No. 87 were paid a visit by about 30 members of Lodge Duchess of York No. 56 from Kingston and a delightful evening was enjoyed by everybody. The members of the Belleville lodge turned out in good proportion to welcome the visitors. The business of the meeting having been concluded all sat down to a dainty lunch served up by the very capable committee, after which community singing and songs by members were sung in the old English style. It was about 12.30 when the happy gathering broke up by singing the National Anthem. The visitors all boarded the bus and made their way home to the Limestone City with the happy thought that their visit to Belleville had been one that they could look back on with pleasant memories of fraternity and sociability.

APOLOGY!

CHAS. J. SYMONS wishes to apologize to the many who were unable to get into his store on Saturday owing to the tremendous rush for the Fire Sale Bargains. Many people came from long distances to take advantage of this sale, but such a tremendous rush was not anticipated, notwithstanding the sensational bargains offered in all lines of Men's Clothing and Furnishings. The store doors had to be locked repeatedly, with uniformed policemen keeping the crowd from bursting in the doors—while the store itself was filled to capacity all day, from nine in the morning until midnight when the large force of clerks were so tired that they could continue no farther and the store was cleared.

THE SALE CONTINUES, as this tremendous stock has hardly been touched as yet, and Bigger and Better Bargains will be offered to clear the entire stock out in record time—this we are determined to do, even to the last necktie and pocket handkerchief and will make prices that will surely move them quickly.

YOU CAN SAVE MONEY at the BIG FIRE SALE, greatest Carnival of Bargains in Men's Clothing and Furnishings ever held in Belleville. In view of Saturday's rush we have put on more clerks and will endeavor to have the service fully equal to the demands.

PAINTERS AND PAPERHANGERS MEET AT BIDE-A-WEE CAMP

Delighted With Arrangements Made by Harry Ketcheson, Proprietor

Friday and Saturday last the Executive committee of the Master Painters and Paperhangers Association, following their meeting at Bide-a-Wee camp Trenton Road at which time plans were laid for the coming all members of the association had been invited, and some 50 Master Painter, their wives, sons and daughters answered the invitation.

The members of the association have felt the years of depression severely and this year, the secretary, Mr. T. Rothernell of Toronto, to cut down the expenses of attending meetings arranged with owner Mr. Harry Ketcheson, proprietor of the camp, to hold the meetings on dates the shores of the Bay of Quinte. The members of the delegation were most enthusiastic over the innovation their secretary instituted, and instead of meeting in the usual convention rooms of some large hotel in Toronto or Hamilton they took place in the open with the cooling breezes from the bay coming in, and the customary draught of electric fan driven air. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Harry Ketcheson for the excellent arrangements he had made and for the kindness, hospitality and courtesy shown by him and the services he had maintained for the comfort of his guests.

30th Annual Meeting

The gathering was the 30th annual meeting of the association, it having been formed in 1904. In presenting as it does the foremost and largest organization of painters and paperhangers in the province, the deliberations and decisions made at the various sessions will prove of the trade for the coming 12 months. Chairmen of committees from the various districts reported on the year's activities and the chairmen of committees remain the same for the coming year. Mr. Wm. Delaney of Niagara Falls is president of the Association and under his chairmanship much business was transacted in the two days' deliberation.

Pleasurable Outing

Mr. Delaney is delighted with this departure of holding the annual meeting at the camp and stated the new experience had been so delightful and the arrangements so satisfactory that doubtless next year would see the annual gathering of his association at the same place.

The ladies have enjoyed the outing immensely and are likewise pleased at this new departure. Friendships have been renewed under the most pleasant of conditions and the days spent at Bide-a-Wee have been delightful to them.

Returning to their homes Sunday all attending were profuse in their thanks to Mr. Ketcheson for the excellent treatment they had received at his camp.

SUSPENDED FROM PRIVILEGES

Chicago, July 24 (AP) — Leon Strauss, member of the Board of Trade, whose membership was registered in the name of Strauss and Company of Des Moines, Iowa, was today suspended from all privileges for inability to meet commitments.

KILLED IN STORM

Coldwater, Ont., July 24 (CP)—Mrs. George Bell, 33, of Todmorden, was killed instantly yesterday when she was struck by lightning while bathing at Waubeushene during a violent electrical storm which crossed this district during the afternoon.

Letters to The Editor

Editor of Ontario Intelligencer:

Will you kindly allow space in your column to ask who is responsible for the oiling of our streets. Some of them have been done properly; the majority are only a farce.

Two years ago the street by other came along, sprinkled a little oil on the street about one third the amount required to absorb the gravel or broken stone, finished up with a coat of sand. Since then each driving over it cause clouds of dust and although worse than before the supposed oiling was done. Are the residents on those streets to be taxed for the clouds of dust they are swallowing. Who is to blame for the work that has been done on many of our streets this year? Where has the Public Works Committee been, are they economizing on some streets to have sufficient oil for others?

Thanking you for space to voice the protests of hundreds of the citizens who are saying for what we call badly oiled streets.

Yours in a cloud of dust,
Bob Sanderson.

SOMERVILLE ARRIVES HOME

Montreal, July 24 (CP)—Retired as usual, Ross "Sandy" Somerville, London, Ont., notoriously silent United States Amateur Golf Champion, arrived here today aboard the steamship Ascania, after competing in the British open and amateur golf championships. Accompanying him were two other well known Canadian golfers, John B. W. Nash of London, Ont., and Donald H. Anderson, of St. Thomas, Ont., who also participated in the British amateur and open.

ENGLAND TO MEET FRANCE

Perry and "Bunny" Austin Win Singles to Cinch Victory

Bristol, France, July 26 (AP)—For the second time in three years, England's tennis team, Fred Perry and H. W. (Bunny) Austin, has battled a United States bid to regain the Davis cup in the interzone finals.

Just as they did in 1931, but under circumstances even more dramatic, Austin and Perry smashed through to victories in both of the final singles matches before a crowd in Roland Garros stadium yesterday, gaining one by default through the collapse of the American champion, Ellsworth Vines, won the series four matches to one, and gained the right to battle France in the challenge round Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Austin Cinches Series

To Austin went the honor of clinching the series and ending for another year United States hopes of re-capturing the trophy France has held ever since the "four musketeers," Rene Lacoste, Henri Cochet, Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon won it at Germantown in 1927.

Meeting Wilmer Allison in the first match of the day, with Great Britain holding a 2-1 lead, Austin polished off the latter in four sets 6—1, 7—5, 6—3, 6—4, but all the drama, oddly enough, was concentrated in the second duel between Perry and Vines, meaningless though it was after Austin's clinching triumph.

Fighting to retain the prestige he lost through the terrific beating he took from Austin in the opening singles match Friday, Vines fought Perry point for point and nearly dented fainted from nervous exhaustion and the pain of an injured ankle with Perry still at set point in the 14th of the fifth set.

The lanky American's red flat on his face, his long arms stretched out length in the court. Officials hurriedly applied wet towels to his face, then carried him to the club house where he quickly was revived.

Perry was awarded the victory 7—5, 6—4, 4—6, 7—5, 7—6 by default.

RUTH CHATTERTON SCORES TRIUMPH IN ROLE OF LILLY TURNER

Once again Ruth Chatterton has established her right to be considered the first dramatic actress of her generation upon the screen by virtue of her superlative work in the star of "Lilly Turner" her latest screen production which opens tomorrow (Tuesday) at the Capitol and will be shown also Wednesday, Matinee daily at 2.30 p.m.

It is not too much to assert that no other star has ever had a vehicle her astounding delineation of the soiled, bedraggled queen of cheap vals and cabarets who emerges through to a loftiness of self-sacrifice.

"Lilly Turner" is a story of lights and shadows, of sunshine and depths —with the shadows and the depths darkness and despair. Into this comes the appearance of the young man, who, to her utter amazement, despite her shady past, falls in love with her. Incredible as such a romance may seem even under ordinary cold words, Ruth Chatterton and George Brent succeed in making it magnificently believable and true.

In the tremendous sweep, "Lilly Turner" recalls no other performance save one or two of the star's outstanding successes. It ranks in power with "Madame X" and Ruth Chatterton revealing new abilities as an actress every scene, as splendidly seconded by a cast of unusual power. Guy Gilbert Perry comes in another of his typical characterizations as the lecherous medicine show doctor.

Frank McHugh, as the kind-hearted spieler who offers Lilly Turner the protection of his name but cannot, for obvious reasons, please her, turns in the finest performance of his career to date. Chatterton's leading man, George Brent is given his first opportunity in months to demonstrate the real strength of his personality.

"Lilly Turner" is five times more than a mere vehicle for Ruth Chatterton's masterpiece. If you liked "Sarah Bernhardt" you will love "Lilly Turner." —Private Service.

As the Belle theatre policy during this month is a two-feature program on Sunday and Monday only, great care had to be taken in choosing something that would merit exhibition with the feature "Lilly Turner" and the pictures on these two days a real variety show. We will not say to Owen Nares on that which was chosen as you all know that when William Powell's name is mentioned in a picture that it is a picture. "Private Detective 62" is the latest Powell picture and the Belle was fortunate to secure it for its little show means to everyone that is a story of action, thrills and romance for Lina Powell, as the lead, is in his most perfect role and with his supporting cast including Margaret Lindsay, whom you will recall played an excellent part in the year's finest picture "Cavalcade" cast optomistic him, also Arthur Byron, Ruth Donnelly and Gordon Westcott in the picture need we say more than that this offers is a show that you will enjoy.

Added attractions, previous to the feature on the program include a Mack Sennett comedy and the popular Canadian News.

BASEBALL GIRLS OF W. HUNTINGDON PLAY FINE GAMES

West Huntingdon—A rather peculiar situation is facing residents at present. Rains are seen. On the west, north, south, but not one drop here. The crops are needing rain very much, but despite dry weather the corn is making rapid growth. One farmer stated that he had a field of hackwheat sowed two weeks ago, but up to date no growth is noticed. However farmers are not complaining as the hay crop was extra good this year and prices are advanced a bit. So all are looking forward to a bright future.

This little community is just bubbling over with entertainment of one kind or another. The young ladies' softball team is leaping into renown every day. Although only recently organized the girls are playing just like professional players, and the diamond, which is situated on Mr. Clayton Wright's lawn is becoming more popular every evening. Thursday evening last was some; Mr. Horton, who is operating an attractive ice cream stand is doing a thriving business, especially so evening when the games are being played.

On Monday evening the Lalla girls journeyed up for a friendly game and what a close game it was until the fifth innings, when the ladies began to play ball in true West Huntingdon style, which left the score at the end of the game 10-4 for them. The return home run of the evening was made by Winnifred McIlroy. The line up, Lalla—C. Braiden, F. Ballzy, R. Hall, M. Braiden, G. Golden, D. Golden, M. Hall, Mrs. Hall, E. Goodall. West Huntingdon —W. McIlroy, Mona Wright, Ruby Reid, H. Haggerty, N. Horton, P. Reid, V. Wilson, M. McIlroy, E. McIlroy. Umpires, Ted Hunter and Dalton Hall.

On Tuesday evening the Zion Hill boys played the local girls, and again the honors came this way, and on Monday the climax was reached when Mount Pleasant girls came over, and the best game of the year was played. An extra large crowd of both old and young were present to witness the game. It did grieve the girls to defeat a visiting team, but being defeated they thought it did not seem fair to treat visitors thus, but they couldn't resist the temptation.

Although the Mount Pleasant girls played an excellent game and with a little more practice will surely be a match for themselves, yet the officials had to announce at the close of the seventh inning that the score was 25 to 10 for West Huntingdon.

The visiting team was then given a light lunch of sandwiches, cake and lemonade. It was altogether too early to depart for home after lunch so a program of music was arranged with Mrs. Mrs. Horton and Mr. Lorne Wilson taking the leading parts.

Popular songs accompanied by the guitars and mouth organs were the main items on the program. Next Tuesday the team will visit Zion's Hill, Foxboro and Latta.

The Huntingdon branch of the Women's Institute held a picnic last Tuesday on the spacious lawn of Mr. Thomas Stiller home. Mrs. Sills, who is president or the organization, planned the program of sports which was as follows:

Tiny tots' race—Arlene Tummon, Margaret Haggerty.

Boys' race, 8 years—Russel Sills, Don Wright.

Boys' and girls' race, 9 to 13—Somnie Clapper.

Girls' race, 10 to 13—Annie Cook, Helen Wright.

Girls' race, 13 to 20—Annie Cook, Hilda Haggerty.

Ladies' wheel-barrow race — Don Wright and David Perry.

Clothes pin race—Marion Chamberlain.

Slipper contest for married women—Jessie Lewis.

Maggie and Jiggs—Mrs. Peter McMurroy.

Grocoping clothes pins in bottle—Mrs. Morley Haggerty.

The ice cream was served ladies and single ladies, won by the single ladies.

Three-legged race—Hilda Haggerty and Marjorie McIlroy.

Plate race—Mrs. Samuel Donnan.

After the games were played, a lunch was served. There was a good attendance of children but only a few many adults.

The Shanklard Church members have erected a large tent on Mr. James McDowell's farm and intend holding meetings in the immediate future. The meetings this week were interrupted by the serious illness of Rev. Mr. Kelly's mother, Mr. Kelly is the new pastor on the Tweed circuit and he is a very forceful preacher.

Two baby boys have arrived in the community, one at Mr. Wallace McIlroy's and the other at Mr. Clifford Elliott's.

Mr. and Mrs. George Post, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Post and son visited Rev. and Mrs. Lane at Frankford on Tuesday.

CAR LOADS UP

Canadian car loadings for the week ending July 15 amounted to 43,943 cars, which was 3,108 cars higher than a year ago, although 636 fewer than for the week ending July 8.

TREASURER OF TRENTON HURT

William Potts Suffers Leg Gash in Car Crash

Trenton, July 24 (Special)—William Potts, treasurer of the Town of Trenton, received a bad gash in his right leg in a motor accident just west of the town limits on Saturday about 9 p.m. Dr. Parnconbe put three stitches in his leg to close the wound.

Potts was a passenger with James Reddick also of Trenton and was driving west when a car driven by Peter A. Morrison of Glendenan Ave., Toronto, travelling in the opposite direction, struck the Reddick car going considerable damage to both machines. The others escaped injury. After police investigation, Morrison was charged with reckless driving and will appear today before Magistrate Jarrett.

The cars were brought to Granham's Garage for repairs.

Mr. Degrees at Trenton

Trenton suffered one of the hottest days on record Thursday the thermometer touched 96 degrees yesterday at the police station, breaking the 24 hr. record this morning at the station he stated it was the hottest he can remember.

Record crowds gathered at every beach in the district with the swimmers dotting the local waters like flies on sugar.

No fatal effects of the heat how-ever have been reported.

Cars and Tire Blazes

The local police were notified by the Bridgeport Gas Co. that their 1928, license L.N. 485 had been stolen early on Sunday morning. The car is owned by Miss Irene E. Bantord of Brighton.

Cecil L. Brown of 89 Bellevue Ave. Toronto, reported a tire stolen from his car in Brighton where he is visiting Mr. Leonard Mayter. Inspector Hall is handling.

Report on Saturday. The oil boys got two in the first against the Bend one but the big third started when Sherman homered with Irwin on. Cooper also collected a two base clout. Hills by P. Quick and Orvell finished the inning with five registered by the Bend boys.

Semple pitched a steady game for the boys from the 3rd inning and was supported nobly by his teammates.

Sager was hit freely and his associates helped things with many errors. Bobby Viau hit a homer in the last to end the game 7-4.

Lineups:

Dusty Bend—Sherman, E. Quick, Cooper, P. Quick, Alexander, Orvell, Hamilton, Forester, Irwin, Sager.

Imperials—Anderson, H. Miller, Waldron, Roberts, Viau, Kennedy, Steenburg, Smith and Sager.

FIRST NIGHT IN FILMLAND

"Good Companions" Brilliant Study of English Life

Happy enjoyable humans playing in the pretty, old fashioned, humans who are loved and ably interpreted by human beings, are the real keystones of the great English film plays and "The Good Companions." The play is vital, it is so rich in its characterization, in its sympathy, in its feelings and in the unity of its effect that it scores high in the estimation of Filmgoers. Yesterday afternoon and evening saw large audiences at the Capitol Theatre to witness the first sound picture which Their Majesties the King and Queen of England and Belleville-vilians were delighted, they were sure to be feel more human if that were possible, thanks to the rich sense of humanity which pervaded the scene.

"The Good Companions" are of course members of a concert company which runs into difficulty and is stranded. They reminisce of a young woman who gives up potatoes and her money to back the company.

Jess Oakroyd, a Yorkshire carpenter, who is a widower, has left her wed and left for Canada and he meets her on the ship accompanied wife driving him to leave home. He is robbed on his way to Rawley by Inspector Lobjoit. Miss Inigo Jollifant celebrates on his birthday and leaves his schoolmaster's job in a preparatory school.

Miss Trant, the charming spinster of thirty going out to see the world, meets the "Dinky Doos", a concert party of which Jerry Jarvis "Companions", settles up their accounts and leaves the party. Jerry signed up as stage carpenter and thy rise of the concert party begins. Beginning a setback in the effort of a crooked theatrical man who plots to ruin Jerry's show with a rival one.

Out of this disaster is the birth of the "Good Companions" at the end of many human motives including the leading great artists Mathews as Gunie, the soubrette of the company, and John Boynton Priestley has written a story as pianist, fall in love. Susie reunites the Oakroyds and Miss Trant, old-time lovers together on the crest of a heart stirring finale. Ralph Richardson as the leading character is one of the richest characterizations perfected to date in talking picture. A. W. Bascomb is doubly rich as Oakroyd, the comedian. Mary Clynee as Miss Trant fills the role with satisfaction while John Gielgud as the pianist lover is excellent as hero Mrs. Jess Oakroyd is played by Miss Florence Gregson, wife of a Yorkshire playwright and writer, of Miss Geraldine, who speaks the Yorkshire dialect naturally. Her study of the character is remarkable.

It seems a pity to attach a moral to what is a perfect picture, except for to be delightfully human is a moralist itself, but there is one point though it is not necessary because of the excellence of the plot and the acting, it is the unity of this group facing life's difficulties with a smile and working their way through. The jolly heart goes all the way.

"The Good Companions" can be seen again and again with appreciation of the glorious humanity it creates.

NAZIS IN CONTROL OF PROTESTANT CHURCH

Result of General Election Held on Sunday

Berlin, July 24 (AP)—Chancellor Hitler's Nazi Government had control of German Protestantism today as a result of general church elections and started its reorganization from the ground up.

Simultaneously the non-Nazi election board received complaints that voters had been intimidated and in consequence declared the balloting invalid.

PREVENTING 1929

More than one trained observer of financial markets expressed apprehension weeks ago concerning the signs of mounting speculation on the Stock Exchange. Was the country preparing another tremendous boom to be followed by a catastrophic crash like that of four years ago? It has often been said in sorrowful retrospect that if the right steps had been taken in 1929 to check the mania, the disaster of 1929 could have been prevented, or at least made less devastating. This time, at any rate, the danger signals have been flown early. Whatever else may be said of the precipitous decline of the stock market during the past three days, whatever was its effective cause, the warning has been given and a severe corrective applied. In this sense, despite the heavy losses of individuals and companies, there is reason to agree with the opinion of many sound bankers and economists that the upset in the market was long overdue and will be "wholesome" in its longer consequences.—New York Times.

GIRLISH COSTUMES

The good old-fashioned girl was, in many ways, a prude; and her false modesty would be enough to give any modern man a pain in the neck.

But her daughter, or perhaps it is her grand-daughter, has gone just as far the other way with the result that many young people and old folks have spoken to the writer, pointing with concern and viewing with alarm.

We turned the first few away with the old dictum: "Look not and ye shall see not—if it bothers your eyes, turn your eyes away for it is none of your affair."

However one gets tired of saying that when he hears of girls wearing:

Shorts (Boy Scout pants) that look as if they have shrunk, or

Handkerchiefs (nothing more) tied around the neck and waist, leaving the back bare and also a bare strip around the waist, or

Mesh sweaters with nothing on beneath them.

That was the general complaint voiced by many whom we personally know as not being narrow-minded. They admit the costumes are fine for coolness but they also should never be seen on the main street of a town. Even the beaches, they claim, are being hurt by these Wild West costumes—with their Great Open Spaces.

One youth summed it up very neatly: "I don't mind clothes like that in the house but if girls are going to wear them in public it won't be long until we lose all respect for them. That is just what they are asking for."—Lindsay Post.

SWIMMING MANUAL

"Swimming, Diving and Life-Saving Manual" is the title of a booklet issued by the National Council of the Y.M.C.A. The book is recognized as a guide for swimming instructors and physical directors and deals with the application of teaching methods in swimming and diving. It is noted that swimming pools have generally degenerated or never risen above a mere plunge or "swimming hole".

"A valuation of swimming will show its importance. What activity other than aquatics can we offer which will more adequately present the participant with a means of physical development, neuro-muscular skills, grace, ease, and relaxation, confidence, weight control, life saving, an enjoyable use of recreational time and an addition to the richness and wholesomeness of life" says the editor, J. Wes. McVicar, physical director, Y.M.C.A. at St. John, New Brunswick.

The crawl stroke, the classic swimming stroke, the breast stroke, the side stroke, the English, trudgeon, trudgeon crawl, the back crawl, are defined and methods in their teaching explained. Diving is called the most spectacular and exhilarating of all aquatic activities to perform or spectator and is the finest exhibition of co-ordination which can be provided. Twenty-seven different dives are listed and illustrated, and there are some twenty not officially listed.

"Every Monday morning paper in the summer months contains enough reasons why our life saving classes and methods should be emphasized," says Mr. McVicar, who gives in detail the instruction necessary for qualification as a life saver and methods in life-saving and resuscitation.

Nothing can be fairer or more noble than the holy fervor of true zeal—Moliere.

I believe that if women were to have a gospel of beauty, one word would contain it and that word is "refinement".—Marilyn Miller.

Nobody has ever established a successful business without dreaming about it at the beginning.—J. Ramsay MacDonald.

The modern Christian differs from his grandparents, even from his parents, perhaps, in being a Christian from choice.—Hanford Henderson.

THE BORROWER

So many things I borrowed
And took them home once more,
A bowl for figs, a strip of silk
To drape across the door.

So many things I borrowed
And, when their use was through,
I took them back with utmost pains,
All just as good as new.

And one day when I needed
Love's hand to ease my care,
To weave a potent spell of joy
Like rainbows in the air,

I borrowed love to soothe me
And make my hours bright;
And now I find I cannot live
In lack of its delight!

So it has made me liar,
And it has made me thief;
I'll hold love here forever,
And that will be too brief!
— Aline Michaelis.

PREMIER BENITO MUSSOLINI, of Italy, has reason to be proud of his representative, General Balbo, Chief of the Italian Air Ministry, whose feat in bringing twenty-four aeroplanes across the ocean has done more to arouse respect for the Fascist administration than anything else could have done. When people stop to study the Italy that Mussolini found, and the Italy which he turned it into, also the tremendous odds against which he battled in an age-old monarchy you have to hand it to the Black Shirt Chief for intellect, ambition and energy.

SHARKEY - CARNERA FIGHT PICTURES are not very convincing. Jim Marsh to the contrary, notwithstanding, Sharkey was paid seventy-five thousand dollars, win, lose or draw, besides his interest in the moving picture royalties. Not much to make him fight very hard. Carnera got the crumbs which fell from the rich man's lap — also a whole lot of publicity and built-up for a match with Max Baer for the championship of the world. A Sharkey-Baer match would not have been worth nearly as much. Sharkey walked right into the pictures, and he laid him gently down and closed his eyes until the fatal ten was counted, then like the blind girl in the Two Orphans he sat up and weakly asked "Where am I?" This fight game is so commercialized that the professional gamblers don't bet a nickle until they get the right tip hot from the nosebag.

BEST STORY OF THE WEEK was that of the banquet in London, England, where the principal speaker was a Frenchman. His English was good, but he overspoke his time, and in closing apologized in this manner: "Gentlemen, I am sorry to have cockroached on your time." The chairman complimented the speaker upon his excellent command of English and admitted that if asked to make a speech in French in Paris he could not do as well—but, said he, I wish to point out to our friend an h'error which he can avoid in future — instead of saying "cockroached on our time" he should have said "encroached". To which the Frenchman replied that it was not a very serious error just a matter of sex.

HOW TO TREAT AND PREVENT SKIN TROUBLE

Eczema One of Most Distressing of Disasters

By Louis E. Block, M.D., Ph.D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology.

Eczema can be, and often is, one of the most distressing of skin disorders. In small patches, even, it may embarrass the patient no end, while if it covers large areas of the skin surface, especially on the face or hands where it can be seen, it can actually provoke ideas of inferiority and lead the sufferer to exclude himself and to shun social as well as business contracts.

Eczema is a skin inflammation. It manifests itself in various ways, and it may be mild or severe, acute or chronic. Its symptoms are redness and swelling of the affected skin surface; sometimes there are raised places, like blisters, and these may contain either fluid or pus; usually there is an increase of moisture in the skin surface; thickening is the rule; also there is scaling and itching and, in cases of long standing, even cracking of the hardened skin itself.

Certain chemicals cause eczema although there are workers who seem to be immune; at least, they often remain immune for years. Arsenic is such a chemical. Since this is used to preserve animal skins, furriers often develop the disease. Cleaning establishments, where quantities of acids for bleaching as well as chlorids of lime and benzine are employed, often number among their workers those afflicted with eczema of the hands. Even physicians may get this skin disorder from using antiseptic solutions too often.

The same may be said of scrub women and household workers who use a lot of borax or other washing powders. Then again those who must needs wet their hands often, like hair-dressers and barbers, may irritate the skin because they are careless about drying the hands thoroughly.

Besides those already mentioned one might add that persons who handle cement are prone to the disease. The same applies to bricklayers, from constantly wet mortar. Packing fresh fruit may cause eczema. Hair-dyes may likewise set up such irritation, from the picture pollen, which usually contains the chemical that causes the irritation of the skin. Lastly, glass workers, enamelers, gas refiners, wallpaper-makers, and paper-hangers are subject to eczema.

It stand to reason that if a patient has contracted eczema because of a chemical irritant, the proper thing to do is get rid of the irritant, whatever it may be, if possible. Besides, the general health must be built up, and this applies to the external irritant cases as well as to those where such a chemical cause does not exist.

Constitutional disturbances, not known to the patient, may be a cause, therefore a thorough physical examination is necessary. In this connection particular attention should be paid to the nervous system.

Rest, exercise, a well-balanced diet, freedom from constipation, sound sleep and no excesses of tobacco, alcohol or sex are all essential.

Regarding treatment of the skin itself, all dirt and crusts should first be removed from the cleansing with a non-irritating soap and water.

Then a zinc oxide powder or paste may be applied.

However, since one type of treatment helps one patient and yet not another, eczema calls for special and individualized care. Ointment or lamp treatment, for instance, may help where everything else has failed. What should be emphasized is that no patient should ever give up hope.

Little Benny's Note Book

A shipment from Australia of 125 stadioli bulbs infested with thrips was preventing from entering Canada a few days ago by inspectors of the Dominion Entomological Branch. Also a shipment from New Zealand to Winnipeg was stopped at the Canadian frontier for a similar reason.

Saturday afternoon I was sitting on my front steps with Sid Sudds and we was tawking about different subjects and waiting for something to happen, wich nothing didn't, and I said, Ain't it funny nothing ever happens around here, a person could sit here for a year without even seeing a automobile get killed.

Sure, let's take a wawk, let's take a long wawk, Sid said.

Wich we started off in the saying Gosh, if we wawk far enough something is bound to happen. Maybe there mite be some kind of a interesting accident just while we're wawking passed, how would that be for luck? I said, and Sid said, Swell. Two, I said, Ain't it funny around diffrent corners would make a swell accident. I would like to want to see the drivers get hert much, he said.

Neither would I, I'd just like to see them both get nocked about 3 yards without even being scratched I said.

And we kept on wawking. Sid saying, It wouldn't be bad if a fire just happened to brake out in time for us to be the ones to turn in the alarm, and I'd say, Wich we mite get our name in the paper.

And we kept on wawking without anything happening except me and Sid got hungry and we went back starting to feel thersty, saying Oh well, let's start back.

Wich we did me saying, If it was only mite time we mite see a shooting star just out would be better than nothing.

Then we got back home again tired as anything, and Lucky Lefty Snodds was there, saying, G fellows, you missed it a horse fell down rite in front of Benny's house about a half an hour ago, and it took three men to pull him up on his feet again, G boy maybe it wasn't exciting, all the fellows saw it except you 2, where was you?

Making us feel worse instead of better.

HOUSE, TWO BARNS AND BUILDINGS DESTROYED

Believed Caused by Spontaneous Combustion

HANOVER, Ont., July 24.—(CP) —A house, two barns, and half a dozen outbuildings were in ruins to day as a result of one of the most disastrous fires ever to have visited this district. The fire believed caused by spontaneous combustion began in the barn of Herman Wilfang, West of Neustadt, in Carrick Township, about noon yesterday. A strong wind carried burning sparks to a bush and a barn owned by Ephraim Krohn, about a quarter of a mile away. From there the fire jumped to his implements shed, across the road, then to his house, 100 yards away and to outbuildings.

YANKS GAIN FULL GAME ON THE SENATORS

Defeat Cleveland Twice While Washington Lose to Detroit

GIANT'S LEAD CUT

Cubs Score Double Win And Now Only Two Games Up

The two New York clubs, again bracketed together as leaders of the major leagues, were the centres of baseball interest today as the Yanks forged ahead in their duel with Washington for first place in the league and the Giants found their lead in the National dwindling before the onslaughts of the stronger Cubs in spite of a remarkable effort to hold their own.

The Yanks picked just the right time yesterday to hand a pair of 8-1 lickings to Cleveland Indians. Washington's Senators cracked up at the same time and dropped a 12-6 decision to Detroit Tigers.. As a result the Yanks took the lead by a full game.

The Giants put on a sensational ninth inning spurt which saw runs off three pitchers in the final frame to beat Brooklyn Dodgers 8-5. But the second place Cubs came through with a double victory over the Phillies, winning the games 3-1 when Harvey Hendrick smashed a pinch home run with the bases full in the tenth, and the second game 5-1 on Pat Malone's five-hit pitching. Thus New York's lead was cut to two games.

The Yankees got fine pitching from Johnny Allen and Danny MacFayden for their double-header triumph and and Lou Gehrig aided the cause in the first game with his 19th homer of the season. The Indians also were doing well until Al Thomas skyrocketed in the eighth and three other flingers went in before the Tigers ceased hitting, when fourteen men had come to the plate and collected nine hits and as many runs.

Tigers Move Up.

The Tigers triumph brought further changes in the standing of the junior circuit. Detroit moved from sixth place to fourth while Chicago White Sox dropped a pair to Boston and went to fifth and Cleveland continued downward to sixth. The Red Sox beat the pale hose 6-2 and 7-1, collected four hits in each game. Philadelphia Athletics and St. Louis Browns had an off day.

Cincinnati Reds checked Pittsburgh's threat to the National League leaders' position and up to sixth place by defeating the Pirates twice, 6-1 and 6-4 being the victors' fingers. Red Lucas and Eppe Rixey displayed some expert elbowing and Chick Hafey led a 12-hit attack with five doubles.

Boston Braves and St. Louis Cardinals exchanged places twice in the course of a double-header yesterday and finished with Boston holding fourth place. In the opener Tex Carleton pitched seven-hit ball and the Cards slammed out a 13-9 victory. Rain halted the second game after six innings when the Braves held a 2-1 margin.

A SLICE IS MORE DEPENDABLE WHEN PLAYING AGAINST OBSTACLES

ALEX MORRISON says:

Very often you find yourself stymied by a tree or some other high obstacle. You are undecided about whether you should try to curve around the tree or hook it to the right.

If you are in the habit of slicing naturally you'll get to the left.

If you have been hooking most of your shots, you'll be tempted to try a hook around the tree. But a hook under pressure seldom comes off as planned because it's the most difficult to control.

It's always best to try for a slice, because it's easier to send the ball in the curve you can in the case of a lofting the ball in this kind of a shot.

Brighton Scores First Win in League Race Defeating Victorias in Last Frame 10-9

"Red" MacDonald Batted Out Before End of First

WIN IN NINTH

Two Out When Winners Squeezed Over The Winning Tally

Registering their first win of the current season in the Bay of Quinte League, the Brighton Intermediates knocked the Belleville Victorias into second place in the league standing, when they downed the locals at Brighton by the score of 10 to 9 on Saturday afternoon.

Opening the game by bagging five runs in the initial frame the pioneers assumed the lead never to be headed, despite the fact, that the Vics evened the count in the eighth only to have the Brighton hitters rally in the ninth and come down in front when they scored one counter while the locals went scoreless in their half of the final inning.

Manager Fanning started "Red" MacDonald, of local hockey fame, on the mound but the Victoria's starting pitcher proved wanting and was extricated before the first five innings terminated in favor of Bud Wilkins, their ace right hander, who hurled the remainder of the game, when he was relieved by Ralph Ivey, the Vics' stellar relief hurler. The intense heat proved the undoing of Wilkins.

Jerry Campbell was the choice of the Brighton club to stop the local hitters in the game and slight right hander was given a lead he went on to hurl a game, that meant the downfall of the Victorias. Each club counted 13 hits during the hastime while errors aided aided the downfall of the Chummy Cobrow-cosched clan. The locals committed five mistpays, all of which eventually counted into the early scoring. The unevenness of the batting field slightly favored the locals leading chances.

Threes Open Scoring.

Brighton opened the scoring in the initial frame by getting in five hits and errors by Darrah and Macdonald the homesters counted five runs. Darrah in the fifth, while they scored again in the sixth when Wilkins hit Rundle and he pilfered second and third to score on Mr. Kinnon's long fly. On Darrah's error in the sixth Price scored the winning run, when Campbell subsequently hit. Campbell whiffed seven, while the local batsmen struckout but eight collectively.

The Victorias scored three in the third one in the fourth, two in the fifth and evened the count in the eighth. In the ninth the Vics filled the sacks when Wilkins and Green doubled but was not advanced. The Vics entertain the league leading Picton intermediates at the local Exhibition Park on Wednesday afternoon, when the league leadership is at stake. This will be the initial appearance of the league leading Picton club at the local diamond this season.

BISONS AIDED BY PERKINS AND BROWN

Help Defeat Rochester in Doubleheader 7-4 And 3 - 2

LEADER UNCHANGED

Due largely to the efforts of two players who shifted their baggage from Jersey City to Buffalo yesterday, the International League doubleheader between Newark and Rochester remained unchanged today after a Sunday which brought four doubleheaders without an even break.

Charley Perkins and Joe Brown stepped right into starring roles for the Bisons and paved the way for a double victory over Rochester 7-4 and 3-2. Perkins pitched eight shutout innings in the first game before he too stopped him, while Brown, who made two hits in the opener, won the second by smashing a home run in the final inning.

Rochester's double defeat kept the Red Birds a game and a half behind the league leading Newark Bears, who lost two tough games to Baltimore Orioles. The first game went fifteen innings and was awarded out on the field after Umpire Powell had ordered certain Baltimore players off my Murphy and Johnny Neun to the showers as the result of a disputed decision.

When things calmed down, Russ Ariett walloped his 19th home run of the season with two aboard to win the game 4 - 3. Jim Poole gained revenge on hitting behind the four-hit flinging of Govell Glast and took the nightcap.

Montreal Royals and Albany Senators were idle. The other clubs also swept their double bills, but Montreal had a hard time getting the second decision over Toronto after taking the first 3-1 when Bill Dietrich turned in a six-hit hurling job for the Royals got only four blows in the nightcap and had to go nine innings before they bunched a pair off Keith Prior to win 3-2.

Albany beat Jersey City 8-3 and 8-3 as Shealy and Filley limited the Skeeters to a total of 13 hits while the Senators pounded out 27. Tommy Thompson collected six of the blows, including a pair of triples in the doubleheader. Joe Bartulis, who was traded to Albany by Jersey City earlier in the season, starred as a relief pitcher in both games.

Syracuse Chiefs slumping Bears used Saturday's program to gain a little on second place Albany by taking both ends of a doubleheader from Toronto and Rochester were dividing a double bill, the Leafs taking the first of the close-contested games 6-4, then dropped a 4-3 decision.

Crystalacs Score 7-3 Win at Expense of Wellington

Behind the pitching of "Wild Bill" Hammett, their ace hurler, the local Crystalacs downed the league-leading Wellington Juniors in the Hastings County League at the Alemite grounds on Saturday afternoon by the score of 7 to 3 and advanced to within a half game of the league leadership.

Going into the lead in the second frame the locals blasted "Lefty" Phillips, the visitors' ace hurler from the box in the fifth inning to precipitate seven runs and eventual victory. Hammett, who relieved Phillips later, stemmed the tide of hits coming from the Crystalacs' bats.

"Wild Bill" Hammett with a fast breaking curve had the Prince Edward County clouters eating out of his hand until the final inning when he faltered slightly when they counted two of their three runs. up until the final frame, however, Hammett had things pretty well along and allowed the visitors but three hits and one player reached first on a walk and two husty hits in the seventh, however, they counted two more runs. Phillips whiffed but two hitters while Burley struck out one, while Hammett struck back and Wellington batters. Each pitcher walked two men.

Mase Rigby with a double and a single led the local hitters with Thomas and Hammett contributing two singles each. Fillingham, Burley and Bowerman led the Wellington batters. Thompson and Ford supplied the fielding features for the locals. Young-counted for the visitors while Greer and Kirby looked the best defensively for the losers.

Spying on Sports

BY

William Ritt

Central Press Canadian

NOTHING SUCCEEDS like success—and the New York Giants' pitching staff knows it. The quartet of Gothams incumbents—Carl Hubbell, Fred Fitzsimmons, Roy Parmelee and Harold Schumacher has been very much run of the mine as a hurling corps in the general baseball until this season.

Now back at them: Press and public alike are comparing them with the Mathewson-McGinnity-Ames-Wiltse-Taylor quintet. They placing an astonishing weakness at bat for a pace setter. Without the splendid pitching they are being credited with the Giants would be a second division outfit.

x x x

HUBBELL, Parmelee and Schumacher have been turning in more shutouts than any other trio on any other team. Their opponents are blanking the enemy the Giants need do but little scoring to win games, according to the Giant mound staff is, the New York pitchers cannot blank the enemy every day —the result being that the Giants have lost plenty of 1-0 and 2-1 games, the fault of the hitters or would-be hitters.

Bill Terry, the leading hitter of the team, at this writing is the only Giant with a batting average among the 300 boys, and Memphis Hubbell has just a shade over it. Terry, in spurring the batting averages of the league, the eye must drop all the way down to the 290's and .270's to find any more New Yorkers.

x x x

ONLY THE Washington-Cincinnati Reds have made less runs than the Giants. It takes great pitching or magnificent confidence or both to overcome such a handicap and remain in the race. The Giants have both.

However, that confidence would not be there if the New Yorkers did not know that when they take the field they have an ace hurler on the mound.

All of which recalls that same Mathewson — McGinnity — Wiltse-Ames-Taylor quintet of 26 and 29 years ago.

The five hurlers won the pennant in 1904 and repeated in 1905, winning 105 contests between them in the world series they won four out of five games with the Philadelphia Athletics—all four by shutouts.

Great as they are today—Schumacher, Fitzsimmons, Hubbell and Parmelee—must keep up the good work for another season and a half to achieve equality with McGraw's famous five.

CHILD SOLVES OWN PROJECT

(By Constance Cameron)

There is a woman I know, who never has the usual troubles in housemaids. When they first come to her she tells them how she wants the house to look what she wants the food, then goes on about her business. The result is that the work is accomplished and the maids are happy.

This same woman uses an identical method with her children, who say I may add, past the toddler stage when one occasionally has to show the child how a thing should be done.

For Sam needs new curtains and a thorough cleaning," she told her husband, "I'm going away next week. "You may charge six dollars worth of curtains or the material at the store." That was all that she suggested.

She went about her usual activities and it wasn't until the room was finished that she knew that the mother peeked at it.

Then Sam is finished.

All she suggests is results. Never the method of getting them. Servants and children, her friends have an entirely free rein as to methods and the result is that each feels an individual responsibility, an individual freedom to experiment, and mother never criticises so long as the results are good.

The daughter's bedroom turned the room inside out, scrubbed, dusted, washed windows, rearranged furniture and when the whole thing failed she "phoned" mother to help her. Mother thought that these relatives sent these articles unsolicited, according to the list of readers of Lovers. I agree with you that this sounds like a mess, a bit absurd, since you are so closely related and have been in close touch with your sister during her illness. But I am sure that they did not realize it would appear in that way, and it causes no end of spirit or much trouble and disharmony thinking unpleasantly about this sort of thing at such a time as this. Please don't think I should allow ourselves to do it. Please don't think that I am unfriendly, and don't let it add another cloud to those you already have to bear.

Correct Manners

Wedding Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My dearest girl friend's sister was recently married and I was out of town at the time and didn't have a chance to send her a gift, and I would like to send a gift now.

1. Will you please let me know what kind of note I should write also an appropriate gift, as she lives in a furnished apartment.

2. My mother doesn't know the married sister, but as we know the single sister so well, we would like to share in buying a gift with me. If this is quite all right, how should the note be worded?

1. The gift to the bride who lives in a furnished apartment had best be something of the accessory type; that is, perhaps, a vase, of lovely white crystal or silver, both of which always "go with" everything, or some accessory for her desk or dressing table, or a lovely photograph frame, a set of linen bon and sash-receivers, a desk clock or a desk pen-set. Linen, too, as a good present to give under these circumstances, a dinner cloth, for real or informal, a luncheon cloth set, a set of luncheon doilies, runners, and napkins.

With the gift you might send a note worded something like this:

Dearest Jane,

I am so sorry that I was out of town for the "day of days" of your marriage, but my good wishes, although somewhat tardy, are very hearty and deep and sincere.

I am sending with this note a boiled wedding gift, and it comes to you with high-hearted greetings and wishes from my mother and me. Mother chose the beautiful ivory and such charming things about you from Blaine that she insists on being associated in the wedding present to you. We both hope that you will find this set of luncheon linen of service in your home.

Mother joins me in devotest wishes to you and Tom.

Affectionately yours,

2. I can well understand that with such a close connection of friendship, your mother would like to join with you in giving the gift, and I think it would be a very pleasant thing for her to do. The name of this close friend of yours will appreciate this generous and friendly wish of your mother's.

Card of Thanks

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me if it is correct for my brother-in-law and his family to send me a card of thanks for the flowers which I sent on account of the death of my sister? (My sister was their mother). I was with my sister when she died, and I was with her all during her illness, and remained at her home until after the funeral. I do not think she was correct, since I feel the loss of my sister just as keenly as they do.

T.

I am sure that T. by sent you this card-of-thanks only in the kindest meaning, and I am not very strongly not to misinterpret their intentions. Especially in a time like this, when people are apt not to think so clearly about things that in a good deal calmer times they understand that these relatives sent these acknowledgments quite naturally, according to the list of readers of Lovers. I agree with you that this sounds like a mess, a bit absurd, since you are so closely related and have been in close touch with your sister during her illness. But I am sure that they did not realize it would appear in that way, and it causes no end of spirit or much trouble and disharmony thinking unpleasantly about this sort of thing at such a time as this. Please don't think I should allow ourselves to do it. Please don't think that I am unfriendly, and don't let it add another cloud to those you already have to bear.

Beauty .... By Helen Jameson

Camouflage The Rotund Figure

How casually the string-bean shaped lassies talk about reducing. If they were fat they would do this, they would do that. They know nothing about it. They can't appreciate, the tragic emotions of a plump darling who, when the chocolate cake is served, must click her teeth together, choke back sobs, keep tight hold of herself, else she'll take a header off the diet wagon.

Fighting fat cells takes courage and the easy-going heavyweight doesn't always have the strong, determined spirit that is necessary to enter the fray. She loves the good things of the table, she naturally sinks into the easy chair. To be rid of adipose tissue she must starve it and then burn it up by muscular energies.

If she isn't equal to the sacrifice of giving up her cream puffs and taking vigorous exercise she can at least learn the secrets of slenderizing attire, cut ideas so well understood by dress designers, whose patrons include the fat as well as the lean.

Long lines! Let her make a habit of them—the V of her bodice, long sleeves to cover up the too round arms, graceful, imperceptible waist line achieved by the lowered girdle, long panels, long shoes, long narrow bows instead of those fat ones that all the skinny duffers are wearing and their dimpled chins.

A flattering fabric is georgette in black or navy. Brocades, shining satins, soft bouffant, dull crepe fabrics will add to circumference. Prints and plaids should not be flitted smugly. The skirt that is skin tight at the hips is revealing, the one that falls easily, comfortably appears to diminish inconspicuously. So it is with sleeves. And while on that subject may we urge the gentlewomen to wear the evening robe that is sleeveless, showing up arms that are confidences as the shoulder line? Anything to cover up that high bulge—a short sleeve, or a friendly capelet of diaphanous material.

If a patterned frock is necessary for the well being of the soul, let the design be small! Checks are out of the question. In fact the wise woman of ample displacement sticks strictly to solid colors, preferably dark ones.

Too youthful styles are taboo, when the anatomy has burst its boundary lines, followed a policy of repression.

Conspicuous colors like red, green or purple are to be avoided. Inflatable indigo hats are beloved by some of the girls who were the baby doll type in their young days and can't understand that old mamma Time has got in some hard cruel licks.

Finally, let us say that any woman who is overweight can shuffle off a pound now and then by cutting down on fats, sweets and starches. Without the food elements, fat cells will perish; they're the groceries that curves live on.

VACATIONS and HEALTH

By Dr. ERNEST H. LINES

National Academician and Chief Medical Director Canada Life Insurance Company

CHILDREN IN SUMMER MONTHS

For children, the summer months are playtime. Free from the tasks of the schoolroom, they look forward eagerly to the games and pleasures of the vacation period. But intelligent and careful planning for the holidays is an essential for children as for adults. Since the routine of school health educators is suspended, full responsibility for health falls on the shoulders of parents.

The vacation period of the average city child is usually spent without relatives at summer resorts or at organized camps, or in the year-round city environment. It is unfortunate children who spend the best type of vacation who require the closest supervision.

They should be particularly warned against over-exertion and heat prostration, against eating foods handled by street vendors, and against the dangers of accidents from automobiles. The most tragic aspect of the child's vacation period is the increased number of avoidable accidents to children due to the failure of parents and children to carry on the safety campaign waged throughout the school year.

Although swimming is excellent exercise for children particularly when it teaches them how to take care of themselves in the water, there should be taken to avoid the pollution of "the old swimming hole" by children who go to summer camps should be examined in advance by the family physician and a record should be sent to the camp authorities so they may regulate the child's activities in accordance with his physical condition.

Explosives

Many accidents to children occur from the explosion of dynamite caps left lying around vacant houses, summer cottages and other places, where children may pick them up. The Institute of Makers of Explosives reports that 500 children are killed or injured annually from playing with blasting caps. Most of these accidents occur during the summer months.

A still greater number of children are maimed by the explosion of firecrackers. Lock jaw and burns are a serious danger.

In short, plan the child's vacation so that it combines the greatest freedom from the nervous tension of the formal classroom with the highest regard for the rules of healthful living and the greatest safety to avoid accidents. Continue the child's regular rest period. If possible, bring the child close to the lessons of the great outdoors. See to it that, with an abundance of sunlight, air, rest and directed recreation, the little citizen goes back to school with a sound mind and a sound body.

This is the second of a series of 12 articles on Vacations Health. The third, on Camp Life, will answer the question: 1. When first aid should be administered for snake bites? 2. How should a camp site be selected? 3. How should firearms be carried?

FINANCIAL MARKETS

NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

Traders Take Early Profit in New York But Market Remains Firm And Higher—Silver Leads All Groups on News—Buoyant Till Noon Then Ease Off—Stocks in Toronto Bought Back After Opening in New York at Noon.

NEW YORK FINANCIAL

New York, July 24.—Financial sentiment shifted into today to get back some of the heavy losses suffered during last week's reaction.

With the delayed opening at noon, a large volume of buying orders piled up since Saturday and the theory that an interim rally, at least, was almost a certainty. While many traders were quick to seize profits on early advances of one to six or more points, realizing apparently was fairly well absorbed, while grain trading was restricted in Chicago, prices were steady and firm.

Canadian stocks and bonds powerfully were steady to firm. Mining issues were in demand, shares of Dome Mines and McIntyre Porcupine got up a point or more and those of International Nickel advanced nearly a point. Dominion government obligations generally followed a rather narrow range. The Canadian dollar was up 1-8 of a point at 95 1-8 cents.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, July 24 (CP).—Mining shares staged a sharp recovery from their recent low level today while the best prices were shaded before the close, they were well up from Saturday's finish. Activity was particularly apparent in the lower shares and the industrial group registered gains ranging up to $0.05.

Moneta, Lake Shore and Dome recorded net gains of $2 to $3 and Hollinger, Kirkland Lake, Sylvanite, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves a point or more of $1 to $5 at the close.

In the silver group Nipissing held its gain of a point at 2.70, Mining Corporation an advance of .25, Bidgood closed at 1.80 an advance of 70 cents for the day.

Trading was more erratic than usual moving between 17.75 and 18.25, it closed at the top 7-8 at 18.25. Noranda closed at 72.50 up 2.50.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, July 24.—Maintaining a bullish tone the close on Toronto Stock Exchange exhibited some of the uneasiness that marked last week's selling wave, but failed to make appreciable gains to Saturday's closing level, quite ranging up to 6 in Super group.

Oil and food stocks made a good showing, British American and Imperial both closing about a point higher while the Lobiaw group moved up nearly a point, both closing at 16 1-2. Walkers common closed 1 up Distillers Seagram 1 up, and International Alcohol 4 up.

In the Industrial section Brazilian gained 1 1-2 to 15 1-4, C.P.R. 1 1-2 to 17 1-2 and Fed of Canada 1 1-2 to 18. Smelters were sharply higher, closing at 128 for its 10 point gain. Nickel held strongly forward and closed $3 higher at 18.25.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, July 24—(AP)—Stocks, after pushing up one to more than five points today, yielded opening, quietly extended their advances in late dealings. Utilities scored 13 while United Gas—second highest on the day—and Raybon was up seven and other issues advancing two to six points included General Motors, United States Steel, American telephone, New York Central, Westinghouse, Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting, Chesapeake, National Dividends and United States Industrial Alcohol. Case Deere were weak spots, losing six and three points respectively. Transfers approximate 3,000,000 shares.

WHEAT PRICE ON UPGRADE

Chicago Wheat Price Rugged at Ninety Cents

WINNIPEG, July 24.—(CP)—Prices were back on their insurgence upward path today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, responding by pegging of prices at Chicago and Liverpool. Liverpool, July 24.—Reduction values indicated gains of about four cents.

The opening gong saw prices definitely higher also although liquidation at the first hour caused a half-way back to Saturday's final figures, another upturn soon developed.

Early buying was generally credited to sea-board houses and Central States interests while some selling was also attributed to southern houses. Early reports indicated fair receipts expected at Canadian wheat.

Liverpool towards the close was 3-8d higher per 100 pounds. World wheat shipments for the week, it is stated, total 9,300,000 bushels of which North America provided but 4,000,000.

Chicago, July 24.—(AP)—Grain prices advanced rather sharply at the reopening of the Board of Trade today after a two day's suspension. Under the restrictions placed on fluctuations, they cannot sell below Thursday's close nor above it by 10 cents. Wheat opened today about five cents higher after a rise of five cents at Winnipeg. Wheat and corn closed with all gains from eight cents a bushel in one day from the preceding close. Corn and barley were limited to five cents and oats to four.

Produce Market

Toronto, July 24 (CP)—The following prices of eggs offered and delivered at Toronto were supplied by the United Farmers' Co-operative Co., Limited:

Eggs—Extras 15½c doz., Firsts 14c doz., Seconds (cracked) 11c doz.

Churning Cream — No. 1 26c lb., No. 2 17c lb.

Butter—No. 1 (solids) 21c lb., No. 2 (solids) 20½c lb.

Ontario Cobbler potatoes, per bag, $3.25.

Dealer's price on, hand picked white beans, in carlots, per bushel, F.O.B. at point of shipment, $1.30.

Livestock

Toronto, July 24 (CP) — Early trading on the Toronto livestock market was very dull with not enough sales recorded up to eleven o'clock to establish prices. There were 900 head of cattle left over from last week.

Receipts as reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: cattle 3430, calves 280, hogs 900, sheep and lambs 1300.

The calf market was steady at $4.50 to $5.00 for best vealers with common selling down to $2.50.

Hogs were unsettled with bids 25c lower at $3.75 f.o.b. for bacons, and $4.25 off car. Salesmen were asking higher prices.

The lamb market was unsettled with no sales recorded up to eleven o'clock. Dealers were offering $4.00 for good ewes and wethers. No sheep were offered.

Cattle, hogs, sheep and lambs were unquoted.

Veal calves, good and choice, $4.50 to $5.00. Common and medium, $2.50 to $4.25. Grassers, $2.00 to $2.50.

BIG OIL MAN IS KIDNAPPED

Charles Urschel Taken From Home While Playing Bridge

Oklahoma City, July 24— Police and Federal authorities united today in a widespread search for Charles T. Urschel, wealthy oil operator and two men who kidnapped him in a raid on his home in the late Saturday night.

Bearing machine guns, the two broke up a sun-porch bridge game in which Mr. and Mrs. Urschel and Walter Jarrett, a neighboring oil man and his wife, participated.

"Which one of you is Urschel?" demanded the leader.

Receiving no reply, he said: "Well then, come along, both of you."

Both were spirited away in a large black sedan. Jarrett, however, was released about ten miles outside the city limits after the abductors checked his identification cards to ascertain the identity of their victims. They took $60 from Jarrett.

No kind of ransom demands was revealed.

Mrs. Urschel, who was the widow of Tom S. Slick, "king of oil wildcatters," said the kidnappers were "foreigners and professionals."

Urschel is a trustee of the Slick estate. He married Mrs. Slick in Slick, Okla., in 1931. Urschel's first wife was also named Mrs.

The great Urschel mansion was closely guarded today. Five months Betty Slick, pretty 16-year-old daughter of Mrs. Urschel, was under surveillance for fear she might be kidnapped. Today she was not allowed to leave the home.

Betty told investigators she had noticed two men answering the descriptions of the kidnappers following her as she returned from a visit to Oklahoma City recently. She said they rode in a blue sedan bearing a Chicago license.

Officers said they believed the kidnappers intended to abduct Betty or one of Urschel's children but decided to take the oil man instead when they found the children away from home.

Both Mrs. Urschel and Mrs. Jarrett said they could identify the men.

BALBO HALTS OCEAN JUMP

Weather Unsatisfactory to Italian Aerial Chief

New York, July 24 (AP)—Because of unfavorable weather General Italo Balbo today postponed until tomorrow the take-off of his twenty-four plane armada on its return journey to Italy by way of Shediac, N.B.

Within a few minutes after General Italo Balbo had given orders for his planes to warm up their engines for the take-off he received a bonward flight to Rome by way of Shediac. Mr. orders were given all them to stop.

The General appeared regarded by the weather outlook and indicated he intended to remain until he received a favorable report.

The eastern aun was brilliant over Jamaica Bay, which sheltered the twenty-four Italian craft, and the water was calm. A gentle breeze blew from the southwest.

Shediac, about 650 miles from New York, is the first objective of the fleet on the homeward leg.

Secretary Wallace Says Chicago Board Takes Correct Course

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace said in an interview today he was informed Saturday by representatives of the Chicago Board of Trade that the daily fluctuation in Grain trading would be limited from 5 cents above the minimum prices based on last Thursday's closing prices, and that he has not been informed of any change in place.

Wallace said the decision as to the limit was left to the Board, which has announced that eight cents would be the figure, but he added:

"It was clearly understood Saturday that the limit would be five cents."

ONTARIO TRACK AND FIELD CHAMPIONSHIPS HELD AT TORONTO

Keen competition, a fair crowd and a boiling hot day greeted entries in the Ontario track and field championships at Toronto July 22, at the inst field under the auspices of the new Beaches Olympic Club of Toronto. While few records went by the boards, some excellent times and distances were made. At top is A. Gilbert of Hamilton winning the pole vault with a leap of 12 ft. 4 in. At left is Art Reverandale of Oshoura, Ontario, running under Hamilton colors, who walked away with the hurdles race. At right is Bert Pearson, also of Hamilton, all set for his 100 yard dash which he won in 10 seconds flat. As usual, Hamilton entries more or less dominated the meet, although Toronto entries and entries from other parts of the province were not by any means outclassed—particularly in the longer races.
